CHAIRMAN'S WELCOME

by Nick Cragg

Today we welcome old friends, Bedford Blues, back to Clifton Lane, for our second home fixture of the new Champ Rugby 2026/27 season. This is their first visit since the 2017-18 season, and there is more on the head-to-head history between our two clubs elsewhere in the programme. We welcome them all; players, officials, supporters, and hope they enjoy their day.

In addition to our guests from Bedford Blues, all of whom will be kindly hosted by our VP's; we welcome our other visitors and their guests including Franco Ventura from McDonalds, Mick Appleyard from Map Services, Chris Hartley from CLH Accounting, Daniel Holland from Apollo Blinds, Paul Hewson from EnerSys, Jeremy Neal from Jeremy Neal Funeral Directors, Alex Baker from Shillito Group, Julian Broome, Mel Smith and Charles Thickett - a very warm welcome to you all - I hope you have an excellent day with us.

Our first home game against Coventry was an exciting, fast paced match, with the result in the balance to the final few minutes. The prediction graphic that Champ Rugby shared on the Friday showed that very few people felt we would win, and the high quality of the game made some sit up and take notice that Rotherham can certainly upset predictions in this league.

The away game at Worcester Warriors was always going to prove a seriously tough challenge, and it proved that this time the Champ predictions were correct. For Harvey and the coaches, it was an opportunity to see how the new squad would react to a packed, passionate stadium, against high-quality full-time professional players, on a fast artificial surface.

For parts of the game, we matched them in intensity, but every error was punished, allowing them to rack up the points. We look forward to the return match at Clifton Lane, where I know we will have a bumper crowd travelling from Worcester, keen to re-visit the scene of some memorable matches between our two clubs.

Comments on social media from the Worcester faithful showed how pleased they were to have us at Sixways again, with the #ShedOnTour warmly welcomed back into the Champ.

The coverage of Champ Rugby games by Clubber TV, have allowed those unable to head to Sixways the chance to watch in our Clubhouse at Clifton Lane. Doncaster Knights have featured on the first 2 games with Blaze TV on a Sunday, and we are looking forward to Sunday November 1st, when we welcome Cornish Pirates for our first home Sunday fixture at Clifton Lane.

The Champ was always going to be a huge step up for the Club, on and off the field, and we appreciate your patience as we continue to upgrade the facilities at Clifton Lane, and as our squad comes to terms with the demands of rugby at this level. There will be many more highs, such as the win against Coventry, and some days where the results will be tough to take, such as last Saturday. As always, we appreciate your support, home and away.

Enjoy the game.

FROM THE COACHES DEN

by Harvey Biljon – Director of Rugby

We said going into the Champ that we would experience some real highs, but also some lows and we're probably going to see some more during the remainder of the season. We're in that position where we are new to a league, where we are playing against some teams that are in a similar position to us in a semi-professional environment and other teams that are in a full-time environment and there's always levels within that.

For parts of the Worcester game I think we battled really well and created opportunities and in other parts I'm afraid we probably all feel we could have been better. The important bit here is everyone says we've got to learn from this game and we will learn. I'm going to ask the players to define that and to be a little bit more specific. So, if you are going to learn from this game, what are you going to learn. What are the key areas that we need to action and coach to make sure we can be better. How do we handle pressure in a different way, how do we embrace occasions and whatever that may look like and that's where the team will continue to grow and the more we are exposed to it the better.

When we were at 12 all, people probably don't see the 21 points we shipped through our errors. If we don't make those errors, we score and that influences the game. In the second half I have to really commend our players, there was no score for almost 20 minutes and we created several opportunities during that spell, but another error gives them another score and then through the back end of the game it was broken up and it was difficult. But we also must be very clear, don't take anything away from Worcester, they're champions for a reason and on that surface, they were very good.

We now move on to Bedford, and we must mention Mike Rayer. Mike is a great coach; he's been at Bedford a long time and what he's achieved there is exceptional.

You see the first two results they've had, but don't be fooled; Mike has a great deal of experience and his players will be calm and they'll understand exactly what they need to bring to turn around a result and they are definitely a team that can make that happen in an exceptional way.

You don't have a track record like Bedford if you're not a good team that not well coached. They were finalists last year and are known for being very competitive and I expect a very tough fixture and a reaction. We all understand they ended the season late and with being in the final last year they probably and rightly so gave their players a little bit more time off over the summer, but now they are 2 weeks into the campaign they'll be ready to hit their stride.

