RETREAT

WELCOME TO ISSUE #37

The Holiday Issue

As the year draws to a close, we find ourselves in that golden pocket of time when wanderlust feels not only justified but essential. Holiday season has a rhythm of its own—one that invites us to chase winter sun across hemispheres, rediscover favourite escapes, and indulge in the quiet luxury of living beautifully, wherever the journey takes us. This issue is dedicated to the way the modern jetsetter moves through the world: with intention, ease, and a wardrobe that is as valuable as their passport.

For Issue 37, we explore a curated selection of global destinations shaping luxury travel now. Think the sun-bleached modernism of Greece, the high-octane gloss of Dubai, the refined barefoot luxury of Bali—and a lineup of equally compelling stays across Asia, Europe, the Middle East, and beyond. These are the addresses defining the season.

Our Holiday Gift Guide has been designed with the savvy traveller in mind: elevated pieces, thoughtful upgrades, and essentials that streamline the journey. To personalise it even further, our Travel Personality Quiz taps into the way you experience the world—whether you chase design, culture, wellness, or pure indulgence.

Fashion sits at the centre of this issue. Inside, you'll find high-impact resort looks, airport dressing with editorial polish, and the key accessories that carry a holiday wardrobe. Beauty follows with targeted luxe buys—the glow-givers, repair-heroes, and signature scents that belong in every carry-on.

This is your high-gloss guide to the season: the style, the destinations, and the trends that define travel now—from takeoff to your final holiday address.

Until the next escape,

HOLIDAY READY

Skincare

RADIANCE ON THE GO

Photography by Emily Abay

The festive season and travel schedules are notorious for throwing even the most dedicated skincare routines off balance. Aeroplane cabins dry out skin, hotel water can feel harsh, and late-night festivities leave little room for a proper routine. But radiant skin doesn't have to take a back seat. The trick? A travel-savvy, multi-layered approach that combines hydration, protection, and quick fixes that fit neatly in your suitcase.

Because your glow shouldn't take a vacation

HYDRATION IS EVERYTHING

Begin with a lightweight, antioxidant-rich moisturiser and a nourishing serum. Ingredients like hyaluronic acid, vitamin C, and rosehip oil restore moisture, strengthen the skin barrier, and give a natural glow. For extra comfort during flights or chilly city escapes, a hydrating mist can refresh the skin throughout the day.

QUICK TREATMENTS FOR A BOOST

Sheet masks infused with peptides, hyaluronic acid, or botanical extracts are perfect for a 15-minute reset before a festive dinner. Eye patches or gel masks combat puffiness, ensuring you arrive at brunch or a gala looking as well-rested as possible.

SUN PROTECTION IS NON-NEGOTIABLE

Broad-spectrum SPF, or a tinted moisturiser with SPF, keeps skin even-toned and luminous. Multi-tasking products such as serum-infused primers or hydrating foundations save space and energy while keeping your skin polished.

1. MAC, Prep+Prime Fix Plus Sized To Go Mini Mist Setting Spray 1oz 30ml, $17

2. AVÈNE, Hydrance Rich Hydrating Cream Moisturiser for Dehydrated Skin, $42

3. Estée Lauder, DayWear Moisturizer Multi-Protection Anti-Oxidant 24H-Moisture Creme SPF 15, $52

4. UTU, SPF 50 Tinted Mineral Sunscreen Stick, $38

5. JAN MARINI, Hyla3D Face Serum Hyaluronic Acid Complex 1ml, $122

6. ORIGINS, GinZing™ Energizing Gel Cream with Caffeine & Niacinamide, $39

7. TATCHA, Mini The Silk Sunscreen SPF 50 Weightless Mineral Sunscreen, $25

8. DR. BARBARA STURM, The Good C Vitamin C Serum 30ml, $160

9. VACATION, Body Mist, $24

10. THE ORDINARY, 100_ Organic Cold-Pressed Rose Hip Seed Oil, $11

ALL Eyes ON YOU

*The holiday glow
doesn't stop at the tan*

In the language of vacation beauty, eyes are the ultimate souvenir—each look a postcard from somewhere unforgettable. This season's travel-inspired makeup trends are a jet-setter's dream: molten gold from a Santorini sunset, deep emerald from a Balinese jungle, the blue of the Amalfi coast, smoky shades from Marrakech nights, and the unexpected romance of plum, like sipping wine in a Parisian square. Whether poolside or on the piazza, your lids can tell the story before your lips even part.

