WCHS Breaks Ground on Five-Year Master Facilities Plan

By Bethani Redhorn
Photography by WCHS

WINNEBAGO, Neb. – The future of healthcare for the Winnebago Tribe took a historic step forward on October 20, 2026, as the Winnebago Comprehensive Healthcare System (WCHS) officially broke ground on its Master Facilities Plan. Over 150 community members, employees, tribal leaders, and project partners gathered in the area south of the main campus parking lot to celebrate the beginning of this five-year transformative journey.

The scope of the work is massive, introducing 90,000 square feet of brand-new additions alongside extensive renovations to current spaces. To ensure that patient care and the overall patient experience remain completely unaffected, the construction will roll out strategically across five major phases. "This project scope will not only meet the needs of today but will include building the foundation for expanded services to support a healthier future for you and your family," explained Lynelle Blackhawk, Chair of the WCHS Board of Directors.

The Master Facilities Plan represents a deep investment in preventative care and centralized primary services designed to empower the community. Key highlights of the upcoming facilities include a brand-new dialysis clinic, a fitness center, a drive-up window pharmacy, multiple Food is Medicine initiatives, and a renovated Emergency Department tailored for a more effective trauma workflow. WCHS is bringing these plans to life alongside Altus and Murray Construction.

WCHS CEO David Edwards shared his excitement for the road ahead, noting that the building itself is only the first milestone. "It is just the beginning, the physical building. We have so much more in the works," Edwards said. "In my time at WCHS, I have enjoyed understanding, guiding, and navigating this important work for the relatives we serve. WCHS's future is bright, and I am honored to have been trusted to be a part of it." Native Women Bring Solar Power to Winnebago Fire and EMS

By Gayla Whitewater

WINNEBAGO, Neb. — For two weeks in October, the Winnebago Fire and EMS facility became a place to learn a new trade. Four Winnebago Tribal members, selected from 20 applicants, trained in solar installation as an all-Native women's crew put up 54 panels at the building that serves their community.

The Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska partnered with Tribal Energy Alternatives (TEA) on the project, which was led by the We Build Native Women team. We Build is part of the National Women in Solar program at GRID Alternatives and TEA.

"This opportunity was extremely important. Our young women tribal members got to learn the installation process of solar panels. Whatever trainings they have received is going to take them a long way in the industry," said Autumn Nieman, assistant director of the Winnebago Tribe's Physical Resources Department.

On Oct. 26, six community members came out to lend a hand. They helped lay panels and assisted with wiring, getting a firsthand look at the work that goes into a solar installation. Lunch was provided for the volunteers.

Marie Kills Warrior, an Oglala Lakota technical trainer with TEA, said she hopes the crew's work will help other Native women picture themselves in the industry.

"Projects like this are about more than installing solar panels. They are about creating opportunities, building skills, and showing what is possible when Tribal communities invest in their own people," Kills Warrior said.

The 32.13-kilowatt system is expected to generate 45 megawatt-hours of electricity per year and save the Fire and EMS facility about $4,900 annually. Project estimates put the savings at $167,800 over 25 years, with an estimated reduction of about 746 metric tons in carbon dioxide emissions over that period.

The Tribe and TEA scheduled a ribbon-cutting for Oct. 28 to mark the completion of the installation and recognize the crew. For the four Winnebago trainees, the project gave them experience they can carry into future jobs, along with the chance to put those skills to work in their own community.

the hospital. For those watching, their presence felt like a powerful blessing over the gathering, the upcoming labor, and every single relative who will walk through the doors of WCHS to receive care. It was a reminder of why this work matters; honoring the legacy of our elders, protecting our children, and supporting the healthcare workers who keep our community safe every single day.

REZ CARS NOTICE:

Rez Cars has been in business since November 2003, serving a few thousand customers, mostly Winnebago Tribal members. Providing used vehicles, new tires, rims and repairs on many of your vehicles, it's a viable resource for our community members and tribal programs.

