CHAIRMAN'S WELCOME

by Nick Cragg

Today we welcome Hartpury RFC players, supporters and officials to Clifton Lane for only the second time in our history. Back in the 2017/18 season, we played them home and away, losing both games. Looking at the Champ table, Hartpury so far have won one game, but as we saw last week, this league has many surprises in store, and there will be no complacency from Harvey, the coaches and the squad. We welcome them to Clifton Lane, expecting a hard-fought game, and we hope everyone who has traveled to join us enjoys their day.

In addition to our guests from Hartpury, all of whom will be kindly hosted by our VP's; we welcome our other visitors and their guests including Franco Ventura from McDonalds, Mick Appleyard from Map Services, Chris Hartley from CLH Accounting, Phil Hickling from KCM, Paul & Bradley Harrison from Merlin Trucks, Nick Woodward from Brookhouse Gas Services, Jon Ashley from ETI Cloud, Charles Collinson, John Lye and David Horne – a very warm welcome to you all - I hope you have an excellent day with us.

Last weekend at Lady Bay was a 'cracker' of a game in many ways. Excellent rugby from both sides, a fireworks display that at times took attention away from the pitch, and the last 15 minutes had everyone on the edge of their seats. The sides were evenly matched, some excellent tries were scored and deep into the second half, it felt as if we would settle for a losing bonus point. The players had other ideas and, when they finally got in front, with about 4 minutes to go, they had the plan ready to stick the ball 'up the jumper' and play out time.

That was just the start of a weekend of shocks, where those involved in predicting the scores on various social media platforms, got some of the results very, very wrong! On Saturday, Richmond headed for The Mennaye with the expectations of the pundits that they would lose heavily to Pirates. The predictions also had Doncaster losing at home to Worcester. That was an exceptional game, with Doncaster matching Worcester's 5 tries, holding last year's Champions 22-22 at half time, and then out scoring them in the second half. Celebrations at Castle Park must have gone on late into Saturday night.

Every player and coach will now be looking at the table and feeling that, on their day, any team can be beaten, which makes the Champ a very interesting league indeed.

Next weekend we set off for old friends at Blackheath, newly promoted with us, and another team with a point to prove; that they deserve to be in the Champ alongside the more established full-time outfits. To all those planning to travel, thank you for your commitment and support; the 2 bus loads at Nottingham certainly made themselves heard and it is much appreciated by the players and coaches every week.

Enjoy the game.

FROM THE COACHES DEN

by Harvey Biljon – Director of Rugby

I was really impressed with the players attitude and part of our performance at Nottingham, because we know Lady Bay is a difficult place to go on a Friday night. We also know how important the game was to Nottingham, and they were firing on all cylinders and really going for it. That first 20 minutes was a real pressure battle in the right areas of the field for us; but we gave them some field position and some entries into our half and they showed they could be clinical as they took 17 points.

There was two big moments for both teams either side of half time; it was really important for us to get that score just before half time and they scored a very good try straight after half time and then it was just us showing patience and composure to be able to get the ball back in the right areas to be able to take our scores. We had to stay disciplined, we had to put pressure on at the set piece, both scrum and line out and then some of our defensive sets through that period and absorbing that pressure without allowing scores to happen was outstanding.

We then showed that we could go and close out a game with a vital score from JB and you could see our team lift and Nottingham knew it was a one score game, and we knew we could go after it. Then we a great moment from Travis which allowed us an entry, and we then showed the composure to go and finish it.

The players are gaining more Champ experience as we go along and they're learning how to deal with the big moments in games when they arrive. I think we saw that with less than five minutes to go at Nottingham where we were 3 points behind and were awarded a penalty.

These are the moments in the game where you must trust your players because it's them who are 'in the game' and they are the ones that are feeling what's happening. They felt they were starting to get on top and build momentum, and they thought they could go and win the game, and fair play to them they backed it up.

They will have to back themselves again against Hartpury because we know just how tough they are. They are a team that has threats from 1 to 15 across the park. They are organised and know how to keep the ball and score points.

This has happened to us a lot recently; it happened against Richmond and it happened against Nottingham. We seem to be hitting games where the teams we are playing will have targeted us as a 'turnaround point' in their season and if we are being honest, Hartpury are probably looking at us as a must win game for them.