Golden Hour

IN SANTORINI

Nothing says holiday mode like a sweep of gold that catches the light as you raise a glass at sunset. Cream formulas pack easily into a travel bag and can be tapped on with fingertips—perfect for lazy afternoons when you want to go from beach lounge to terrace dinner without a stop at the mirror.

1. MAC, Dazzleshadow Eye Shadow Stick, $28
2. TOM FORD, Mirage Highlighter, $95
3. NATASHA DENONA, Golden Eyeshadow Palette, $69
4. CHANTECAILLE, Liquid Lumière Highlighter, $48
5. SISLEYPARIS, Glow Pearl eyeshadow, $65

Emerald Evening

IN BALI

A deep green eye feels lush, tropical, and just the right kind of unexpected. Try a velvety emerald smudged along the lash line, paired with dewy skin and bronzed cheeks. The effect? Like the light filtering through palm leaves during a twilight stroll back to your villa.

1. ILIA, Liquid Powder Matte Eye Tint, $28
2. HOURGLASS, Glitter Eyeshadow, $35
3. GORGIO ARMANI, Eye Tint Long-Lasting Liquid Eyeshadow, $39
4. SISLEY PARIS, Ombre Eclat Liquide, $65
5. CHANTECAILLE, Olive Eyeliner, $35

Amalfi Blue

Blue is no longer reserved for daring beauty editors—it's the colour of carefree days spent sailing. Think sheer washes of aquamarine over the lid, paired with salt-tousled hair and glossy lips. By night, swap it for an inky navy flick that mimics the moonlit sea.

1. SISLEY PARIS, Les Phyto-Ombres Eyeshadow, $65
2. SISLEY PARIS, Phyto-Eye Twist, $60
3. HOURGLASS, Curator Eyeshadow Refill, $30
4. IL MAKIAGE, High Volume & Intense Curl Mascara, $35
5. STILA, Liqua-Play Eye Shadow, $25

Marrakech Nights

The smoky eye gets a vacation edit with softer edges and shades that mimic desert sunsets—burnished browns, copper, and a whisper of black for definition. The key is blending until it feels lived-in, like the kohl-rimmed eyes seen in medina alleyways under lantern light.

1. TARTE, SmolderEYES Shadow Liner, $26
2. PAT McGRATH, FetishEYES™ Longwear Liquid Eyeshadow, $32
3. JANE IREDALE, ColorLuxe Eye Shadow Stick, $28
4. MAC, Pro Longwear Paint Pot Cream Eyeshadow, $28
5. GUCCI, Stylo Contour des Yeux Eyeliner, $39

Parisian Plum

Plum shadow is the chicest carry-on companion—sophisticated enough for an art gallery in Le Marais, yet sultry enough for rooftop cocktails. Metallic finishes give it a modern holiday sparkle, while matte formulas offer quiet elegance for daytime wanderings.

1. DIOR, Diorshow 5 Couleurs Couture Eyeshadow Palette, $72
2. SKINN, Plum Scientific Color Firming Eyeshadow, $32
3. HOURGLASS, Curator Eyeshadow-Deep Plum (Metallic), $30
4. LAURA MERCIER, Matte Eye Colour-Plum Smoke, $25
5. LUNE+ASTER, Dawn to Dusk Gel Eyeliner, $26

Packing the Perfect Palette

For the globetrotting beauty lover, one compact is all you need. Choose a travel palette with these five shades, and you can shift from breezy brunches to glamorous midnight moments without overpacking. After all, vacation beauty should be effortless—just like the way you'll remember it.

