One of the things I cherish most about working for the Livingston HealthCare Foundation is the relationships we build with the people who make our work possible. My hope is that everyone who connects with the Foundation feels welcomed, appreciated, and good about supporting healthcare in our community. At the end of the day, this work is about people caring for people and making sure our friends, families, visitors, and neighbors can access exceptional care close to home.

Rural healthcare comes with unique challenges, and ensuring access to quality care takes creativity, collaboration, and a willingness to think outside the box. One of our greatest strengths is the social capital within our community - the relationships, partnerships, and shared commitment that bring people together to find solutions and build a sustainable future for local healthcare.

I feel incredibly fortunate to be part of this work and to see firsthand how much people care about the future of healthcare in our community. To our donors, thank you for your generosity, your trust, and your belief in this mission. Your support does more than fund equipment, programs, and services. It helps strengthen our healthcare system, creates opportunities to meet evolving community needs, and ensures that local care remains within reach for the people who depend on it.

Most importantly, your generosity reflects what makes this community so special - people showing up for one another. Thank you for being part of this work and for helping us build a healthier future for Livingston and the communities we serve.

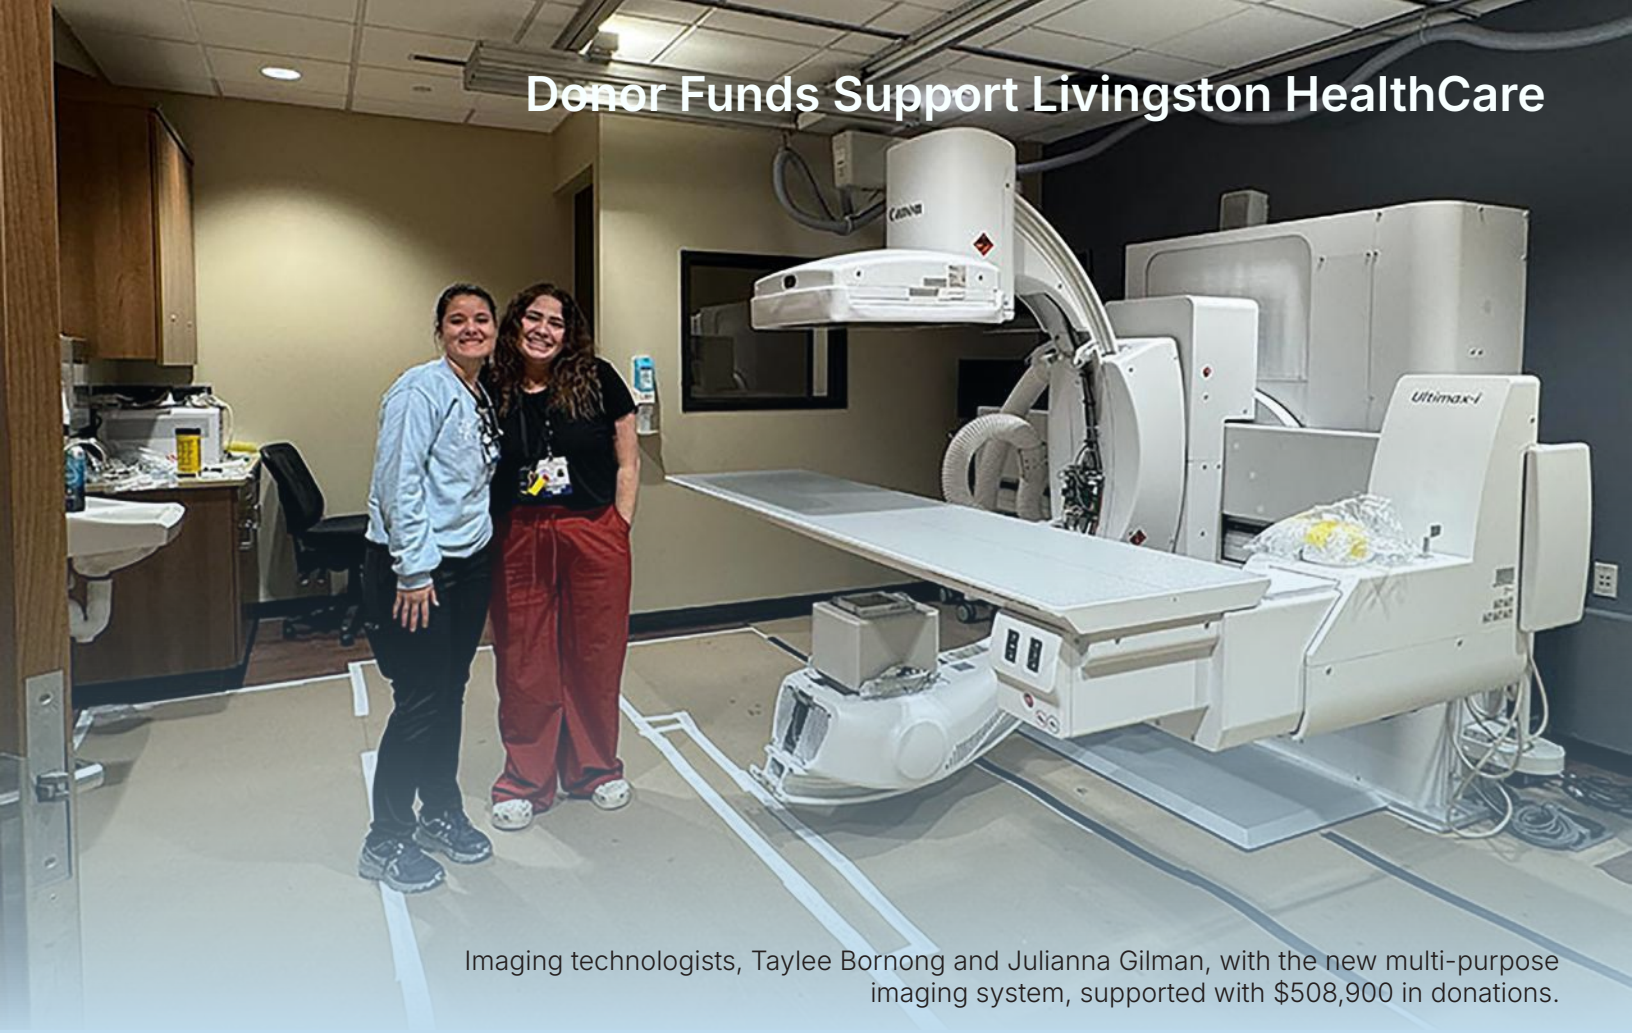

With gratitude,

Jessica Wilcox

What does having these services available at Livingston HealthCare mean to you?

