Disclaimer

This Gift Guide Magazine is a personal project created purely for inspiration, entertainment, and informational purposes. Every product, independent brand, or maker featured has been included because they genuinely caught my eye — not because of payment, sponsorship, or affiliate arrangements. I do not earn money, commission, or compensation from any recommendation within this guide.

The magazine is password-protected. To receive access, readers will provide their email address. Email addresses are collected solely for the purpose of delivering access and future updates related to the gift guide. They are not sold, traded, or used for unrelated marketing without consent.

I reserve the right to decline any submission, recommendation, or brand feature if I feel it doesn't align with the magazine's purpose, tone, or overall curation. This is a hand-picked guide, not an open marketplace.

All images included in the magazine were created or obtained specifically for this publication. If you are featured and would like image credit, accreditation, or clarification about how your product or brand is presented, please email me. Likewise, if you or your business would like your feature removed, simply contact me and I will happily update the guide.

While the goal is to highlight beautiful finds and thoughtful creators, the information provided is accurate to the best of my ability at the time of publication. Product details, pricing, availability, and external links may change at any time—readers should verify directly with the brand before making a purchase.

Nothing in this magazine should be interpreted as professional advice. It's simply a curated collection of lovely things, shared with care.

Welcome to Ma Bella's Winter Gift Guide

— a celebration of giving, creativity, and community.

This is more than a magazine; it's a living gift guide — one that grows and evolves throughout the season. We'll be adding fresh finds, ideas, and surprises as new brands join and readers share their favourites.

Every feature here has been chosen with care — from cozy home treasures to inspired gifts that tell a story of passion and purpose. And now, you can be part of that story too.

Share your favourite independent brands or must-have products and help us shape a truly curated, ever-evolving collection of winter wonders.

Here's to meaningful gifting, independent brands, and a season that shines bright — together.