1. MAC, Connect in Color 6-Pan Eyeshadow Palette, $34
2. DIOR, Backstage Eye Palette, $55
3. VICTORIA BECKHAM, Eye Wardrobe, $50
4. TOM FORD BEAUTY, Island Haze Eye Quad, $90
5. NATASHA DENONA, Mini Gloom Eyeshadow Palette, $27

BEAUTY

THE RADIANCE REPORT

Photography by Veronica Sams

Holiday makeup should feel effortless, luminous, and versatile—ready to capture both sunlit adventures and festive evening celebrations. The key is creating a look that enhances your natural radiance without feeling heavy or overdone.

BASE & GLOW

Start with a tinted moisturiser, sheer foundation, or luminous BB cream. Hydrating formulas ensure your skin stays radiant, while translucent powders set makeup lightly without masking natural glow.

1. DR. JART, Premium BB Tinted Moisturizer with Niacinamide and SPF 40, $49
2. LAURA MERCIER, Tinted Moisturizer Sheer Cream Bronzer, $32
3. NARS, Sheer Glow Foundation, $49
4. HOURGLASS, Mini Veil™ Translucent Setting Powder, $26

HIGHLIGHT & BLUSH

Use cream or powder highlighters on cheekbones, brow bones, and the bridge of the nose to catch the light in photos. Peach or rosy blushes bring warmth and vitality, perfect for outdoor markets, sun-drenched terraces, or candlelit holiday dinners.

1. STILA, Heaven's Hue Highlighter, $34
2. SAIE, Dew Blush Liquid Cream Blush, $6
3. HOURGLASS, Unreal Liquid Blush, $36
4. HAUS LABS, Bio-Radiant Gel-Powder Illuminating Highlighter with Fermented Arnica, $40

EYES & LIPS

Eyes should remain soft but captivating. Neutral metallics, champagne tones, and bronzes make eyes pop naturally. Pair with a lengthening mascara for an open-eyed effect. For lips, tinted balms or glosses provide colour and hydration, making them perfect for selfies, festive dinners, or holiday parties.

1. VALENTINO, Beauty Liquirosso Soft Matte Liquid Lipstick & Blush, $40
2. RMS BEAUTY, Luminizer, $40
3. BENEFIT, Mini They're Real! Lengthening Mascara, $16
4. NATASHA DENONA, Mini Nude Eyeshadow Palette, $27

TRAVEL & MULTI-USE TIPS

Multi-purpose products streamline your routine: cream blush doubles as lip tint, luminous primer works as a subtle highlighter, and compact palettes can cover eyes, lips, and cheeks. The secret to holiday makeup? Layer, blend, and embrace products that perform double duty.

1. IL MAKIAGE, Hi-Shine Lip Color, $29
2. ISAMAYA, Lash Lengthening Mascara, $32
3. LOUBOUTIN, Tape à l'œil Metallic Eyeshadow, $55
4. ANASTASIA BEVERLY HILLS, Mini Sultry Eye Shadow Palette, $29

LIFESTYLE ANGLE

Beauty during the holidays isn't just about the products—it's about moments. Reapply a hint of gloss before a photo, sweep a touch of highlighter while sipping morning coffee, and let your look evolve naturally from sunrise strolls to evening soirées. Glow is not just seen—it's lived.

1. LE LABO, Unscented Lip Balm, $21
2. CAROLINE HERRERA, Nude Couture Highlighter, $65
3. YSL, Beaute Candy Glaze Lip Gloss Stick, $24

BEAUTY

BEHIND THE Glow

Meet the game changer transforming Australia's skincare story— one smart formula at a time

Renowned Cosmetic Physician Dr. Kate Jameson (MBBS, FRACGP), founder of Youth Lab, is pioneering a future where premium skincare meets accessibility through Youth Lab Direct – a members-only platform – and its debut in-house formula, Youth Rx. This first-of-its-kind membership model marks a turning point for beauty consumers, offering direct access to science-led skincare and professional clinical guidance without the luxury markup.

