Editor's Note

She who comes in the name of The Lord!

Dear Readers,

The Good old Book of Scripture reminds us to, "Give thanks in all circumstances; for this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus." — 1 Thessalonians 5:18
Nevertheless, let's be honest: this is not always easy. When all manner of things have been thrown at you, when life has tested you in ways you never imagined, giving thanks can be difficult. However let's also be fair, when you look back at everything you have been through and, by the grace of God, you are still standing in the land of the living, I think it is wise to do what the Bible says: GIVE THANKS!

You may not have received everything you prayed for. Infact, certain situations may have taken a completely different turn from what you anticipated, yet, it is precisely in such moments that this Scripture becomes especially meaningful. Giving thanks is easy when everything is going well, but can we still find a reason to thank God when life takes an unexpected turn? Can we lift our voices in gratitude when our prayers seem unanswered, and our hearts are broken?
Since God never promised us a trouble-free journey, He desires that we maintain a heart of thanksgiving in every circumstance.
Now, let us be realistic. This does not mean we must be thankful for every painful experience. Think, for instance, of parents who have lost their children in tragic school shootings, illness, sexual abuse or trafficking. How do you tell such parents to give thanks? Or other heartbreaking circumstances? Surely, we must approach such situations with compassion and sensitivity. We cannot trivialize another person's pain or offer simplistic answers to deeply painful experiences.

So, what does Scripture mean when it tells us to give thanks in all circumstances?
It means that even in the midst of our deepest pain, we can still find reasons to acknowledge God's goodness and faithfulness. Now, on a personal note, if you take a moment to look back at all you have endured, give thanks for the grace of God, who knows where you would be?
So, let's take a moment to reflect, count your blessings, and give God the praise He deserves for carrying you through it all, remember God is good, He is not a wicked God.

A very interesting aspect of giving thanks is that, it is the will of God for us in Christ Jesus. Infact in the begining of the same verse, we discover that thanksgiving is part of a threefold instruction given to believers: rejoice always, pray without ceasing, and give thanks in everything...
1Thessalonians 5:16–18, "Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."
These are not instructions reserved for the days when everything is going well; these are spiritual principles that apply even when life becomes difficult. Happy Thanksgiving!

WHAT IS YOUR CONFIDENCE BASED ON?

By Sandra Deladem

Is it your wealth? Your education? Your connections? Your position? Your past victories? Or is your confidence rooted in the living God?

Every day, in every person's life serious situations that bring this question comes into sharp focus. Issues such as a medical diagnosis, financial crisis, a failed business, a broken relationship, or a battle against an overwhelming opposition can seriously challenge our confidence and shake the very foundations of everything we have relied upon. It is only in such moments that we can discover where our confidence truly lies. When nothing we possess can provide the answers, when our best efforts cannot solve the problem, when yesterday's victories cannot guarantee your tomorrow's success, and your adversary stands before you mocking your faith and asking, "In whom are you placing your confidence?"—how will you respond?

Sennacherib invaded the fortified cities of Judah

Will you tremble at the sight of the opposition, or will you stand firm, knowing that your confidence is not in the strength of your own hands, or in the "arm of flesh" (that is in a fellow human) but in the power and faithfulness of the living God?

Well, wait a minute let me give you a liitle gist from 2 Kings 18:19.
Thus the story goes... during the reign of King Hezekiah of Judah, Sennacherib invaded the fortified cities of Judah and captured them.
He had a formidable army, a powerful empire, and a reputation for defeating nations that stood in his way. Therefore from a human perspective, Judah was in serious trouble.
King Hezekiah was facing a superpower. and Jerusalem was threatened, furthermore the Assyrian king appeared to have every reason to believe that victory was within his grasp.
So a very nasty letter was sent to Hezekiah, by the Assyrian commander, the Rabshakeh reading:
"And the Rabshakeh said unto them, Say ye now to Hezekiah, Thus saith the great king, the king of Assyria, What confidence is this wherein thou trustest?" — 2 Kings 18:19
King Sennacherib's representatives were essentially asking Hezekiah, "What makes you think you can survive this encounter? What are you relying on? Who will save you from the power of Assyria?"
They believed, Judah had no chance of survival, but the Assyrians made a dangerous mistake. They assumed that because they had defeated other nations, they could also defeat Judah, regardless of the God of Israel.
What arrogance!
They totally forgot that the sovereign God was not an idol or human they can contend with and certainly was not like the gods of the other nations.

