Distant horizon . . .
Mountains, palm trees, birds in flight . . .
Sunset silhouettes.

—Hazel Hanna Blair

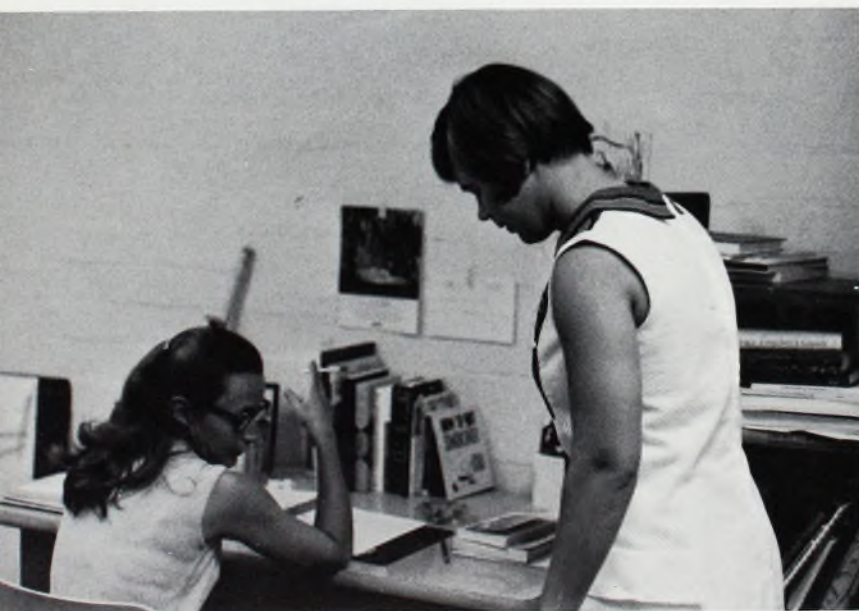

For Haller the Horrible, the quizzes, the advice on colleges, a shoulder to cry on, the giggles and weary looks in history classes, the tape-recorded lecture, the showers in girls' P.E. and "Mrs. English, I can't take a shower today . . .," for the smile to depend on, English the Excruciating—not to mention those dearly-beloved-by-one-and-by-all English the Excruciating Events—for the understanding and sympathy and encouragement, for being you . . .

We, the class of 1970, wish to thank you, Mrs. Christine English, in our small way by giving to you this yearbook.

MEMORANDUM TO: The Staff of the 1970 Phoenician

SUBJECT: Your Unique Challenge

FROM: John I. Yellott, Headmaster

In the original Latin, memorandum means something which must be remembered, and this communication mentions matters which you should bear in mind as you go about the myriad tasks involved in the production of a yearbook.

