Welcome...

RVers, Local Travelers & Seasonal 'Birds

After exploring Arizona for more than four decades, I continue to find new awe-inspiring landscapes, attend meaningful events, and discover exhilarating attractions. As the new publisher of Arizona RV Outdoor Life magazine, sharing this information with you is my mission. I am honored to take the wheel of this publication that has served RVers and travelers to and within Arizona for more than 24 years. Whether you are reading the print or digital version (https://azrvguide.com), I hope the many Things to Do and Places to Visit help drive you to explore Arizona's vast recreation playground.

Our Grand State has so much to offer. From the low desert basin and range region in the south and west (Phoenix, Tucson, Yuma) with its mild winters, to the central highlands and transition region (Prescott, Payson, Sedona) where you can experience all four seasons, to the high elevation Colorado Plateau in the north (Flagstaff, Williams, Tusayan) with its mild summers and snowy winters, there is a place for everyone to explore. To assist you in finding your next adventure, this popular resource guide is divided into nine user-friendly regions. Whether you stay a day, week, month, or longer, we want you to enjoy Arizona's diverse landscape and variety of attractions.

With the rising interest in remote-work living and today's younger, more active RVers, the RV industry is an expanding part of the outdoor recreation industry. This guide serves outdoor adventurers interested in Arizona's abundant variety of outdoor recreation services, outfitters, and suppliers. With an emphasis toward tourism, attention is also focused on Visitor Centers within each Region — as they offer valuable information on available activities, events, and landmarks in their local area. And, they offer these resource magazines for free throughout the year.

Our feature articles point you toward unique finds throughout our Grand State, including:

- Get Out! Enjoy a variety of unique recreational options with descriptive photo listings.
- Digital Experience Passports are available from the Arizona Office of Tourism (AOT) on mobile devices for easy access to explore for hidden gems.
- Get Your Kicks on Route 66! Discover why the longest remaining stretch of historic Route 66 is a must-visit road trip, packed with iconic Americana, quirky roadside attractions, charming towns, and breathtaking landscapes — especially as the Mother Road celebrates its centennial in 2026.
- And ... so much more!

We invite you to come, stay, and get out to experience our Grand State's incredible playground. Whether you are a seasonal nester, a traditional RVer who prefers full amenity parks, a boondocking digital nomad, or an overlander, we've created this guide for you. We hope Arizona RV Outdoor Life magazine guides you and your family on numerous adventures, making memories that last a lifetime.

Enjoy RVing & Outdoor Recreation in Arizona...
Let the Adventure Continue

HOW TO USE THE GUIDE

The 2027 Arizona RV Outdoor Life magazine provides descriptions and details about listed RV parks or resorts, services, and recreation resources organized by region, within the state. It also includes visitor centers, local attractions, and outdoor recreation services.

The Arizona map on the next page shows how the state is divided into user friendly color-coded regions. Go to the region you're interested in and browse each park or resort, services, and recreation resources to find out what they offer and how to contact them directly. If a park is not listed, contact the area Chamber of Commerce or Visitor Center for updated information.

Special attention has been focused on the Visitor Centers and Chambers within each Region for ease of contact to obtain more detailed, current information within their area.

The Arizona Office of Tourism (AOT) provided special cooperative marketing funding, enabling rural non-profit tourism entities to promote their local services.

Some of the advertisers are local while some offer services and supplies statewide. So view the entire magazine and its Business Directory to be sure to see it all!

A New Chapter for an Old West Tradition

For generations, the Apache Junction Rodeo & Event Center has been a place where Western traditions, community gatherings, and unforgettable events come together. With the iconic Superstition Mountains rising nearby, this 20-acre facility continues to celebrate its rich history while entering an exciting new chapter.

Over the past year, the first phase of major improvements has transformed the facility while preserving its Western character. New ADA-accessible parking and walkways have improved access throughout the site, while grading and drainage improvements and upgraded water and electrical infrastructure have enhanced the facility's ability to host a variety of events.

Visitors will also notice a new large, covered pavilion and pergola, site lighting, upgraded vendor electrical connections, and a new monument entrance sign. Infrastructure for future RV hookups has also been installed, laying the groundwork for additional amenities that can better accommodate event participants and visitors traveling to Apache Junction.

While rodeos remain an important part of the facility's identity, the Rodeo & Event Center hosts much more. Equestrian activities, concerts, 4-H programs, ATV safety courses, and special events take place throughout the year. Long-standing traditions such as Lost Dutchman Days and the Arizona Early Day Engine & Tractor Show continue to bring visitors from across the region.