Today as you read this piece, I believe there are some adversaries challenging your confidence in God, as well as threathing your faith, but hold on, because it does not end at your confidence alone, sometimes the enemey would try to insult your God and think He, The Almighty is like their piece of wood or may not even exist at all just as the Rabshakeh believed.
In 2 Kings 18:33–35, the Rabshakeh compared God to the powerless gods of nations Assyria had already conquered, does that sound familiar to you.

Well, it is recorded that King Hezekiah had just done a beautiful thing before the Lord (he celebrated the long forgotten passover) when the unslaught came. So instead of surrendering to the intimidation of the Assyrian king, Hezekiah went into the house of the Lord and spread the threatening letter before God.
He prayed, cried to God, acknowledging that the Lord alone was God over all the kingdoms of the earth and that He had made the heavens and the earth.
Read his prayer in 2 Kings 19:14–19.
Hezekiah did not deny the reality of the threat. He did not pretend that the Assyrian army was weak. He understood the danger, but he also understood that the power of Assyria was not greater than the power of God. So must you also, don't deny or shun the treat, thats not the answer, go before the Lord , cry before him and believe God for victory.
So immediately God sent His response to Hezekiah through the prophet Isaiah who prophesied about the fall of Sennacherib, saying, "... Because you rage against me and because your insolence has reached my ears, I will put my hook in your nose and my bit in your mouth, and I will make you return by the way you came.'.. "Therefore this is what the Lord says concerning the king of Assyria: "'He will not enter this city or shoot an arrow here. He will not come before it with shield or build a siege ramp against it. By the way that he came he will return; he will not enter this city, declares the Lord."
"I will defend this city and save it, For I will defend this city, to save it, for mine own sake, and for my servant David's sake" 2 Kings 19:28-34 (and for your sake too) friend we serve a living and most powerful God. As surely as the Lord spoke everything He said came to pass, Sennecheib's army were slaiin by the angel of the Lord without Israel lifting up a hand to fight Second Kings 19:35 records the extraordinary outcome:

"And it came to pass that night, that the angel of the LORD went out, and smote in the camp of the Assyrians an hundred fourscore and five thousand." — 2 Kings 19:35
King Sannecherib was so much ashamed he returned to his home sore and his children killed him.

fFriend what are you doing with the threats confronting you today? Are you allowing them to determine your expectations, or are you bringing your concerns before the Lord in prayer?
The year is coming to an end and you need God's victory, call on the name of the Lord for He is near to help you, if only you call and believe that He is your confidence you will not be put to shame.

It is easy to declare your confidence in God when all is going well. It is easy to speak of faith when the bills are paid, the family is healthy, the business is flourishing, and the future looks promising, but what happens when the report is unfavorable? What happens when the resources are insufficient, the opposition is overwhelming, doors are closed, and the future appears uncertain, and you refuse to give up your hope in Jesus Christ or backslide; and the enemy is asking what is your confidence based on?
What happens when you find yourself in a position where your abilities, connections, experience, and resources are no longer helpful?
This is when the foundation of your confidence is truly tested. Indeed you have done well so far, you have not turned your back on Christ or renounced His name. However, your situation has not changed. Take heart, because this is also the time to let the enemey know that you have a Redeemer and in Him is your confidence. Dont not allow your confidence to sink, do not bow to the enemey, do not succum. Roar back! Go on your knees more, remind the Lord of His promises, continue to call on the name of the Lord and victory is yours in Jesus name and you will have a testimony, God will give you a new song. You will be able to sing "victory is mine, victory today is mine....."

SHARING MORE THAN A RIDE

TESTIMONY

By: Calvin Bergsma, Pastor; Georgetown Christian Fellowship church)

The cold prairie wind bit through my jacket. February sure isn't the month to hitchhike on Interstate 80. I shoved my numb right hand deep into my coat pocket, and used the other one. I probably look weird hitchhiking with my left thumb, but its better than losing the correct one to frost-bite. Maybe I look weird; that's why nobody's given me a ride for the last hour and a half.

