What is a Passport?

In the truest sense of the word, it is an official document that you need to show to enter a foreign country. It provides you with the ability to explore other cultures, meet other people, and broaden your perspective of what it means to be a citizen of the world. In the Upper School, we have had numerous passport travel experiences. We have visited Costa Rica, Germany, China, Fiji, India, Cuba, Cambodia, and Vietnam. Every PCDS traveler who has handed their passport to officials in these countries has come back a different person. They have appreciated what they have, have learned how happiness is not what you have but who you are, and have vowed to fill their passports with stamps that take them to many new places.

In another sense, education is a passport. Education enables you to better yourself. It opens doors for you and allows you to pursue your dreams. It is a passport to all things possible. It provides you with knowledge and prepares you for future journeys. The passport of education opens minds and subsequently doors of opportunity.

Whatever meaning a passport has for you, take advantage of using it. Use it to travel, to learn, to explore, to discover, and to help others.

As Diane Von Furstenberg once said, "You are the one that possesses the keys to your being. You carry the passport to your own happiness."

Thank you, Mr. Coon!

If you have ever had the pleasure of speaking to Mr. Coon, you would be able to catch a glimmer of something unique about his character. Within him lies a special admiration for the wonders to be found in the world around him. It seems as though each facet of beauty bestowed upon the Earth has caught the detailed eye of "Coon."

He observes the goodness in nature through hiking in the White Mountains and his love of all things Greer. When he delves into lands kept in the ink on dog-eared pages, he will scour each sentence until he discovers any hidden intricacies to be found and breathes new meaning into old words as he relates them to himself and others. Mr. Coon also sees and illuminates the good in our PCDS community — always showing his vibrant personality in the quad when he speaks to his students, rings the bell, or yells "homina homina homina" to some scattered freshmen or unhurried seniors trying to be on time for class. No matter what, Mr. Coon will always be echoing with you at PCDS.

But most of all, Mr. Coon has a keen ability to see the potential for greatness within each person who passes through his classroom door. There is something about him that emanates warmth, excitement, and a dedication to the well-being of others. He displays a large capacity for compassion and can find what state of mind you're in by simply making eye-contact. He also constantly relates to you on your writing and experiences, making it clear that he really does care. Through this, he seems to be softly urging that you matter and are of some immeasurable worth. With such dedication to the wellness of others, Mr. Coon has been a magnificent leader to all who have known him. As he leaves this spring, those staying behind who watch him go will see the spot he filled and understand Þæt wæs god cyning.

Sincerely,
Iris Druch and the Class of 2017

Letter From Mr. Rodin

Though I can't count myself among the throng of loyal Chicago Cubs fans, I must admit that I was rooting for them to win the World Series. Actually, what I really wanted was for them to win LAST year—in 2015. Certainly, breaking the massive championship drought—since 1908!—was a motivating factor; after all, who wants to see a fan base suffer that long.

But what had me stirred up was the possibility that Marty McFly might have been right. With help from Doc Brown and the flux capacitor, Marty travels back in time in the 1989 flick Back to the Future: Part II and discovers, among other things, that the Cubs have done the impossible: they've finally won the World Series. Best of all, the movie predicts that it happens in 2015—26 years after the movie was made. That they were only one year off is amazing.

The notion of time travel has been appealing to audiences—and the general public—for ages. The ability to escape the every-day and move forward or backward in time allows us to ponder the larger questions of "What If?" and "What Might Be?" It opens up to us the world of possibilities and lets us dream big.

One thing that impresses me so much about PCDS students is their desire to break down barriers and understand the world in profound ways. They have no fear of leaving their own comfort zone, as their quests may turn up answers for them to challenges that need exploration and travel for solutions. It's the reason so many of our students take part in our travel abroad programs, and also why the vast majority of our graduates choose colleges far from home.

Please take the time to enjoy another delightful yearbook, full of memories that take you back in time—and predictions that will push you forward. And if yearbook travel doesn't suit you, I think I might know where to find a DeLorean and 1.21 gigawatts of power to get things off the ground.

"Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things that you didn't do than by the ones you did do. So throw off the bowlines. Sail away from the safe harbor. Catch the trade winds in your sails. Explore. Dream. Discover."
~ H. Jackson Brown's Mother

In the Lower School we teach you to think deeply, read carefully, write thoughtfully, and work to solve all types of problems. Beyond this though, we hope to inspire you to value the wonder that you are, and have the courage to move towards your dreams with the confidence that the journey will be beautiful.
"Sail away…"

With love,
Ms. Jacqueline Ivins

HOPE YOU HAD AN AMAZING YEAR!!