Bedford know how to plan a season, and they know they don't have to finish top of the table; they'll be strategically planning their campaign and what it looks like to be in the play-offs, and they'll be ready to perform at the business end of the season. They are very powerful up front, very physical and very direct, but they've still got that ability to play with speed and out wide they finish really well.

We've got a few bangs and bruises and they'll be a few changes, similar to last week; but we are back at home in front of our supporters and it's going to be another helluva challenge. We are not looking at end outcomes; we're looking at training well and challenging ourselves.

We've been thrown in the deep end with Coventry, Worcester and Bedford. We've now got to come off the back of two very big games and put in another performance, so our focus will be a little bit more on ourselves. It will be looking specifically at key areas where we can make improvements and if we continue to get that right, we'll continue to develop throughout the season.

Enjoy the game,

Harvey

Harvey Biljon – Director of Rugby

TODAYS OPPOSITION

A History of Bedford Blues

Bedford Rugby Club was founded in 1886 following the amalgamation of two local clubs, Bedford Rovers, established in 1876, and Bedford Swifts, founded in 1882. Both clubs had strong links with Bedford School and Bedford Modern School and regularly played some of the leading teams of the era.

The club's distinctive dark and light blue colours are believed to have reflected the links between the schools and their Oxbridge-educated masters, while the badge colours drew inspiration from the original Rovers and Swifts strips.

In its early years, Bedford faced an ongoing problem finding a permanent home. The club initially played at the House of Industry ground in Goldington Road, close to the site occupied by the club today, but also used several grounds around the town, including land near the railway station and the Midland Road area. In 1895, however, an agreement was reached with Bedford Cricket Club, which held the lease on land in Goldington Road, allowing the rugby club to establish itself on virtually the same site it occupies today.

By the beginning of the 20th century, Bedford had established itself as one of the country's leading club sides. Their growing reputation saw the famous New Zealand All Blacks visit Bedford in 1905. The match attracted huge interest, with local schools and factories closing for half a day to allow people to attend. Despite the occasion, the All Blacks demonstrated their superiority with a 41-0 victory, suffering only one defeat on their highly successful tour.

The years immediately before the First World War were another successful period, with Bedford losing just once during the 1913-14 season. Improvements were also made to Goldington Road, including the construction of the club's first stand in 1905 and a new pavilion in 1910, which was regarded as one of the finest rugby facilities in the country.

The Blues enjoyed another golden period during the late 1920s and 1930s. The 1938-39 side is still regarded by many long-standing supporters as one of the greatest in the club's history, with virtually every member of the team considered capable of earning international honours. Further development of Goldington Road included the opening of the main stand in 1933, which remains a prominent feature of the ground today.

The stand at Goldington Road was opened in 1933

Professionalism arrived at Bedford at the beginning of the 1996-97 season. With substantial investment from boxing promoter Frank Warren and Sports Network, the club recruited a mixture of established international players and promising young talent. Among them was Scottish international Scott Murray, who went on to become Scotland's most-capped player at the time.

After missing out at the first attempt, Bedford won the Allied Dunbar Division Two Championship in 1998, earning promotion to Division One. They also reached the final stages of the Cheltenham & Gloucester Cup. However, financial problems surrounding the club's ownership soon created uncertainty, with many players departing.

In April 1999, Sports Network sold the club to Jefferson Lloyd International, but the move resulted in further financial difficulties. Bedford faced the very real possibility of being sold and moved away from the town, potentially bringing an end to first-class rugby in Bedford.

The RFU intervened in October 1999, helping a consortium of local businessmen, led by David Ledson, Mike Kavanagh, Geoff Irvine, David Gunner and David Rawlinson, secure the club's future. With support from Bedford Borough Council and other professionals, Bedford Blues Ltd was established, ensuring the continuation of rugby at Goldington Road.

A new era of stability began in 2005 when former player and 21-cap Welsh international Mike Rayer returned to Bedford as Director of Rugby. Under Rayer, the Blues developed a reputation for attractive, free-flowing rugby and remarkable consistency.

Director of Rugby - Mike Rayer

During his 22 seasons in charge, Bedford finished outside the top half of the league just five times and achieved 13 top-four finishes, underlining the sustained success and stability he brought to the club.

Today, Bedford Blues remain one of English rugby's historic clubs, with their identity firmly rooted in Goldington Road and a proud history stretching back almost 140 years.