And the transformation isn't finished. Beginning in Spring 2027, Phase 2 improvements are planned. Together, these improvements will continue the City's vision of creating a versatile event destination while honoring the Western traditions that have made the facility special for generations.

Whether you're coming for an event, exploring the surrounding desert, or traveling through the area by RV, the Apache Junction Rodeo & Event Center offers a unique place to experience the spirit of the West — with even more to look forward to in the years ahead.

Finding Community
& Adventure at Overland Expo West

Arriving at Overland Expo West in Flagstaff, Arizona, we were immediately struck by the setting at Fort Tuthill County Park. Surrounded by towering Ponderosa pines, the event felt like an adventure gathering from the moment we pulled in.

Over the next few days, we wandered through hundreds of exhibitor booths, admired rigs built for everything from weekend escapes to serious backcountry travel, and spent plenty of time discovering gear we hadn't seen before. One of my husband's favorite parts was talking directly with manufacturers. Those conversations made the experience feel more personal, and we even came across plenty of great gear deals along the way.

The educational lineup is extensive, so it helps to plan ahead. My favorite session was a dog first aid class, which stood out for how practical and relevant it was for anyone who travels with pets. From photography and geology to vehicle recovery and navigation, the range of classes meant there was always something new to learn.

Camping on-site added another layer to the experience. In our immediate area alone, we met people from California, Colorado, and Michigan. Conversations came easily, whether we were swapping travel stories, laughing about camping mishaps, or talking about where the road might take us next.

That sense of connection is what stayed with us most. Overland Expo West certainly delivers the gear, vehicles, and education people come for, but the real highlight was the community. More than a trade show, it felt like a place where people who love travel and the outdoors naturally find one another.

CAMP IN LUXURY: Glamping

UNPLUG FROM URBAN LIFE AT ONE OF THESE POSH ARIZONA SITES

Glamping, a combination of the words "glamorous camping," blends traditional outdoor stays with luxury accommodations, personalized service, fine dining, and modern amenities. Unlike conventional camping, it offers upgraded options such as luxury tents, renovated Airstream trailers with modern conveniences, and small woodland cabins equipped with enhanced facilities. It provides an outdoor experience with the comfort of a high-end hotel. Younger couples with dual incomes can enjoy a luxurious weekend in nature without the expense of buying or renting a recreational vehicle (RV).

More than a decade ago, luxury camping began attracting young professionals looking to escape busy city life. They sought peaceful, secluded natural surroundings where they could relax, enjoy the outdoors, and experience comfort away from their everyday routines.

Also known as "posh camping" or "comfortable camping," glamping now includes various accommodations, such as bell tents, safari tents, yurts, tepees, vintage trailers, tree houses, and even a dock-anchored houseboat. This diversity makes glamping an attractive option for travelers seeking memorable outdoor experiences with a blend of luxury and adventure.

Colorful Quirky Clifton

As the County seat of Arizona's least populous county, Clifton, Arizona, "Where the Trail Begins" offers an unbeatable combination of thrilling history, a remarkably well-preserved turn of the century downtown, and 'real' outdoor adventure. With its fate tied to the mining industry, Clifton's history has been marked by dramatic cycles of boom and bust. So many fortunes won and lost gave the town its unique character. As nearby communities of Old Morenci and Metcalf were erased by the expansion of the Morenci copper mine, Clifton was preserved, leaving a remarkable testimony to its heyday as a Victorian-era mining boomtown.

The historic downtown Chase Creek Historical District was constructed on narrow Chase Creek Boulevard, along Chase Creek. Even though Chase Creek Blvd. may be a small place to visit, this street stands at the edge of a town that figured prominently in Southwestern history. With access to water, a railroad, and with the smelter, it became the mining district's main hub. With its 24-hour saloons, gambling halls, and bordellos, it quickly earned an unsavory reputation as one the wildest camps in the West, second only to Tombstone. After fires in the early 1900's destroyed many of the wooden buildings, all structures thereafter were built with brick, in a Territorial architecture known in Arizona. Many of these clustered buildings are unrestored with a faded look, some are well preserved, housed with a variety type of merchants. Enjoy the Historical Chase Creek Walking Tour and explore these delightful owner operated shops.

Big horn sheep are often seen in Clifton

Historic Clifton Train Depot is now the Town of Clifton's Visitors Center, with friendly volunteers to answer questions on places to see, things to do, and other valuable information, so you can make the most of your visit. This historic train station was built in the 1910's and is still an iconic piece of architecture today. 100 N. Coronado Blvd., Clifton AZ.