- MR. SULLIVAN
HEAD OF THE MIDDLE SCHOOL

TO:

5TH GRADE

THROUGH 8TH GRADE

Dear Students,

I write this letter in early November. We have had a wonderful start to the 2016-17 school year. Recently, PCDS held its annual Open House, which was very well attended. The energy and enthusiasm around our campus has been outstanding!

The yearbook staff has informed me that this year's theme is "passports." I feel that I could take this idea in a number of different directions, but what immediately comes to mind are travel and trips. In the past few weeks, our 5th, 6th, and 8th grade students have had incredible off-campus adventures to the Biosphere, Prescott, AZ, and Catalina Island, CA, respectively. The 7th grade will take their trip to Boston, MA, at year's end. These trips are invaluable; they bring to life so much information that is learned in the classroom, while also allowing students to bond in a more natural setting.

As I reflect on my time as a middle school student, I vividly remember the class trips to local museums and the end-of-year excursion to an amusement park. Those were enjoyable times. The trips that my family took were also impactful. I recall when all six Sullivans - my parents and all four of us children - piled into our red Ford Escort Wagon and drove from New York to Arizona during winter break when I was 10 years old. Through blinding snowstorms, mechanical problems, and car sickness, we made it to the warm winter paradise of Phoenix, AZ, for a week-long vacation.

There is no substitute for travel. Yes, you can watch a documentary about the Grand Canyon on television, but nothing compares to standing at the edge and peering over rocks. Hearing the roaring Colorado River when you reach the canyon floor is a life-changing experience.

I encourage all of you to soak in the travel experiences that we provide at PCDS and to enjoy your family trips. I feel very fortunate to be part of such a wonderful learning environment here at PCDS and look forward to forging memories with all of you in the years to come.

Best of Luck,

Mr. Sullivan

STAMP

MADE IN U.S.A

Hope you had a great year!!

~ Ms. Culbertson
Head of the Upper School

To:

9th Grade
through 12th Grade

Dear Upper School,

I remember the first time I got a passport. My awkward photo made more awkward by lamination was followed by blank pages. This was like my permission slip ready to be signed by all the stamps and visas I would receive as I entered and exited new places. When I pull out my passport, I enjoy flipping through the used pages. Each stamp tells a story — of that time when I encountered a strange animal or when I learned something new about myself or when I stood in awe of nature or when I marveled at humanity. I hope these photos serve as your stamps, snapshots that tell stories of your experience this past year — of that time you laughed so hard you couldn't breathe or when your friend comforted you or when you learned something that changed you. Enjoy the trip!