24 years ago, I remember Lance Morgan coming into my office asking me what keeps our people from being able to buy their own homes. I told him, "Bad credit". He proceeded to ask me, "Why do they have bad credit? I responded, "car loans". He said, "EXACTLY!", we need to start a Used Car lot to help our peoples credit so they can buy homes. And that's when the REZ CARS story began.

So here it is 23 years into the REZ CARS story, and we are still here providing this service for the community. Not only with Rez Cars but also Titan Storage, which also provides a service to our community and our neighboring communities. After 23 years of serving, it is time to ask our customers to help us as we continue to strive to provide this service. It has become evident from our Accounts Receivable records that some of our customers have either forgotten the debt with us or have come up against hardships. However, it is a true debt that you have an obligation to clear-up and we are willing to help you work out a payback plan. Please contact Rez Cars (402-878-4210) and let's get something worked out so that we can continue to offer this service to our tribal members and others in need.

With much gratitude,
Dubbz Berridge Sr, Manager

WCHS Chief of Dental Honored with The Caring Kind Award

By: Halle Murray, Marketing Specialist

Winnebago, NE – Winnebago Comprehensive Healthcare System (WCHS) is proud to announce that Chief Dental Officer, Rex Monif, has been named a recipient of The Caring Kind Award, recognizing his dedication to patient care, compassionate leadership, and commitment to serving the Winnebago community and surrounding areas.

Monif has demonstrated a passion for improving the health and well-being of those he serves. His dedication extends beyond the Dental Clinic, where he provides quality patient care and fosters a supportive environment for staff. Through his leadership, community involvement, and military service, Monif continues to make a difference in others' lives.

Mona Zuffante, Chief of Public Health at WCHS, who nominated Rex for the award, shared:

"Rex Monif embodies what it means to lead with compassion, service, and dedication. He consistently goes above and beyond, not only as a leader in our Dental Clinic, but also through his service in the military and his unwavering commitment to our community.

Whether serving patients, mentoring colleagues, or strengthening our community, Rex leads with kindness, humility, and a genuine desire to improve others' lives. He truly exemplifies the spirit of The Caring Kind Award."

Monif's commitment to the community is especially evident through the traditions he has helped facilitate and build: WCHS's Angel Tree and Easter Egg Hunt. Providing opportunities for our relatives to come together, these events have become cherished traditions, welcoming more than 500 community members each year.

The Caring Kind Award recognizes individuals who demonstrate exceptional compassion, kindness, and dedication to others. Monif's contributions reflect these qualities and WCHS's ongoing mission to create and sustain a healthy community.

WCHS congratulates Rex Monif on this well-deserved recognition and thanks him for his continued dedication to improving the lives of patients and community members.

HAKEWE

Question of the Issue:

November is Native American Heritage Month. Other than family, what Indigenous person inspires you and why? Could be current or from long ago.

Garan Coons
Communications Officer

Sitting Bull - "If we must die, we die defending our rights." That's pretty inspiring!

Bethani Redhorn
Winnebago Indian News Editor

An Indigenous person who inspires me is my good friend Sandy Macky Scott II, aka DJ Mack Attack. Watching his growth over the years has been amazing and I am so proud of the man he is today. We met during my sophomore year at WPS, and the rest is history. Through his educational journey, he has accomplished so much. He continues to break down barriers to achieve his goals in the mental health field, all the while navigating whatever life brings. I am grateful for his friendship; he always encourages me to continue my own educational journey.

Kevin Ebert
Multi-Media Coordinator

The Native Americans who have influenced me the most are my fellow veterans. I always admired my Native friends and the veterans who served. Seeing my older brothers step up to protect this country made me want to follow in their footsteps.

Their example inspired me to join the military. Today, I'm a proud Gulf War combat veteran, and I'll always be grateful to those who inspired me to serve.

Tyler Snake
W.I.N. Office Manager

Other than family is hard because the two who inspire me are my Caca's (Grandma's) Cheryl Painter and Lorelei DeCora. They were apart of the American Indian Movement from as young as 15. They fought against systematic poverty, cultural erasure, discrimination, and police brutality. Out of all the stories I have listened to, the greatest one to me, is that my Caca Cheryl was pregnant with my Daga Joseph Painter during a stand-off. Since then, they have contributed so much to WTN!