INJURY UPDATE

by David Swift

Good afternoon and welcome to this afternoon's game against Bedford.

Last weekend's game presented us with our first opportunity to use one of our new APP's - SCRM which is World Rugby's head injury APP. The medical standards in the Champ are different to the National Leagues and have progressed since we were last in the league. We have to have present at games, a Team Doctor (TD) an Immediate Care Doctor (ICD) and a Hawkeye official (Dr Chris Myers in our case) - Hawkeye being the head injury monitoring system (almost like a VAR for head injury). Chris has a feed live to the monitor pitch side and there is also one in the Medical Room, giving two views of the game. The feed is also monitored centrally to ensure we are 'doing it right'.

All players who sustain a head knock or suspected head knock during the game are monitored and if the appropriate situation arises, we have three options. The option chosen is determined by what is seen pitch side and on the monitors. If what are called Criterion 1 signs are seen this is an immediate and permanent removal and the player is taken to the medical room for further assessment but is not allowed to undertake any further part in the game.

We can undertake an OPA (on pitch assessment) and we may also receive information from Hawkeye that they have spotted something. We then take the player for an HIA1 which the player either passes or fails (based on a comparison to their pre-season baseline). If they fail HIA1 they are not allowed to undertake any further part in the game and have to enter the return to play protocol which has a 12-day minimum period. If they pass the HIA1 they are allowed to return to the game providing the process is completed in the allotted period.

The third option is that after the OPA we can decide that actually the player is fine - note of caution, we have to be entirely sure and our reasoning has to be correct - and the player continues the game under a 'watchful' eye.

Last weekend Louis Guthrie took a knock, and we attended him on the pitch and decided that an HIA was required which Louis duly failed and so is now in the return to play process but is recovering very well.

Frankie Gascoigne has commenced running following his groin repair and looks really well whilst running. Over the next week this will be made more challenging for Frankie and start to include more rugby related activities - changing direction/getting up from the floor mid run/hitting things as well as reintroducing his specialist roles in relation to the scrum and line outs. We anticipate he will be back to full training soon.

Fraser Hastie has removed his walking boot and will start to progress towards running in the next week or so.

Corrie Barrett had a back issue last week and had to be withdrawn from the team but is now progressing well.

Beyond that there is little to report a few knocks and bangs. Enjoy today's game, let's hope for an injury free game and good weather.

TEAM MATES

with Isaac Shaw

Who's the biggest wind-up merchant in the squad? Give them an inch, they'll take the mick.

Who takes the game way too seriously in training? It's not the World Cup final, mate.

Who's the worst passenger on away trips? Backseat driver, snacks everywhere, no filter.

Who would sell the whole squad out for a bag of chips? Loyalty has a price and it's low.

Who's most likely to fake an injury to skip a fitness test? Suddenly can't feel their hamstring.

Who's the last one out to training every session? Always 'just tying their laces' or conveniently late.

Most likely to forget their boots on game day? Or just always missing something.

Who's the undercover athlete - doesn't look fit, but runs all day?

Who's most likely to start a scrap (then walk away)? Bit of bark, not much bite.

Who's most likely to end up on reality TV? Love Island? Gladiators? Bake Off?

As of recent its been Fozzy, he may look old and grumpy but he always wants to get in someones head and make them nibble to his jokes.

Ellis Thomas, but he always says sorry after.

Matt Smith, he always comes to the back of the bus to talk about lineouts.

Donks, because he's probably hungry.

Donks, I've never seen someone work so hard on the pitch and do so little off it.

Travis, he has to strap every body part and then put on every layer he has to stay warm.

MLB, he's too busy filming tiktok collabs with products he gets sent.

It may surprise some, but Fozzy is deceptively fit... for a prop anyway

Rusty, 2 games 2 pushing and shoving matches with the opposition, but no battle scars to prove it.

MLB, just so he can secure a brand deal.

SUPPORTERS VIEWPOINT

with Tom Pollard

I've never quite understood the people who say to me, "I don't really like sport." Maybe I am biased. My wife told me a few days ago that she believed I could be entertained by any sport. I strongly disagreed with her but as I returned to the world rock skipping championships I conceded she might have had a point.