> "It means a lot to me because I can still keep moving and keep active and I can maintain my home... I'm 86. The home health services, they've come and helped me when I've had problems. I can go to therapy upstairs, which I've done. I can have lunch here too. So it means a lot because I feel like it's a second home to me because I know people and a lot of my friends come here. And that makes me feel at home too. And it released my fear too, being surrounded by people you know."

Generosity in Action: Building Healthy Futures

Donations supported making the healing environment of Dr. Spromberg's patient care room at the school-based clinic calm and welcoming.

LHC@LPS: School-Based Health Care

Originally established by Livingston HealthCare to provide accessible pediatric care, the Ranger Clinic, now known as Livingston HealthCare @ Livingston Public Schools (LHC@LPS), has evolved to meet the changing needs of our community.

In 2019, with support from AMB West Community Fund and generous Livingston HealthCare Foundation donors, the clinic expanded with a significant renovation and inclusion of behavioral health services.

Additional gifts from the Dovana Foundation and Joyful Noise Charitable Foundation in 2025 and 2026 supported further renovations, including a private office for Clinical Psychologist Dr. Christopher Spromberg, Psy.D., and professional development for clinic staff. Today, Dr. Spromberg and Lindsay Comte, FNP, serve students throughout the area and Livingston Public Schools District staff. LHC@LPS demonstrates how community generosity and collaboration can expand access to care and support the well-being of the next generation.