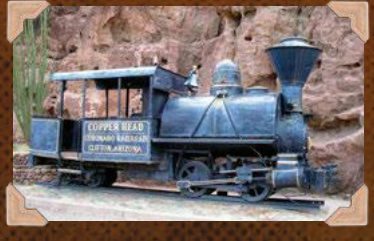

County Court House

The Coronado Trail National Scenic Byway – U.S. 191 – starts at Clifton, AZ, and climbs to 9,000 feet at Springerville, AZ, located in the northeastern White Mountains area. With more than 200 switchbacks and steep nature, it offers stunning views along the way.

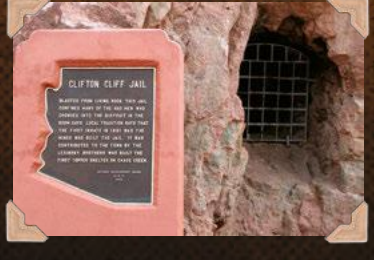

The Arches on Chase Creek, stand alone, as they are remnants of the Lyric Theater, destroyed by fire in the 1960's. In its day, the Lyric offered entertainment to the gentle population, and to the rough miners.

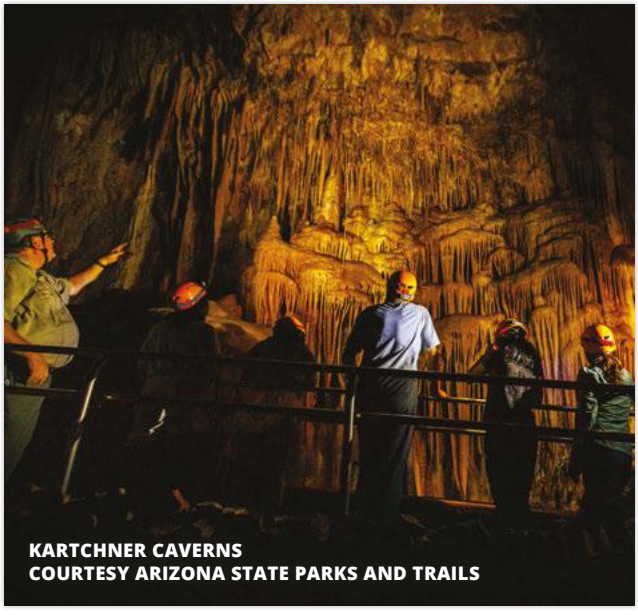

Historic Copper Head Locomotive sits next to the Clifton Jail. This Porter steam locomotive was the first operational railroad in Arizona. It was brought to Clifton in parts by wagon train.

Clifton Cliff Jail is the original town jail, blasted from solid rock and built into the side of the cliff in 1881. It was the most unique incarceration facility in the U.S.

Discover SOMETHING DIFFERENT

Douglas, Arizona, is a destination for travelers who want more than a quick stop. Founded in 1901 in the southeastern corner of the state, Douglas sits right across the line from Agua Prieta, Sonora, and the two cities share far more than a border. Families, food, and traditions move back and forth every day, and that blend of two cultures is what makes visits here feel special.

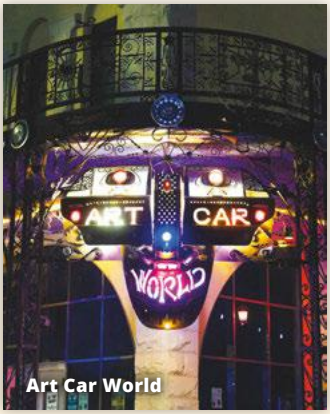

Experience the binational culture found in Douglas through the cuisine offered by the various family-owned restaurants and food trucks that specialize in Sonoran-style dishes. Enjoy the taste of authentic flavors representing both nations connected along the border that cannot be found anywhere else.

