GETTING AROUND

Los Angeles is known for its heavy traffic. We therefore recommend leaving well in advance and, where possible, using public transport or a rideshare service to avoid congestion and traffic around the stadium. For the most up-to-date information on mobility, accessibility, and matchdays, please consult the official host city website

Public Transport

LA Metro provides direct shuttle services on matchdays from 15 locations across the city. The service starts four hours before kick-off, with shuttles running every 10 minutes. Get off at LOT R (Intuit East Garage) or LOT S (Arbor Vitae / District Dr). These locations are just a few minutes' walk from the House of the Devils and the stadium. Plan your trip via this via

Uber, Lyft & Taxis

Rideshare services such as Uber and Lyft are strongly recommended. Official pick-up and drop-off zones for rideshare and taxis are located along Doty Ave & W 105th St or at Kareem Court and Manchester Boulevard. Both are within walking distance of the House of the Devils.

Parking

We strongly advise against driving to the stadium. Parking in the area is limited and prices are very high on matchdays. Significant traffic congestion around the stadium should also be expected.

Parking at the stadium is available, but rates in Los Angeles can be expensive. We therefore recommend booking your parking space in advance via the official FIFA World Cup parking website.

To save costs and avoid traffic, consider parking further away and using one of the 15 dedicated LA Metro shuttle services operating on matchdays. More information is available here. More info

STADIUM RULES

All FIFA stadiums enforce a clear bag policy to ensure a safe and smooth entry process. Only transparent bags made of plastic, vinyl or PVC are allowed, with maximum dimensions of 30 x 15 x 30 cm. Small wallets, clutches or handbags up to 11.5 x 16.5 cm are an exception and do not need to be transparent.

All bags are checked at the entrance.

See the full list of prohibited items here. Below is a summary of the prohibited items:

- Weapons and sharp or dangerous objects
- Explosives and flammable materials
- Glass, bottles and hard packaging that could cause injury
- Illegal substances and drugs
- Flares, fireworks and smoke bombs
- Large or hard objects that could compromise safety or block the view
- Professional camera or recording equipment without authorisation
- Political, discriminatory or offensive materials or banners
- Objects that could obstruct passage, sightlines or evacuation

FIFA FAN MATERIALS

There are clear guidelines and rules for using fan materials inside the stadium. Below is an overview of what's allowed without prior approval, what requires permission, and which rules of use apply inside the stadium. Each request must be submitted individually.

Request permission for larger FAN MATERIALS
HERE

ALLOWED WITHOUT PRIOR APPROVAL

Supporters may bring the following materials without a prior request:

- Flags and banners smaller than 2 m x 1.5 m.
- Flexible plastic flagpoles up to 1 m long and 1 cm in diameter.

Note: metal poles are strictly prohibited.

- Replica trophies, provided they pose no safety risk.

MATERIALS THAT REQUIRE PRIOR APPROVAL

For certain larger or specific fan materials, prior permission must be requested through the FIFA Fan Materials Entry Portal.

- Flags and banners larger than 2 m x 1.5 m but smaller than 4 m x 2 m.
- Tifos (maximum 10 m x 10 m)
- Musical instruments

RULES OF USE INSIDE THE STADIUM

When using fan materials inside the stadium, the following rules must always be observed:

- Blocking other supporters' sightlines is prohibited.
- Safety signs, sponsor boards, LED screens and television cameras must not be obstructed.
- Hanging or installing materials in the stadium in advance is not permitted. Supporters bringing materials must arrive at least 2 hours before kick-off for inspection.
- The approval certificate must be presented at the entrance whenever prior permission was required.

SAFETY

Vigilance & emergencies

While traveling and on match days, it's important to stay alert at all times, especially in busy tourist areas where pickpockets may be active. Keep a close eye on your personal belongings and carry valuables securely and close to your body.

Climate

Weather conditions can vary widely from city to city:

Los Angeles: often high temperatures, exceeding 30°C

Seattle and Vancouver: more changeable weather with a chance of rain. Always pack suitable clothing; use sunscreen, wear a cap or poncho, and drink plenty of water to stay hydrated.

Teamspirit

Being a supporter is something you do together. Look out for one another on the way and in and around the stadium, and make sure everyone can enjoy the experience safely and comfortably.