Stronger Together

Learning Together: Livingston HealthCare @ Livingston Public Schools Team Attends National School-Based Health Care Conference

Dr. Chris Spromberg, Ashley Wagner, LHC CAO, Hannah Wologo, Tori Kenyon, LPS School-Based Healthcare Systems and Marketing Analyst, and Lindsay Comte, FNP, learning together.

"Ranger Clinic lives inside our schools, in a small town where the kids we see are the same kids we run into at the grocery store, the river, and the Friday night game. Going to the national conference as a full team gave us something we rarely get, which was time together to step back from the day-to-day and look at our work alongside programs from across the country. Much of what we heard was built for larger, more resourced systems, and we found ourselves constantly translating it for Park County. That turned out to be the most valuable part. It sharpened our sense of what rural school-based care actually requires: a small team wearing many hats, close relationships with school staff, and a level of trust with families that only comes from being part of the same community.

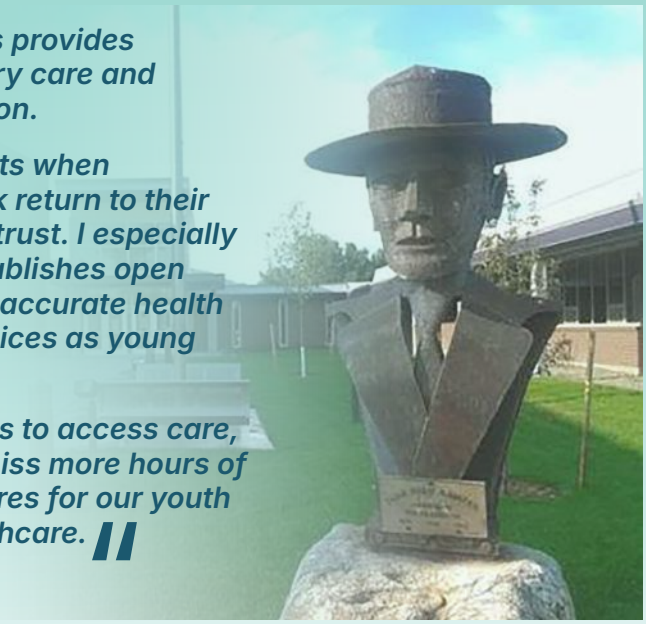

We also came home with a clear sense of what was missing from the room. Rural programs are underrepresented at these national conversations, even though so many students across the country depend on clinics like ours. So our team is planning to submit at least two sessions for next year's national conference, sharing what we've learned about making school-based health care work in a rural setting. Your support sent us there to learn. Now we hope to go back and contribute, and to help make sure rural kids and the people who care for them have a stronger voice in the field."

- Hannah Wologo, MS, Systems Manager of Community Benefit and Community Health Initiatives

"Livingston HealthCare at Livingston Public Schools provides a valuable resource that reduces barriers to primary care and supports strong attendance and school participation.

For my kids, this has meant same-day appointments when they've had a an unexpected health problem, quick return to their classrooms, and a consistent provider whom they trust. I especially appreciate how Lindsay [Lindsay Comte, FNP] establishes open communication with my teens, provides them with accurate health information to empower them to make positive choices as young adults, and takes their concerns seriously.

Without LHC at LPS, it would be harder for my teens to access care, appointments would be delayed, and they would miss more hours of school. I am grateful to live in a community that cares for our youth and works to meet their needs for accessible healthcare."

- Mary DuVernay, Park High School parent and teacher

New Providers

Daniel Tanbakuchi, DO, is a board-certified family medicine physician who earned his medical degree from A.T. Still University Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine in 2021. Dr. Tanbakuchi is passionate about patient-centered care, with a strong focus on prevention and empowering patients through education. He finds it deeply rewarding to guide patients through both challenges and successes.

