Sun Siyam Iru Fushi

A spacious sanctuary for the whole family

Spread across 52 acres of tropical greenery and white sand in the Noonu Atoll, Sun Siyam Iru Fushi is the sort of island where couples and families can happily spend a week without ever running out of things to do.

Newly renovated beach and overwater villas are generously proportioned, with plenty of outdoor space and private pools, while 24-hour multilingual butlers can arrange everything from dinner reservations to tailor-made experiences.

The 24-Hour Premium All Inclusive package makes a particularly strong case for settling in. There are 15 restaurants and bars to explore, from French and Italian fine dining over the lagoon to Maldivian seafood grilled on the beach and sunset champagne.

You can also enjoy curated wine tastings with the resort sommelier, while the Premium All Inclusive experience extends beyond the plate with a visit to a local island, guided snorkelling at Nemo Park, and a scenic sunset cruise.

For relaxation, the multi-award-winning Spa by Thalgo is a destination in itself, with more than 165 treatments and specialists in Ayurveda, traditional Chinese medicine and naturopathy, alongside yoga, Pilates, meditation and hydrotherapy.

Younger guests are well catered for too: up to two children under 15 stay and eat free when sharing with two adults, with a kids' club, splash zone and teens' programme adding to the appeal.

There's also a SSI-certified dive centre, watersports, tennis, an adults-only infinity pool and plenty of space to simply disappear onto the beach. The result is a versatile island that works equally well for a family trip, celebration or honeymoon - without requiring anyone to holiday at the same pace.

Siyam World

The Maldives, turned up

If you think the Maldives is all about lying quietly on a sun lounger, think again. Siyam World, the country's largest resort, occupies a vast island in the Noonu Atoll and packs an extraordinary amount into it: 16 villa categories, the Maldives' biggest floating waterpark, a horse ranch, electric go-karts, watersports, football, nightlife and over 18 restaurants and bars. It's exuberant, energetic and unapologetically about having fun. Accommodation ranges from beachside pavilions to one- to four-bedroom residences, including overwater villas with private pools and direct-to-sea slides.

Its WOW! All-Inclusive plan matches that spirit, with 24-hour access to dining, premium drinks, entertainment, excursions and selected experiences. There's even a daily island-wide Treasure Hunt, with prizes ranging from spa treatments and luxury experiences to villa upgrades. Arrival gets the same treatment: the WOW Welcome & Bar-Ception combines traditional Maldivian rituals, live performances and tropical cocktails.

There's plenty of Maldivian flavour amid the high-energy activities. Maldivian Roots introduces guests to local cooking, board games, storytelling and island traditions, while Wreck to Reef combines diving with conservation: explore a purposefully sunk tuna freighter and help plant coral as it develops into a living reef.

Sports fans can join football camps on the full-size pitch and two futsal courts, hosted by international legends including Rio Ferdinand, Gary Cahill, Fernando Torres and Andrew Johnson. Younger guests have Kidz World, while adults can escape to Veyo Spa or the adults-only pool.

In short, Siyam World is made for families, friends, couples and honeymooners - essentially, anyone who wants their Maldives served with considerably more action.

Why the Maldives?

Here are our favourite reasons for why you should visit this magnificent archipelago...

Why choose the Maldives for your dream holiday? Quite simply, it delivers the kind of escapism that is increasingly hard to find.

Perfect weather: With temperatures hovering around 28°C for much of the year, the Maldives is made for sunshine, swimming and long, lazy days outdoors.

World-class underwater life: The Maldives is one of the planet's great diving and snorkelling destinations, with spectacular coral reefs, colourful fish, turtles, rays and whale sharks.

Picture-perfect beaches: Expect impossibly soft, powdery white sand and the sort of dazzling turquoise lagoons that look almost too beautiful to be real.

Exceptional food: From fresh seafood and Maldivian specialities to Japanese, Indian, Italian and fine-dining restaurants, eating well is part of the experience.

Wonderful service: Warm, intuitive Maldivian hospitality combines with the polished service of some of the world's most luxurious resorts.

Privacy and exclusivity: With many resorts occupying their own private island, you can enjoy your own stretch of beach, secluded villa and uninterrupted views.

Luxury with personality: Resorts range from barefoot and intimate to spectacularly lavish, so there's a style to suit every kind of traveller.

Adventure as well as relaxation: Dive, snorkel, surf, fish, sail, swim with marine life - or simply do absolutely nothing.

A greener future: Increasingly, resorts are investing in coral restoration, marine conservation, renewable energy and reducing waste, helping protect the extraordinary environment that makes the Maldives so special.

And finally? Few places make doing very little feel quite so rewarding...

COMO Cocoa Island

The spirit of ease

COMO Cocoa Island seems designed for letting you relax and get closer to nature, as well as rediscovering yourself. An intimate private island surrounded by white-sand beaches and a thriving marine ecosystem, you'll find plenty to explore beneath the surface, and above.

At just 40 minutes by speedboat from Malé, its small scale and unusual layout make it feel pleasingly removed from the chaos of the capital. In the South Malé Atoll, 33 overwater villas are arranged along wooden walkways above a turquoise lagoon, their curved forms inspired by traditional Maldivian dhoni boats.

The house reef starts almost at the villas, with coral gardens attracting tropical fish, turtles, rays and reef sharks. A resident marine biologist leads snorkelling trips, while further afield are dive sites, manta and nurse-shark encounters and UV night snorkelling for a glimpse of the reef after dark.

Wellness is a major reason to come. COMO Shambhala has treatment rooms overlooking the lagoon and one of the Maldives' few hydrotherapy pools, alongside yoga, movement classes and holistic treatments combining contemporary techniques with traditional practices. The COMO Shambhala Kitchen takes the same approach to food, serving nutrition-focused dishes made with fresh, unprocessed ingredients.

At Ufaa, meanwhile, South Indian, Asian and Mediterranean influences shape a more indulgent menu, while private sandbank dining offers a suitably memorable change of scene. With the entire island available for private buyouts, COMO Cocoa Island also lends itself particularly well to weddings, milestone celebrations and intimate gatherings - though its real appeal may simply be how easily it encourages you to slow down.
