SOUTHEAST MICHIGAN Fall Bucket List

By Kelsi Klein

THERE'S no need to travel far to make the most of fall in Southeast Michigan. Sometimes the season goes by so fast before you realize you didn't even do any fall activities. Enjoy the sights, sounds and tastes of fall right here in Metro Detroit with this bucket list:

- Visit a cider mill
  There are many cider mills to choose from in the area. Watch the production process, try some freshly pressed apple cider and, of course, enjoy a fresh apple cider donut while it's hot.

- Pick your own apples or pumpkins
  Support local growers this year and visit an apple orchard or pumpkin patch to pick your own produce.

- Visit a corn maze or hayride
  Challenge friends or family to a corn maze and enjoy a fall hayride. Many farms also offer outdoor activities like petting zoos, giant slides and other family-friendly attractions.

- Take your own fall color tour
  Visit a local park and walk, hike or bike ride through the trails to enjoy nature as the leaves change colors. If you prefer to stay out of the elements, take a scenic drive along Hines Drive, through the local metroparks or down tree-lined country roads and enjoy the view.

- Visit a farmers market
  Stock up on late-season vegetables like spinach, kale, broccoli and root vegetables from local growers along with fall staples like apple butter, honey and baked goods.

- Attend a fall festival
  Many Metro Detroit cities host fall festivals featuring craft vendors, live entertainment, food trucks and family-friendly activities to take advantage of before it gets too cold.

- Go to a football game or host a watch party
  Take in the spirit of fall and cheer on a local football team, whether it's under Friday night lights, tailgating at a college game or cheering on the Lions at home.

- Visit a local craft or vendor show
  Browse the booths at a craft show for handmade candles, home décor, artwork, soaps and more for yourself or to get a head start on holiday shopping.

- Bake your own fall treats
  With local apples or pumpkins, bake your own pies, breads or muffins to enjoy with hot apple cider or coffee.

- Decorate your porch for fall
  This small gesture is often overlooked but welcomes the season. Decorate your porch or front door with fall-themed wreaths, colorful mums, corn stalks and decorative gourds.

- Enjoy a seasonal beverage
  Whether a pumpkin spice latte or seasonal craft beer, try a fall-themed drink you haven't had before.

- Make homemade soup
  Fall is the perfect time for soup. Use vegetables from a local farmers market and warm up with homemade soup.

- Watch for migrating birds
  Visit a park, nature center or even sit in your own backyard and watch for birds as they migrate south.

- Volunteer
  Find a local organization to volunteer at this fall, help clean a public park, rake a neighbor's leaves or do something small to make a difference during the Thanksgiving season.

Could You Make the Difference for a Local Service Organization's Impact?

THE holiday season brings to the forefront the many ways we can give back – whether it's volunteering our time, money and talents to a holiday charity or dedicating ourselves to one cause we're passionate about all year long.

Due to the immense need everywhere, opportunities abound for us to make a difference, no matter how small.

That's why I love covering organizations like Kiwanis, Lions Club, Rotary, Optimists and any other nonprofit organization that makes it its mission to help its local community and beyond.

Born of a desire to solve community problems – whether they are social, financial, medical or otherwise – these organizations have toiled for decades. They have focused on tangible challenges like poverty, blindness, food insecurity, clothing needs and more.

But despite helping others, these organizations are facing their own challenges – finding and keeping a new generation of members to carry on their missions. In a great many instances, these longtime institutions are facing membership rolls that are aging out, leaving only a few members to carry out their missions and responsibilities to their communities.

So I ask you this: Please consider checking out one of these organizations in your community. There are plenty of options to choose from, and depending on your interest and schedule, you may even have time to fit in more than one!

I know from the personal experience of covering these exceptional institutions for 10 years that they are always seeking new faces with fresh ideas and perspectives. These are not a bunch of blue-hairs who are stuck in their ways. They are vibrant, passionate folks who want to help their local communities and the world.

This holiday season, please take the time to give thanks for what you have, and also consider helping those who may need an extra hand. You won't regret it.

WOODHAVEN KIWANIS RECAP

As always, exciting things are happening!

ON the heels of a very busy summer for Woodhaven Kiwanians, the new leadership for 2026-27 was installed Wednesday, October 8. Lt. Governor Jacob from the Monroe Club was on hand to install the new officers: President Carol Horn, President-Elect Dennis Mahaffey, Vice President Louisa Elsey and Club Secretary/Treasurer Paul Elsey.

The Kiwanis 2026 Southgate Police Sergeant Chris Cassette Memorial Golf Outing proved to be the most successful ever! The annual event, organized by Kevin Cassette, hosted 189 golfers and raised $16,666 to help fund Kiwanis activities in the community.

The 2027 golf outing will be held on Saturday, August 7, 2027. Save the date!

Throughout the summer, club members keep the club's story walk at Civic Center Park updated every two weeks. Returning to school in September was celebrated with "On the First Day of Kindergarten."

In addition to appearing in the Kiwanis Story Walk, every Kindergarten teacher in the Woodhaven-Brownstown School District and Trenton Public Schools received a copy to share with their class. October was celebrated with "Clifford's Halloween".

Woodhaven Kiwanians are committed to childhood literacy. Quarterly, Woodhaven Kiwanians provide books for elementary school libraries. They also host a children's Little Library at Woodhaven's Splash Pad Park.

Kiwanian Club Secretary/Treasurer Paul Elsey and his two new friends at Anderson School in Trenton.

Want to Join?

Woodhaven Kiwanians invite you to a meeting to learn more about service to the community. The Kiwanis Club of Woodhaven serves North Brownstown, Trenton and Woodhaven, as well as Trenton Public Schools and Woodhaven-Brownstown Schools.

It meets Wednesdays at the Woodhaven Community Center from 6:30-7:30 p.m. The meeting ends promptly at 7:30 p.m., to accommodate the busy schedules of Kiwanians!

I can't see well enough to do my crossword puzzles – Can You Help?

Ask the Doctor

Q: My doctor said I have moderate macular degeneration and diabetic retina damage, which feels pretty severe to me. I'm writing because it is almost impossible for me to do my crosswords even though I use large print puzzles and a magnifying glass. Having to hold my magnifier with one hand and trying to write has me so frustrated! What can you do to help me return to doing my crosswords?

~Carl N., 78 years old

A: To begin, it is encouraging to at least hear that your retinal doctor believes you have moderate tissue condition. You need to understand there is a difference between the amount of tissue damage compared to the impact on your ability to see and function.

There are three key steps that are required when someone needs help to see and write at the same time:

1) Proper magnification
2) A comfortable distance to work that allows you to write (not as close as you are used to)
3) The free use of your hands

In order to provide you with the best vision and ability to function in this situation, I prescribe special telescopic glasses. It is also important that you have the right lighting.

Having helped thousands of others over the decades who have had vision loss similar to you tells me that there are other areas of your life that can also be helped by improving your ability to function. It is helpful if you can identify other areas of your daily life in which your vision limits your ability to function.

It would be best if you could schedule an evaluation and bring the materials that you would like to see better when you come for your appointment.

Stop struggling with poor vision.