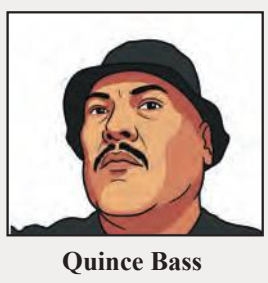

Christina Parker
Web Master

I don't have a specific Indigenous person that inspires me. Just being an Indigenous peoples present today is an inspiration. I think about all the hardships and traumatic difficulties our Indigenous ancestors had to endure that we could still be here today. I say that alone is inspiring.

Gayla Whitewater
Comm. Office Manager

Ho-Chunk artist and educator Angel DeCora inspires me. She was a Ho-Chunk woman ahead of her time. She was taken from her family and sent to boarding school, and she endured the loss of relatives she dearly loved. Through all of that, she built an extraordinary life for herself. She took up space, honed her gifts, and used her art and teaching to represent our people, to tell her stories, and inspire others across tribal nations. When I think about the time she lived in, I'm even more in awe of her. As a teacher at Carlisle, she used her gifts to encourage Native children to see the value in their own artistic traditions and to develop their talents. One of my favorite quotes from her is, "My people are a race of designers. I look for the day when the indian shall make beautiful things for all the world." When I think about what it means to be a Ho-Chunk woman, I think of how fully she was herself, how confidently she shared her gifts, and how she helped others see the value in theirs. She inspires me to do the same. I definitely recommend reading Fire Light: The Life of Angel DeCora, Winnebago Artist by Linda M. Waggoner to learn more about Angel's life!

Quince Bass
Radio Station Broadcast Manager

As a retired coach I always talked about Jim Thorpe to my athletes. And this is why…

Jim Thorpe's legendary versatility, resilience, and athletic dominance continue to serve as a foundational pillar of inspiration for this generation's Native coaches. Facing barriers and prejudice throughout his life, Thorpe responded not with words, but through unmatched excellence on the gridiron, the track, and the diamond—proving that Indigenous athletes and leaders belong on every major stage. For modern Native coaches guiding young athletes today, Thorpe represents the ultimate standard of grit and adaptability, reminding them that breaking through ceilings is part of a proud generational tradition. My 2nd person I try to model from is Coach Kelvin Sampson. And this is why… The head coach of the University of Houston Cougars men's basketball team is a proud member of the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina. As one of the most prominent and successful Indigenous head coaches in the history of collegiate basketball, Sampson has consistently used his platform to uplift Indigenous communities and champion representation at the highest levels of the NCAA.

So in short…any of our Ho-Chunk people can become anything they want to become. They just have to find the passion and plow your way through anything in your way

Evening of Indigenous Culture Raises More Than $82,000 For Winnebago Food Initiatives

By Gayla Whitewater
Photography by WCHS

SIOUX CITY, Iowa – As guests gathered for an Indigenous-inspired dinner at the annual Evening of Indigenous Culture, Chef Anthony Warrior spoke about the importance of rebuilding relationships with traditional foods. It was a message that was carried through the Oct. 30 fundraiser, where the Winnebago Health Foundation raised more than $82,000 to help Winnebago families access nutritious, culturally rooted foods closer to home.

Warrior prepared the meal for guests from Winnebago and across Siouxland who gathered at Country Celebrations. The evening also featured an auction of items by Native makers and a performance by the Many Moccasins Dance Troupe, followed by a round dance, bringing Ho-Chunk culture and community health together in one gathering.

"Tonight is about coming together to celebrate our culture and to raise awareness and funds for our 'Food is Medicine' initiatives," said Willy Bass, a board member of both the Winnebago Health Foundation and Winnebago Comprehensive Healthcare System (WCHS).