Agree on a clear meeting point outside the stadium with your group in advance. That way you can easily find each other again, even when it's crowded or your phone signal is poor.

ASSISTANCE AND SUPPORT

Consular assistance

In the event of a critical situation (loss of identity documents, a serious accident or an arrest), you should contact the Belgian consular services. For Seattle and Los Angeles, this falls under the jurisdiction of the Consulate General of Belgium in Los Angeles (+1 323 857 1244 | losangeles@diplobel.fed.be).

What the embassy/consulate can do:

- Issue a temporary travel document
- Provide contact details for a local lawyer or doctor
- Quickly inform family and/or friends in an emergency
- Liaise with local authorities to locate missing persons
- If you are arrested, it is essential to ask to use consular assistance

Opening hours and appointments:

The consulates are open Monday to Friday, from 08:00 to 13:00, and operate by appointment only.

Emergencies outside opening hours

If a life-threatening emergency arises at night or over the weekend, call the main number of the relevant consulate and listen to the recorded message in full; it provides the on-call number for extreme cases.

Precautions

It is strongly recommended that you register your stay on the Travellers Online platform so that the authorities can locate you in the event of a major crisis. You are also advised to keep a digital copy of your passport and your visa (ESTA or eTA) in a secure place (for example, a secure mailbox) to make any replacement procedures easier.

TIPS & TRICKS

Local life

TIPPING CULTURE

Tipping is the norm, because service staff often earn a low base wage; in restaurants and bars you usually add 15–20% on top of the bill. Tips are also expected for taxis, hairdressers and deliveries, whereas in Belgium this is fairly exceptional and voluntary. Watch out: sometimes a tip is already added to the bill automatically as a 'gratuity.' In that case, you're not obliged to leave anything extra on top.

Alcohol

- In the US, the legal drinking age is 21. In Canada, it's 19.
- Drinking alcohol in public is prohibited in both the US and Canada.
- A photo ID is required as proof, and your passport will also be requested at the stadiums.

Police

Police in the US have a low tolerance for 'jokes,' so don't play the comedian during checks at airports or on the street...

LOS ANGELES TOURISM

Griffith Observatory

The free, classic LA viewpoint, perched on the slope of Mount Hollywood. From the terraces you look out over the whole basin, the Hollywood sign close by and the downtown towers in the distance; on a clear evening you can see all the way to the ocean. Go around sunset and stay for the planetarium. Parking up top fills fast, so the DASH Observatory bus or a rideshare saves you a lot of circling. .

Santa Monica Pier

The postcard version of Los Angeles, and the official end of Route 66, which turns 100 in 2026. A small amusement park with a Ferris wheel sits out over the water, a wide beach on either side, and a bike path that runs all the way down to Venice. Touristy, sure, but worth doing once, and far better on a rented bike than in a car hunting for parking.

LOS ANGELES

TOURISM

The Getty Center

A museum on a hilltop above the 405, free to enter, where you only pay for parking. A small tram carries you up to white travertine buildings, gardens and a genuinely good art collection, all wrapped in a sweeping view over the city. An easy half-day even if museums are not normally your thing, and the gardens alone earn the trip on a sunny day.

Hollywood & the Walk of Fame

Hollywood Boulevard, the brass stars in the pavement, the handprints outside the TCL Chinese Theatre and the Dolby Theatre where the Oscars are handed out. It is busier and a little grittier than the films suggest, but seeing it once is part of the deal. Combine it with the Academy Museum of Motion Pictures around the corner if you want the polished side of the same story.

TOURISM

Venice Beach

Where Los Angeles is most itself: the boardwalk, Muscle Beach, the skate park, the quiet canals a few blocks inland and the independent shops along Abbot Kinney. Less polished than Santa Monica next door, but with a lot more character. Best in the late afternoon, when the light softens and it rolls into the evening.

Downtown LA

Downtown has come back to life. Grand Central Market gathers old lunch counters and new food stalls under one roof, The Broad shows off contemporary art for free (book a slot in advance), and the silver curves of Walt Disney Concert Hall sit right across the street. Walkable, and well connected by Metro, which in this city is saying something.