NUTS & SEEDS

Tiny But Potent Flavors for Fall

By Lisa Howard

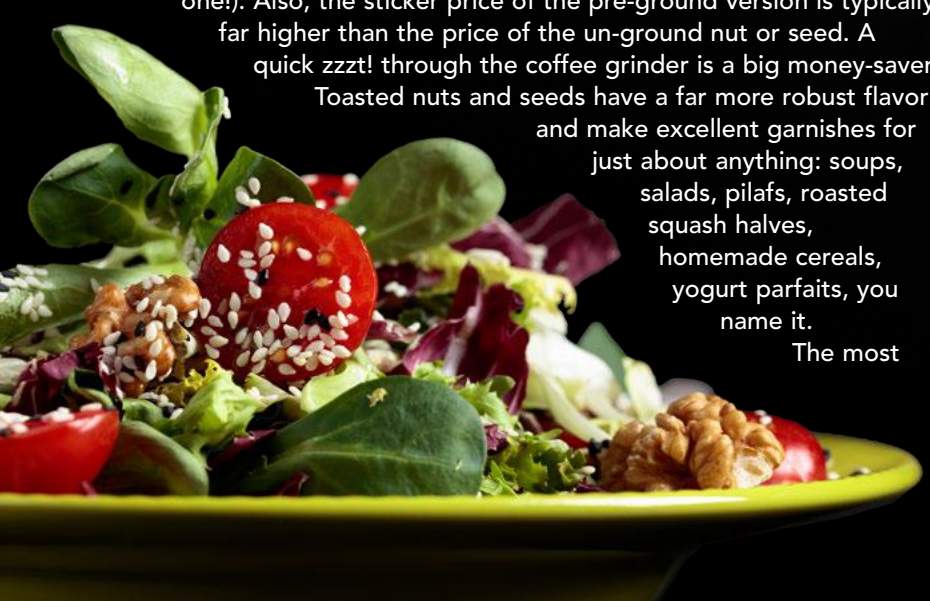

FAVORITE fall dishes have many perks, among them that their key ingredients tend to be easy and inexpensive to prepare: hearty greens take well to long simmers, chicken thighs with the bones and skin create their own broth, brown rice pilafs are an excellent way to use leftover veggies in the fridge.

No matter which dishes are on the menu, nuts and seeds are the perfect way to add even more flavor and texture! A little goes a long way, and as long as you store your nuts and seeds in the fridge (or even freezer), those can be inexpensive pantry items since they'll stay fresh that way.

Raw nuts and seeds taste more subtle than their toasted counterparts, and many can be ground in a regular coffee grinder to create fresh flour to be used in a wide variety of baked goods, from pumpkin bread to DIY crackers. (Technically, the coarser-than-flour result is a meal, but you can swap it out for a quarter of the flour called for in most recipes, or you can find recipes based on nut and seed meals.)

Candidates for the coffee grinder are: flax seeds, chia seeds, sunflower seeds, sesame seeds, pepitas, rolled oats, sliced almonds, chopped pecans and chopped walnuts. Larger, harder nuts can be ground in a flour mill or a very sturdy food processor.

Two bonuses of grinding your own nuts and seeds are that they're maximally fresh – they haven't been sitting pre-ground on a grocery shelf with their delicate inner fats exposed to light – and they're less costly because you can use them as nuts or meal (two for the price of one!). Also, the sticker price of the pre-ground version is typically far higher than the price of the un-ground nut or seed. A quick zzzt! through the coffee grinder is a big money-saver.

Toasted nuts and seeds have a far more robust flavor and make excellent garnishes for just about anything: soups, salads, pilafs, roasted squash halves, homemade cereals, yogurt parfaits, you name it.

The most foolproof way to toast them is to scatter them onto a skillet over medium-low heat in a single layer. No need to add oil – just let them toast, stirring them or shaking the skillet occasionally, for 5 to 8 minutes or until they smell delightfully toasty. (Smaller pieces will toast more quickly than larger pieces.)

Do not leave nuts or seeds unattended! They go from perfectly toasted to burnt slag surprisingly quickly. Have a cool plate ready and just slide them onto the plate as soon as they're aromatic and darkening.

In addition to a big kick of flavor, certain nuts and seeds offer outsized nutritional oomph. Walnuts, chia seeds and flax seeds, in particular, have high levels of anti-inflammatory omega-3 fats, making them especially welcome toppers for a wide range of dishes. Chia and flax both have mucilaginous qualities, too, meaning that they'll thicken any liquid they're stirred into. (To make a no-cook pudding, stir chia seeds into coconut milk or half-and-half along with a splash of maple syrup and a few drops of vanilla and let sit for about 5 minutes.)

Of course, all nuts and seeds are an excellent source of fiber. So this fall, go nuts! And don't forget the seeds.

WBSD Celebrates School Improvements

as Wegienka Elementary Hosts Ribbon Cutting

Brownstown Supervisor Sherry Berecz, Trustee Roger Jones, Treasurer Michael Eberth.

Wegienka Media Teacher Kristina Miller with WBSD BOE Secretary Rob Harris.

WBSD BOE Trustees Mitch Dobek and Bridget Thorning get a tour of the school with students and parent.

The Woodhaven-Brownstown School District is continuing to celebrate the transformation of its elementary schools through the voter-approved 2021 Bond Program, with Wegienka Elementary School hosting a ribbon-cutting ceremony Tuesday evening, October 27, to showcase its extensive renovations and improvements.

The celebration follows September ribbon-cutting ceremonies at Bates and Gudith elementary schools, where students, families, staff members, community leaders and district representatives gathered to see firsthand how bond-funded projects are creating modernized learning environments throughout the district.

At Wegienka, improvements have touched nearly every aspect of the school, from refreshed classrooms and renovated common areas to enhanced outdoor spaces. The projects were designed to create welcoming, functional environments that support student learning, creativity and collaboration.

Wegienka Elementary: A Fresh Look and New Learning Opportunities

Among the most significant improvements at Wegienka is the transformation of the school's Learning Commons into a modern, inviting space for students to read, collaborate and explore. Unique design elements, including harvested real trees, bring a natural feel to the space and create an engaging environment for learning.

The media center also received new furniture and skylights, introducing additional natural light into the space.

Throughout the building, new flooring and fresh paint provide an updated look, while the cafeteria has been completely renovated with new furniture and updated finishes. The gymnasium also received renovations, further improving the school's spaces for physical education and school activities.

Students also benefit from a new SMART Lab, which provides opportunities for hands-on exploration, problem-solving, creativity and STEM-based learning.

Outside, a new parking lot and walking path improve accessibility and pedestrian circulation while enhancing the overall appearance of the school grounds.

"There is something special about opening the doors to a learning environment designed with students in mind," said Superintendent Matthew Salah. "Our goal is to ensure that every child who walks into Wegienka feels welcomed, supported and excited to learn. This project reflects our commitment to providing our students with the opportunities and environments they deserve."

Together, these improvements provide Wegienka students and staff with updated spaces designed to support learning and the school community for years to come.

"Great things happen when a community comes together with a shared belief in the power of education," said Wegienka Elementary School Principal Michelle Briegel. "Thank you to our wonderful community for supporting our students, our school and the future of our Wildcats. We are so grateful to be part of a community that believes in making great things happen for kids!"