The proceeds will help support a Fresh Food Market, a Healthy Choice Café and a Teaching Kitchen in Winnebago. Part of the WCHS Master Facilities Plan, the three spaces are intended to give families more places to find nutritious food and opportunities to learn how to prepare it at home. WCHS Master Facilities Plan

For keynote speaker and foundation board member Rona Stealer, that work is part of a larger effort to strengthen food sovereignty in Winnebago. "This event invited guests to support our efforts to do the right thing, the effective thing, the thing that no insurance company will pay for," Stealer said. "Together with the support of other food sovereignty efforts, we can eliminate the food desert in Winnebago."

The Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska and WCHS established the Winnebago Health Foundation in 2023. An independent 501(c)(3) nonprofit, the foundation raises funds and builds partnerships to strengthen health programs and expand access to care in Winnebago and the Native communities WCHS serves. At the heart of that work is the Ho-Chunk value of Hoikikara ra, or "taking care of one another."

Heart, Hustle, and Head Held High: Lady Indians Wrap Up Volleyball Season in Five-Set Sub-District Thriller

By Big Voice Sports Team

WINNEBAGO — The gym lights may have dimmed on the 2026 volleyball season, but the pride, grit, and heart demonstrated by the Winnebago Lady Indians will echo in the halls of Winnebago High School for months to come.

Closing out their campaign on the grand stage of the sub-districts on Monday, October 26, 2026, the Lady Indians went down swinging in an absolute classic against Boyd County. In a match that tested every ounce of their endurance, Winnebago battled fiercely before ultimately falling in a heart-wrenching, down-to-the-wire five-set battle (2-3).

A Sub-District Battle to Remember: Facing off against a tough Boyd County squad, the Lady Indians showed the relentless spirit that has defined their character all season long. Trading blows set for set, Winnebago matched their opponents' intensity, showcasing brilliant defensive digs, powerful spikes, and the kind of floor-burn hustle that leaves fans on the edge of their seats. Though the final set didn't fall in their favor, the squad proved they belonged in the thick of postseason play, refusing to back down and fighting until the very final whistle.

Reflecting on a Season of Growth: The sub-district thriller was a fitting microcosm of Winnebago's 2026 journey—one marked by resilience, teamwork, and refusal to quit. Earlier in October, the team notably shook off a mid-season slump with back-to-back clutch victories over conference rivals Randolph (2-1) and Walthill (2-1), overcoming first-set jitters to storm back and capture momentum.

Throughout the fall, leaders across the court stepped up to guide the younger roster. Junior standout Miliani Bass anchored the offense with stellar kills and consistent hitting, while senior R. Kearnes-Walker fortified the net with crucial blocks. In the back row, senior Jolon Blackbird patrolled the floor with tenacious defense, averaging nearly four digs per set, and sophomore Cassidy Bass provided a massive spark from the service line with a team-leading 36 aces and all out hustle being the lone setter.

Final Thoughts: Looking Ahead: While the final loss to Boyd County stings, the true measure of this team goes far beyond wins and losses. This group of Lady Indians learned how to weather storms, support one another through an eight-game skid, and turn things around with sheer unity and community pride.

As the seniors hang up their jerseys and pass the torch, they leave behind a culture of hard work and sisterhood that will inspire the next wave of Winnebago girl athletes. To the coaches, the players, and the loyal 'Bago fans who traveled and packed the bleachers all season long: thank you for a memorable ride.

Thank you to the Lady Indians' 1st year Head Coach Jaiden Payer and her coaching staff. You all deserve a round of applause from each of us diehard Winnebago (Lady) Indians FANS. We all bleed blue and hope each of our student athletes remember that Student comes first in Student/Athlete, so finish the year STRONG in the classroom.

The off season starts now, but the foundation has been set. Rest up, Lady Indians—we'll be seeing you on the court again soon!

Bound for Glory: Winnebago Indians Charge Into Championship Weekend in Vermillion!

By BIG VOICE SPORTS TEAM

WINNEBAGO — Pack the Rez Cars, and the Pow Wow Vans…pull out the Bago Blue and White gear and get ready to make some noise! The Mighty Indians of Winnebago varsity football team is officially championship bound.

Following a grueling, pulse-pounding stretch of postseason football over the last couple of weeks, the Indians have punched their ticket to the ultimate stage. This coming Friday, November 6, 2026, Winnebago will take the field in Vermillion, South Dakota, ready to battle for the championship trophy.