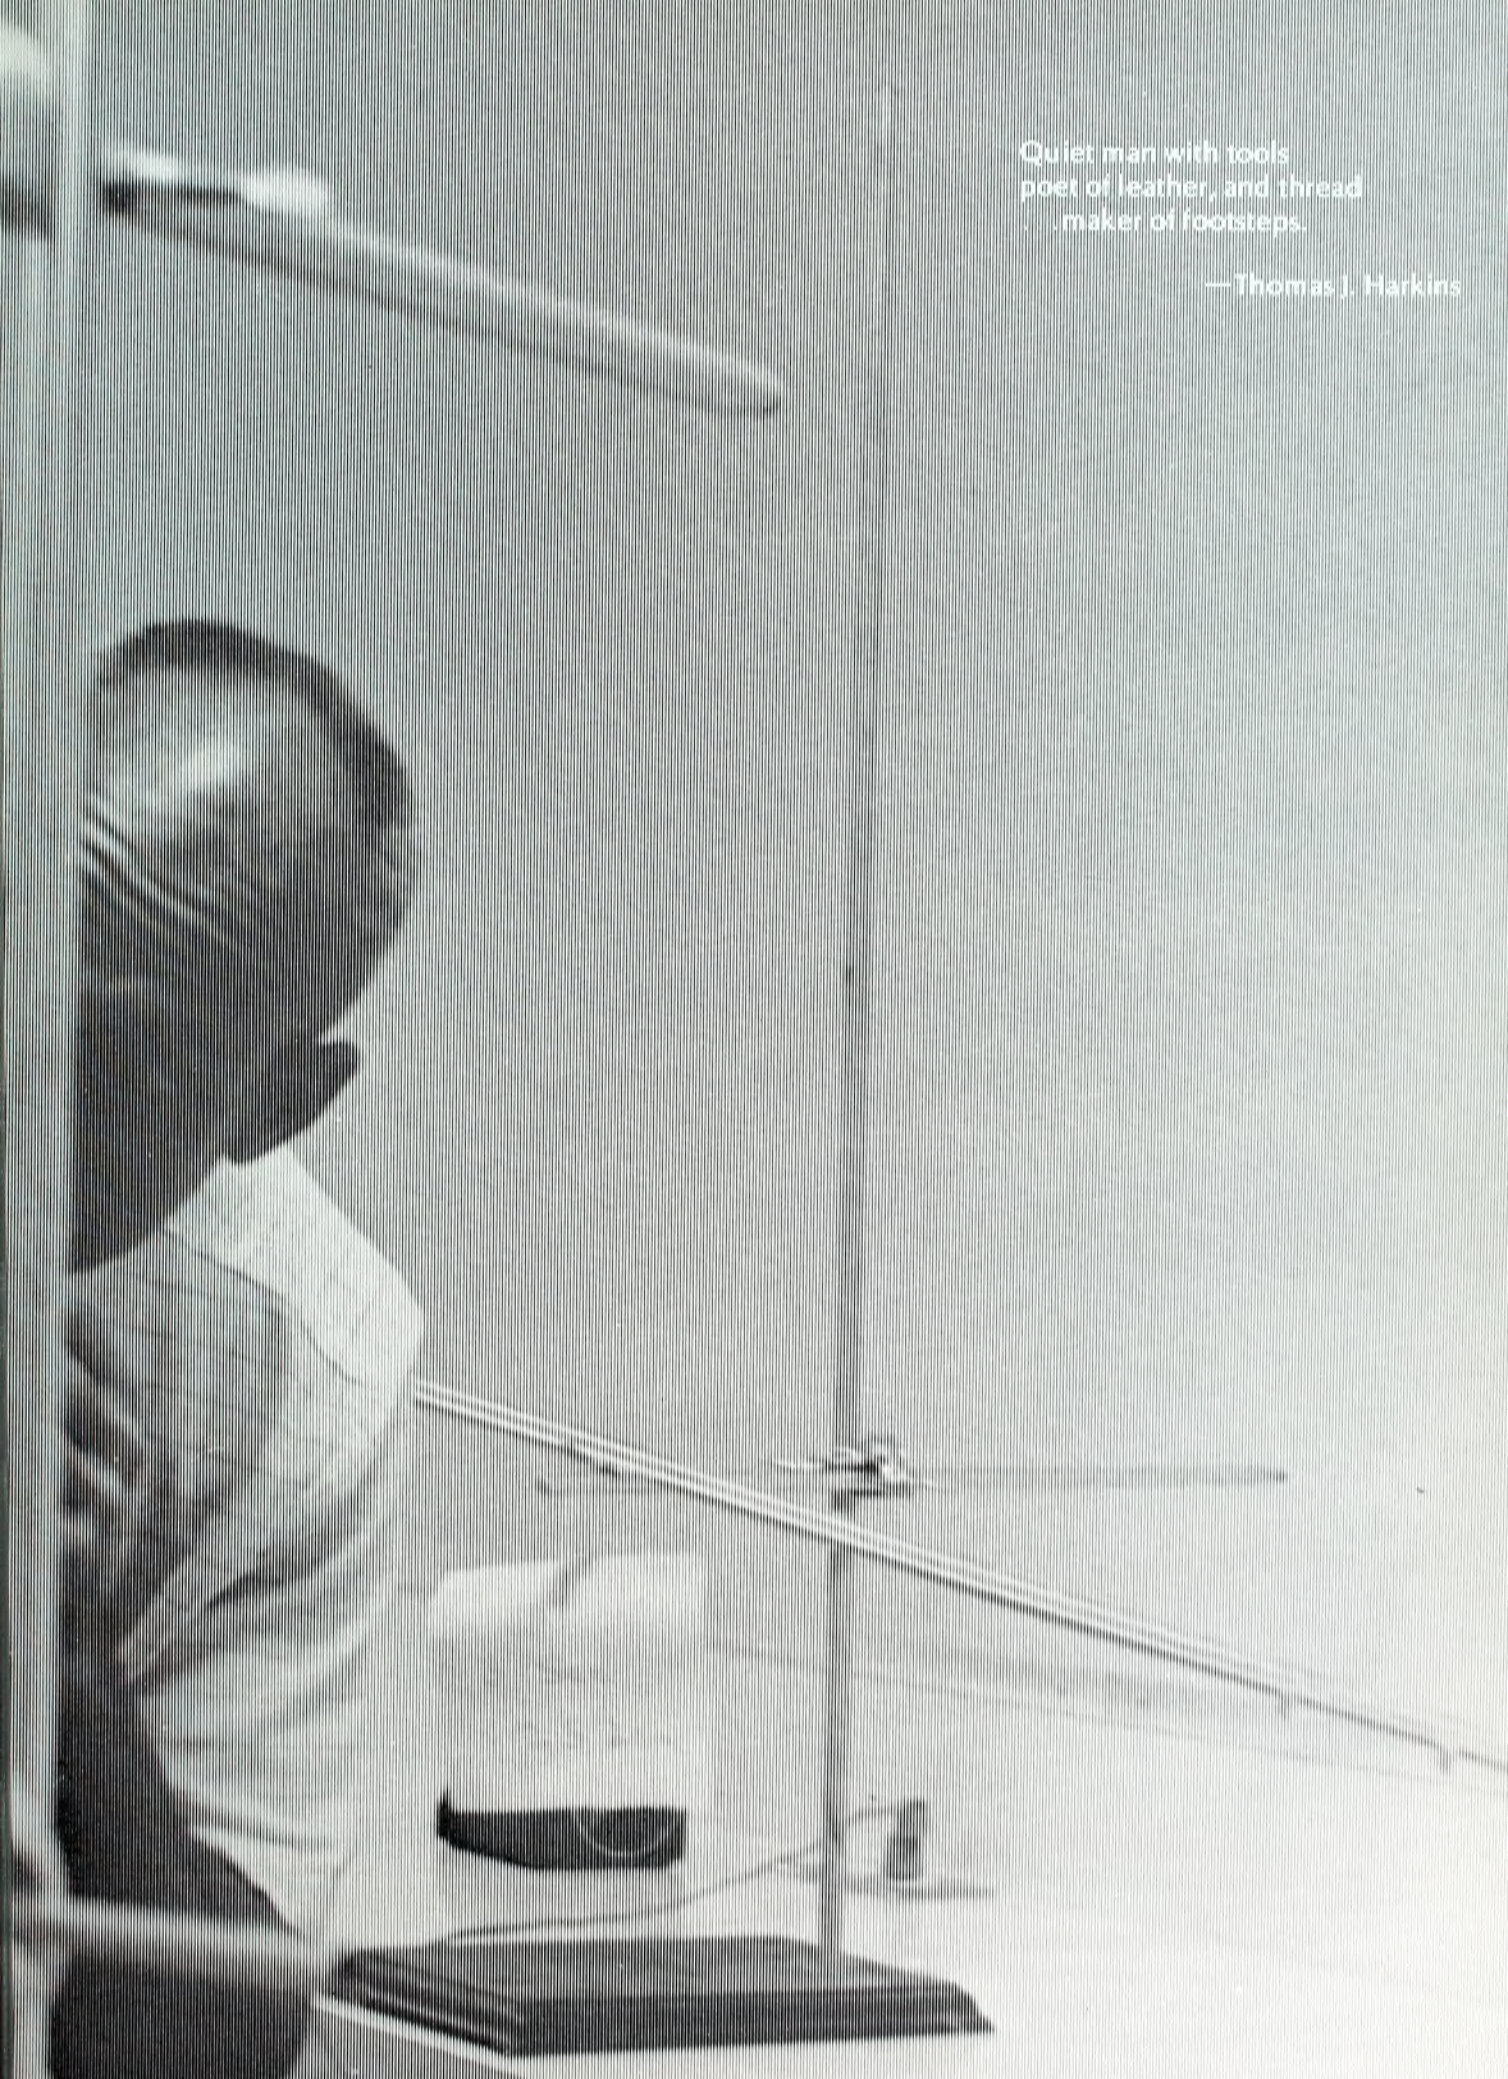

1. Whatever appears in print automatically acquires far greater importance than its subject matter might justify if it were left in manuscript. The fact that a sentence has been set in type and, by one process or another, printed on a previously blank page, gives far greater weight to your words than you may realize when you write them. Hence, give careful thought to what you put into your one edition of the Phoenician. Someone will read it a century from today!
2. Printed words take on permanency as well as authority, so, after you have chosen them with care, spell them correctly. The typographer's work must be checked carefully, for there are gremlins (look them up in your F. and W.!) lurking in the linotype machine, waiting for a chance to turn your prose or poetry into "etoain shrdlu" or its equivalent. Proofread your copy with care and then do it again when the galleys arrive!
3. Someone of note is reported to have said to a newspaper reporter: "I care not what you write about me, but spell my name correctly." In the Phoenician, your readers will care what you write about them, and they will be especially sensitive about misspelled names and incorrect captions under their photographs. Make sure that the names and faces agree, particularly on those crowded pages where the pictures of the little people appear, and when they are grown to man's and woman's estate, they will rise up and call you blessed.