Building Better Learning Environments at Bates and Gudith

Wegienka's improvements build on the transformations recently celebrated at Bates and Gudith elementary schools, where bond-funded projects have introduced new learning spaces, modernized facilities and enhanced campus features.

At Bates Elementary, a new front office addition provides a more secure entrance for visitors and an improved space to welcome students and families. The school also gained dedicated art and music rooms, a new SMART Lab and an updated Learning Commons.

Classrooms received fresh paint and new flooring, while cafeteria improvements included new flooring, fresh paint and refrigeration equipment. Exterior upgrades included new doors, improved parking lots, a new outdoor play pad and a walking path.

At Gudith Elementary, the project included a four-classroom addition designed for young fives and kindergarten students, providing updated learning spaces for the district's youngest learners.

The school also received a new SMART Lab and a renovated Learning Commons, while classrooms throughout the building were updated with new paint and carpeting. Additional improvements included a transformed cafeteria and kitchen serving area, a completely renovated Special Services wing with new furniture, a new parking lot, a basketball court, new exterior classroom doors and a gathering area for parents and families.

Although each school's project reflects its individual needs, the improvements share a common goal: providing students and staff with safe, welcoming and engaging spaces that support teaching and learning.

Investing in the Future

The improvements at Bates, Gudith and Wegienka represent the Woodhaven-Brownstown School District's continued investment in its schools and the communities they serve.

The work is not finished. Construction projects are currently underway at Erving and Yake elementary schools, with improvements expected to continue through 2027. These ongoing projects are part of the district's broader effort to modernize school facilities and provide students and staff with welcoming, functional learning environments.

Made possible through the community's support of the 2021 Bond Program, these investments are creating opportunities for students to learn, collaborate, discover and grow while ensuring school facilities continue to serve the needs of future generations.

The district extends its appreciation to the Woodhaven-Brownstown Board of Education, community members, staff, construction partners and everyone who contributed to bringing these improvements to life.

Ultimately, the success of these projects will be measured not only by the renovated spaces but by the students who fill them with curiosity, creativity and excitement for learning.

Through these investments, WBSD continues its commitment to its mission to Engage, Enlighten and Empower students while building learning environments that will serve generations of Warriors to come.

EMPOWERING STUDENT VOICES

WBSD welcomes new Board of Education student representatives

The Woodhaven-Brownstown School District is taking a meaningful step forward in fostering civic engagement and student leadership by welcoming two dynamic student leaders to the Board of Education for the 2026–2027 school year: Mataeya Guerra and Lilly Diaz.

The Student Representative program provides a unique opportunity for high schoolers to actively participate in public education governance. Selected through a rigorous application and interview process, Guerra and Diaz will attend designated Board meetings, offer crucial insights from the student perspective, and serve as a vital communication bridge between their peers and district leadership.

"Our students are at the center of every decision we make, and creating opportunities for their voices to be heard is an important part of our commitment to continuous improvement," said Superintendent Matthew Salah. "We are excited to welcome our student representatives to the Board of Education and look forward to the perspectives, ideas and experiences they will bring to our conversations."

Both representatives bring impressive records of school involvement, academic excellence and community leadership to their new roles.

A known leader within the halls of Woodhaven High School, Guerra serves as the National Honor Society (NHS) president, a WHS tribe leader, and a Student Council representative, all while participating in sideline and competitive cheer. Her motivation to step up as a student representative stems from her deep belief in equitable advocacy and a curiosity about the inner workings of district governance.

"This appointment to be BOE student representative is such an amazing opportunity that I am grateful to be a part of," Guerra said. "And I feel honored to be able to share parts of the student experience to the board, and also learn more about what happens beyond the scenes. I am so excited to help amplify Woodhaven students' voices to our board and act as a representative for the body."

Lilly Diaz and Mataeya Guerra with Superintendent Matthew Salah.

Lilly Diaz and Mataeya Guerra with the Board of Education.

Diaz is a standout tri-sport athlete – competing in varsity track, cross country and basketball – who also dedicates her time to NHS and Link Crew, helping welcome and mentor incoming students. Driven by a desire to strengthen the school environment, she looks forward to sharpening her leadership skills while bringing fresh student ideas directly to board discussions.

"I'm really excited for this opportunity and grateful to be a student representative to the Board of Education," Diaz said. "I'm looking forward to sharing the student perspective and being able to help make sure students' voices are heard."

By embedding student voices into official discussions, the WBSD Board of Education reinforces its commitment to transparent, community-centered decision-making. With Guerra and Diaz at the table, the district ensures that the future of its schools is guided by the very students who walk its hallways every day.

Make Your Holiday Gatherings Local

IN BROWNSTOWN TOWNSHIP

THE holiday season is quickly approaching, bringing opportunities to gather with family, celebrate with friends and recognize coworkers for another year of hard work. Whether you're planning an office holiday party, hosting a family get-together or organizing a festive meal with friends, Brownstown Township businesses offer options to help make your celebrations a little easier.

Several local establishments offer event spaces and catering menus to help bring everyone together.

Looking for a Place to Host Your Celebration?

Big Bear Lodge

Bring the cozy, Up North atmosphere to your next holiday gathering at Big Bear Lodge. The restaurant offers three semi-private dining rooms, customizable event menus, full bar service, and in-house cake options. With spaces accommodating groups of different sizes, it's an option for family celebrations, workplace gatherings and holiday parties. For event details and room availability, call (734) 782-6600 or visit Big Bear Lodge's event page.

Champions Sports Grill

Planning a casual, lively holiday party? Champions Sports Grill offers a private banquet room for gatherings with family, friends and coworkers. With a sports-grill atmosphere and food and beverage options, it's worth considering for your next group celebration. For information about room reservations and event arrangements, call (734) 284-7000 or visit Champions' private event page.

Baldo's Restaurant

Baldo's Restaurant offers both banquet accommodations and catering, making it a convenient option whether you want to host your gathering at the restaurant or serve a meal at another location. Its menu features Italian favorites and other crowd-pleasing options suitable for family celebrations and workplace events. To discuss banquet arrangements or catering orders, call (734) 479-0100 or visit Baldo's banquet and catering page.

Hosting at Home or at the Office? Let a Local Business Help with the Food.

The Market

Take some of the work out of holiday meal planning with catering from The Market. Options include meat and cheese trays, fruit platters, chicken tenders, party subs, and other selections for gatherings of various sizes. The Market also offers larger meal options for events and group celebrations. For catering menus, ordering information and questions about lead times, call (734) 479-1240 or visit The Market's catering page.

Princess Mediterranean Grill

Add something different to your holiday spread with Mediterranean catering from Princess Mediterranean Grill. Its catering options include food trays, boxed lunches, sandwiches, wraps, and customizable menus for family gatherings and workplace events. Pickup, delivery, staffing, and event setup options are also available. For catering questions, customized menus or ordering details, call (734) 672-7768 or visit Princess Mediterranean Grill's Brownstown catering page. The restaurant requests at least 24 hours' notice for catering orders.

Supporting local businesses during the holiday season is a meaningful way to invest in our community while making time to enjoy the people who matter most. Whether you choose a local venue for your celebration or order catering to serve at home, consider keeping your holiday plans close to home this year.

Plan ahead! The holiday season is a busy time for restaurants and caterers, so contact businesses early to discuss availability, menus, pricing, and any ordering deadlines.

