YOUR SKIN IN SUMMER

Longer days, warmer weather and more time outdoors can change how your skin looks and feels. Here are six things worth knowing as summer arrives.

THE SUN & YOUR SKIN

UV exposure can affect more than the surface.

UVA and UVB can contribute to skin damage, pigmentation and premature ageing.

UV damage illustration

01 MORE OIL

Heat and humidity can increase oil production, leaving skin feeling heavier.

02 CONGESTION

Blocked follicles and blackheads may become more noticeable, especially around the T-zone.

03 BARRIER STRESS

UV exposure can contribute to redness and sensitivity when the skin barrier is compromised.

04 PIGMENTATION

UV stimulates melanin activity, which can deepen uneven tone and dark marks.

05 HIDDEN DEHYDRATION

Air conditioning, sun exposure and perspiration can leave skin dehydrated, even in humid weather.

06 PREMATURE AGEING

Repeated UV exposure contributes to collagen damage and the appearance of fine lines.

YOUR SUMMER SKIN ROUTINE

Cleanse gently · Hydrate daily · Protect with SPF

From sheer daily protection to beach-day essentials, explore six Ella Baché favourites and find a formula to suit your summer.