The Rugby I watched this past weekend, left me pondering the question how anyone couldn't be entertained by such a spectacle. Even as a viewer without a preference for who the victor was, I was hooked at the Australia vs South Africa match. The quality of rugby, complete with one of the best endings to a match I had ever seen. 4 players removed, the offensive capabilities that added point after point as the time left quickly ebbed away. As a spectator, this had all the ups and downs and excitement of any movie or soap.

Moving on to the Red Roses, another thriller that had me hooked. The scores level at 19-19 in the 81st minute and already a missed penalty, Zoe Harrison's interception and the subsequent celebrations were a sight to behold. Plus, with a near 60,000 crowd, this was positive after positive for the great game.

John Mitchell was quick to note the growing competitiveness and quality emerging in the women's international game, and it did leave me wondering what fans prefer to see. Totalling a 39-game winning streak, would fans prefer that this continued, or did this record coming to an end with a 26-26 draw against Canada begin a new era of closer, more competitive games for the dominant Red Roses? I must admit, seeing my team score a heap of points and put on definitive wins against opponents is always good to see, but I wonder how quickly I could lose interest if the risk of defeat was almost non-existent.

Pollocks pre-match 'antics' included unveiling a new haircut and bright pink boots, reminiscent of David Beckham and how his new mop would have made headline news. Flatman makes a great point that this spectacle could very well bring younger fans and a new audience to the sport, but it is highly unlikely to win around the old guard of players and fans.

Thankfully for Henry, he has put in solid performances to show he is as much fun to watch on the pitch as off it. It does make me wonder whether we will see more players trying to replicate this formula with promoters such as Eddie Hearn. As long as the on-field capability shines, would people appreciate seeing more players like Henry Pollock?

Our Future

U10s EVERY PLAYER SCORED

Our Under 10s have already shown just what they are capable of.

After a tough first game against Doncaster, where the team battles on despite being a player short, the boys bounced back with an outstanding performance against Dinnington.

The passing, tackling and rucking were all excellent and even when the team began to tire, they dug deep and continues to play with tremendous heart and determination.

There was no individual Player of the Match award for the Dinnington Match.

Player of the Match vs Doncaster IVOR
A fantastic performance and brilliant work rate throughout the game.

U12s CHARACTER & DETERMINATION

The Under 12s have faced some tough tests in the opening weeks, coming up against strong and well-organised opposition.

Against Doncaster, the team showed tremendous character, battling right through to the final whistle and supporting one another throughout. There were plenty of encouraging moments and lots to take back to training.

U15s WHAT A START!

The U15s have made an impressive start to the new season.

After a tough pre-season, the team opened their home season with a fantastic 52-29 victory over Newark, producing an exciting display of ball continuity, physicality and sharp basics.

They followed this up with another strong and competitive performance against Chesterfield Panthers, finishing 68-38 winners.

SUPPORTERS CLUB

with John O'Brien

Good afternoon to all at Clifton Lane today,

Well after a particularly bruising, but not as one-sided as last week's score might suggest, we are back on familiar territory at the new look Lane, welcoming another old rival Bedford Blues.

When the Bedford crowd enter the clubhouse, they must surely see the photograph of John Dudley taken at Goldington Road 26 years ago on Ed Morrisons' final whistle that meant so much to the players and the supporters who had made the trip for the second leg of the play-offs that meant Premiership Rugby for little old Rotherham.

Well enough of the history lesson.

We watched a one-sided contest on Clubber TV at Clifton Lane and were pleased with the score at 12 apiece but that changed rapidly so that at half time we were left with a bit of a mountain to climb.

However, with the recovery that was staged against Coventry on the first run out of the new season maybe I was hoping for something similar at Sixways. We managed to hold out for much of the third quarter but then the flood gates opened and mistake after mistake was ruthlessly punished by a slick, full-time professional outfit that is Worcester today.

However, the never say die attitude of our lads did us proud. With ten new faces in the squad, it was always going to be an almighty ask against such a class act as Worcester, who along with Ealing won't lose too many games this season. It'll be interesting to see the results of their head to heads.

I was perusing the comments on Titan's Forum earlier and was interested to see what an expensive place Sixways is to visit today. Parking £18, bottled water £3, seating £17-£40 and that's before you eat anything or have a pint. Plus, I've just seen petrol in Tickhill for £1.75 per litre. So not a cheap drive either.

Apart from coming unstuck at Sixways; with all the week 2 results up, there are some interesting outcomes. Ealing of course getting a decent result against Richmond but after losing to us Coventry made mincemeat of Pirates, close result at Blackheath with Caldy snatching it at the death and Donny running out convincing winners at home against Hartpury.