Heather Reiley, MD, is passionate about providing compassionate, family-centered pediatric care and helping children thrive from infancy through adolescence. She believes in building lasting relationships with families and partnering with parents to support every stage of a child's growth and development. After practicing pediatrics in Colorado, Dr. Reiley and her family were excited to return to southwest Montana, where her husband grew up.

Andrew Kutzner, MD, is an orthopedic surgeon who earned his medical degree from Loma Linda University and completed an orthopedic surgery residency through Michigan State University in Grand Rapids, followed by fellowship training in total joint arthroplasty at Dartmouth. Dr. Kutzner provides thoughtful, patient-centered orthopedic care tailored to each individual's goals and lifestyle. He works closely with each patient to develop personalized treatment plans, emphasizing the least invasive and most effective solutions possible.

Planned Giving: Partners in Philanthropy

As non-profit organizations, Livingston HealthCare and the Livingston HealthCare Foundation rely on the generosity of our community.

Philanthropic support provides vital resources, such as advanced medical technology and essential equipment that empower our care teams and enhance the patient experience.

Every gift plays a meaningful role in improving the health and well-being of those we serve.

Endowments: Sustaining the Future of Rural Healthcare

Through the Livingston HealthCare Foundation Endowment Fund, gifts made today create a lasting legacy, supporting the greatest needs at Livingston HealthCare and ensuring compassionate, high-quality care for years to come.

Endowment Goal
$10,000,000 to generate $500,000/year in support

BALANCES 6/30/26

Endowment	$1,092,679
Ough quasi-endowment	$1,728,452
Hospice	$1,049,646

The Montana Endowment Tax Credit helps ensure access to local healthcare for generations. Every dollar you qualify for reduces your Montana income tax by $1.

- Individuals: up to $15,000/year
- Couples filing jointly: up to $30,000/year
- Businesses: up to $15,000/year

Looking Forward: A Strategic Plan for Sustainability

The Livingston HealthCare Foundation inspires philanthropy to advance the health and wellness of our community. This strategic plan provides a roadmap for strengthening the Foundation's role as a trusted partner to Livingston HealthCare while building a sustainable culture of philanthropy throughout our organizations and community.

Over the next three years, the Foundation will focus on five strategic pillars:

1. Strategic Alignment

Goal: Strengthen partnership with Livingston HealthCare to align philanthropic investment with Livingston HealthCare's strategic priorities to advance innovative, mission-critical needs.

2. Internal Development & Culture of Philanthropy

Goal: Create an organizational culture where every employee, physician, volunteer, and board member understands and supports philanthropy as an essential component of exceptional healthcare.

3. External Engagement & Community Philanthropy

Goal: Strengthen community awareness, trust, and philanthropic investment by creating meaningful opportunities for donors, volunteers, businesses, and community members to engage with Livingston HealthCare Foundation.

4. Leadership & Governance

Goal: Develop strong Foundation leadership and governance practices that support organizational growth, accountability, and long-term success.

5. Financial Sustainabilty

Goal: Build long-term philanthropic capacity and financial resources that ensure Livingston HealthCare Foundation can support both current priorities and future transformational opportunities.

Together, these priorities will strengthen relationships, increase philanthropic investment, expand donor engagement, build organizational capacity, and position the Foundation to support transformational local healthcare initiatives for generations to come.

Tree of Life: Hospice's Gift of Dignity

TREE of LIFE

From the roots of Gateway Hospice in 1984, to today's moving event, the Tree of Life ceremony is an opportunity to recognize the lives of our loved ones by dedicating a light to shine in their memory.

Held on the first Wednesday in December, the ceremony also honors the healthcare workers and Hospice volunteers who bring compassion and dignity to end-of-life care. This beautiful tradition brings hope and healing to many in our community during what can be a difficult time of the year. The Tree of Life shines outside the Livingston HealthCare main campus during December in memory of our loved ones and the memorial scroll is displayed at Livingston HealthCare throughout the year.