If you take look at Hartpury this season, you'll see they have been very competitive in every game they've played. They also just lost out to Worcester in the final minutes of the game and actually at the end of that game they were still looking to try and win it.

So, if they can hold the likes of Worcester and almost win against them, you know they're a good team and when you put all these pieces together – a good team, threats all over the park, must win – then you know they're going to come and take it to us and there's absolutely no doubt that we're going to have to be on it.

We've had some dents this week around player availability, which gives others an opportunity, but for us we're not getting carried away and we just need to build on what we've done in the first 7 games. We need to continue to enjoy our training, enjoy the experiences we're having in the Champ and just keep building.

It's good to be back at Clifton Lane with a more traditional kick-off time on a Saturday afternoon; we enjoy playing at home with the unique experience of that and with the way our supporters always get behind us. Hopefully we can deliver another good performance.

Enjoy the game,

Harvey

Hartpury RFC – A Remarkable Rise Through the Rugby Pyramid

Hartpury RFC have enjoyed one of the most remarkable rises in English rugby union, developing from a newly formed club playing in the lower reaches of the league pyramid into an established force in Champ Rugby.

Based at Hartpury University in Gloucestershire, the club's journey began in September 2000 with the formation of Hartpury College Rugby Academy, established in partnership with Gloucester Rugby. Initially comprising a university side competing in the BUCS league system alongside under-18 teams, the academy provided the foundations for what would become an extraordinary success story.

In 2004, the college's ambition to establish a Saturday senior side became reality with the formation of Hartpury College RFC. Starting life in the eleventh tier of the English rugby league structure, the club suffered defeat in its very first competitive league fixture in Gloucester Three North. Remarkably, that proved to be their last league defeat until 2009, as Hartpury embarked on an incredible run of success.

Four successive promotions, victories in both the EDF Junior Vase and EDF Senior Vase, and further cup success quickly established the club as one of the fastest-growing sides in the country. Along the way, Hartpury also lifted the Level Six Champions Cup and the EDF Intermediate Cup, both at Twickenham, as their progress through the divisions continued at an astonishing rate.

Their rise eventually took them into National League 1, where they made an immediate impression. The 2016/17 campaign proved to be a particularly historic one, with Hartpury winning the title in emphatic fashion during their third season at Level Three. Not only did they finish as champions, but they achieved the remarkable feat of winning all 30 league fixtures, securing a perfect 100 per cent record. On just two occasions throughout the entire campaign did they fail to collect a four-try bonus point.

That outstanding achievement secured promotion to the Championship, now known as Champ Rugby, where Hartpury have established themselves as a competitive and consistent presence. Their first season at the higher level saw them finish tenth, comfortably avoiding relegation and continuing an impressive record of improving their final league position in every season of the club's existence.

Although that particular record has since come to an end, Hartpury have continued to demonstrate their credentials. Fifth place in 2023/24 was followed by sixth-place finishes in both 2024/25 and 2025/26, with the club featuring in the Championship play-offs and underlining their status among the division's leading sides.

The club's influence extends beyond the senior men's team. Its close relationship with Gloucester Rugby has provided a pathway for talented players to progress into the professional game, with several going on to represent Gloucester and other professional clubs. Hartpury also jointly operates Gloucester-Hartpury with Gloucester Rugby, with the women's side competing in Premiership Women's Rugby.

Scrum half Rhodri Davies picks out a pass at Clifton Lane

For Rotherham Titans, meetings with Hartpury have been relatively limited. The two clubs last met during the 2017/18 Championship season, when Hartpury completed a league double over the South Yorkshire side, winning 32-21 at Clifton Lane before securing another victory at the University Stadium. It proved to be a difficult campaign for Titans, who were relegated at the end of the season.

Hartpury's Dan Murphy scores at the University Stadium

From humble beginnings in the eleventh tier to becoming an established Champ club, Hartpury's rise has been built on ambition, investment in player development and an outstanding record of success. Their progress in just over two decades represents one of the most impressive modern success stories in English club rugby.