Time Warps

Sofia Ahmed is a young cosmopolitan who has been traveling the world, spreading diversity/inclusivity awareness. In between her trips, she resides in D.C, a perfect home for her and her hubby (who makes excellent curry) and her three children, who are all speech and debate stars. She is able to attend many protests and marches. David Anaeme becomes an animator at Anaemators Studio, a prestigious entertainment firm that he founded one day from winning a radio contest. His fat dog Duffy got bit by a radioactive onion and grew to the size of a horse. David rides Duffy every day to work at his underground animation studio, which he can never leave until he has drawn 1,000 pictures due to a spell from a frog witch. Gillian Barfield married the 7'2" love of her life Dragan Bender straight out of her extremely successful college basketball career. They now live in the Hamptons with their twins boys who are 5'11" at age 10. Gillian and Dragan enjoy long walks on their private beach with their lovable but aggressive beagle Swish. Andri Bonadurer lives in Boukoumbé, Togo, where he is a professional sea turtle breeder. He's ranked #17 in the world for sea turtle breeding. He drives a quad-turbocharged 1998 Fiat Multipla. He also has the world's most extensive collection of microwave ovens. Ask him any question about the history of microwaves and he can answer it honestly and politely. After a long and successful career as both a doctor and a world-famous violinist, Annalise Bracher retired to New Zealand and lived in a Hobbit hole well past her eleventy-first birthday with 74 cats to start a cat colony, teaching them to speak in Klingon. She was then hired by James T. Kirk to work on the USS Enterprise to take over the world. Caitlyn Brown becomes a very successful architect and graphic designer. Eventually, she designs the new Phoenix Mercury arena and becomes the team manager for the Mercury. Caitlyn enjoys spending her time with a large ice tea while driving her favorite vintage cars. She still sports the all-black couture, and finally got the puppy she has always wanted. Wally Brown has become the god-emperor of an underground drag-racing empire. He used the proceeds to start a clothing line that specializes in diamond-encrusted pocket squares. After Jamie Campbell's successful rock band performed at Rock Fest for the 6th time, she decided to retire her keytar and pursue music management. She heads a big-time record label, where she also met her husband, an intense metal-head. After retreating to the forest to live amongst nature and to further exercise his 2nd amendment rights, Adam Cherilla pursues his passion as a Metal God worshipper. He sits around a campfire each night, dressed in all black clothing, singing his favorite Norwegian black metal songs. After numerous complaints of "mysterious screaming" from surrounding villages, he is forced to go back to his normal life of intimidating his opponents on the lacrosse field, attending local metal concerts, and tending to his sacred beard. Aidan Clark was named "laziest man in the world" and won six food eating competitions. He is currently using his outside-the-box thinking to run numerous companies and rowing teams. Maddie Cook lives a fabulous life. She is an incredibly successful plastic surgeon, operating on only the most famous celebrities and does PT for all the athletes. She lives in New York in a high rise apartment on the Upper East side with her husband and kids. She spends her days shopping and eating at amazing restaurants. On the side, she runs her own local coffee shop and bakes sweets for her family. Matt Corsillo created his own show on Cartoon Network and lives happily with his 30 dogs. He used his money, earned from his show, to find his own botanical gardens to supply himself with flowers for his hair. Nicholas Currault's programming skills finally got the better of him when he accidentally created the world's first A.I. Thankfully, the A.I. spared its creator (although not the rest of the Earth), and Nicholas now travels happily with his ever-expanding T-shirt collection on the Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy's Heart of Gold space ship. Amelia D'Avanzo is the leader of a traveling dance group consisting entirely of dogs. She tours around Europe, performing for monarchs and royalty for a hefty price. She used the money to buy a castle, and spends her free time turning down suitors for marriage. Sam Damore drove his hybrid version 1997 Dodge Neon to the Niger River Delta, and later opened his own store that sells books on how to live adventurous lives. He is widely known for his awesome trick of jumping from tree to tree that are 50 feet apart using windmills and a cactus. He has a curly-haired son who is quite a daredevil like his father and is trying to create his own signature move. Madison Dever lives in Dallas with her husband, the new quarterback from the Cowboys. Madison spends her days shopping at Whole Foods and feeding her two children non-GMO foods. She is an amazing vocal teacher with her own voice company; she trained the newest Broadway star who will be performing in Lin Manuel Miranda's newest production. Julius Dodson finally found his backpack after years of earching the globe; he is now able to complete his Calculus homework and can graduate high school. After this ajor achievement, he goes on to cure many genetic diseases, and raises 4 children who become squash stars. In ddition, Julius finally gave up on his hairline and shaved it all