My name is Calvin Bergsma and I do have a car. But, I like the unexpected, and knowing that I'll soon be getting married and she will expect me to settle down and act normal. I thought I would take one last impromptu hitchhiking trip to Oklahoma to visit my brother John at ORU.

"God, please have someone stop - the sun's sliding behind the horizon, and I'm freezing". A few more minutes crawled by, and I searched my mind trying to think of some spiritual technique that I could use to get a ride. I got it! The Bible says to ask in faith - not doubting. I gritted my chattering teeth and believed as hard as I could. Several more cars raced by and I figured I would have to modify my approach. Why didn't that work? I then remember hearing some faith teacher say, that I had to pray very specifically - "Okay, Lord, please have this next car.... I think it's a red Camaro.. No, it's a Firebird - yeah, a red Firebird - license number I M 2... late. Shucks."

I don't understand - what am I doing wrong?
That's when I remembered the book I had just read about ministering spirits (angels). It said that God sends them to watch over us and to help us. I think I'll ask my personal angel to stop a car.
"Angel!" (I didn't know his first name) "Stop a car for me."

Suddenly in my mind's eye I saw a scene that made me burst out laughing. (The cold must have been numbing more than just my hands). I saw this big angel standing about a block down the road with his sword drawn and waiting for the next vehicle to come. As it passed, he took off running about 60 mph alongside the unsuspecting motorist, trying to position himself perfectly to execute my wishes. With the accuracy that only an angel can exhibit, he thrust his mighty sword into the front left tire and jumped back. The car thumped to a stop right in front of me. Now there were two people in need of a ride! I sure am glad that God directs the angels and not me! If we gave our shortsighted orders we'd be in big trouble.
A gust of wind brought me back to my senses, and at the same time, one of God's thoughts broke into my mind. "There is a particular person that I want you to share with. He's coming - just be patient. In the meantime, communicate with Me, and enjoy my presence. Please don't miss Me, and what I provide for you, by substituting techniques or theories." At the same instant I felt the familiar peace which told me He would never leave me or forsake me. I didn't hear an audible voice, but after awhile, the sheep get to know the Shepherd's voice.
It wasn't long before a young man in a pickup truck stopped and gave me a ride. He was on his way back to school after a short visit home for the holidays.
In the course of the long ride to his college, he told me of a number of unusual events that were happening between him and his roommates, involving drugs, unexplained happenings, and unprovoked outbursts of violence.
After listening to him vent his frustration and fear about his circumstances, I shared some of my own experiences. I told him how
I became a Christian and received deliverance from demonic oppression. I assured him the same things God did for me God would do for him. On hearing this, he asked if I would come to his apartment and talk to his roommates Considering my alternative of sleeping outdoors and dying in the snow, I agreed to go with him!
When we arrived, his roommate was high on LSD. No matter what I said I wasn't able to get anything across to him. All of a sudden I felt what I believed to be the Holy Spirit, telling me to audibly pray and ask that in the name of Jesus, he would come off his high, so I did.
Immediately he was totally sober and I had his complete attention. I spent the majority of the night ministering deliverance and salvation to both of them.
The story is very involved about what happened that night, but, when the sun rose the next morning in the city of Davenport, there were two tired young men whose lives would never be the same again. This is a true experience. I was only 24 years old at the time, but God has used me many times since to communicate His love to individuals that have crossed my path. God wants all of us to share the Good News of the salvation that Jesus Christ provides.

Here is a list of simple things I have learned that help me in personal evangelism:

1. If you want to share Jesus, then rekindle your first love.
The desire and ability to share God's message of love and forgiveness, comes from having a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. How can anyone share what they don't have. Or, how can one tell another how to experience real life without experiencing that life himself. "Stir up the gift that is in you" (2 Ti.1:6)
The first century world was evangelized in a very short time with no TV or RADIO.