Explore the city and learn about its rich history dating back over 125 years. The Douglas-Williams House Museum will teach you about Douglas' beginnings and all the historic events that took place in this small southwest city. Visit the Border Air Museum located at America's First International Airport and find out about Douglas' aviation history. Famed aviators such as Amelia Earhart have flown into Douglas Municipal Airport which was once a destination for cross-country air derbies. Take a trip to the Slaughter Ranch Museum, a National Historic Landmark and only 13 miles outside of city limits. Walk down the Historic District and marvel at the architecture dating back to the early 1900s. Stop in the historic Gadsden Hotel, often referred to as "the last of the grand hotels," and lounge in its ornate lobby which has an Italian marble staircase, pillars embellished with gold leaf, and a 42 foot Tiffany stained glass mural. Enjoy a cocktail in the hotel's prohibition-style speakeasy, the only one of its kind in this part of the state. While you are there, go see the Wall of Faces (located in the Gadsden Hotel), an exhibit that commemorates Douglas veterans who served during the Vietnam War era.

Farther north in the Chiricahua Mountains, Rucker Canyon offers hiking trails and camping.

Whitewater Draw is the one to plan your trip around. From October through March, nearly 30,000 Sandhill Cranes roost here alongside other waterfowl and wetland birds, arriving just as winter visitors do. Come at sunrise to watch the cranes lift off together, or late morning when the flocks return from feeding in the surrounding fields.

Cyclists can ride the same wide-open dirt roads that host the Borderlands Gravel Race, held in November of each year, with miles of quiet ranch country and big desert views.

City of Douglas Golf Course & RV Park

1372 E. Fairway Dr. • 520.417.7339 • douglasaz.gov

Park your rig, grab your clubs, and you're steps from the first tee. The City of Douglas RV Park sits on the municipal golf course, and both have seen major upgrades.

The RV park offers 28 full-hookup sites with newly upgraded 50-amp service, including 15 pull-throughs and 13 back-in spaces. Guests enjoy restrooms with showers, a laundry room, and free Wi-Fi, and the clubhouse bar is just a short walk away.

Golfers, the back nine is back. The desert-style back nine has been renovated, with rolling fairways and larger greens that play completely differently from the classic front nine. The front nine renovation is up next beginning in 2027, so now is the perfect time to see what's new.

Stay a night, a week, or the whole winter. We'd love to have you.

MURALS AROUND Arizona

The streets of Arizona are like an open-air art museum, where colorful walls become canvases for creativity. Talented artists transform buildings across major metropolitan areas (Phoenix, Tucson), small cities (Douglas, Benson, Williams), and towns (Payson, Superior, Tusayan) throughout the state with murals that do much more than create eye-catching photo backdrops. The Arizona Mural Trail invites residents and visitors to discover the stories, artists, and communities behind these murals.

Day of the Dead Skull Mural in the City of Douglas

Arizona's murals celebrate Western heritage and indigenous traditions, reflect local history and pop culture, and show the issues shaping communities. Murals can speak to the past while offering a glimpse toward the future, reminding us how creativity can help build and sustain thriving communities.

We seek out art for many reasons: to inspire us, make us laugh, offer a new perspective, or simply help us appreciate the beauty around us. In Arizona, art often appears in unexpected places, turning an ordinary walk downtown into an opportunity for discovery. Nothing brightens a day quite like the colors and imagination behind a lively mural.

Many mural projects are collaborative efforts, supported by cities, towns, local organizations, and artists working together to bring public spaces to life. Most are free to visit and can be enjoyed year-round, making them an accessible way to experience Arizona's creative spirit.

So the next time you're out getting some fresh air, take a little detour and explore the walls around you. Look closely — you may discover a story you didn't know was there. And when you find a favorite, snap a photo and tag the city, town, or artist on social media to show your appreciation and help celebrate Arizona's vibrant creative community.

Exploring the Timeless Beauty of Historic SR 88

The road that starts out innocently enough as Main Street in Mesa continues east as Apache Trail in East Mesa through Apache Junction. Apache Trail then turns northeast, becoming the Historic State Route 88, with its many unique outdoor recreation options, attractions, and dining finds as it extends into the wild Tonto National Forest.

The majestic Superstition Mountains towering 5,000' overlook the entire East Valley. In addition to the their natural beauty, legend has it that hidden somewhere within its peaks and caverns lies Jacob Waltz's legendary Lost Dutchman Gold Mine. Fortune seekers have been in search of the gold since the late 1800s and are still seeking it today.

Historic SR 88, the "Apache Trail," on the eastern side of Apache Junction, is part of the National Forest Scenic Byway system. It was built in the mid-1920's as a supply route for building the Roosevelt Dam, creating Lake Roosevelt, one of the largest lakes in Arizona. Enjoy the many attractions, eateries, and recreational venues along the paved portion of this scenic highway to Tortilla Flat. Must stops along the way include the Superstition Mountain Museum, the famous Goldfield Ghost Town, the Superstition Zipline, and the Mammoth Steakhouse & Saloon.

