Day Trips & Group Tours

Suggested tour seasons: Spring and Fall

Day Trips

Day Trip 1

Start your weekend with breakfast at Buckhead Coffeehouse, then explore the President James K. Polk Home and its gardens—perfect for photos! Shop at Historic Downtown Columbia's local stores like Smith & York and Tin Cottage.

For lunch, try Square Market & Cafe or Buck and Board for salads and charcuterie. In the afternoon, visit the Columbia Arts District, including Firefighters Park and the Columbia State Pryor Art Gallery. Stop by Grinder's Switch Winery for wine tastings. Choose from River Terrace New Orleans Cuisine, Southern Tre Steakhouse, Mama Mila's, or Prime & Pint for dinner.

Day Trip Two

Kick off with coffee from Muletown Coffee. If visiting May-October, don't miss the Columbia Farmers' Fresh Market. Relax at Elia Day Spa, then enjoy lunch at Puckett's Restaurant, followed by shopping at Duck River Books. Take a scenic drive to Amber Falls Winery & Vineyard for tastings, then end the day at The Mulehouse, a renovated church music venue.

Day Trip Three

Begin with breakfast at Buckhead Coffee, then tour Historic Elm Springs. For lunch, choose Legend's Steak House or Square Market, then visit Rippa Villa, a restored Civil War-era plantation. Explore the Spring Hill battlefield, and if you're hungry, Viking Pizza is nearby.

Sweets and Treats

Treat yourself at Hattie Jane's Creamery for ice cream and baked goods, or visit Pie Sensations for delicious pies. Coffee lovers will enjoy Muletown Roasted Coffee's blends like Early Bird and Dark Horse. You can also check out B's Salty & Sweet for fresh daily treats. There are so many options for your sweet tooth.

Group Tours

Historic Home Progressive Tour

The motor coach will arrive in Columbia at the parking lot across from the Polk Home, where restrooms are available at the Visitors Center. Your step-on guide will join you here. The first stop is the James K. Polk Home, featuring a tour with a slideshow, exhibits, and a gift shop. Guests can enjoy beverages in the courtyard.

Next, we'll board the coach to the Historic Athenaeum for a tour of the grounds and house, followed by appetizers served on the covered back porch. We'll conclude at Elm Springs with a Southern-style buffet dinner, including sweet tea and desserts. After dinner, tour the mansion and visit the new gift shop and museum.

Historic Home Progressive Lunch Tour

Start at Rippa Villa in Spring Hill, TN to tour the mid-1850s Greek Revival home and grounds. Next, enjoy lunch and a sundae at Mt. Pleasant Grille, a renovated historic building. After lunch, visit the Mount Pleasant Museum and nearby shops. Then, tour St. John's Episcopal Church, built in the 1840s, and St. Peter's Episcopal Church, built in the 1860s and still active today.

ATV and Winery Tour

Enjoy fresh air on a guided ATV ride through Tennessee's backroads to Amber Falls Winery and Keg Springs Winery in Hampshire, TN. The four-hour tour includes scenic dirt roads, with a guide sharing local stories. You'll have up to two hours for wine tastings and a boxed lunch outdoors. Helmets, eye protection, bottled water, and lunch are provided for each passenger.

Engage in History

Historical homes attract tourists by providing immersive experiences that connect visitors to the culture and heritage of a region, often revealing fascinating stories from the past.

Historical Sites

The Athenaeum

808 Athenaeum St
Columbia | 931-797-3316
historicathenaeum.com

Built circa 1835 for Samuel Polk Walker, nephew of President Polk. The home was acquired by the Reverend Frank Gillette Smith and became a private school for girls. The Historic Athenaeum in Columbia, Tennessee is all that remains of two famous girls schools that flourished in the area from the 1830's until the Great Depression. The same family occupied the home for over 130 years. This historical site is now open for tours and available as a venue for your special event.

Hours of Operation:

Open Tuesday – Saturday 10 am to 4 pm by appointment.

Maury County Courthouse

41 Public Square
Columbia | 931-381-3690

The Maury County Courthouse stands proudly in the center of Columbia's Public Square, a bright, shining example of the county's prosperity at the turn of the 20th century. In building a new courthouse, the county's fathers might have been sending a statement that a county such as Maury deserved a building more refined and polished. The "old courthouse" was built in 1846. Many people refer to it as the "Second Courthouse" since it was the second building to stand in the center of the square. The "new" courthouse was finished in 1906 and has since served the people of Maury County.

Step into the past and discover historic homes, churches, museums, Civil War trails, and even a presidential residence and hall.

Rippa Villa

5700 Main St (Highway 31)
Spring Hill | 931-486-9037
boft.org

Located in the heart of Spring Hill, Tennessee just minutes from Columbia, Rippavilla and the Cheairs family have been part of the Spring Hill and Maury County story since the early 1800's. The Greek Revival-style home that stands today was built in the mid-1850's by Nat Cheairs, who served as a major in the 3rd Tennessee Infantry during the Civil War. He and his wife, Susan, were one of the wealthiest families in the region, along with families like the Thompsons and the Polks. During the war, the Battle of Spring Hill unfolded across the property on November 29, 1864.

Hours of Operation:

Open Monday - Saturday 9 am - 5 pm; Sunday 11 am - 5 pm

Hours of Operation:

Open Monday through Saturday 10 am - 4 pm
Call for more information.

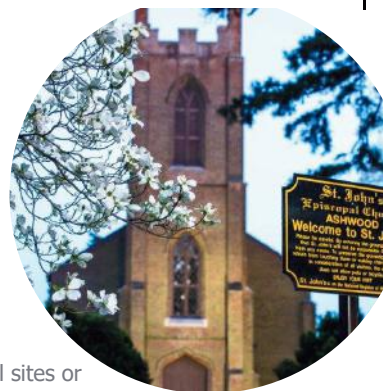

The National Confederate Museum

2357 Park Plus Dr
Columbia | 931-380-1844
theconfederatemuseum.com

Visitors to the National Confederate Museum in Columbia will be given the true history of the War Between the States, not the re-imagined, watered-down versions fabricated by modern "scholars." This museum will bring the Southern War of Independence to life using primary sources and artifacts to illustrate not only how the Confederate Soldier fought, but why.

Hours of Operation:

Open Monday - Friday 9 am - 4 pm.