Donations to the Tree of Life directly support Livingston HealthCare's Hospice services, bereavement support and Hospice patients' greatest needs.

Rebecca Sulages, LCSW, and Angela Walker, Keynote speaker, in front of the Tree of Life scroll at the December 2025 event.

Volunteers: the Gift of Time

Volunteers embody the values of Livingston HealthCare - respect, integrity, compassion and our high standard of excellence. Our deep gratitude to our volunteers for their time greeting our patients and families with warmth and caring and willingness to help with special projects:

Linda Acker, Glenda Fleming, Shelley Gilligan, Katherine Howe (with her canine friends, Skye and Nova), Sister Virginia Jakobe, Karma Jordan, Chandra Morris, Treva Peterson, and Harry Pollard

Left: Shelley Gilligan started Random Acts of Flowers, a program that delivered flowers each Monday this summer to patients. She and Treva Peterson put their creative touch to making each bouquet. Our thanks to Deep Creek Green for the beautiful flowers!

Volunteer of the Year

With 42 years of service to the community and to Livingston HealthCare, Sister Virginia Jakobe, was a natural choice to be honored as the Volunteer of the Year during the Livingston Chamber of Commerce 2026 Livingston Roundup Rodeo Parade.

> "I can't think of anyone more deserving than kind Sister Virginia who is always so welcoming and meets everyone with a smile. She is an integral part of Livingston HealthCare having served as a nurse, patient attendant, and volunteer."

Why We Give:
Honoring the Legacy of Caregivers

Robert and Yvonne Means in the PACU named for his father

A Physician's Legacy

The Livingston HealthCare Foundation is honored to have received a gift from Robert Means of Livingston and his sister, Betty Bell of Foster City, California, in memory of their father, Dr. Robert Ross Means, who served as a beloved Livingston physician from 1947 until his passing in 1954.

Dr. Means was known not only for his skill as a physician but also for his kindness and compassion. Practicing during a time when money was often scarce, he frequently accepted payment in the form of chickens, vegetables, or other goods from patients who could not afford to pay in cash.

Dr. Means' deep sense of care left a lasting mark on the community, so much so that one former patient placed flowers on his grave every week following his death. When she later passed away, she asked her daughter to continue the tradition in honor of the doctor who had made such a meaningful difference in her life.

In recognition of their contribution, the Post Anesthesia Care Unit (PACU), where patients recover immediately after surgery, will be named in honor of Dr. Robert Ross Means, ensuring his legacy of compassion and dedication lives on through the healing care provided at Livingston HealthCare today.

"The patient experience begins and ends with compassion."

— Jean Watson

Honoring the Colemans

Walt and Ruth Weissman made a generous gift in honor of Dr. Scott Coleman and Paula Coleman, CPNP, supporting the purchase of a Vascular Access Ultrasound System for Livingston HealthCare.

Championed by Dr. Coleman and the medical staff, this technology improves the accuracy and success of vascular access procedures such as IVs, midlines and PICC lines, especially in patients with difficult venous access. It also helps reduce complications and delays in care while enabling proactive diagnostic capabitlities at the bedside, keeping care close to home.

Walt and Ruth Weissman, 2025

Dr. Scott Coleman and Paula Coleman, CPNP, 2015

This generous gift reflects the deep appreciation for the Colemans' dedication to Livingston HealthCare. Paula and Scott retired in September 2026, leaving a legacy of exceptional service.

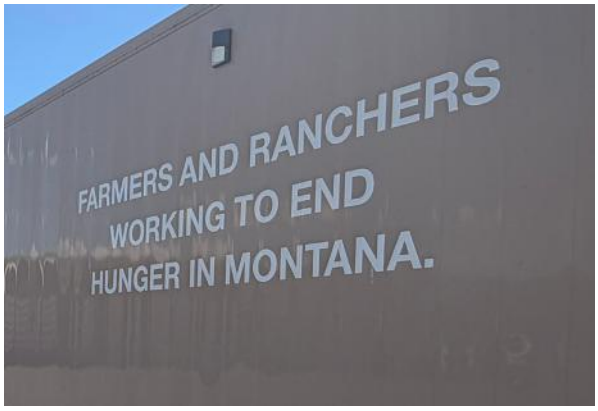

When Generosity Multiplies: Neighbors Helping Neighbors

One of the things I love most about Park County is the way people show up for one another.

