WELCOME

We are pleased to present the third Open for Art event, returning again to South Dorset in the summer of 2025.

Over 60 talented local creatives, from renowned professionals to emerging artists, will be showcasing their work across 26 venues offering a huge variety of artforms to enjoy.

We have painters, sculptors, printmakers, potters, jewellery makers and textile artists with an array of styles and skills.

Venues range from art galleries, cafes and historic buildings hosting artists' work and group shows to artists' open studios. Here, visitors can meet artists in their own creative spaces to see their processes and latest work. Many can be contacted for personal viewings or commissions, so do keep your brochure for future reference.

Our trail starts in Dorchester & Poundbury, then tracks east across to Puddletown, drops towards the sea at Osmington Mills and west towards Weymouth and Portland: a journey through the very best views of the Dorset countryside and coast.

HOW TO VISIT
Use the maps and visit www.artwey.co.uk for more information on artists to plot your route. Whether you're looking to invest, buy a gift or simply support your local artists, there will be an opportunity to purchase original artworks, prints and cards at competitive prices.

Please check each venue's opening dates and times.
Core opening times: 11am - 4pm

13 Art at the Old Town Hall

PAINTING | TEXTILE ART | PHOTOGRAPHY

The beautiful Old Town hall hosts a wide selection of work this year. David Harrison paints in acrylics and has exhibited at the Royal Academy Summer Show. Julie Hacket's strongly coloured, vibrant studies of natural forms and landscapes contrast with Charles Maher's closely observed land and seascapes. Caroline Nairn uses collage, acrylics and printing in her studies of natural forms. All these are juxtaposed with the wall quilts and other framed textile pictures by Ingrid Ellis, the eco-friendly kimonos and textiles of Justine Dalton plus 20 years of street and documentary photography from Paul Russell.

PAINTING

The intimate drama studio hosts three artists of contrasting styles. Carol Old's paintings, jewellery and similar designs are created from, or inspired by, traditional Dorset Buttons. Fiona Raynes paints intriguing organic abstracts. Recent works are inspired by seaweeds and by people's interaction with the environment. Ian Cox will show works influenced by the sea, sky and nature, very fluid and allowed to evolve, just like their subjects.