Drawing on her experience treating thousands of patients across Youth Lab's five cosmetic clinics, Dr. Kate identified a long-standing gap between professional treatments and effective at-home routines. The result? Youth Rx marks the beginning of Youth Lab Direct's clinical innovation series—formulas born inside the Lab, shaped by Dr. Kate's insight, and made accessible exclusively to members.

Two years in the making, Youth Rx was created through the collective expertise of Youth Lab's medical and dermal practitioners, led and refined by Dr. Kate Jameson. As the first release within Youth Lab Direct, it sets the tone for what members can expect: professional-grade efficacy, transparent formulation, and genuine value.

"For years, we've watched patients struggle to maintain their in-clinic results in a confusing and often overpriced market," says Dr. Kate. "Youth Rx is our answer—it's powerful, transparent, and made to empower. Through Youth Lab Direct, we're ensuring that access to professional skincare and guidance from our dermal clinicians is no longer reserved for clinic walls but open to every member who values real results."

With this groundbreaking model, Dr. Kate is doing more than launching a product line—she's launching a new way to experience skincare. Youth Lab Direct replaces the traditional retail model with an ecosystem connecting members to expert guidance, trusted brands, and lab-born formulations at consistent member pricing.

As the beauty industry chases trends, Dr. Kate's mission remains refreshingly clear: skin health over hype.

How do you balance the clinical and the luxurious when it comes to self-care?

For me, luxury doesn't mean excess, it means intention. The most luxurious experiences are often the simplest ones done well. I approach self-care like I approach formulation, with precision and purpose.

Youth Lab Direct – and Youth Rx, our first collection—reflect that balance. The textures, sensory experience, and packaging all feel luxurious, but every element is clinically considered. I love that we've created something indulgent yet grounded in science.

How is Youth Lab Direct redefining the way Australians experience skincare?

We've reimaged the retail model entirely. Youth Lab Direct is Australia's first members-only skincare platform, founded on transparency, science, and value rather than mark-ups and marketing spin.

By leveraging the infrastructure of our five Youth Lab clinics and clinical team, we have removed the unnecessary layers that inflate traditional beauty pricing—including distributors, wholesalers, licensing fees, agency commissions, and excessive retail overheads. With those costs stripped away, members can access premium, clinical-grade skincare from both our Youth Rx formulations and partner brands such as SkinCeuticals, Medik8, and Ultracuticals at consistent and transparent prices.

Each Youth Rx product is created direct from the lab, offering the same calibre and formulation integrity found in brands that retail for up to five times our member price in major stores. By keeping production, testing, and expertise under one roof, we have made true-cost skincare accessible, delivering professional quality without compromise.

This is a model that celebrates loyalty over impulse, education over hype, and long-term results over short-term trends, redefining how Australians experience premium skincare.

What inspired you to create Youth Rx, and how does it reflect your philosophy on modern beauty?

For years I've watched patients achieve incredible in-clinic results, only to feel lost when maintaining them at home. That's why we created Youth Lab Direct, a platform designed to bridge professional care with everyday routines. Youth Rx is simply the first formula born from that mission—science-led, results-driven, and accessible.

To me, modern beauty is about empowerment and education, giving people the tools to understand their skin, not just products to cover it. Every formula in Youth Rx is designed to strengthen, restore, and future-proof the skin, while staying true to our philosophy of skin health over hype.

How did your years in clinic shape the vision behind The Ritual Range?

The Ritual Range was a natural place to start our skincare journey. Every product in The Ritual Range is a direct reflection of what we see in the clinic every day. The two most common concerns among patients are dehydration and inflammation, both of which compromise the skin barrier and accelerate ageing.

After treating thousands of clients, we realised that most people were either over-treating their skin with too many actives or under-nourishing it because they felt overwhelmed. The Ritual Range simplifies this by delivering everything the skin needs to thrive: hydration, repair, and protection in five essential steps.

Each formula is clinically balanced, luxurious to use, and created to complement professional treatments, so patients can maintain their results confidently at home.

What's one skincare myth you wish everyone would leave behind?

That more is more. Layering too many actives or constantly switching products can actually damage the skin. The goal should be balance—supporting the barrier, not attacking it.