TEAM MATES

with Corrie Barrett

Who's the biggest wind-up merchant in the squad? Give them an inch, they'll take the mick.	JB, loves a jab at anyone
Who takes the game way too seriously in training? It's not the World Cup final, mate.	Alfie Bell, never met a man more competitive, especially lineouts
Who's the worst passenger on away trips? Backseat driver, snacks everywhere, no filter.	Mitchell Lacey-Babalola, either eating smelly micro-waved food or sleeping, anti chat
Who would sell the whole squad out for a bag of chips? Loyalty has a price and it's low.	Might be me, more clubs than Tiger Woods
Who's most likely to fake an injury to skip a fitness test? Suddenly can't feel their hamstring.	Donks, Achillies seems to flair up right before condition-ing
Who's the last one out to training every session? Always 'just tying their laces' or conveniently late.	Travis, between strapping his own knee and putting on 40 layers of clothing
Most likely to forget their boots on game day? Or just always missing something.	Kima might forget there's a game to go to, never mind boots
Who's the undercover athlete – doesn't look fit, but runs all day?	Fozzy, old diesel engine in the boy, only has 4 gears tho
Who's most likely to start a scrap (then walk away)? Bit of bark, not much bite.	Rusty, always starting them in matches and seems to come away unscathed
Who's most likely to end up on reality TV? Love Island? Gladiators? Bake Off?	Love Island Cambriani, loves looking in the mirror or lifting his top up (not jealous), Gladiators, John Okafor, Athlete. Bake off, Isaac Shaw, specifically Banana bread

SUPPORTERS VIEWPOINT

with Tom Pollard

There were plenty of takeaways from the England vs Australia match last week. Steve Borthwick is definitely sleeping a little easier after what was the highest ever points total against the Wallabies by England.

I appreciated that he admitted that despite this being a historic win, he is keen to prove that this isn't a 'flash in the pan'. Let's be honest, taking nothing away from England's performance, Australia were poor. They didn't look particularly sharp or cohesive, and it will be just as interesting to see how they bounce back from this match as it will England's next game.

I also had to smile at Borthwick saying the problem with how well Henry Pollock played on the wing is that the team will have to listen to him talk about how easy it was and how he can play any position on the pitch. Borthwick apparently suggested the front row, but Henry declined.

It's always interesting to me what makes headlines some days. This time it's Ben Earl's celebration at winning a scrum just three minutes into the Wallabies clash. The amount of social media buzz this one action received really did shock me. People claimed it was the passion that Borthwick was demanding from his players, others defined it as cringe and 'plastic energy'.

Some even claimed it was all a ruse to wind up the keyboard warriors of social media. Despite myself believing this really isn't a talking point I would be interested in hearing other peoples thoughts to this one as there was far more comments on this than I could have ever imagined.

Sticking with Ben Earl, he has recently completed a 15,000-word university dissertation that I would love to have a read of. This focuses around the rules of Rugby Union and more importantly, active players consultation in these.

During his research, he found that no international players had been consulted at all on their opinions on the current rules and how they could be changed. He openly questions and critiques the amendments to the hip-drop and knee-drop tackles without the players who have to use these having 'a seat at the table'. Ben Earl didn't stop there either. He criticised general player welfare, including the heavy travel toll, demanding season formats and the physical requirements of formats like the Nations Championship.

So, I leave the discussion up to the readers. If you were to create a panel that determined the rules and the subsequent changes to them, who would you have? Would this be an amalgamation of referees and ex-professionals? Would you include professionals whose background may not specifically be Rugby Union like head trauma specialists? Would seasoned grass roots players be able to lend their information? Or maybe this could become even more democratic, and the rules could be outlined and then put to a vote? The likelihood is that whatever combination of people have the deciding say will always have their critics and there will never be complete agreement.

SUPPORTERS CLUB

with John O'Brien

Hello folks,

Well, what a brilliant start to this season. After Round 6 we should be incredibly proud of the boys who have only lost two games to the full-time professional outfits of Worcester Warriors and Cornish Pirates.

To be sitting in sixth place after winning four of our fixtures against established names in this division, I for one am not too disappointed about losing at home to a truly ruthless and powerful Pirates side and looking again at the score of three tries for and six against we weren't too shabby on a cold floodlit night at the Lane, even though the two year unbeaten run at the Lane was bound to end sometime.

Some very dubious decisions by the referee. Harvey during the third half gave due praise to Pirates for the win but was full of praise for the never say die attitude of the Titans who if not for a stuttering line-out display and very sharp play by Pirates who snaffled half chances gifted by us, I'm sure the final score would have been a bit closer. Just to finish on a positive note, the boys done good!!