The Road to Vermillion: Highlights from the Stretch Run: Getting to a championship game doesn't happen by accident. It is forged through blood, sweat, late-night film sessions, and an unbreakable team bond. The last couple of weeks of the season saw the Indians tested in every possible way—and every single time, they answered the call with championship-caliber execution.

* Defensive Dominance: In the trenches, the Winnebago defense has been nothing short of a brick wall over the past fortnight. Crucial goal-line stands, punishing tackles for loss, and timely forced turnovers have completely suffocated opposing offenses when the stakes were highest. The Perez Bros, Chris & Antonio…Raiden Decora, EJ LaTray, Kendrick Mallory are among the names of this said BRICK WALL of Defense. Also leading in tackles, deflections and interceptions, Mr. Evans Littlegeorge making his name heard around Indian country on this side of the ball.

* Offensive Fireworks: Powered by explosive plays on the ground by RB1 Sirvel Rave, QB1 Raiden Decora and WR/RB Rahkim Free-Bass, and pinpoint execution through the air, the Indians' offense has clicked into unstoppable gear. Whether orchestrating long, clock-eating drives to wear down opponents or breaking open the game with lightning-fast deep strike to Free-Bass, the playbook has come alive just when it mattered most.

* Unshakeable Resilience: Postseason football always brings adversity—shifting momentum, tough penalties, and hard-hitting quarters. Over the last two weeks, this squad proved they possess true "Bago grit," bouncing back immediately from setbacks and executing under immense pressure.

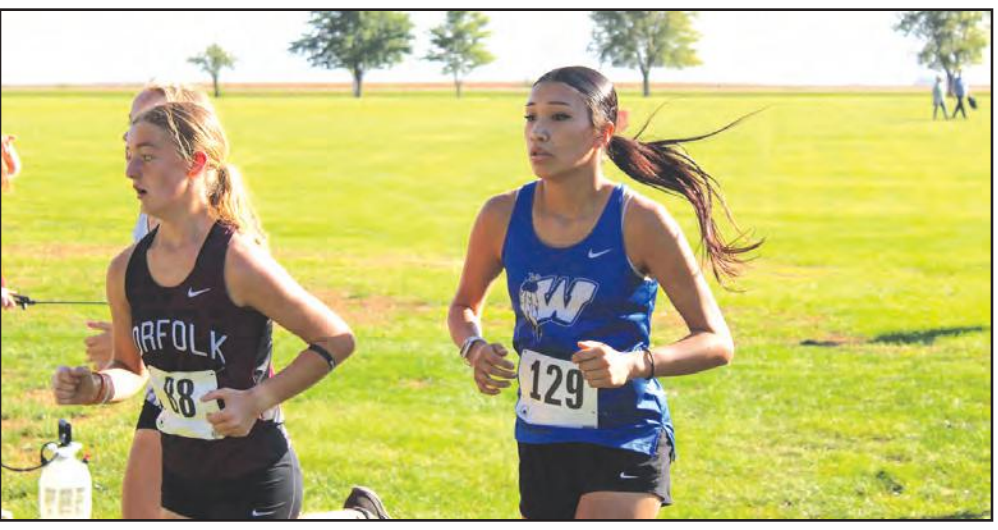

All Eyes on South Dakota: Now, the final chapter of an unforgettable run to a back to back championship awaits just across the state line in Vermillion. The team's hard work, early morning conditioning, and the roar of a devoted community cheering them on from the sidelines and on the Big Voice Airwaves and social medias have all culminated in this single weekend of opportunity.

As the Indians step onto the field this Friday, November 6th, against their rivals Todd County…they carry not just the game plan, but the pride, history, and spirit of the entire Winnebago Tribe and all Big Voice Nation.

Let's show up in Packs, travel strong, and fill the Dakota Domes stands with Winnebago Pride! Safe travels to the team, parents and fans—let's keep that championship title where it belongs, in Winnebago! GO BIG BLUE!!!!!!