Another is the obsession with instant results. True skin transformation takes time, consistency, and respect for the skin's natural rhythm. There's no shortcut to long-term health.

When you're not in the clinic, where do you retreat to recharge and reset?

My happy place is by the ocean on an island without crowds and the noise of everyday life, anywhere I can switch off and be surrounded by nature. Our family loves holidays to Thailand and Fiji; it's these trips where I feel most grounded and creative.

I'm also a big believer in everyday rituals. Simple moments like my morning coffee, evening skincare routine, or time with my family help me reset far more than grand gestures.

Which Youth Rx products are always in your travel bag?

I never travel without the Hydrating Elixir and the Renewal Oil Elixir. Flights and climate changes can wreak havoc on the skin barrier, so these two are my non-negotiables.

The Hydrating Elixir delivers an instant infusion of hyaluronic acid, niacinamide, and soothing botanicals, while the Renewal Oil Elixir gives that luminous finish with bakuchiol, CoQ10, and antioxidant-rich oils. They're the perfect combination of repair and radiance—a true 'mini facial' in my carry-on.

What are your non-negotiables for maintaining glowing skin while travelling?

Hydration, both internal and external, and strict consistency. I always prioritise gentle cleansing, hydration layering, and SPF, even when I'm tired or out of routine. I also try to avoid over-exfoliating while away, as skin can become more reactive in different climates.

Beyond products, sleep and stress management make a visible difference. No treatment or serum can replace proper rest and recovery, which is something I'm still learning to prioritise.

What do you think today's beauty consumer is truly searching for in their routine?

I think the modern consumer wants clarity, not complexity. They're tired of chasing trends and are instead looking for authenticity, evidence, and results. People want to know that what they're using is scientifically validated, ethically made, and priced fairly.

There's also a growing desire for education, to understand the why behind each step. That's why Youth Lab Direct combines expert guidance with access to the best formulations. We're not just selling skincare; we're building confidence through knowledge and consistency.

That's why our membership model works so well—it builds trust over time, showing value through education, savings, and results rather than constant discounts.

Finally, how would you define beauty in this new era of skin health?

To me, beauty is integrity—in how we care for ourselves, how we treat others, and how we show up authentically. It's about radiating confidence, not perfection.

This new era of skin health is about education, empowerment, and honesty. When we shift the focus from appearance to wellbeing, everything changes. The glow becomes a by-product of balance, not just a product on your shelf.

GOLDEN HOUR GETAWAY

There's a reason the golden hour feels universal—whether you're watching the sun dip behind the cliffs of Positano, the palms of the Maldives, or the rooftops of Cabo. It's the light that makes everything look a little more beautiful, and the moment that turns resort fashion into something cinematic.

This season, style glows from the inside out. Think luminous neutrals that catch the light just so, liquid-gold slips that skim the skin, and sun-kissed accessories that shimmer with movement. At the Four Seasons Bora Bora, it's a silk dress and bare feet in the sand. At The Belmond in Amalfi, it's a linen two-piece and a spritz in hand.

The golden hour wardrobe is less about trend, more about tone—the warm hue of bronzed skin, the quiet gleam of gold jewellery, the ease of a day that ends in candlelight. Because the most radiant looks aren't made in the mirror—they're made in the light.

Perfect pairings: glowy skin tints, metallic sandals, raffia bags, minimalist gold hoops, linen separates.

There's a kind of magic in tropical nostalgia – a whisper of the past, wrapped in modern ease. It's that halcyon blend of retro romance and barefoot glamour that evokes old Barbados or Bali in the '70s, yet feels right at home poolside at The St. Regis or a boutique villa in Sri Lanka.

This season, fashion leans into that timeless charm: halter swimsuits, raffia textures, sun-faded prints, and effortless cotton dresses that move with the breeze. Accessories tell the story – a woven clutch that looks collected, not bought; a pair of vintage-inspired sunglasses; red nails that feel classic, never contrived.

It's not about dressing for a destination – it's about channelling a mood. One that's languid, luminous, and unapologetically romantic. Because every island has a heartbeat, and this one sounds like laughter under palm trees.