SMALL BUSINESS WEEKEND SWEEPSTAKES by the DDA

THE holiday season is here, and with it comes the excitement of holiday shopping! As you begin checking names off your gift list, consider shopping locally and supporting the small businesses that make our community special.

Small Business Saturday takes place each year on the Saturday after Thanksgiving, encouraging shoppers to support small, locally owned businesses in their communities. Established by American Express in 2010 and recognized by the U.S. Small Business Administration, this annual tradition highlights the important role small businesses play in creating jobs, strengthening local economies and building vibrant communities.

When you shop small, your dollars help support local business owners, their employees and the services and experiences that make Brownstown Township unique. From finding one-of-a-kind gifts to discovering a new favorite shop, shopping locally is a meaningful way to give back to your community during the holiday season and throughout the year.

For the second year in a row, the Brownstown Downtown Development Authority (DDA) is celebrating Small Business Saturday with its Small Business Weekend Selfie Sweepstakes! Shoppers are encouraged to visit participating local businesses, snap a photo and enter for a chance to win a gift card from a local Brownstown business.

Want to participate? Visit the Brownstown DDA Facebook page for sweepstakes details, entry instructions and updates. This Small Business Saturday, make a difference with your holiday shopping by choosing local and showing your support for the businesses that help our community thrive.

Celebrating Local Business Milestones

IN BROWNSTOWN TOWNSHIP

THE Brownstown Downtown Development Authority (DDA) is proud to celebrate the businesses that contribute to our community's continued growth. Recently, the DDA recognized two business milestones with ribbon-cutting ceremonies: the reopening of Arnold's Place following a complete restaurant renovation and the expansion of Kerry Brothers Truck Repair into Brownstown Township.

Kerry Brothers Truck Repair Celebrates Ribbon Cutting

On August 26, 2026, the DDA celebrated Kerry Brothers Truck Repair with a ribbon-cutting ceremony. A family-owned business serving the Metro Detroit area since 1985, Kerry Brothers specializes in commercial vehicle services, including truck repairs, preventive maintenance, fleet services and roadside assistance.

Its Brownstown location expands access to these essential services for local businesses and fleet operators. The company's growth into Brownstown follows its acquisition of Downriver Bus & Truck Repair, building on its longstanding experience in the commercial vehicle industry.

Arnold's Place Reopens Following Complete Renovation

On August 31, 2026, the DDA celebrated the reopening of Arnold's Place following a complete renovation of the restaurant. The renovations gave the diner a fresh, new look while allowing it to continue welcoming customers to enjoy its menu of breakfast favorites, classic comfort food and diner staples. This exciting milestone represents a renewed investment in a local dining destination and provides residents with another opportunity to support Brownstown's restaurant community.

These ribbon cuttings highlight the variety of businesses that strengthen Brownstown Township's economy, from local dining destinations to specialized service providers. The DDA congratulates both businesses on their milestones and looks forward to celebrating their continued growth and success in the community.

Small Changes, Big Financial Wins

How Community Focus Federal Credit Union is making a difference in members' lives

BEHIND every financial decision is a person, a family and a story. Sometimes, meaningful financial progress starts with something as simple as sitting down with someone who is willing to listen.

At Community Focus Federal Credit Union, our Certified Credit Union Financial Counselors help members understand their finances, work through challenges and create practical plans for moving forward.

For one longtime member, that guidance ultimately led to thousands of dollars in estimated savings.

The member came to Community Focus with an auto loan from another lender carrying an interest rate of approximately 21% APR*. Jessica, one of our financial counselors, reviewed the member's situation and helped develop a plan for improving their credit.

"We value the relationships we build with our members, so when we see an opportunity to help someone improve their financial situation, we do everything we can to help them get there," Jessica said.

The member followed the plan and returned several months later. With an improved credit score, the member was able to refinance the vehicle with Community Focus at 9.09% APR*. Based on the interest the member was projected to pay on the existing loan compared with the refinanced loan, the change was estimated to save more than $15,000 in interest over the remaining term.

For financial counselor Kirsty, another member's situation became personal.

As she listened to a single mother facing financial challenges, Kirsty could relate to what she was experiencing.

"Having kids of my own and being a single parent just like her, my heart broke for her," Kirsty said. "I knew what she was going through, and I wasn't going to turn down an opportunity to help change her life."

COMMUNITY FOCUS

These experiences are a reminder that behind every credit score, loan balance and budget is a person with a unique story.

Our Certified Credit Union Financial Counselors provide confidential, judgment-free guidance to help members better understand their credit, manage debt, develop budgets and identify practical steps toward their goals. Counselors are available at both our Brownstown and Ecorse branches.

Whether someone is rebuilding credit, managing debt, preparing for a major purchase or simply trying to gain more control over their finances, progress often begins with a conversation.

Because sometimes having someone listen, understand your situation and help you create a plan can make a very real difference.

Your brighter financial future starts with a conversation. Visit CommunityFocusFCU.org or stop by our Brownstown or Ecorse branch to learn how we can help.

Community Focus Federal Credit Union serves individuals and families throughout Wayne and Monroe counties, with branch locations in Brownstown and Ecorse.

Passion for Protection

A career devoted to restoring the Detroit River, reconnecting communities with nature

By Ryan M. Place

WHEN John Hartig was a boy, his father would take him fishing along the Detroit River, where the signs of industrial pollution were impossible to ignore.

"We'd see oil-coated rocks, oil floating on the water," Hartig recalled. "It was nauseating."

During summer vacations, they'd visit Torch Lake and other lakes throughout Michigan, where the water was remarkably different. That contrast helped inspire a lifelong career devoted to protecting and restoring the Great Lakes.

Born in Vancouver, Washington, Hartig's family settled in Allen Park in 1958. Hartig graduated from Allen Park High School in 1970 and earned bachelor's and master's degrees from Eastern Michigan University, before completing a doctorate in limnology, the ecological study of freshwaters, at the University of Windsor. A longtime Downriver resident, he later called Trenton home for 30 years.

From 1985 to 1999, Hartig worked for the International Joint Commission, focusing on cleaning up pollution hotspots throughout the Great Lakes.

In 1999, he became the Detroit River's "River Navigator," working with government officials, businesses and community leaders to advance environmental restoration and sustainable economic development.

"I'm a boundary-spanner," Hartig said. "Meaningful progress requires cooperation across political, geographic and scientific boundaries."

One of his greatest accomplishments came through the creation of the Detroit River International Wildlife Refuge in 2001, the first international wildlife refuge in North America.

Working alongside Congressman John Dingell, businessman Peter Stroh and other leaders, Hartig helped turn an ambitious conservation vision into reality. There were plenty of skeptics.

"This is an industrial town," Hartig recalled of the prevailing attitude. "But we believed the region could move beyond its reputation for pollution."

Hartig became the refuge's first full-time manager in 2004, serving for 14 years. Today, the refuge protects important wildlife habitats along the Detroit River and western Lake Erie. Its visitor center in Trenton offers a visitor center, walking trails, wildlife observation areas, a fishing pier, and opportunities for kayaking.

For Hartig, the river's ecological recovery has been nothing short of extraordinary.

"Bald eagles, peregrine falcons, osprey, lake sturgeon, beavers and river otters have returned to an ecosystem once utterly devastated by pollution," he said.