4. Future generations of PCDS people - students, parents and faculty - will form their opinion of the Class of 1970 from this edition of the Phoenician, because it is yours, so labor diligently with taste, humor and imagination in its creation. Your predecessors have set a high standard in the first five Phoenicians, so with your worthy triumvirate in the lead, fall to work and let the bird fly to new heights this year!

Signed,
John I. Yellott

It's a bird... it's a plane...
no, it's a little kid!

Their money or my life?

Fie, fie, false knave!

I think he's kind of cute, don't you?

Ready—aim

What did you call me?

Who me,
Space cat?

Meet you at J in the B in ten minutes.

It's Friday!

You say you're from Chicago?!

Take the tack out.

Just how many applications do you want done?
Calling all cars...

Shake well and take every three hours.

My labor is past—
A miracle has been wrought—
I repose in peace.

—Hazel Hanna Blair

Time says hush.

By the gong of time you live.

Listen and hear time saying you were silent long before you came to life and you will again be silent long after you leave it, why not be a little silent now?

Hush yourself, noisy little man.

Time hushes all.

The gong of time rang for you to come out of a hush and you were born.

The gong of time will ring for you to go back to the same hush you came from.

Winners and losers, the weak and the strong, those who say little and try to say it well, and those who babble and prattle their lives away,

Time hushes all.

There is only one horse on the earth and his name is All Horses.

There is only one bird in the air and his name is All Wings.

There is only one fish in the sea and his name is All Fins.

There is only one woman in the world and her name is All Women.

There is only one child in the world and the child's name is All Children.

There is only one Maker in the world and His children cover the earth and they are named All God's Children.

THE WORD BEFORE GOOD-BYE

What is the springtime after all?
Only the other side of fall.
Oh, if I could have I'd have made you a sunny sky.
Hello's the word before good-bye.
Sometimes it rains, sometimes it shines
yet the things I want are seldom mine.

How much of summer can we hold before we turn and find we're old?
The things our mirrors tell us are all lies
Hello's the word before good-bye.
Sometimes it's dark, sometimes it's fair yet when I go home at night nobody's there.

Perhaps the next wind that blows in will bring you back to me again.
Till then remembering just makes me want to cry.
Hello's the word before good-bye.
Sometimes you lose, sometimes you win yet I can't forget what might have been.