Next along the Trail is the popular Lost Dutchman State Park, named after the fabled lost gold mine in the Superstition Mountains. Several hiking trails lead from the Park into the Superstition wilderness and surrounding Tonto National Forest. Enjoy a weekend camping and experience native wildlife along the way.

Further east on the Trail, the narrow, twisting road winds down to the shores of serene Canyon Lake, where the marina offers everything you need to launch a boat, jet ski or kayak, fish, camp, or enjoy a lake cruise aboard The Dolly Steamboat. Often you'll see wild goats or even eagles soaring over the cliffs nearby.

Head to Tortilla Flat, the last surviving stage coach stop on the Trail. Continuing east to Lake Roosevelt, the Trail is mostly unpaved with a steep, winding road open to high clearance four-wheel drive vehicles only. For safety reasons, we do not recommend RV or caravan travel on the Trail east of Lost Dutchman State Park.

For more information about the area, visit the Apache Junction Visitor Information Center or visitaj.com.

MAP IS NOT TO SCALE

Northern Arizona

Arizona's northern high desert covers almost a third of our state and is home to such American icons as the Grand Canyon, Historic Route 66, the red rocks of Sedona, and the Eagles' famous corner in Winslow. Perhaps not as well known is Prescott — with its charming old-time vibe — the original territorial capitol of Arizona. In addition to towns like the quirky, art-filled Jerome and Cottonwood which is the heart of Verde Valley Wine Country, you will see some of the most awe-inspiring scenery in the West.

Located just south of the Grand Canyon National Park South Rim is the RV-friendly town of Tusayan. Whether you are on a family vacation or hiking adventure trip, Tusayan has a variety of restaurants, gifts shops, and tours for a real wild West experience.

The world's best preserved Meteorite impact site is here in Arizona at Meteor Crater off I-40 between Flagstaff and Winslow, at exit 233.

The high season here is summer, when high altitude provides cool temperatures and plenty of reasons to go outdoors. Williams, west of Flagstaff, is a fun little town that is the starting point for the Grand Canyon Railway.

Northeast of the Grand Canyon, the city of Page is a scenic outpost that serves as the gateway to Glen Canyon, Lake Powell, The Wave, Antelope Canyon, and Horseshoe Bend.

Navajo and Hopi tribes share the land to the northeast, surrounding the wild, majestic Canyon de Chelly and Monument Valley.

Get Your Kicks ON ROUTE 66

While the Historic Route 66 still exists from Chicago, Illinois to Santa Monica, California, the largest uninterrupted drivable stretch is in Arizona. Often referred to as the Mother Road, you will experience historic towns, retro diners, classic motels, iconic roadside attractions, natural wonders, quirky museums, and some of the most breath-taking landscapes along Historic Route 66 in Arizona.

Celebrating its centennial in 2026, the Main Street of America's number "66" was chosen on April 30, 1926. The numbered highway system was officially adopted on November 11, 1926. Winding its way through several small towns, the route in Arizona was paved by 1938. By the end of the 1930s, U.S. Highway 66 connected hundreds of rural communities across eight states.

Route 66 became a symbol of independence and freedom — forever immortalized in the collective American consciousness through family road trips and tributes such as John Steinbeck's book The Grapes of Wrath; Bobby Troup's song, Route 66 (recorded by Nat King Cole); and the CBS television series Route 66.

Sadly, on June 27, 1985, Highway 66 was officially removed from the U.S. Highway System. The opening of the more efficient Interstate 40 in 1978, which bypassed the small Arizona towns, led to their demise due to the resulting lack of traffic. It would take the determination of a small group of volunteers from Arizona's Route 66 communities to revive the allure of discovering small-town America and bring Route 66 back to life.

Through the dedication and preservation efforts of Angel Delgadillo, a founding member of the Historic Route 66 Association of Arizona, Arizona is home to the longest remaining section of the original Route 66. The association has also played an influential role in encouraging the establishment of Route 66 associations across the other states along the historic highway.

Today, more than 85% of the original road is still accessible to vehicles in Arizona. Sixteen historic Arizona communities exist along the route: Topock, Oatman, Kingman, Hackberry, Valentine, Truxton, Peach Springs, Seligman, Ash Fork, Williams, Flagstaff, Winona, Winslow, Joseph City, Holbrook, and Lupton.