Perfect pairings: vintage-inspired swim, patterned wrap skirts, cat-eye sunglasses, red lipsticks, straw totes.

HANNAH

There's a rare kind of woman who can command both a runway and a riding arena, who feels equally at home beneath the dazzling lights of Times Square as she does under a canopy of trees. Model, artist, and equestrian Hannah Widmer is one of them. Her presence is magnetic, yet her allure extends far beyond appearances. Thoughtful, creative, and a little wild at heart, Hannah embodies a vision of beauty that's as much about inner grace as it is about outer poise.

The wild scare people who have only loved the tame

When she's not in front of the camera, Hannah is immersed in her art, painting watercolors, crafting stained glass, or sculpting, or she's in the stables with her beloved horses, True Fortune and her newest companion, Chocolate. As she reflects on her life, Hannah often returns to a favourite quote by Anne Lamott: "I do not at all understand the mystery of grace – only that it meets us where we are but does not leave us where it found us." For Hannah, this is not merely a saying; it's a way of living – chasing moments of transformation, freedom, and quiet power. "The wild scare people who have only loved the tame," she says with a knowing smile.

Though she has graced countless magazine covers and billboards around the world, Hannah feels her truest beauty off camera. "Honestly, I feel most beautiful when everything quiets down – barefoot at home, no makeup, maybe cooking or reading by the window. It's in the moments when I'm most myself, not performing or posing, that I feel a kind of beauty that has nothing to do with appearance. It's about being at peace in my own skin."

The worlds of couture runways and competitive horse shows may seem vastly different, but Hannah sees a shared rhythm in both. "Both demand presence, precision, and poise," she explains. "On the runway, you're telling a story with every step, feeling the energy of the crowd, the music, the garments. In the saddle, it's about harmony with the horse, reading subtle cues, trusting your training. Both require discipline, grace under pressure, and a kind of flow – when it's right, there's a rhythm that feels almost like flying."

Her creative vision extends beyond performance. "Lately, I've been dreaming about creating something that bridges beauty and purpose—something that outlives trends. As an Aquarius, I'm always looking toward what's next, but now my vision has become more inward. I want to build spaces, projects, and connections that make people feel seen and inspired, whether through art, sustainability, or storytelling. It's less about chasing the spotlight and more about illuminating something bigger than myself."

Hannah's dual life as a model and artist deeply informs her perspective on fashion and beauty. "Working with paint, glass, and sculpture reshapes how I see form, texture, and emotion," she says. "I don't just see a garment; I see its tension, how light interacts with fabric like it does with glass. Modeling becomes more than posing—it's interpreting a story, whether in the studio or on a set."

Travel, too, is a constant source of inspiration. "I find beauty in contrasts—ancient meets modern, quiet meets chaos. Europe moves me with its balance of restraint and elegance; Morocco, with its colours and rhythm, reminds me to create boldly; the Italian countryside slows me down and reconnects me to simplicity. Every place leaves a mark—a palette, a texture, a scent—that seeps into my art and the way I carry myself."

If her life were a painting, deep indigos and warm golds would dominate the canvas. Indigo for introspection, for the nights spent shedding old versions of herself, and gold for light, joy, and the creative fire that refuses to go out. Strokes of soft blush appear for love, tenderness, and the people who ground her. "The story it tells is one of transformation. Not loud or chaotic, but intentional. A life shifting into its next chapter with grace, and just a little bit of rebellion."

Grace, for Hannah, is more than elegance or charm; it's the quiet force that carries her when her own strength falters. "In art, it's when a piece breathes on its own. In my work, it's showing up fully, even when I feel unsure. And in daily life, grace is moving through the world with softness, even in ambition, with compassion, especially for myself. Anne Lamott talks about grace as something that meets you exactly where you are—not where you think you should be. That's a truth I return to, over and over."