What do you mean bleached?

i am forever walking upon these shores, betwixt the sand and the foam.
the high tide will erase my foot-prints,
and the wind will blow away the foam.
but the sea and the shore will remain forever.

if your heart is a volcano how shall you expect flowers to bloom in your hands?

trees are poems that the earth writes upon the sky. we fell down and turn them into paper that we may record our emptiness.

lovers embrace that which is between them rather than each other.

when a man's hand touches the hand of a woman they both touch the heart of eternity

HERE AM I

As the universe spins
To a desolate end
In the Doldrums of Destiny's Sea
So should I accept being As reasonless as
The firmament's futility
... but here am I holding your hand

As often I've thirsted
So often I've tasted
My fill of love's honey and wine
But in desperate drinking
The savor of loving is lost
And so never was mine
... but here an I holding your cup
In a garmentless promise
Of nothing we stand
With only the raiment of time
It is ours to endure
Or endear and end up Embracing whatever we find
... and here am I holding your mind.

DEATH

You will know me by my touch
It is the last.

PLAN

My cousin Max is being married on a quiz show
He is getting a Westinghouse refrigerator a Singer sewing machine
a set of furniture from Sears and Roebuck an ant farm
a General Electric toaster and a girl.

It is not enough.
He expects babies and happiness good times and money and a government that wars on war.

My cousin Max expects too much.

Happiness

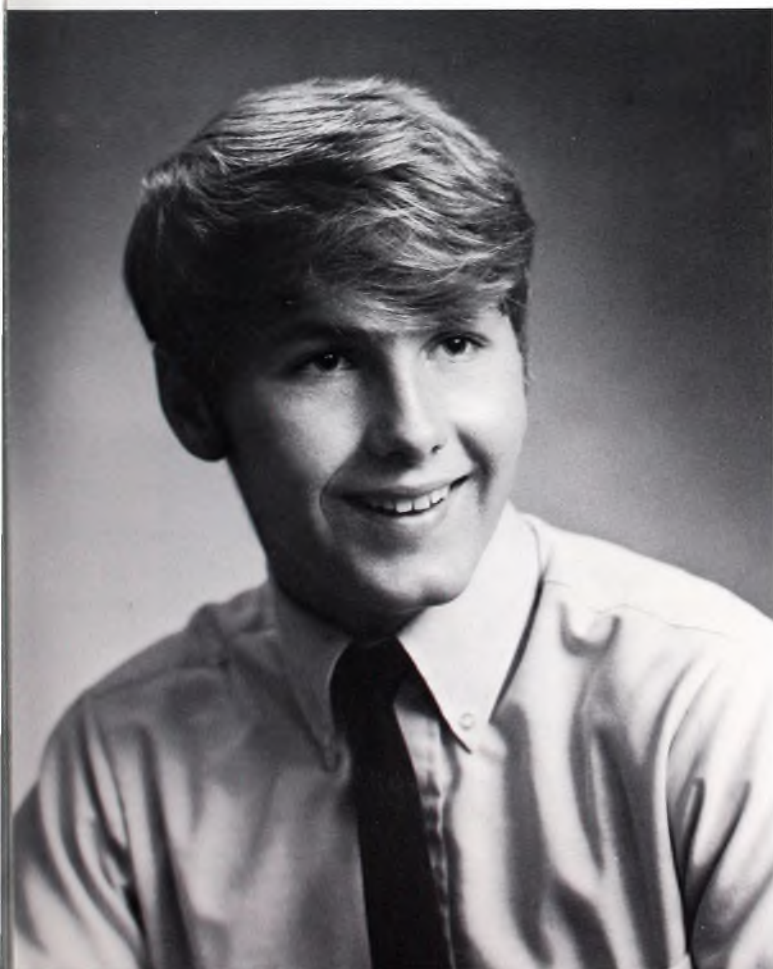

I asked professors who teach the meaning of life to tell me what is happiness.
And I went to famous executives who boss the work of thousands of men.
They all shook their heads and gave me a smile as though I was trying to fool with them.
And then one Sunday afternoon I wandered out along the Desplaines River.
And I saw a crowd of Hungarians under the trees with their women and children and a keg of beer and an accordion.