This was accomplished by friend telling friend, telling neighbor, telling butcher, telling baker and candlestick maker. They were EXCITED ABOUT WHAT GOD DID FOR THEM THROUGH JESUS! Are you excited? You should be.
2. Talk in simple language.
Please don't use King James English when telling others about God. (Even God does not talk that way any more). If you knew nothing about religion or didn't know any of its pet phrases, how would you answer someone who asked you this question? " Brother, would you like to place your life on the alter and be a living sacrifice, and become a born again, Holy Ghost filled, tongue talking, sanctified, washed in the blood of the lamb Christian? PRAISE GOD!" I think you would probably run away from the sick deranged person that would ask such an insane question.
Think before you talk, and use words that you are sure they will understand - Jesus did, Apostle Paul did.

3. Do not argue with people.
This immediately polarizes you (puts you on opposing sides) from the one you are trying to reach. Instead, tell them how you felt before you met Christ, making sure that you identify yourself with them. Never give them the feeling that you think you're better than them because of what you know. Let them see your humanness. But don't end there. Give your personal testimony telling them how you received help. No one feels like they're being preached at if you just tell what happened to you personally. Remember, it not your JOB to make them believe. Your job is to tell others what Christ did for you.
4. Pray that God tells you what to say.
There is a key to unlock any door. If you are sensitive to the Holy Spirit, He will tell you what words or actions will unlock the heart of the one you are sharing with. This does not have to be profound. The key may be as simple as, my name is Calvin what's yours.

Or, do have a sister named Jane, no, well you look just like her. Just say what you feel the Holy Spirit might be telling you to say.

If you're wrong, or miss it who cares, the only thing you could hurt is your pride, and even that's not all bad. But if you're right, you will not only find it easier to step out in faith next time, but you may have saved a soul from spending eternity in hell. Eternity, think about that, and take a chance.
5. Sharing Jesus with others is addicting.
This is the key to having revival in our own hearts as well as in our community. We've got to share Jesus with the ones who we come in contact with. If the water in your well is stagnant, and you feel your Christian life has lost its zest. Start doing what Jesus said is every Christian's job. You go into all the world and preach the gospel.. "Freely you have received, freely give".. And for God's sake, don't hide your light under a bushel basket.

More Than Just a Theory (Poem by Calvin Bergsma)
He is more than just a theory
In a world through greed obese
And His words aren't fancy rhetoric
Which rhyme and talk of peace
All the philosophies of men
Echo the same throughout the age
Never giving life real meaning
They can't clean the blotted page.

We don't need another theory
And the philosophies of men have got to go
We need to immerse ourselves in Jesus
His peace and love inside has got to show

Look at the flood of hungry people
Look at the way they search for truth
How can you close your eyes, not feel the pain
How can you be aloof
You have a treasure in earthen vessels
Please don't keep it on the shelf
Are you showing Jesus to the world
Or would you rather show yourself

We don't need another theory
And the philosophies of men have got to go
We need to immerse ourselves in Jesus
His peace and love inside has got to show
His peace and love inside has got to grow
His peace and love inside they've got to know

Bold Fits for Bold Men

God is still calling men who will stand in the gap, defend the truth, love sacrificially, lead humbly, pray fervently, and remain faithful when no one is watching.
Christian men, be strong—not merely in your bodies, your finances, or your positions, but in your faith, your character, and your commitment to Jesus Christ your only role model and mentor.