This summer, we set out to raise the final funds needed to complete the renovation of Livingston HealthCare's pharmacy, a project that will improve safety, efficiency, and patient care for our community for years to come. Through the generosity of our community at the Alpenglow Gala and the Give A Hoot campaign, we reached our goal.

But somewhere along the way, an even more beautiful story of philanthropy emerged.

One of the live auction items at the Alpenglow Gala was a steer generously donated by VIG Hayhook Ranch, with the processing provided by Matt Pierson and The Producer Partnership. Local residents Colin and Seabring Davis won the bid. Colin and Seabring have deep roots in Livingston. They raised their two daughters here and were the former owners of Chico Hot Springs. Colin also serves on the board of the Livingston Food Resource Center, an organization doing essential work to address food insecurity in Park County. After winning the steer, Colin and Seabring made a remarkable decision; they donated the beef to the Livingston Food Resource Center.

The Producers Partnership mission proudly displayed on their facility

Think about the generosity woven into that one auction item. VIG Hayhook Ranch donated the steer. The Producer Partnership provided the processing. Colin and Seabring donated the money to support Livingston HealthCare's pharmacy renovation. Colin and Seabring then donated the resulting beef to the Livingston Food Resource Center. In one act of generosity, philanthropy multiplied. The Davis family gave twice, first to help provide better health care close to home, and then to help ensure that local families have access to nutritious food. As a former board member of the Livingston Food Resource Center and the current Executive Director of the Livingston HealthCare Foundation, I am in awe of this kind of generosity. It represents everything I love about Park County.

This is neighbors helping neighbors. Ranchers, producers, families, businesses, donors, volunteers, and nonprofit organizations are all playing a part. It is people recognizing that the health of our community is about more than what happens inside the hospital. It is about access to health care, nutritious food, strong families, and neighbors who are willing to step up when others need a hand. In the end, it's about working together to keep our community healthy.

So, thank you to Colin and Seabring Davis. Thank you to VIG Hayhook Ranch, Matt Pierson, and The Producer Partnership. Thank you to everyone who supported the Alpenglow Gala and the Give A Hoot campaign. And thank you to Livingston HealthCare and the Livingston Food Resource Center for being part of a community that believes in taking care of its own.

This is what philanthropy looks like in Park County. We give. We share. We show up. And we take care of our own. That is what makes this community so special and what makes Park County resilient.

In Celebration

We are honored to bring donors, physicians, staff, Board members, and community members together around a shared commitment to exceptional healthcare close to home.

This year's Alpenglow Gala was a memorable evening of gratitude and generosity. Together with the Park County Community Foundation's Give A Hoot, our community raised nearly $300,000 to meet our $750,000 goal for the Livingston HealthCare Pharmacy Renovation. This collective generosity is helping create a safer, more efficient pharmacy to support our caregivers and the patients who depend upon local care.

A special thank you to the winners of the Debbie Erdman-Lee Freeman Philanthropy Award, Carol and the late Sal Lalani. The Lalanis embody the spirit and values of Neighbors Helping Neighbors.

Foundation Board Member Spotlight: Dr. Ted Scofield

After 34 years of caring for patients at Livingston HealthCare, Dr. Ted Scofield may have retired from medicine but he certainly hasn't retired from serving our community. He has simply shifted gears, bringing his deep knowledge, trusted relationships, and enduring commitment to Livingston HealthCare to the Foundation Board.

For decades, Dr. Scofield earned the trust of generations of patients and families. Today, he continues that legacy of service in a new way, helping champion the future of exceptional, local healthcare. We are grateful to have his experience, perspective, and passion on the Foundation Board.