Dear P.C.D.S.,

Many thanks for letting me come to spend a whole year in Phoenix. I can certainly say that I really love this place. The nature is beautiful, the people are nice to me, and a nice family have I got to stay with during these months. Even if the school is harder than I supposed it to be, it will give me an experience I never would have a chance to get back later in my life. You pupils of P.C.D.S. should be proud of belonging to a school like this. Not all schools have teachers who show so much interests in their pupils as P.C.D.S. None of us are grown up yet, even if we think so. We are not qualified to take the responsibilities of what we do. Therefore it is good to have teachers who are able to lead us up to the age where we understand what education means for our future. Uusually, the young people do not discover this before it is too late. Think about it, and do not let bad ideas influence you!

I will give a special thanks to those who have showed and show me and my Swedish friend Bjorn Larsson attention. Bjorn and I really enjoyed the river trip right after school started, even if our "stumps" became sore. It was really an experience.

Many thanks for everything, and I hope that we will have a lot of fun together the rest of the school year.

What has happened to time?
It doesn't come around anymore.
The very last time I saw

Isn't life beautiful
Isn't life gay
Isn't life the perfect thing
To pass the time away.

There are places I'll remember
All my life though some have changed.
Some forever not for better
Some have gone and some remain.
All these places had their moments
With lovers and friends I still recall.
Some are dead and some are living,
In my life I've loved them all.

I learn from raindrops on a window, each one rhythmic in the sun.

A bundle of roses and a spirit backstage, knowing an experience, songs of other men's raindrops, sitting in a field in an aftermath.

Albatross and the black forest, circles of inner tubes,
Betsy's fort, laughter from Snow-bowl forests, Jennifer's wall, letters in my own fumbling, bumbling way, the Knight of Swords' odyssey.

So all my songs are raindrops-- reflections reaching for Suzanne's hand, searching for that unfound door.

"Blackbird singing in the dead of night
Take these sunken eyes and learn to see.
All your life

You were only waiting for this moment to be free."

Lennon-McCartney

"A little too abstract, a little too wise,
It is time for us to kiss the earth again,
It is time to let the leaves rain from the skies."

Dear Fox, old friend, thus we have come to the end of the road that we were to go together. My tale is finished—and so farewell.

But before I go, I have just one more thing to tell you:

Something has spoken to me in the night, burning the taper of the waning year; something has spoken in the night, and told me I shall die, I know not where. Saying:

"To lose the earth you know, for greater knowing; to lose the life you have, for greater life; to leave the friends you loved, for greater loving; to find a land more kind than home, more large than earth—

"—Whereon the pillars of this earth are founded, toward which the conscience of the world is tending—a wind is rising, and the rivers flow."

For the seven years I have spent in P.C.D.S. I have little to say. Wow! What a neat place! was what I thought back in the sixth grade, but I soon found it was practically like any other place. Middle School was just one place for industrious study and offered little in possibilities.