off. After graduating high school, Iris Druch went on be an English major and became a secluded novelist -- Salinger style. In 2036, in a freak attack by a tiger released om the Cincinnati zoo, she fortunately survived. This made the headlines, and she was famous for her survival. ecause of this, her novels became the most critically acclaimed literary works of this century, and she became the terary Van Gogh. David Farca spent three years with the Peace Corp in Tanzania before becoming the new lead hotographer at National Geographic. In his spare time, David plays on a recreational frisbee team. Alana Francis-row is now an esteemed cat lady and sea life conservationist who spends her time scuba diving off the coast of alifornia. On the side, staying true to her French heritage, she runs a French fry shop known for its innovative utella and fries combo. Mason Fritz teaches philosophy to all those who pass by his humble farm. He has legally anged his name to "Fritzocles" and is the first non-Englishman to be knighted by the Queen. He leads a commune lon't worry, it's not a cult) of like-minded "intellectuals" and maintains his farm using nothing but his bare hands. is farm also doubles as a hospital where he performs brain surgeries and is researching for a cure for the new spread f Hawkitis that is now prevalent. Lara Gemar lives in Boston, finally accustomed to the cold East Coast weather, ith her five cats and husband. In her free time, she enjoys growing peppers in her pepper garden. After attending arvard Law School, she is incredibly successful working as a representative at the UN, spending her days as a hero olving problems worldwide. Mahi Halepota started his own clothing line where he sells sweatpants that are slightly o short. This company was revolutionary, and he is currently in Paris for fashion week. He will probably show up te to his own show with Starbucks from his mom. Later, in an effort to make the loudest POP ever, he assembled e largest group of people willing to POP in public and created an earthquake that shook the country of Djibouti. alvin Hamilton finally had his big break and was signed on to the modeling company Cave Creek Roads. He lives the Philippines with his wife Ily where they conduct Minecraft case studies on the minds of models. Jerry ernandez is the successful owner of a beard trimming shop. After experiencing an unfortunate wake up call in high chool, he was inspired to help other teens with their unfortunate scruff. He still diets on only mac 'n cheese and nicken nuggets, and is still Planet Fitness's #1 customer. One day while doing yoga on a mountain, Emma Herold chieved spiritual enlightenment. She now lives peacefully as the first female monk in India studying under her role odels, deep within the preserves meditating, hiking and doing yoga. She still gets confused by her own jokes, but is s lovable and kind as it gets. And her beautiful smile and kind personality that her high school friends loved so much ave stayed with her through the trials of adulthood. Greyson Hutchinson eventually succumbed to the temptation to gin his own cult dedicated to wholesome memes. He could not bear to part with Miles, and the two still meet up vice a year on the summer and winter solstices for duels to satiate their violent tendencies toward each other. reyson, of course, insists on hugging it out afterward despite Miles's aggressive resistance. Max Johnson forgot to ve his life. Had he remembered to live a life he would have cured cancer, started the world's most fashionable en's clothing line, and programmed the world's first sentient AI. But Instead, Max spent his days asleep with his t Tigger wondering if he had something that he was supposed to do. Hanaa Khan is a successful fashion designer. he has innovated a new line of makeup foundations that use high-tech pigment technology that matches exactly to the ient's skin tone, making her a pioneer for inclusivity within the beauty community. She is also an acclaimed doctor who olunteers her time with several charitable organizations. Kevin Kirsch conquered the world by monopolizing the food arket and offering food for free in exchange for positions of power. This has ended world hunger. He also has destroyed e U.S. System of measurement, implemented 1 unit of currency, and offers free education for all that teach primarily 1 nguage such that the whole world can communicate. Everyone is happy, and nobody died to achieve world peace under evin. Miles Kohler has constructed a large labyrinth for Greyson to live in as he hides from law enforcement. The two e still best friends. Sam Lett successfully launched a troll hunting business. After he retired from the difficult, strenuous usiness, Sam relocated to Greer in order to relax and further study the art of troll snapsterpieces. Janae Lewis becomes e best United States Ambassador to China that this country has ever seen. She spends her summers in Beijing and her inters in Phoenix, AZ. In her free time, she teaches Chinese at Harvard and runs her own book club about controversial olitical novels. Grant Logan's multiculturalism and fluency in Mandarin have allowed him to become an internationally nowned businessman. He is known in the business industry for his calm yet stern "get it done" demeanor. Grant is also nown as a generous philanthropist, advancing many social causes. He marries a sweet woman he met on his travels to ast Asia and they have three beautiful children who inherit Grant's contagious nervous laugh. Soon after graduation,