Route 66 runs through the downtown area of Kingman, Arizona. At the Kingman Visitor Center, you'll find the Route 66 Gift Shop and the Route 66 Museum, which covers the chronological transportation history along Route 66 in Arizona featuring life-sized dioramas. Also on display in the Visitor Center is The Guardian Angel of Route 66 Exhibit. This project began with StoryFile, which is an interactive multimedia display visitors can use to ask a virtual Angel questions about Route 66 and his life, and he responds in real time. With the nickname "The Heart of Historic Route 66," Kingman is a must stop.

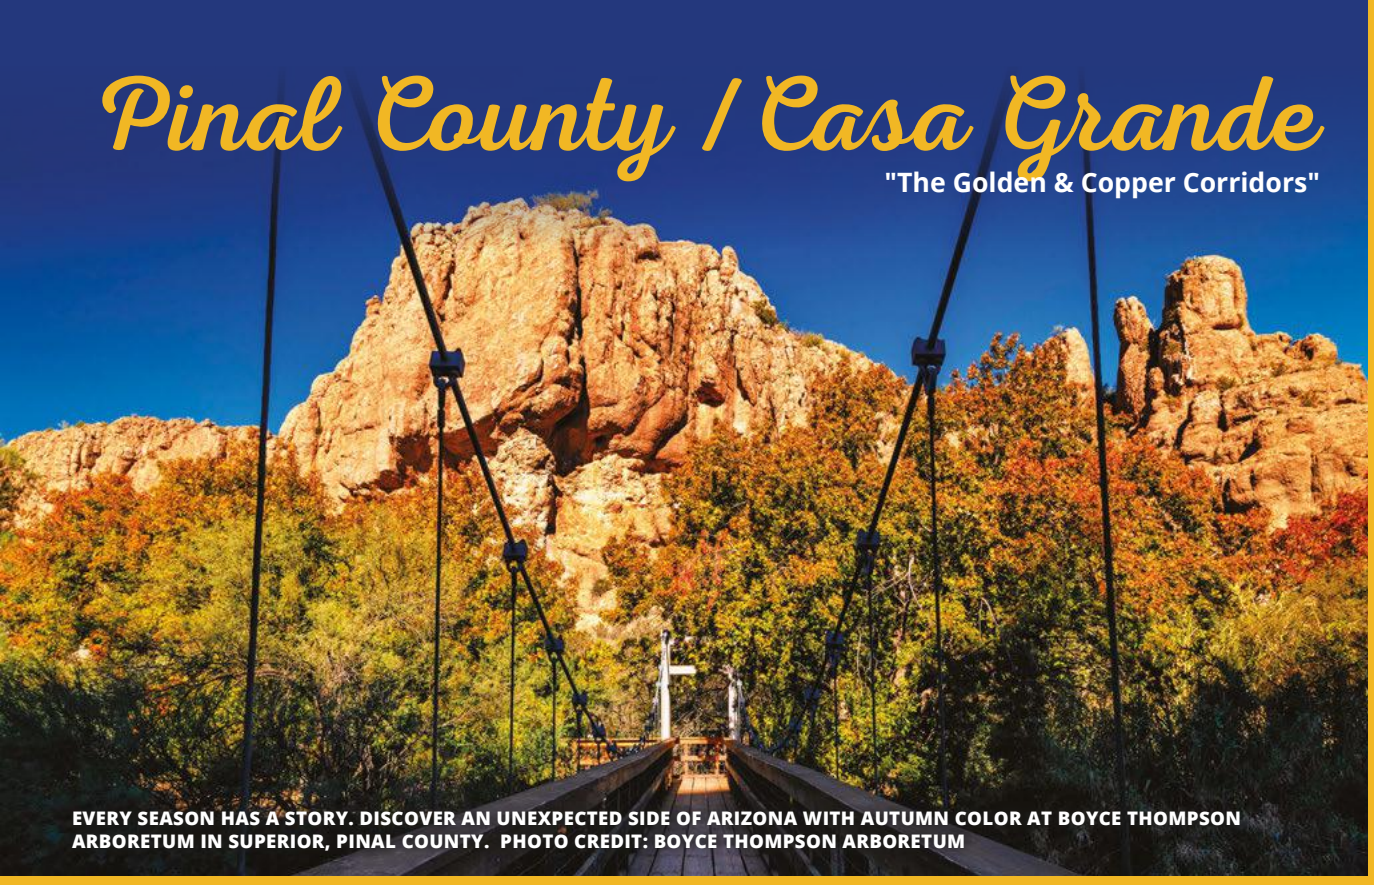

Whether you are taking snapshots of the burros in Oatman, touring the Grand Canyon Caverns, exploring Seligman as the birthplace of Historic Route 66, star gazing in the dark-sky city of Flagstaff, or "Standin' on the Corner in Winslow, Arizona," it is recommended that you allow at least 3 days to experience Route 66 in Arizona.