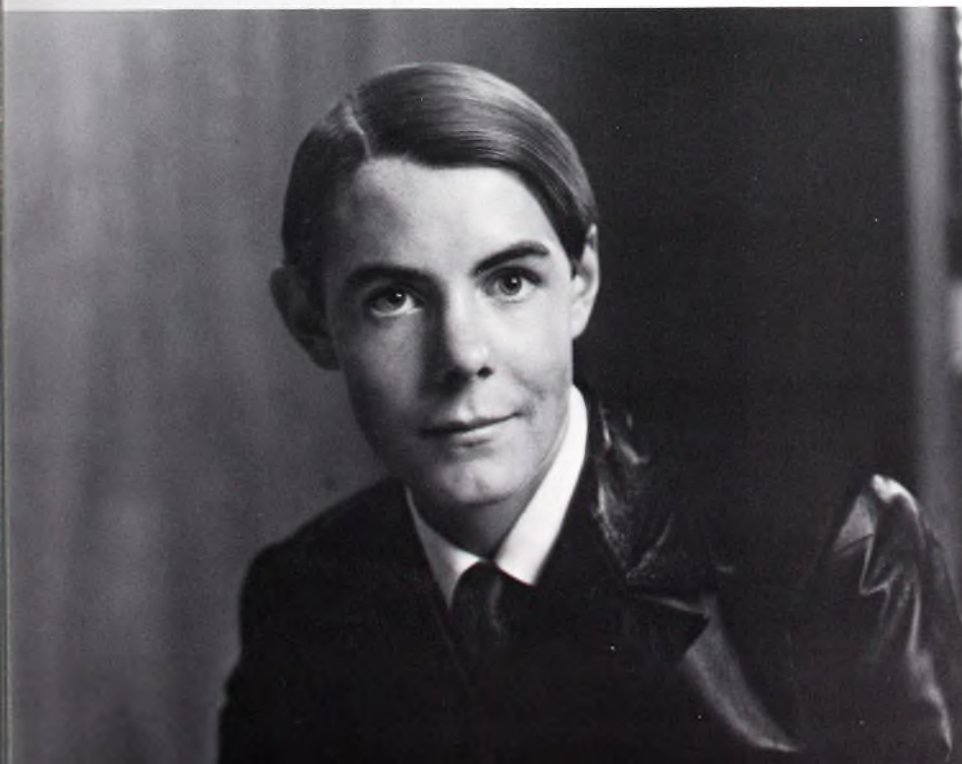

Upper School came and I felt that a new spark had come into life, but I was soon disillusioned by falling grades and endless review. But in some areas I really excelled except for one or two drops and new methods of classwork really picked my interest. I discovered new horizons in several places but my age-old way of math still stuck with me.

Now I feel that despite all my problems, my life at P.C.D.S. has been worthwhile and educational and great possibilities might come out of all those underclassmen who are succeeding my years here.

Re-enacting old football plays?

Come now and now my love and leave your dying desert to the rain
Give up your treasured wounds
Let go the tempting memory
or the pain
Give up the vows you've taken
and you will live
and you will learn to fly again
and you will fly

And you will live, my love and see the stars regain your starless nights
And you will find your sun and know the magic meaning of its light
all souls will be yours to cherish rising, falling in their earthly flight
and you will fly

But sir, I always study like this.

Give up your treasured wounds
Let go the tempting memory
of the pain
Give up the vows you've taken
and you will live
and you will learn to fly again
and you will fly.

Oh no, it's the Birdman!

"In the conservatism of youth
When new ideas are really old
And faith is blind
The seed is there
Absorbing moisture
Waiting to break the case
Send out its shoots
Down and up
To flourish
And make Man as preordained."

from The Age of Man
by David O. Raymond

"Sleep that knits up the ravelled sleeve of care..."

"I have a dream that my four children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character."

--Martin Luther King, Jr. (1963)

Something we were withholding made us weak
Until we found it was ourselves
We were withholding from our land of living,
And forthwith found salvation in surrender.
Such as we were we gave ourselves outright . . .

--Robert Frost

"My heart to-day smiles at its past night of tears like a wet tree glistening in the sun after the rain is over."

"Life has become richer by the love that has been lost."

Philip Slade Payne

Society's Child

See the clown,
everyone laughs when he is around.
See the fool,
no one cares about him.
For he is a different world,
without the bonds of hate.
See the one on the ground,
no one cares about his fate.
For he is the fool,
different, new, and in love.
In love with death,
for in it only peace it can bring.
He is lying there reeking with odor,
no one mourns for him.
There are no tears or weeping,
for no one cares.
"When we die we will not smell,
for that is only for the unlucky."
Pssst!
You will reek with odor when you die;
and I hope to God, no one will cry!

Philip Slade Payne

Friday second period, revisited

And I was so much older then.

I don't seem to have my material....Mr. Raymond, the Coke machine needs changeThat guy's really an idiot, he gave me an A....But Mr. Yellott, it's so hard to stay here during lunch....I'll have it tomorrow, Mr. Reid....Don't talk to me about the Bible, I already know it all....I'm sorry, we just can't do it for less than $100; it's against our principles.

"My road it might be rocky,
and stones may cut my face,
but some folks ain't got no road at all,
they just gotta stay in the same ole place,
so I guess I'm doing fine."