A persistent idealist who also knows how to get things done, Hartig is a prolific author, with eight books and approximately 160 scientific publications.

A former Fulbright Scholar, Hartig remains active as a visiting scholar at the University of Windsor. He also chairs the Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan's Great Lakes Way Advisory Committee, helping connect communities with nature through greenways and water trails.

Outside his professional work, Hartig enjoys spending time with his three grandchildren, often visiting local eateries and parks, the wildlife refuge and other outdoor destinations.

For Hartig, seeing another generation enjoy the natural places he spent his career protecting may be one of the most meaningful measures of the Detroit River's truly remarkable recovery.

"I'm motivated by stewardship and thinking intergenerationally," he said. "Seeing my grandchildren enjoy this area makes it all worthwhile."

A True Partnership

Wealth advisors operate on trust, clarity and confidence

By Terry Jacoby

KEY CONCERNS is an independent, fee-based registered investment adviser based out of Wyandotte and Monroe. Founded in 1998 by the now successfully retired Barb Grose and Sue Waterhouse, the legacy of putting clients first continues today.

Co-owners Jennifer Brown and Erin Shelton want to work with people who share their values, want to be involved in the process and value a relationship built on trust.

"We take our fiduciary responsibility to our clients very seriously and will not hesitate to recommend a route that makes us less money," Shelton said. "Working with us requires laying a lot of cards on the table and opening up your finances so we first need to build trust."

Whether someone is just beginning to build wealth, preparing for retirement or navigating a major life transition, having a trusted financial professional can provide clarity and confidence.

"We're intentionally a smaller firm that takes the time to get to know our clients and understand what matters most to them," Brown said. "We believe financial planning should never feel intimidating, so we focus on making complex topics easier to understand and helping clients feel comfortable asking questions."

That relationship begins with a meeting to see if the fit is right – from both sides of the table.

"We believe financial planning works best when it's a true partnership," Brown said.

In a field dominated by men, Key Concerns has always been owned and operated by women and has stayed in the family since day one.

"I like that we are an independent firm, which means we are not fenced in by any one wealth manager or fund family, as some of the larger firms are," Shelton said.

Riverview Hospice provides compassion, answers the tough questions

MARY Reed founded Riverview Hospice Care with a vision to educate, encourage and empower the community by providing compassionate, personalized and dignified in-home hospice care.

Mary Reed , FNP-BC

As an expert in the field, with almost two decades of experience, Reed knows there are a lot of misconceptions and feelings about what hospice really is. She's there to answer those frightening questions that can make people uncomfortable.

1. Does choosing hospice mean giving up?
No. Hospice is about gaining quality of life, comfort and support. It's choosing to live each day with dignity.

2. Will hospice care only focus on the patient?
No. We support the whole family emotionally, spiritually and practically.

3. Can we still see our regular doctor?
Yes. We work together as a team to ensure the best possible care.

4. If we sign up for hospice, can we change our mind?
Yes. Hospice is always your choice. You can change your mind at any time. We're here when you're ready.

5. Do we have to do hospice care at a facility?
No. Most care is provided in the comfort of your home, surrounded by the people and things you love.

Riverview Hospice Care continues to grow, reaching more families across our community while staying true to its founding promise – to provide compassionate, personalized hospice care that celebrates life, honors legacy and embraces peace.

Riverview Hospice Care, Inc., is located at 1100 Eureka Road in Wyandotte.

A WORD ABOUT DNRS (DO NOT RESUSCITATE ORDERS):
Three clear answers for patients and families

Does hospice require a DNR order?
NO. A DNR is not required to receive hospice care. Hospice enrollment and DNR decisions are separate.

What does a DNR order mean?
It tells medical professionals not to start CPR if your breathing or heartbeat stops.

Does a DNR mean no more care?
No. A DNR concerns CPR only. Hospice continues comfort-based care and support for your family.

BOND PROGRAM UPDATE

MANY improvements were completed or advanced during summer 2026 as Gibraltar School District continues to invest 2023 Bond Program funds into safer, more modern learning environments. Construction remains ongoing across several buildings, with additional projects scheduled for completion in the coming months and years.

Project Highlights

Parsons Elementary

- Heating system improvements, classroom painting, and new casework, including cabinets and bookshelves, were completed throughout the summer.
- Construction continues on the school's new classrooms and Gym addition, anticipated for completion in fall 2027.

Rockwood Early Learning Center

- Classroom flooring replacement is underway.
- Parking lot improvements are enhancing traffic flow and accessibility.
- Exterior façade was upgraded and created a more welcoming entry experience.

Carlson High School

- The auditorium was renovated with new seating, flooring, lighting, sound systems, and a refinished stage completed throughout the summer.
- The South Main entrance façade was replaced with new brick and metal paneling to create a modern appearance.

These projects reflect the district's continued commitment to providing safe, modern, and engaging learning environments that support student success for years to come.

Brownstown Fire Department Brings Fire Safety to Hunter Elementary

STUDENTS at Hunter Elementary School enjoyed a special visit from the Brownstown Fire Department in October in recognition of Fire Prevention Week!

Throughout the visit, firefighters helped students learn important fire safety lessons, including how to recognize potential fire hazards, the importance of working smoke alarms, creating a family escape plan, and what to do in the event of a fire. Students were reminded that firefighters are helpers who keep our community safe, and the kids also had the chance to tour a fire truck.

Adding to the excitement, the fire department's mascot joined the visit, bringing plenty of smiles and making the experience even more memorable for our young Hornets!

On behalf of the Gibraltar School District, we extend a heartfelt thank you to the Brownstown Fire Department for its continued partnership with our schools and community. We are grateful for the time, care and dedication these first responders invest in educating our students and helping keep our families safe.

Partnerships like these make our schools and community stronger!

Downriver STEM at Weiss

Where Learning Comes to Life

AT Downriver STEM at Weiss Elementary, STEM is happening every day! Our students are learning by doing, working together, asking questions, solving problems, testing ideas, and thinking creatively.

Walk through our building and you might see students working as engineers to design and build electrical systems using solar energy, working together to rescue a stranded "shipmate," creating human number lines to solve math problems or collaborating on projects that connect classroom learning to real-world challenges.

Our students are also developing important skills beyond academics. Through STEM and project-based learning, they are learning how to communicate their ideas, listen to others, persevere when something doesn't work, and work as a team to find solutions.

From our youngest Wildcats learning the power of teamwork to our oldest students designing a student government and using their voices to make a difference in their school community, STEM is helping our students become confident thinkers, creative problem-solvers and innovative leaders.

We are proud to be Downriver STEM at Weiss, where learning comes to life!

WELCOME to Marauder Made, a new feature that will highlight current students and alumni of Gibraltar School District who are putting their education and experience to good use, finding ways to help improve their community, and the world at large.

Join us in celebrating these shining stars, who got their start in Gibraltar School District!

Gibraltar School District Alum

Shawn (Miles) STIRLING

FOR Carlson High School graduate Shawn (Miles) Stirling, being "Marauder Made" is more than a connection to where she went to school. It is a story that spans three generations and has ultimately brought her right back to where it all began.