Daisey Martinez begins her master plan to take over the world. Once she takes over the world, dictator Martinez rules using sass and minions, but is still loved by all. During the 2036 election, Shelby McDermott, as the youngest president-elect ever, was in a tight race against Tomi Lahren. Days before the vote, she released all the animals from the Cincinnati Zoo and won over the support of vegans (who now make up 97% of the population), which secured her seat in the oval office. After graduating ASU, Nicky Meath pursues a life of the finer things, but finds himself having a mid-life crisis at the age of 30. He decides to move to Qatar, where he spends his days racing fast cars and lounging by the pool with models. By the time he is 80, he settles down with his best friend Adam, never realizing that his true love was right in front of him the entire time. After successfully swatting away the thousands of males that attempt to steal his lovely blonde locks, Austin Merkel will be inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame as the tallest player to ever roam the field. At this point, he will have most likely reached the 9-foot mark (although, it is possible that the number could be much higher). On his Hall of Fame plaque, it will read that he has earned the highest standing record of penalties. These penalties will not be as a result of purposely exerting brute force over those weaker than him, but rather for accidentally stepping on the tiniest of his opponents as they attempt to run the bases and get past him. Nevertheless, his picture will shine proudly for all to see. Meyla Milian-Sanchez owns a famous vegan blog and loves to fight for animal rights. You can also see her at every protest in the city fighting for her own rights. She is a frequent shopper at Whole Foods and knows everyone there on a first name basis. She has a serious case of wanderlust and wants to visit as many countries as she can. To unwind, she does yoga and drinks a lot of La Croix. Hannah Miller will be working to help educate other stress-runners like herself on how to balance their stress through the consumption of her relaxing 7-layer bars, which has turned into a multi-billion dollar company. Bryton Neck became LSU's official sport groupie and won the world record of wearing the same colors, purple and gold, for 20 years. He is part of the Homeowner's Association so that he can legally paint his house purple and gold. He religiously watches all of the LSU football games and if he can find the time, he will occasionally watch the Superbowl. Armando Nido designs a turtle and snail video game that becomes a worldwide hit. He takes up his robotics hobby and creates time consuming inventions. He also dedicates a portion of his day to practice getting on his treadmill. After high school, Simon Olschansky became a successful chemical engineer living in Boston. During college he worked part-time as a retail agent at J Crew until he finished his engineering degree. His daytime hobbies include running with his husky and playing in a rock band at a bar with a group of college friends. However, his guilty pleasure is knitting booties for his cat family of seven and growing. Aaron Ossias revolutionized science when he began his own engineering company dedicated to building spaceships with warp drive that could travel to distant galaxies. Soon bored with all the fame and glory, he quit to become the supreme overlord of dank memes. After his winning streak of three Academy Awards for his breakout role in Dirty Dancing: The Sequel, Ashcon Partovi is living large with his family of seven. In his spare time, he has made a lot of technological advances, including freezing ice to ensure that penguins are living safely and evolving the hover board. Evan Pittman, to the shock of classics scholars everywhere, was revealed to be the reincarnate of Hercules himself--proof that Greek "myths" aren't mythological at all. His unique combination of record strength and violin proficiency led to a lot of broken violins, which inspired him to start a company called "World's Strongest Violins" and later won an award for best self-defense weapon. In his vast trove of medals and trophies rests the award he is most proud of: the "victim's choice" ribbon granted to him by the Photoshop Club. William Porter went on to get a law degree and then decided to try his luck in politics after disliking the direction the country was going in. In 2036 he ran for President to make his role model Frank Underwood proud. President Porter's 2 terms were the most prosperous in American History, although some found his abolition of the 8th amendment questionable. Alexa Portigal is living in the Upper East side. Her blog has taken off, and as a benefit, she gets free merchandise from high end boutiques. She just opened her new boutique in Soho right by Kylie Jenner's new pop-up shop. She lives with her hunk of a husband with two dogs that each have their own Instagram followers. Finally fed up with getting called out by Ms. Mazz in calculus class, Alex Reaves invented his own math, appropriately named Alex Math. When, to his dismay, Alex Math didn't get very far in the world of academia, he moved on to create an entire business of selling inflatable yellow ducks; however, this couldn't support his family, so he branched out to include a whole array of other birds: pelicans, spoonbills, storks, you name it. He is most known for his best-selling design, the blue-footed boobie. He donates 10% profits toward nature conservation. Mina Rodriguez manages to be acquainted with Drake and is invited to go to all his tours and concerts with him. By day, she achieves her dreams of helping and giving back to her community. By night, she is Drake's beloved backup singer. She starts a girl's rapper group called MWA (Mina With Attitude).