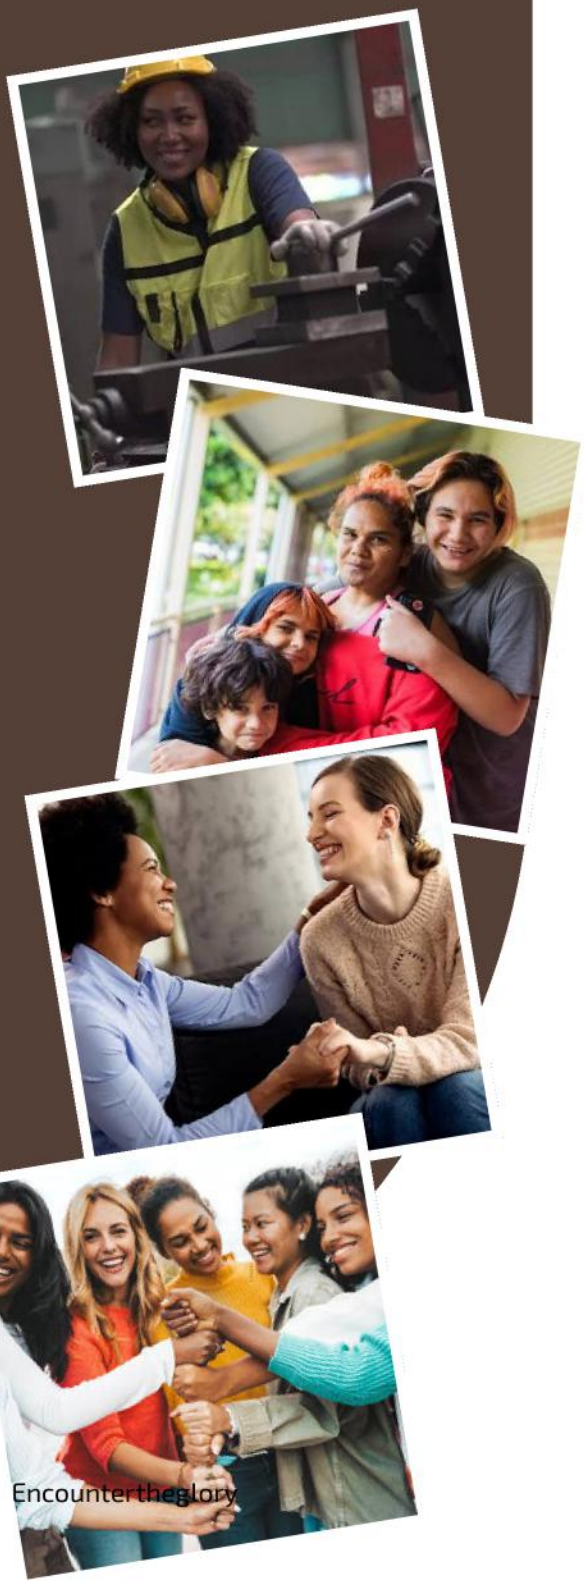

Your bold fit is not what yo wear on the outside but what you put on on the inside.
Your bold fit is to learn not to let fear have the final word. Indeed you do not have to know everything, only be willing to seek God's wisdom. Understand that your bold fit is not your perfection but your willingness to repent, grow, and remain faithful to God.
Take a cue from Moses.

Moses was not a perfect man. He had his weaknesses, made mistakes, and even allowed anger to get the better of him. Yet, he was a man who encountered God, learned to depend on Him, and was entrusted with an extraordinary assignment.

This therefore is your 'bold fit'"— "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." — 2 Timothy 1:7 KJV

Woman of valor

Woman- who art thou?

By Sandra Deladem

A Reflection on the Virtuous Woman of Proverbs 31
"Who can find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above rubies." — Proverbs 31:10 (KJV)

Once again, I ask: Woman, who art thou?
Dear woman, dear young lady, do you truly know your worth? Are you aware of the power God has deposited in you to influence the world around you? Do you understand the value of godly character and the divine responsibility God has entrusted to you? Or have you allowed the world to define you by your outward appearance, your achievements, your possessions, your relationships, and the opinions of others?
The Bible presents a description of a woman whose worth surpasses all these.

Today I beg you to pause for a moment and consider this description from the Bible. "A woman whose worth is far above rubies"! What a remarkable description.
We all are aware of the value placed on precious stones, how they are expensive and treasured for their rarity, beauty, and value. Infact it is not everyday you walk-by and find a precious stone. Hence Scripture uses this powerful comparison to draw our attention to something far more precious than outward adornment, which is the beauty of godly character.

The Bible does not mince words when it declares that the price of a virtuous woman is far above rubies meaning the worth of a virtuous woman stands tall above precious stones.
Now, why would the Bible make such a profound comparison? What is it about this woman—and what is it about you, dear woman that makes her worth so extraordinary?