A member of Carlson's Class of 1987, Shawn attended Barrow Elementary, Shumate Middle School and Carlson High School. Some of her favorite memories came from her years in the Carlson Marching Band. Between band camp, practices, performances, and countless hours spent together, her fellow band members became like family. Many of those friendships have lasted nearly four decades.

After graduating from Carlson, Shawn attended Siena Heights University. She initially planned to pursue nursing, but a part-time job with an engineering firm introduced her to accounting. She discovered that she loved the problem-solving and critical-thinking aspects of the field and changed her major, earning her bachelor's degree in accounting.

That decision eventually led Shawn back home.

Today, after more than 28 years working in school district finance, Shawn serves as director of finance for Gibraltar School District, where she is now in her 11th year. For Shawn, there is something particularly meaningful about building a career in the same district that helped shape her.

Her connection to GSD also extends across generations. Her parents attended Gibraltar schools, Shawn is a Carlson graduate, and her twin sons, Samuel and Seth, are part of the Marauder story as well. Even today, Shawn's dad can still be found at Carlson football games cheering on the Marauders.

Looking back, Shawn credits her GSD experiences with teaching her responsibility, communication, teamwork, and the importance of relationships. Those lessons continue to influence how she approaches her career and community involvement, including representing the district as a member of the Gibraltar Rotary.

Her advice for today's Marauders reflects the path she followed herself: "Do what you love regardless of the money. No amount of money can make you love something that your heart is not into. Follow your heart."

For Shawn, following her heart ultimately led her home.

"All these years later, I still love being a Marauder," she said. "From my education here to my career, I can think of no place I'd rather be than where it all started."

Three generations, countless memories and a career dedicated to serving the district she grew up in. Once a Marauder, always a Marauder.

MARAUDER

Carlson High School Senior

Farah ESSAF

CARLSON High School senior Farah Essaf has spent her time in Gibraltar School District discovering how her interests in medicine, public health and service can make a difference well beyond the classroom.

A GSD student since elementary school, Farah attended Weiss Elementary and Shumate Middle School before coming to Carlson. Today, one of the accomplishments she is most proud of is becoming the author of the children's heart-health education book, "My Friend, Heart".

The idea for the book grew from Farah's goal of making health education more accessible, especially for younger children. After seeing another student use a children's book to teach about dental health, Farah began exploring how she could do something similar with heart health. She connected with The Heart Foundation and then took on the challenge of learning the publishing process herself. Proceeds from the book benefit the foundation, extending the impact of her work even further.

For Farah, however, writing the book was only the beginning. She has brought heart-health education directly to younger students through workshops, including at Weiss Elementary, where her own GSD journey began. She also founded Cardio4youth, a student-led heart-health education organization that provides seminars and awareness opportunities, as well as Carlson's Healthcare Club.

Her passion for medicine and public health has also been shaped by educators at Carlson. Farah credits Dr. Rice, her AP psychology teacher, with challenging her to consider different perspectives and introducing her to academic research and writing. She also points to Mr. Gervasi and her experience in AP U.S. Government as helping her recognize the important connection between public policy, health and community well-being.

After graduation, Farah plans to pursue a double major in biochemistry and public health sciences, with the long-term goal of combining medicine and public health.

To Farah, being "Marauder Made" is about community, connection and using your strengths to make a difference. Her journey from a student at Weiss Elementary to a published author and health advocate is a wonderful example of just that.

BROWNSTOWN TOWNSHIP BICENTENNIAL LOGO CONTEST

Local designer Brandon Smith's winning design

AS Brownstown Charter Township prepares to celebrate a remarkable milestone – its 200th anniversary in 2027 – a local graphic designer has earned a special place in the community's history.

Brandon Smith, a resident of Woodhaven, has been selected as the winner of the Brownstown Township Bicentennial Logo Design Contest. His winning design will serve as a visual symbol of the township's bicentennial celebration, helping residents commemorate two centuries of local history, community pride and progress.

> "This bicentennial logo celebrates 200 years of Brownstown's history while highlighting the township's connection to community, nature and future growth. The bold '200' symbolizes strength and longevity while the shoreline scene within the design reflects Brownstown's ties to water, wetlands and the Lake Erie region.
> The flowing pathway represents progress and the journey from 1827 to 2027. Marsh grasses and birds symbolize the area's natural beauty, freedom and optimism for the future. The clean typography and modern vector styling were designed to feel timeless and versatile across signage, apparel, and digital media.
> The navy, blue and green color palette represents stability, water, growth, and community pride. The tagline: '200 Years. One Community. Our Future.' reinforces Brownstown's shared history and vision for the future."
> Brandon Smith

The contest was organized as part of the preparations for Brownstown's upcoming bicentennial, marking the township's founding in 1827. Open to adults from the community and beyond, the competition invited artists and designers to create an original logo that would capture the spirit of Brownstown's past while celebrating its future.

Participants were challenged to develop a design suitable for a wide variety of uses, including promotional materials, commemorative merchandise, signage, publications, and digital communications. Entries were required to incorporate the township's name, a reference to its bicentennial or 200-year anniversary and the commemorative dates of 1827–2027.

The winning entry would become the official emblem of this once-in-a-generation celebration, with its creator receiving a $500 prize.

Brandon with wife Crystal and daughter Ella, on the day he was honored for the winning design.

For Smith, the contest offered an opportunity to apply his professional design skills to a project with lasting local significance. He works professionally as a designer at www.Loudmouth.tv, bringing creative experience to a competition that called for both artistic vision and an appreciation of local history.

His selection is particularly fitting given the close ties between Woodhaven and Brownstown. The neighboring Downriver communities share a rich regional heritage, and Smith's contribution demonstrates how local talent can help celebrate the history and identity of the places we call home.

While a logo may seem like a small part of a 200th anniversary celebration, its importance extends well beyond its appearance. A successful commemorative emblem brings together history, identity and civic pride in a single recognizable image. It becomes a symbol that residents can rally around and a lasting reminder of a significant moment in their community's story.

Smith's design will help give Brownstown's bicentennial a distinctive visual identity as the township approaches its historic anniversary.

CELEBRATING 200 YEARS OF BROWNSTOWN HISTORY

Founded in 1827, Brownstown Township has witnessed extraordinary changes over the past two centuries. From its early days as a developing community in southeastern Michigan to its growth into the vibrant township residents know today, Brownstown's history reflects generations of families, businesses and community leaders who have helped shape its character.

The 2027 bicentennial offers an opportunity not only to remember those who came before us, but also to celebrate the people who continue to contribute to Brownstown's future.

Congratulations to Brandon Smith on this well-deserved recognition, and thank you to everyone who participated in the contest and contributed their creativity to this special community project!

Michigan's Unsung Heroes of Fall

What would the season be without farmers and orchards?

By Kelsi Klein

ALTHOUGH summer seems to go by too fast, fall in Michigan is a welcomed season. From visiting pumpkin patches to drinking fresh apple cider, fall traditions are highly anticipated each year.