Emma Sheridan becomes an Instagram fitness star during college, and everyone follows her on Snapchat so hat they can partake in her workouts. Emma also runs her own spin and fitness studio in Santa Barbara. She is narried to a Silicon Valley super star, and is on his app design team. Her latest art exhibit is currently being displayed at The Met, and is being moved to the Louvre next month. She has one daughter named Gillian, after ner best friend, and two twin miniature golden doodles named Cinnamon and Nutmeg. After a successful career as an engineer, Edison Siu traveled the country displaying his passion for balancing things on top of other hings. He now lives in a house he 3D-printed for himself and works as a doorman. After graduating PCDS, Amanda Slate became a prosperous self-help writer. She achieved great fame in the literary world, but still felt she could do more. She joined Broadway and became an internationally renowned performer. After her singing career, Amanda decided to dedicate the rest of her life to saving bees -- which she did successfully. Amanda is now a CIA agent and uses her youthful and innocent looks to infiltrate and destroy enemies of the U.S. Max Svejda moved to the Ukraine to live peacefully as a coal miner. He believes his twin is happier than he is as a politician. Oh wait, I mean Sam. Sam Svejda has become a senator and is a power player in the government. He believes his twin is happier than he is as a coal miner. Oh wait, I mean Max. Justin Tee becomes a senator so he can create a bill that prisoners are able to have computers, TVs, and video game consoles. He then commits a crime so that he is put in prison so he doesn't have to talk to anyone ever again. Tisa Tehranchi is an acclaimed yogi, whose students adore her. When not doing yoga, she makes short films that have even been screened at Sundance. Tisa was also the first person to find evidence that the moon landing was fake, exposing the truth behind Apollo 11. Spenny Thompson is recovering from yet another injury. (He tends to rotate between fingers and ankles.) He started a motivational speaker series called Mong Nation where he inspires young injured athletes and will later lead a worldwide tour about the importance of gingerism. He will be living with his 5 pugs while maintaining a steady diet of oreos and protein to maintain those #gains. Spencer Wand is a stand up comedian at the local Chuck E. Cheeses. He is also known as the face of Spam and works part-time as a motivational speaker at elementary schools. Maddie West will be living in Texas with her husband, who she met after nursing him back to health. After they got married, she gave up nursing and pursued her passion by opening a restaurant called MW's because she was appalled by the lack of iced tea and frosted cookies in Fort Worth. She later buys an AJ's Fine Foods establishment in order to have a lifetime access to free passion fruit iced teas. Parker Whitfill becomes the president of the United States of America. Not only will this happen, but he will go down as the best president America has ever seen, pushing idealistic philosophy through Congress in order to create a better world. After finishing 2 terms, he becomes a judge on the Supreme Court, where he lives his dream of having a career where he sits in a room and thinks about things. Alex Willett defied all odds and became the loudest person to ever live. After surgically implanting antlers on her head, selling her comic book company for a buttload of money, and moving to a secluded community away from literally everyone in the world, she decided to spend her days screaming at the top of her lungs. No one knows where she lives, much to her satisfaction, but legend has it that you can hear her from hundreds of miles away. Libby Williamson was a contestant on the 5th season of the Canadian Bachelor and won! She is now living her dream with her Canadian husband in Montreal with her three children. She opened her own bakery called Libby's Love and sells baked goods internationally. In fact, the wonderful Queen Elizabeth II had a batch of cookies and lived to be 120. After finishing high school, Branch Williamson decided to open his own gym. The gym is open 24 hours, has no cardio (because cardio kills gains) and is called Gain Train. While working out, Branch meets a gorgeous insta-fitness girl named Rose. They get married and have two kids, Thorn and Leaf. Jordon Wong wonged his way through college. After college he had an extremely successful career as a physicist, but was still struggling to find the love of his life. His dear friends Emma and Gillian sent his application in for season 20 of Bachelor in Paradise, where he is currently with a sweetheart during the final week. Olivia Zimmerman is now a food blogger and rom-com movie director who lives in a fancy apartment in New York. Her latest movie was a musical tribute to Gilmore Girls, and her latest blog post was titled "Eating My Way Through NYC: The 50 Best Cookies I Found in New York." Her only regret in life is approving all of Kevin's edgy time warps for the high school yearbook.

A Thank You From Us!

Thank you so much to everyone who has contributed to the yearbook! We would not have been able to complete this without you. We want to thank our wonderful advisor, Ms. Hathaway, for her dedication, loyalty, and calm demeanor throughout the year. She has always been able to keep the team relaxed with her fabulous sense of humor and the stashes of candy in her office. We also want to give a special thank you to all of the faculty, especially Ms. Ong, who have sent us photos.

Trying to fill 240 pages to capture all of the memories of 2016-2017 has not been easy. We hope every single student appreciates all of the hard work that the team has put into this book, and when you look back at all of these pictures, that you will remember the amazing times you had in the PCDS community.

Thank you so much for an amazing year!

Love,
The Yearbook Team