For the past 100 years, Historic Route 66 has been more than a road. It has been an inspiration to artists, writers, and filmmakers. Route 66 evokes memories of classic family road trips, glowing neon signs, vintage automobiles, cowboys, roadside diners, and a nation changing with the times. Its landscapes inspire a sense of wonder, stretching from the Black Mountains near Oatman and colorful mesas of the Painted Desert to vast open horizons.

The Historic Route 66 Association of Arizona will continue to work tirelessly to preserve, protect, and promote Route 66, ensuring that the Mother Road will be enjoyed by generations for years to come. To learn more about Route 66 in Arizona, visit www.historic66az.com.

Pinal County

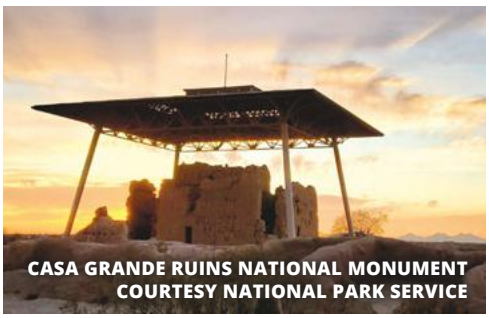

Just far enough away from big city excitement, Casa Grande, between Phoenix and Tucson, is a welcome retreat for RVers seeking a more rural setting. Shopping and services are plentiful here, serving rural communities in this western "Golden Corridor" of Pinal County.

This area is not as well known, as most are in a hurry to travel between Tucson and Phoenix. A more agricultural area, Pinal County's priority is to encourage economic development to enhance its income base and retain workers locally. Western Pinal County has three distinct areas — the Gila River and Ak-Chin tribes near Maricopa, just south of Chandler; Casa Grande, Coolidge and Florence southeast; and Eloy/Arizona City further south off I-10. The Casa Grande Chamber and community chambers offer information on where to explore and enjoy this western portion of the county.

West of Casa Grande near Stanfield is Shamrock Farms, with an excellent farm tour of this Arizona dairy products company. The Dwarf Car Museum is also nearby. Northwest of Coolidge is the Casa Grande Ruins National Monument, a prehistoric site built by the Hohokam. Production is underway at Lucid Motors' manufacturing facility in Casa Grande with its new electric car and trucks rivaling its competitors. Eloy has become the largest sky diving center in the world, with experienced staff, excellent facilities, great weather, and drop zone for skydivers of all skill levels. About 28 miles northeast of Florence is the Boyce Thompson Arboretum. There are plenty of family-owned and operated eateries, excellent antiquing, and a variety of unique finds in local stores. Come explore our hidden gems!

Southern Arizona Attraction Alliance Expands Discovery Through the New Arizona Attractions Savings Passport

For more than two decades, the Southern Arizona Attractions Alliance (SAAA) has championed the region's most iconic experiences — connecting residents, visitors, and the tourism community through a shared commitment to exploration, education, and regional pride. As noted in the document, "the Arizona Attractions Passport still featuring the best of southern Arizona and now some bonus attractions located in Arizona" continues to grow, expanding opportunities for discovery across the state.

The Attractions Passport has become a trusted gateway for both new and returning visitors, offering one-of-a-kind savings that encourage deeper exploration. With world-class museums, cultural centers, outdoor adventures, historic sites, and family favorites, the Passport introduces guests to the full spectrum of attractions that define Southern Arizona. Each offer is crafted to inspire curiosity, extend stays, and help travelers experience more while spending less.

Building on its popularity, SAAA has expanded the program into a full Family of Savings Passports, giving visitors flexible options tailored to their travel plans. The 3-Day Digital Passport is perfect for short getaways, while the 7-Day Digital Passport supports longer itineraries and multi-day adventures. For locals, seasonal visitors, and frequent explorers, the Annual Digital Passport provides year-round value with continuous access to savings at dozens of attractions.

SAAA also proudly celebrates the return of a beloved classic: the original Book of Fun. As the document highlights, it is "packed with attraction information, an easy-to-use map, and great savings coupons," offering a tactile, nostalgic way to explore Southern Arizona — plus bonus offers from select attractions throughout Arizona.