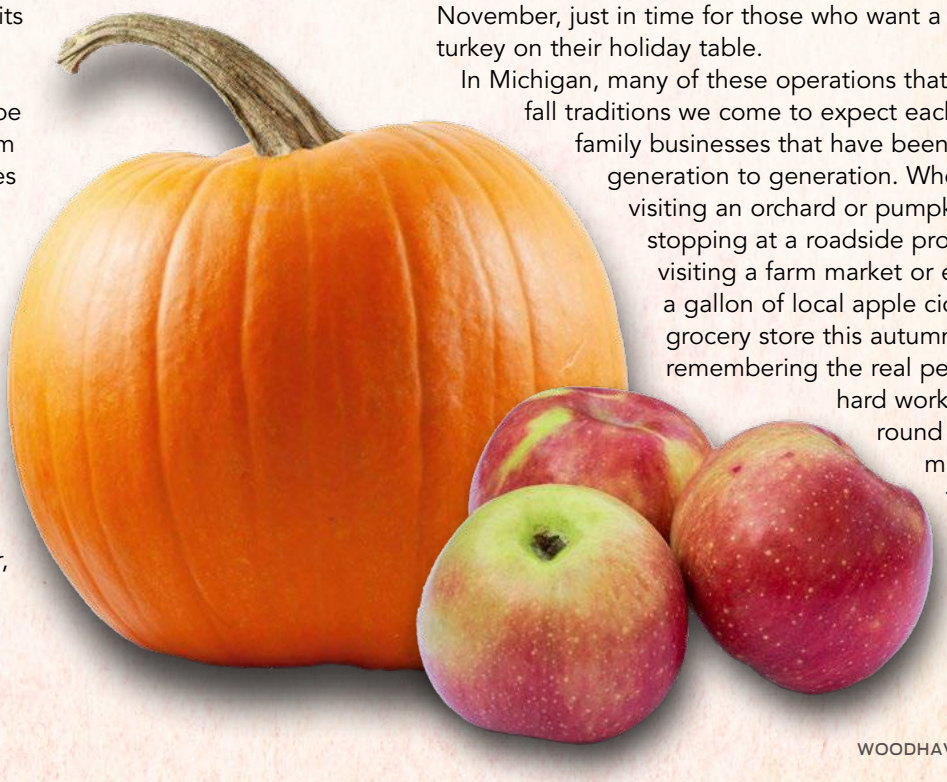

For many people, these traditions simply come with the territory of changing leaves and dropping temperatures, but behind every crisp apple, ripe orange pumpkin and jar of local honey are dedicated folks whose work begins long before September arrives.

Michigan's farmers, orchard owners, greenhouse growers, turkey farmers and more shape the harvest season, making fall traditions possible for all to enjoy.

Thanks to its climate, proximity to lakes and nutrient-rich soil, Michigan is the ideal place to grow apples. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, the state is the second largest apple-producing state in America, with approximately 850 family-run farms producing over one billion pounds of apples each year.

Though apples are harvested from mid-to-late August through October, apple farming is a year-round job. Without these farms and farmers, fall staples like apple cider, apple pie and visits to the apple orchard wouldn't exist.

And what would fall be without pumpkins? From visiting pumpkin patches to pick the perfect Halloween jack-o-lanterns to indulging in a classic pumpkin pie on Thanksgiving, the orange winter squash is a sign of fall. Farmers plant seeds in late spring, and the plants require maintenance throughout the summer, taking 90-120 days to mature from seed to harvest.

Michigan beekeepers play a vital role in not only honey production, but also pollination. According to Michigan State University, about 50 percent of Michigan's fruit and vegetable industry depends on honeybees. Michigan fall honey is harvested between late August and early October and is a darker, full-bodied honey – perfect for fall baked goods and hot drinks. Beekeepers work year-round to maintain hives and protect the bees from parasites, disease, starvation and more.

Greenhouses and family farms continue working long after the spring and summer season, extending local produce supply past the first outdoor frost, helping make late-season crops and cool-season greens available at local farmers markets.

Michigan is the 15th largest producer of turkeys in the country, and turkey farmers begin prepping for Thanksgiving months in advance. Farmers typically receive young poults in early July, and they grow for about 16-20 weeks on a grain-based diet on local farms. They reach their full market weight and are ready for processing in November, just in time for those who want a fresh, local turkey on their holiday table.

In Michigan, many of these operations that bring us the fall traditions we come to expect each season are family businesses that have been passed from generation to generation. Whether it's visiting an orchard or pumpkin patch, stopping at a roadside produce stand, visiting a farm market or even buying a gallon of local apple cider at the grocery store this autumn, it's worth remembering the real people whose hard work and year-round commitment make all the things we love about fall possible.

A Law Enforcement Career

It doesn't always start with a badge

By Deputy Chief Andrew Starzec

WHEN people think about a career in law enforcement, they often picture a police officer in uniform. But an effective police department depends on much more than sworn officers. It takes a team of people with different skills, experiences and perspectives working toward a common mission: serving and protecting the community.

At the Brownstown Township Police Department, police service officers (PSOs) play an important part in that mission. These civilian professionals support essential operations, including detention responsibilities, records management and administrative functions. Their work keeps the department running efficiently and helps maintain the professionalism residents expect.

Some of the most important work in this department happens out of public view. Our police service officers keep daily operations running smoothly. If you want to serve your community and grow professionally, this is a meaningful place to start your career.

What a PSO Does

On any given shift, a PSO may help monitor and care for people in custody, process reports and records, assist residents who call or visit the station, and support officers so they can spend more time on the road. Every new PSO completes a structured training program designed specifically for the role, so no prior law enforcement experience is required.

A Different Path into Law Enforcement

For anyone interested in criminal justice or public service, a civilian position offers a firsthand look at how a police department really works. It is a chance to learn, build professional skills and explore a future in the field.

For some, this experience is the first step toward becoming a sworn police officer. For others, it leads to a rewarding career in civilian public safety, administration or operational support. Both paths strengthen the department.

Different Strengths. One Mission.

Not everyone brings the same experience to public safety, and that is a strength. Clear communication, attention to detail, sound judgment, technical knowledge, empathy, organization, and teamwork all have a place in modern policing.

Some people excel at direct community engagement. Others make their greatest contributions through investigations, records, dispatch, detention operations, technology, or administrative support. Each function matters, and the right combination of people helps a department meet the changing needs of its community.

Public safety is a shared responsibility, and meaningful service takes many forms.

Your Future in Public Safety

You do not have to begin as a sworn officer to make a difference. Whether you are a student considering criminal justice, someone looking for a career change or a resident who simply wants to serve your hometown, a civilian role may be the right place to start.

To learn more about current openings, visit Brownstownmi.gov or contact the Brownstown Township Police Department at (734) 675-1300.

A career in law enforcement doesn't always start with a badge. Sometimes it starts with discovering how your unique strengths can serve something bigger than yourself.

THE SPIRIT OF THE SEASON: Gratitude, Giving and Community

A holiday message from Fire Chief Ryan Raumen and Deputy Fire Chief Dave Zurawski

As Thanksgiving and Christmas approach, we are reminded to slow down, appreciate the people around us and recognize the many ways we can make a difference in our community. Between busy schedules, holiday shopping and family gatherings, it is easy to overlook the true meaning of the season. Yet, some of the greatest gifts we can give are not found under a Christmas tree, but in the kindness, compassion and generosity we share with others.

Gratitude Begins with the Little Things

Thanksgiving gives us an opportunity to reflect on the blessings in our lives, whether it is a warm home, a meal shared with loved ones, a supportive friend, or a neighbor willing to lend a hand. Gratitude does not require everything to be perfect. Sometimes, simply saying thank you, checking in on a friend or spending time with someone who needs company can make a world of difference.