Well, let us take a closer look at the source of this analogy and explore the qualities that make the virtuous woman so precious. As we journey through Proverbs 31, I invite you to examine yourself honestly, reflect on the characteristics Scripture highlights, and ask yourself: Who am I? Where do I stand? How much of this woman do I see reflected in my own life?

In Proverbs 31, we are introduced to a woman whose worth cannot be measured by the world's standards. Her value is not determined by her outward beauty, social status, material possessions, or her popularity among men. Rather, the Bible draws our attention to something far more enduring, which are, the beauty of her character, her wisdom and choice of her words, her diligence; that is the work of her hands, the compassion of her heart, and, above all, her reverence for the Lord God.

Please read along with me through Proverbs 31. Take your time to carefully examine each sentence, every word, and every description of this woman—the woman God desires you to become.

This is not some distant, imaginary woman, as many of us may have come to perceive her when reading this Scripture. No, dear woman, this is about you and me! This is about who we are called to be when we begin to see ourselves through God's eyes and understand the worth He places on us and or character.
It is only when we truly recognise our worth from God's perspective, that we will begin to understand that Proverbs 31 is not merely a description of another woman to admire from a distance.

I must confess that, when I was a young lady in my teens and even twenties, this was exactly how I perceived the Proverbs 31 woman. To me, she was someone far removed from ordinary women like myself—a woman of exceptional character, extraordinary virtue, and remarkable strength. I admired her, but I did not fully comprehend that I, too, could become that woman.

I failed to realise that the woman described in that Scripture was not simply someone to admire from a distance, but a reflection of the woman I could become as I grew in my walk with God, that her qualities were not there merely for me to read about, admire, and afterwards forget but to inspire me to prayerfully ask God to make me a Proverb 31 woman, to give me her wisdom, virtue, strength, compassion, and reverence for Him and conscientiously live as her.

Many ladies have read and heard about the Proverbs 31 woman but just like me, do not know they have been equipped also with all that she has. Scripture says in verse 31:17, "She girdeth her loins with strength, and strengtheneth her arms."
First of all, this virtuous woman is not portrayed as helpless or incapable on the contrary, she is a diligent, resourceful, and strong woman. Made strong by God, because she allowed her strenght to coexist with her tender heart, and her courage was match with her humility. She did not carry every burden alone, she got support from God and praise from her husband.
This is where many ladies fall short, because who and where you seek support from matters.

What I observed next in this Scripture is a woman who understands that her words are a reflection of her character and that her tongue is a powerful instrument that can either build or destroy.
Proverbs 31:26 declares, "She openeth her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness."
Dear woman, Scripture tells us how she opens her mouth—with wisdom. This suggests that her words are not careless, reckless, or driven solely by emotion. She understands that what comes out of her mouth carries weight, influences lives, and can leave lasting impressions on those who hear her. Take note of how this woman decided to govern her tongue with kindness so that at anytime she opens her mouth kind, fruitful and beautiful words proceed from it.
Bible beautifully describes: "In her tongue is the law of kindness." Infact kindness is not merely an occasional gesture for this woman; it is a principle that governs her speech. It is as though kindness has become the law by which her tongue operates. Even when she must correct, confront, advise, or speak an uncomfortable truth, she does so with discernment and consideration for others.
Woman, who art thou when you open your mouth? Is there any law governing your mouth?

Understand today that your influence is not limited to what you can do with your hands; it must also extends to what you releas through your mouth. The Proverbs 31 woman used her words to nurture confidence and establish godly values both at home and in her community.

Scripture also mentioned that, "Her husband has full confidence in her and lacks nothing of value.
She brings him good, not harm, all the days of her life." Proverbs 31:11-12 This woman gained the confidence of her spouse because of her godly character.

In verses 13-15, "She seeketh wool, and flax, and worketh willingly with her hands. She is like the merchant ships, bringing her food from afar, meaning she is not by any means lasy. She worked to feed her family.

Scripture further reveals that she is an industrious and enterprising woman, who carefully considers a field and purchases it; from the fruit of her labour and earnings, she plants a vineyard. Proverbs 31:16

A very productive and enterprising woman indeed. Woman who art thou? You only can answer if you are productive or a bussy buddy.