I'm off to a barbie straight after the game today at grandson Joe's, so let's hope I have an appetite for some nice, incinerated steak and burgers after we've SENTEMOWMWINOWT!

Best of luck to the boys and you lot as well.

Kind regards and as usual have a great afternoon at the Lane,

John

LAWNS FARM

Our grandfather Alfred Edwin Ross originally purchased Lawns Farm in the 1940's and we are now in the third generation of farmers.

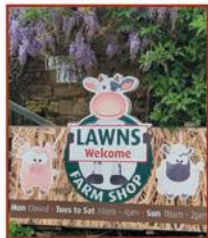

Lawns Farm is just under 200 acres of mainly dairy farming situated between Rotherham and Sheffield. We are a family farm with approximately 90 cows in milk, although our experimental nature has seen us breed Aberdeen Angus, Hereford and Belted Galloway cows.

A poultry hobby grew into a sizeable collection of chicken and duck varieties and then into commercial free range turkey and goose supply for the Christmas period.

Today we have a growing herd of pigs focusing on traditional old English breeds such as the British Lop and the Gloucestershire Old Spots.

Guy Williams:

HE'LL TELL YOU HOW IT IS

Battered and bruised following a heavy defeat by 78-12 at Sixways by Worcester, Rotherham face another testing challenge this afternoon against one of their traditional foes.

Bedford Blues themselves so far this season know the bitter taste of defeat, having lost both their opening Champ games against champions Worcester (40-5) in which they conceded six tries and then last Saturday, the Blues were surprisingly overcome at Goldington Road by Chinnor, scoring eight tries as they won by 52-33.

So, Rotherham, who played with such conviction against Coventry in the first league fixture and won by 38-35, have the opportunity today, with home advantage, to recover strongly from the Sixways loss and reproduce the fighting spirit which punished Coventry.

In my opinion, Bedford have always played rugby as it should be played, with enterprise, flair and a willingness to attack, a style which attracts large crowds to Goldington Road where the club's Director of Rugby, Mike Rayer, is rightly so respected and admired.

As DOR for more than 20 years, Rayer has consistently produced teams which compete successfully at this level, and this afternoon watch out for winger Dean Adamson, the top try scorer in the regular Champ season in 2025/26 with 22 and also keep an eye on fly half Will Maisey who scored more than 200 points last season.

Clearly, Maisey is one of the most accurate goal kickers in the league and any errors made by Rotherham will soon have the Titans chasing the game.

Having lost both his first two league games and conceded 14 tries, Rayer will naturally expect a big improvement against a newly promoted side, still learning how to cope with the pace and physicality of competitive rugby in the second tier.

In Harvey Biljon, Rotherham have just the right person and coach to restore morale which may have taken a knock because of events at Worcester and, importantly, he has the ability to correct mistakes and show how Bedford can be beaten.

Personally, I have always looked forward to reporting on Bedford, whether at Clifton Lane, Castle Park or Goldington Road, because of their optimistic attitude, attacking skills and a determination to keep on moving the ball until the final whistle.

Rotherham's brutal defeat at Worcester is a reminder, if one were ever needed, that the Champ is the toughest of leagues in which to be a success.

High scoring contests seem to be the norm and given Bedford's approach, expect the same this afternoon at Clifton Lane.

A huge 'Thank You' to Titans Youth Teams for handling the Guard of Honour and our Big Flag ceremonies for the first home game against Coventry. Their role on match days is so important for the new Champ requirements and they performed perfectly!

As the season progresses, they will be helping children from some of our local schools join in with the pre match activities and celebrating with the team afterwards. If your school would like to join us, please contact Admin@titanscommunityfoundation.org

TCF coach Alfie Bell and Lindsay went along to Skills Street at Gulliver's to look at how children can explore careers options in various businesses. Alfie was in charge of delivery for Kitlocker in one activity, and this all helps TCF develop their Sport Infrastructure careers programme which schools can book onto, either at The Hub, or in their own school.

I'm proud to sponsor the Titans Community Foundation and hope that my contribution to the Titans will help provide resources for the community foundation and help support young players. I plan to maintain a close relationship with the club and support them throughout their journey.

One of the many reasons I chose to support the Titans is their focus on working at a grassroots level with all ages, genders, and abilities. This work is vital and it's great to be a part of it.