Being an old codger, I decided not to drive to Nottingham for our last game, kick-off being a bit too close to my usual bedtime, so we decided to watch at the clubhouse courtesy of either Blaze or Clubber, both of which I have at home, but opted for a smidgeon of atmosphere that you don't necessarily feel by sitting at home, plus the beer's tastier at Clifton Lane. So, a great result and well deserved for persistence and that resolve to keep going.

Poor Liz who's turning into a veritable rugby widow what with Clubber, Blaze and on top of that 6 Nations. You hardly dare leave a screen this weekend. I've just been watching our next opponents Hartpury coming unstuck with Chinnor due to poor lineout drills on Chinnor's five metre line. So that means they leap-frog us into fourth place.

It's great to see so many fabulous offloads in the game as per All Blacks play. It's lovely to see Lee Blackett on TV orchestrating the England attack. So much this club has contributed in so many ways to the game. I know Lee visited the club recently resulting in Jenks sporting a long England puffer coat bearing the initials LB much to the delight, (NOT), of players and coaching staff alike. You deserve it, Tony!!

And so, to today's game against Hartpury from Gloucestershire. We are doing well at present, but anyone can beat anyone in this division, so the answer is not to take anything for granted, keep your eye on the ball and as per usual, LETSEND-EMOWMWINOWT and the best of luck to one and all at Titans.

Kind regards,

John

LAWNS FARM

Our grandfather Alfred Edwin Ross originally purchased Lawns Farm in the 1940's and we are now in the third generation of farmers.

Lawns Farm is just under 200 acres of mainly dairy farming situated between Rotherham and Sheffield. We are a family farm with approximately 90 cows in milk, although our experimental nature has seen us breed Aberdeen Angus, Hereford and Belted Galloway cows.

A poultry hobby grew into a sizeable collection of chicken and duck varieties and then into commercial free range turkey and goose supply for the Christmas period.

Today we have a growing herd of pigs focusing on traditional old English breeds such as the British Lop and the Gloucestershire Old Spots.

Guy Williams: HE'LL TELL YOU HOW IT IS

I think it's important to dismiss any thoughts that just because Rotherham are competing this afternoon against the bottom side in the Champ, the result is already in the bag. Far from it, in my opinion.

Hartpury have a strong reputation for playing a creative and fast game which enables them to score plenty of points, even though they have often lost in the seven games they've played.

Their current record is: played seven, won one and lost six, but, for example, they scored 28 points against Worcester, 24 against Ampthill, and 21 when they took on Bedford.

The Gloucestershire team's only win was earned against Caldy who were beaten, only just, by 42-40.

So, I think we can expect plenty of points this afternoon; bearing in mind Hartpury lost again last Sunday, beaten 36-12 by Chinnor, I expect them to be more determined than ever to pick up a second victory in the Champ.

Meanwhile, Rotherham have recovered strongly at Nottingham following their league defeat at Clifton Lane against Cornish Pirates.

Winning in the East Midlands by 28-24 and scoring four tries is quite an achievement and one which must surely give the squad much confidence going forward.

Given that Hartpury like to attack, often from deep, the Titans' defence needs to be at its most watchful and I expect it to be fully stretched against opponents whose Head Coach is Mark Cornwell.

Mark's assisted by defence coach, Ashley Johnson, and the other coaches are Ryan Bower(scrum) and Matt Banahan(backs).

Two of their players, fly half Harry Bazalgette and skipper and back row forward, Will Crane, both ex-Cornish Pirates, are highly experienced at this level and inspirational too.

Rotherham fans, I am certain, will enjoy watching today's visitors who are always entertaining and as their squad contains some of the best younger players in the English professional game, you may be able to spot future Premiership stars.

I'd like to offer my congratulations to Harvey Biljon and his squad for the excellent start to life in the Champ. I am certain that in the seven matches played already, lessons have been learned by both coaches and players, not least that this league is highly competitive and that you can never relax during a match, and if you switch off, you'll be punished immediately.

Having seen Doncaster a week ago overcome Worcester, the point I learned was that if you give away many penalties, instantly, you've lost the ball and territory, and your opponents are then likely to score.
