CAPE HENRY COLLEGIATE

2026 ANNUAL REPORT

This year, our community came together in extraordinary and meaningful ways. Although the Grand Auction was postponed from January to April, our community stepped up in support of Cape Henry, raising more than $350,000 to reimagine the Perry Library as a vibrant student commons. Completed over the summer, this transformed space includes a 100-person seminar room, collaborative breakout areas and dedicated spaces for forensics and podcasting, all designed to support connection, creativity and discovery for years to come.

That same spirit of generosity was felt throughout the year. On Giving Tuesday, more than 230 donors contributed over $215,000 in support of Cape Henry students and teachers. These moments are a reflection of a community that shows up, believes deeply in our mission and invests in the lives of our students in ways that are both tangible and lasting.

As you explore these pages, we hope you feel the impact of what you have made possible. Within these stories are the students, faculty, families, alumni and friends whose generosity and partnership continue to shape the future of Cape Henry. Thank you for your trust, your belief in our mission and for making a Cape Henry education possible.

With gratitude,

David Ervin

NEXUS: IT TAKES A COMMUNITY

by Mr. Willy Fluharty, Director of Strategy and Innovation; Director of the Nexus Center for Global Studies

Every global journey that our Cape Henry students take through the Nexus program begins long before students board a plane. It begins with families, educators, school leadership and donors who believe that the most meaningful education extends beyond the classroom.

This summer, a group of upper school students had the opportunity to travel to Australia where they lived with local families from Hillcrest College, experienced a cultural immersion at the Jellurgal Aboriginal Cultural Centre, hiked to Purling Brook Falls, and visited a wildlife sanctuary. The last three days of the trip, students lived on a dive boat and explored the Great Barrier Reef, known to be one of the world's most remarkable ecosystems and best dive locations.

Before traveling to Australia, students and faculty needed to become scuba certified. The team at Lynnhaven Dive Center, including Cape Henry parents Ms. Lindsey and Mr. Scott Hotchkiss, generously donated a portion of their certification as a gift-in-kind. Passionate about diving themselves, the Hotchkisses were able to share that passion with our students through their generosity. As a result, students arrived in Australia fully prepared to safely explore one of the world's greatest natural wonders.

The Class of 2027's Kiersten Jacobs put it this way: "I was nervous to begin diving class at LDC, but it ended up being super fun, and definitely paid off when we got to dive on the reef. Everything was so colorful and I loved seeing the turtles."

Cape Henry is fortunate to have other generous community members who contribute financial support and travel scholarships, including the Ashkenazi Scholarship and anonymous donor-funded awards. These gifts ensure students can participate in life-changing opportunities regardless of financial circumstances.

Likewise, organizations including Sentara, Eastern Virginia Medical School, Virginia Beach Volunteer Rescue and the Virginia Institute of Marine Science generously share their expertise, deepening students' learning in powerful and lasting ways.

Experiences like these are what make Cape Henry's nationally recognized Nexus Global Studies program so distinctive. After more than 20 years, the program has provided international experiences for more than 1,600 students and continues to rank among the top independent school travel programs in the country. Last year alone, 170 students traveled internationally to 13 countries while hundreds more participated in domestic Nexus experiences, all designed to help fulfill our mission of graduating globally aware citizens.

STUDENTS TRAVELED INTERNATIONALLY THROUGH NEXUS GLOBAL STUDIES

INVESTING IN EXCELLENCE

by Mrs. Lindsay Oliver '04, Director of Development

Every year, the Laila Serpe Distinguished Scholars Program makes it possible for Cape Henry Collegiate to recognize and invest in students whose academic achievement, leadership and character elevate our entire community. Merit scholarships are more than financial awards. They are an investment in future leaders whose impact begins right here on our campus and continues long after graduation.

One such student is Mr. Matt McGraw '22. As a Merit Scholar at Cape Henry, Mr. McGraw distinguished himself through his intellectual curiosity and commitment to excellence. Following graduation, he was named an Echols Scholar at the University of Virginia, where he earned a bachelor's degree in biochemistry. After receiving offers from doctoral programs across the country, Mr. McGraw chose to pursue a Ph.D. in chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, one of the world's premier research institutions. His journey reflects the lasting impact of investing in talented students and empowering them to pursue their highest aspirations.