As we move into the Christmas season, we are reminded that giving is about much more than presents. Donating food, providing winter clothing, supporting a family in need, or volunteering your time are all meaningful ways to spread holiday cheer. The value of a gift is not measured by its price, but by the thought, care and compassion behind it.

Stronger Together Through Giving

The Brownstown Fire Department is proud to work alongside community organizations that help make the holiday season brighter for local families. Our charity work throughout the year reflects the importance of neighbors helping neighbors and organizations working together to support those in need. These efforts remind us that a strong community is built on people who care enough to step forward and make a difference. We encourage residents to support local charitable efforts whenever possible.

The holidays can also be a difficult time for those experiencing financial hardship, grief or loneliness. A friendly conversation, an invitation to share a meal or a simple check-in can remind someone that they are not forgotten. Sometimes the most meaningful thing we can give is our time.

A Safe and Happy Holiday Season

As you celebrate, please remember to keep safety part of your holiday traditions. Never leave cooking unattended, keep candles away from flammable materials, water live Christmas trees regularly, and keep space heaters at least three feet from anything that can burn. Test your smoke and carbon monoxide alarms and make sure everyone in your household knows two ways out of every room and where to meet outside.

From our fire department family to yours, we wish you a Thanksgiving filled with gratitude and a Christmas filled with joy, peace and meaningful moments with loved ones. Thank you for allowing us to serve this wonderful community throughout the year.

This holiday season, give thanks, give generously, look out for one another, and remember that the smallest act of kindness can make the biggest difference.

Your Brownstown Fire Department wishes you and your family a safe and happy holiday season!

Be Their Safe Place in the Storm

How to deal with kids' negative body images

By Tracy Willis

ADOLESCENCE is a time of huge changes – physically, emotionally, sexually, and socially. With all the upheaval, it's not surprising that teens and young adults sometimes struggle with body image. Add societal pressures and imagery, and the scales seem tipped in favor of the struggle.

In fact, according to the American Psychological Association, teens and young adults who reduced their social media use by 50 percent for just a few weeks saw significant improvement in how they felt about their weight and overall appearance when compared with peers who didn't change their social media habits.

That's a startling statistic.

Recognize when your child might have a negative body image.

Not every child says, "I hate how I look." Negative body image can show up in subtle ways. Your child might avoid mirrors, photos, swimming, or wearing certain clothing. They might compare themselves to their friends or social media influencers. You might see eating or exercising behavioral changes. All of these can be signals that your child is struggling.

So, what can parents do to support their children?

Address the elephant in the room.

Social media. Tik Tok. Facebook. Instagram. It's everywhere. Delay your child's introduction to social media for as long as possible. Wait Until 8th, an online network that encourages parents to stick together and delay smartphone access until age 14 (eighth grade), states that early smartphone usage is linked to increased eating disorders and other mental health issues. Limiting your child's smartphone access and screen time is a research-supported first step in counteracting childhood body image issues.

Pay attention to how your family talks about bodies.

Children are sponges. Focus on what you're modeling for them. Avoid criticizing your own or others' bodies. Reframe your own "diet talk" into conversations about strength and health. Try to avoid judgment vocabulary like "good," "bad," "fat," "ugly," and "beautiful."

Talk more about body function than body appearance.

Imagine watching your daughter at her dance recital. You beam with pride. Instead of saying, "You looked beautiful up there, honey." Flip your remarks. "Your body is so strong and powerful."

When you flip the focus to your child's capabilities, their focus becomes accomplishment instead of appearance.

Listen first. Talk later.

When your child says she hates her body, your instinct is to jump in with, "But you're beautiful. Don't say that." That tends to immediately shut down your child's emotions and subsequent conversation. This is an opportunity for discussion and understanding. Try this instead:

- Pause and listen.
- Acknowledge her feelings: "That must be hard."
- Ask, "What makes you feel that way?"

When your child feels heard instead of reassured, the hard emotions might not feel so difficult.

It's hard to see your child, one of the loves of your life, struggle with self-image. They are your pride and joy. If body image concerns affect your child's mental health or daily functioning, it's wise to seek help. Reach out to your child's pediatrician, school counselors or adolescent/childhood therapists. Early support keeps negative patterns from becoming ingrained.

Although you can't protect your child from all the negative influences swirling around them, you can be their safe place in the storm.

How the Victorian Era Shaped Modern Christmas Traditions

By Kelsi Klein

HAVE you ever wondered why we decorate Christmas trees, exchange Christmas cards, hang stockings or go through the process of decorating our homes for the holidays? Some of the traditions that define Christmas as we know it came directly from the Victorian era.

In America's early days, Christmas celebrations, or lack thereof, varied by region. Many New England settlers with Puritan roots avoided them, while southern colonies modeled their Christmas celebrations after English traditions with multi-day festivities.

According to Mackinac State Historic Parks, as the United States developed a stronger national identity through immigration and westward expansion, the evolution of Christmas in America was shaped by a combination of old and new traditions alike.

The Victorian era and the Gilded Age in the late 19th century brought industrialization, economic growth and urbanization, introducing the rise of the middle class. American Christmas festivities during this time began to take place inside homes with family gatherings, Christmas trees, cards, gifts and more. Many Victorian customs are still at the heart of American Christmas traditions today.

Christmas trees

Though the concept of decorating Christmas trees started in Germany in the 1500s, it was popularized during the Victorian Era when a drawing of Queen Victoria, Prince Albert and their children standing around a decorated Christmas tree was published in Illustrated London News in 1848.

Early trees featured decorations like dried fruits, popcorn strings and open-flamed candles, which gave way to today's themed ornaments, family keepsakes and much safer string lights.

Christmas cards

While the practice of sending Christmas cards in the mail has declined in recent years in exchange for posting digital versions on social media, the first commercial Christmas card was commissioned by Sir Henry Cole in England in 1843. According to the Smithsonian, by 1875 the first American Christmas card was produced in a print shop near Boston.

By the early 1900s, the Hallmark company was born and it spearheaded the greeting card industry in America. To this day, Americans hold on to Victorian traditions of displaying their Christmas cards on fireplace mantels, doorways and refrigerators.

Gift giving

Prior to the Victorian era, gift-giving usually took place around New Year's Day and other winter celebrations, but as Christmas celebrations expanded, families began hanging small gifts on their trees for their children or hanging stockings with basic items like sweets, a fresh orange, a small coin or a single toy.

As industrialization advanced, mass production, consumerism and extra spending money gave families the opportunity to purchase larger gifts that were placed under the tree. Today, according to the National Retail Federation, holiday shopping accounts for nearly 20 percent of total annual retail sales in America.

Christmas cheer and holiday spirit

Much of what we know today as "Christmas cheer" stemmed from Victorian era traditions of family celebrations, traditional dinners, charity and goodwill. Christmas became a federal holiday in 1870 and has since shaped American culture from both a religious and secular standpoint.

Today, Michigan is home to many Victorian-style Christmas celebrations, most notably the annual Holly Dickens Festival. To get a firsthand look at what Victorian Christmas was like in southeast Michigan, check your local historical museums as many decorate for Christmas each year.