Now, here is something particularly intriging that caught my attention about this woman of noble character. Scripture tells us: "She sees that her trading is profitable, and her lamp does not go out at night." Proverbs 31:18
What a loaded verse!

The Bible draws our attention not only to her diligence and ability to conduct profitable business, but also to the fact that her lamp does not go out at night. What does this tell us about her character, her priorities, and the way she manages the responsibilities entrusted to her by God? Let us take a closer look.

We are aware that this woman is industrious, enterprising, and wise in her dealings. She considers a field, purchases it, plants a vineyard, and engages in profitable trade. Yet, in the midst of all her activities, the Bible adds another intriguing detail: "her lamp does not go out at night."
So what does this mean? Why would Scripture draw our attention to the fact that her lamp remains burning at night? Is it simply describing a woman who works long hours, or is there something more we can learn from this extra information.

There is a beautiful spiritual application we can draw from this image. Throughout Scripture, a lamp serve as a picture of light, guidance, God's Word or readiness.
Psalm 119:105 declares "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Without this Lamp we are completely lost. Lost trying to navigate life's journey in our own limited understanding, uncertain of where our choices may lead us.

Now, in the immediate context of this verse, the lamp illustrates the virtuous woman's diligence, attentiveness, and preparedness in which she manages her affairs carefully.
In the days when this passage was written, lamps provided essential light after sunset. For her lamp to remain burning suggests that she is attentive to the needs of her household and continues her work into the evening when necessary.
In other words, this is not a woman who is careless with her responsibilities. She is attentive, resourceful, and prepared. She recognises the value of her work and manages her affairs.
However, dear woman, we must be careful not to interpret this verse as a command to exhaust ourselves, neglect our rest, or remain busy every hour of the day. The passage celebrates her diligence, not burnout.

Although Proverbs 31:18 is primarily describing the woman's diligence and preparedness, the image begs us to reflect on another question: Is the light of God shinning in us. Do we carry the annointing?
Or has our lamp gone dry because of the lack of oil. Remember this that, the Bible says her lamp did not burnt out.

Jesus taught about the five wise virgins and the 5 foolish virgins who allowed their lamp to go out before the bridegroom arrived because they lacked oil or preparedness.
Dear woman are you prepared for the bridegroom's return?
Do you have oil in your lamp to keep burning until the bridegroom's return? Are you prepared to meet Jesus Christ your Lord face to face, and to go a little further is Jesus Christ your Lord?

Oil in the Scripture stands for anointing, the annointing of God on a persons life. This woman surely had it, no wonder she had all the qualities of a woman of God and a successful graceful woman of power. This was the source of her strenght and wisdom and character.

Dear woman, you need to desire the anointing of God, the oil that will keep your lamp burning till the return of the Saviour. It is the anointing of God that will make a way for you, that will crown your efforts with success and give you favor you need to succeed. Whether you are building a business, nurturing a marriage, raising children, pursuing a career, or serving in ministry, you need Go's anointing of His wisdom and grace. Human strength alone is not enough; you need God to lead you, sustain you, and establish the work of your hands.

These and many more question are very necessary for you to ponder on.
To know who you are, first do you know God and are you attentive to what He has entrusted to you? Are you cultivating your gifts, managing your responsibilities wisely, and preparing for the opportunities that lie ahead? Are you allowing God's Word to guide your decisions? The Proverbs 31 woman reminds us that godly character is expressed not only in what we profess, but also in how we live, work, plan, and care for those entrusted to us.

She was a giver, a woman of compassion, Scripture mentioned that, "She stretcheth out her hand to the poor; yea, she reacheth forth her hands to the needy." Proverbs 31:20. Her compassion is practical, she stretches out her hand and respons to the need of others.

She does not habor the fear of tomorrow in her. Scripture says, "Strength and honour are her clothing; and she shall rejoice in time to come." Proverbs 31:25
What a beautiful picture of a woman who does not fear.

Dear woman, what is clothing your heart today? Is it fear, bitterness, comparison, and regret or unforgiveness. It is time to allow faith, honour, wisdom, and hope to cloth you.