The next generation of Merit Scholars is already making a difference. Soham Pattnaik, a member of the Class of 2027, has been selected to serve as one of the student representatives on Cape Henry's strategic planning committee, helping shape the school's vision for the next five years. His leadership is a reminder that the impact of donor support begins long before graduation.

Cape Henry continues to attract and cultivate exceptional students whose talents strengthen our classrooms, enrich our community and carry our mission into the world.

"Receiving the scholarship gave me extra motivation to excel. I think at Cape Henry (and beyond), I definitely felt a desire to make the school's investment in my education worthwhile. I would also say that the merit scholarship showed me early on that people at Cape Henry believed in me, and I feel that that gave me the confidence to take on a rigorous schedule throughout high school and college."-

INTRODUCING THE STUDENT COMMONS IN THE PERRY LIBRARY

by Mrs. Alexandra Oglesby, Director of Communications

This year, Cape Henry proudly opened the doors to a new student commons in the Perry Library, a space designed for thinking big, sharing ideas and creating and learning together.

The idea for the redesign came from Cape Henry students themselves, who had increasingly made the Perry Library the center of their school lives. During the 2026 Grand Auction, generous donors made it possible to transform the space to include breakout rooms for individual and small-group study, a dedicated area for presentations, and flexible seating for students to gather.

When you visit campus this year, expect to see our award-winning forensics students practicing speeches and classroom groups finalizing slides in breakout rooms equipped with audio-visual technology. You might come across more than 100 students gathered to listen to a guest speaker, or the weekly Dolphin News anchors recording their show in a dedicated studio space.

In short, what you will see is not simply new furniture or a better layout, but a space where students are preparing for a future that will be much different than today. As artificial intelligence rapidly transforms the job market, we believe preparing our students to collaborate and communicate will set them apart in the future — and that begins in the Perry Library.

THE HEART OF THE LIBRARY

by Mrs. Leesa Hannah, Advancement Associate

When Mrs. Kathy Thompson talks about volunteering at Cape Henry, she smiles and offers a simple explanation: "I love Cape Henry so much."

That love has inspired 18 years of faithful service in the Perry Library. Since 2009, Mrs. Thompson has been a constant presence, welcoming students, supporting faculty and helping create the warm, inviting atmosphere that makes the library the heart of campus. Along the way, she experienced the joy of watching her own grandchildren attend and graduate, making her connection to the Cape Henry community even more meaningful. Mrs. Thompson plans to volunteer until her youngest grandson graduates in 2034!

Mrs. Thompson has witnessed the remarkable transformation of the library itself. She fondly remembers the days of towering bookcases and tucked-away corners. Today, the Perry Library has evolved into a dynamic student commons and learning hub with a collaborative seminar area, quiet study pods, group breakout rooms and state-of-the-art technology to support our students. Mrs. Thompson is eager to see the next generation of students enjoy spaces designed for connection, creativity and discovery.

"Kathy is a wonder to behold," says Perry Library faculty member Tina Howard. "She has assisted in various areas at CHC for years. She spent almost every day of the past two years assisting in the library. We are so grateful for Kathy's dedicated and conscientious help and her incredible impact on the community."

Volunteers like Mrs. Thompson remind us that buildings may change, but it is the people who bring them to life. She is a wonderful example of generosity in its fullest sense. As both a loyal donor and a dedicated volunteer, she demonstrates that giving can take many forms. Through her unwavering dedication, time, presence and heart, Mrs. Thompson has helped make the Perry Library and Cape Henry Collegiate a place where every student feels welcomed, supported and inspired.

GIVING BACK

We want the best opportunity for our grandchildren to gain a well-rounded education and succeed in the future. Our giving helps the school achieve that goal."

SEASONS OF GIVING

LOOKING BACK

by Mrs. Leesa Hannah, Advancement Associate

Community is one of Cape Henry Collegiate's core values, and our students experience its meaning through service to others. Inspired by the generosity of our families, alumni, grandparents, faculty and friends, students learn that giving strengthens both our school and the broader community. In 2025, our community donated 345 turkeys through the Turkey Toss, filled multiple cars with toys for CHKD and collected nearly 900 canned goods during the Souper Bowl food drive. Your philanthropic support makes these opportunities possible, helping cultivate compassionate, engaged leaders who understand that strong communities are built through generosity, service and caring for others.