Together, these passports strengthen SAAA's mission: making Arizona's attractions more accessible, more discoverable, and more fun for everyone.

If you're looking for water sports in the desert, you're sure to find some fun along the West Coast of Arizona. The Colorado River runs along this western border, providing life-sustaining water and recreation to all who visit. But there's much more to this area.

Near the northwest corner of the state is Kingman, the "Heart of Historic Route 66." More than 60 of Kingman's buildings are listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

North of I-10, Bullhead City, Lake Havasu City, Parker, and Ehrenberg are havens to all who love water sports. Situated along the banks of the Colorado River, Lake Havasu City is famously the second home of the London Bridge, which spans the river. Parker, with its small town charm, has the only resort and casino on the river in this region.

Off the lake, the West Coast of Arizona is a hub of adventure that doesn't slow down — off-roading, golfing, dining, hiking, biking, and birding. Fun is always in season here.

A thriving hub of activity during the winter season, Quartzsite sits at the crossroads of I-10 and Hwy. 95 to points north and south. Its Sports, Vacation & RV Show is the largest in Arizona, with exhibits, shopping, repairs, upgrades, and worthy workshops.

Rim Country/ White Mountains

AREA STREET DETAIL

Stretching nearly 200 miles across central eastern Arizona, the Mogollon Rim is one of the state's most dramatic landscapes. This towering geological escarpment marks the southwestern edge of the Colorado Plateau, rising as much as 2,000 feet above the country below. Here, cool, high-elevation forests stand in striking contrast to the warmer desert landscapes of central and southern Arizona.

For travelers from the Phoenix area, Highway 87 leads northeast to Payson, a gateway to mountain adventures. From there, Highway 260 winds through dense stands of ponderosa pine, while Forest Road 300 — better known as Rim Road — follows the Rim for 45 miles between highways 260 and 87. Along the way, visitors encounter sweeping overlooks, dramatic limestone cliffs, and hiking trails with expansive views, including sections of the Arizona Trail. Nearby Tonto Natural Bridge and Fossil Creek offer additional opportunities to explore Arizona's remarkable scenery.

East of the Rim, the White Mountains provide another high-country playground near the New Mexico border. Show Low, Pinetop-Lakeside, Greer, Springerville, and Eagar offer dining and cabins and easy access to lakes, trails, and scenic byways. The region is home to vast ponderosa pine forests and abundant opportunities for camping, fishing, hunting, hiking, and horseback riding.

In Pinetop, the Hon-Dah Resort Casino and Conference Center, owned and operated by the White Mountain Apache Tribe, is a luxury destination resort and premier entertainment center in the White Mountains region.

In winter, Sunrise Park Resort becomes Arizona's largest ski area. Summer brings scenic chairlift rides and access to mountain trails. With cool temperatures, colorful autumn foliage and year-round recreation, the Mogollon Rim and White Mountains offer a refreshing escape into Arizona's wild high country.

Yuma
AREA STREET DETAIL

From early days in Arizona's territorial history, Yuma was considered to be the gateway to California. A settlement was built along with a bridge over the Colorado River and history was made.

Today, Yuma is a bustling community that carefully preserves its history and offers a comfortable winter climate for RVers to enjoy. The river makes water sports and fishing convenient, and varied wildlife refuges, parks, and trails offer great ways to get outdoor exercise. For indoor fun, there are nearby casinos like the Cocopah Casino & Resort, shopping, and some historical attractions that demonstrate the role Yuma played in bringing commerce through Arizona.

Wellton, east of Yuma, is a smaller city with its own charms. There are plenty of small-town activities to keep you busy while you enjoy the mild temperatures.

OVER THE BORDER: LOS ALGODONES

The friendly community of Los Algodones is located in Baja California, Mexico at the California-Arizona border. It is about 10 miles west of Yuma. Go west on I-8, take exit 166, and travel south on CA Hwy 186/Andrade Rd. past the Quechan Casino & Resort.

It's best to park on the U.S. side in the secured Quechan Tribe parking lot for a nominal daily flat rate and walk less than one block to the port of entry.

Most of the businesses in town are located less than four blocks from the border. American dollars are the currency of choice. You'll find a wide variety of shopping and services including gift shops, pharmacies, medical and dental health professionals, and open air cafes.

Los Algodones is recognized as a safe destination for tourists who stay in the main business section and are aware of their surroundings. The small community caters to snowbirds and American/Canadian travelers.