Distant days, long hours, and math.
Some cast aside littering the road,
but a lot going along for the ride.
Now it is early. Is the ocean fog still in the streets? Running fast and loud, low in the saddle, no one smiles.

Whitman's free soul, comarado, also of open road. Even for the gimp, clean cut, Hambone, Fat Freddy, buzzard, Mouldy Marvin, and Magoo.
A flash of white lightning, a burst of dirty thunder.

Good bye to the present impasse.

Garooooovy

"...love is not to look at one another but to look together in the same direction," André Maurois

Not yet out of the driveway—and which way to go? Take yesterday and see sights that glow in eerie, unfamiliar colors...hear sounds of old songs sung now in discord. Take tomorrow and head toward bewildering oceans where waves of laughter spray tears on all the restless children.

Now choosing for a moment, I remember: the silence of rainy days and waiting for nothing; sounds of children in the playground carefree sound that makes us laugh and sing with them; the lush green forest growing from empty glass bottles...the sun in the darkness filling the quiet times; the little blond angel of springtime...the strawberry-blond devil of summer...images of childhood; black rooms, closed doors, wide green lawns that need to be cut; sitting in a tower feeling the sunset outside...encased in a warm shell again and watching the snow fall.

"Thou hast tamed the curs'd shrew...."

Penelope Carol Roeder

The faces, the names, the smiles, each different and never to be seen again will always be remembered. Looking ahead, I see that the road that I have travelled goes into Tomorrow where the pounding waves and silver mist await us all.

And a man said, Speak to us of Self-Knowledge.

And he answered, saying:

Your hearts know in silence the secrets of the days and the nights.

But your ears thirst for the sound of your heart's knowledge.

You would know in words that which you have always known in thought.

You would touch with your fingers the naked body of your dreams.

And it is well you should.

The hidden well-spring of your soul must needs rise and run murmuring to the sea;

And the treasure of your infinite depths would be revealed to your eyes.

But let there be no scales to weigh your unknown treasure;

And seek not the depths of your knowledge with staff or sounding line.

For self is a sea boundless and measureless.

Say not, "I have found the truth," but rather, "I have found a truth."

Say not, "I have found the path of the soul." Say rather, "I have met the soul walking upon my path."

For the soul walks upon all paths.

The soul walks not upon a line, neither does it grow like a reed.

The soul unfolds itself, like a lotus of countless petals.

The British are coming!

a clinical wind came from the northern spaces and settled in misty orbits over the desert and began to restlessly shift in circles.
 the dizziness of its frigid circle melted in the yellow warmth of Ra,
 and soon even strangers had left, and the cold wind rained down on the cracked mouths of waiting men and women who looked up, and Smiled.
 now the wind
 gently bends the branches of the autumn palms and childish floats over the animals that sleep in the red rocks all winter;
 and laughs when a cold wind comes down from the north.

James Miles Stanzel

AN OUTSTRETCHED HAND

Each of us was made by God
and some of us grew tall.
Others stood out in the wind their branches bent and fell.
Those of us who walk in light must help the ones in darkness up.
For that's what life is all about and love is all there is to life.

Each of us was made by God
beautiful in His mind's eye.
Those of us that turned out sound should look across our shoulders once and help the weak ones to their feet.

It only takes an outstretched hand.
Rod McKuen

We were riding along in the car on a plateau in Colorado, going to Aspen, We saw something ahead on the roadside. It was an Eagle, the symbol of American freedom, feathers ruffled, standing in a dirty patch of snow, hitch-hiking.

Old Baldy strikes again!

We were following a long river into the mountains. Finally we rounded a ridge and could see deeper in—the farther peaks stony and barren, a few alpine trees.

Lee and I stood on a point by a cliff, over a rock walled canyon. Lee said, "Now we have come to where we die." I asked him, what's that up there, then—meaning the further mountains.

"That's the world after death." I thought it looked just like the land we'd been traveling and couldn't see why we should have to die. Lee grabbed me and pulled me over the cliff—both of us falling. I hit and I was dead. I saw my body for a while, then it was gone. Lee was there too. We were at the bottom of the gorge. We started drifting up the canyon, "This is the way to the back country."