Despite accolades calling her "one of the most beautiful women on the planet," Hannah remains grounded. "The camera can capture how I look, but not how I feel. It misses the layers—curiosity, chaos, inner conversations, the moments when I'm completely unguarded. Beauty isn't in the image; it's in the in-between, the unseen pulse of being alive."

Her daily rituals reflect the same quiet mindfulness that shapes her art and riding. Morning coffee, brushing her horse in silence, stretching with music, lighting incense before painting—these small pauses are her anchor. "Centring doesn't come from grand gestures. It lives in the gentle, consistent acts of care," she says.

Looking ahead, Hannah sees the next chapter as one of alignment rather than achievement. "I want to keep creating—perhaps larger installations, collaborations that merge fashion, sustainability, and fine art. I also crave adventure that nourishes the soul—more time in nature, more learning, more connection. The wildest adventure might be the simplest one: living with intention, curiosity, and a kind of fearless softness."

Hannah Widmer is, in every sense, a portrait of grace and wild beauty—a woman whose life is a canvas in constant motion, and whose story continues to unfold with elegance, courage, and a touch of rebellion.

THE Beauty OF BECOMING

Oleksandra Mudra on Dreams and Quiet Luxury

Ukrainian-born media personality, actress, and former journalist Oleksandra Mudra has always been guided by a profound sense of curiosity—a drive to understand the world, and in turn, herself. From reporting international news for a major television network to becoming a nationally recognized finalist on Season 12 of The Bachelor, Oleksandra's journey is marked by fearless exploration, both outwardly through travel and inwardly through self-discovery. Today, based in Los Angeles, she balances a thriving creative career with a deep commitment to intentional living, effortless style, and the pursuit of dreams that feel like home.

The Places That Shape Me

For Oleksandra, travel has never been about the checklist of destinations. It's about the emotional landscapes each place offers, and how they shape her inner world.

"I feel at home in New York, Los Angeles, Alaska, Hawaii, Europe, Asia," she shares. "Not because of the cities themselves, but because of the energy they awaken in me—the quiet moments, the clarity, the freedom to just be."

Whether she's gazing at the vast Alaskan wilderness, wandering European streets steeped in history, or soaking in the sunlight of Hawaiian beaches, Oleksandra absorbs the subtle nuances that leave lasting impressions on her character. Travel, for her, is less about movement and more about transformation—an intimate dialogue between place and self.

My Effortless Approach to Style

Oleksandra's aesthetic mirrors her philosophy on life: simple, chic, and authentic. Her wardrobe embodies the quiet-luxury approach, favoring timeless pieces over fleeting trends.

"Fashion became an extension of who I am, rather than a costume," she explains. "It's about confidence in simplicity—choosing pieces that reflect my personality and let me move through the world naturally."

From sleek tailoring in New York to airy linen dresses in Los Angeles, her style flows seamlessly between cities and moods, always maintaining an understated elegance that is distinctly her own.

Inner Balance & Beauty Rituals

Beyond the external, Oleksandra invests deeply in her inner life. She approaches beauty, health, and fitness as a holistic practice, a daily ritual of care and attention that grounds her.

"My mornings are sacred," she says. "A few mindful moments, proper skincare, light movement, and setting intentions for the day. It's minimalistic, but it keeps me connected, to myself and to what I value most."

Glowing skin, nourishment, and consistency define her routine, reflecting a broader philosophy that harmony and self-respect are the true markers of beauty.

The Art of Soft Living

Central to Oleksandra's life is the cultivation of softness, not weakness, but tenderness and sensitivity as a form of strength. She seeks a life rich in emotional depth, where vulnerability is welcomed, and maturity is embraced.

"I am learning to live softer, more deeply, and honestly with myself," she reflects. "To move through life with calm, feminine energy. To feel fully and express compassion, for others, but especially for myself."

This art of soft living is an ethos that extends into every aspect of her life, shaping her relationships, her creative choices, and the way she navigates the pressures of public life.

Dreams, Creativity & The Future I'm Building

Oleksandra's creative journey began long before television. As a child, she wrote poetry, performed on stage, and immersed herself in literature, cultivating a sensitivity to human emotion and a fascination with storytelling.

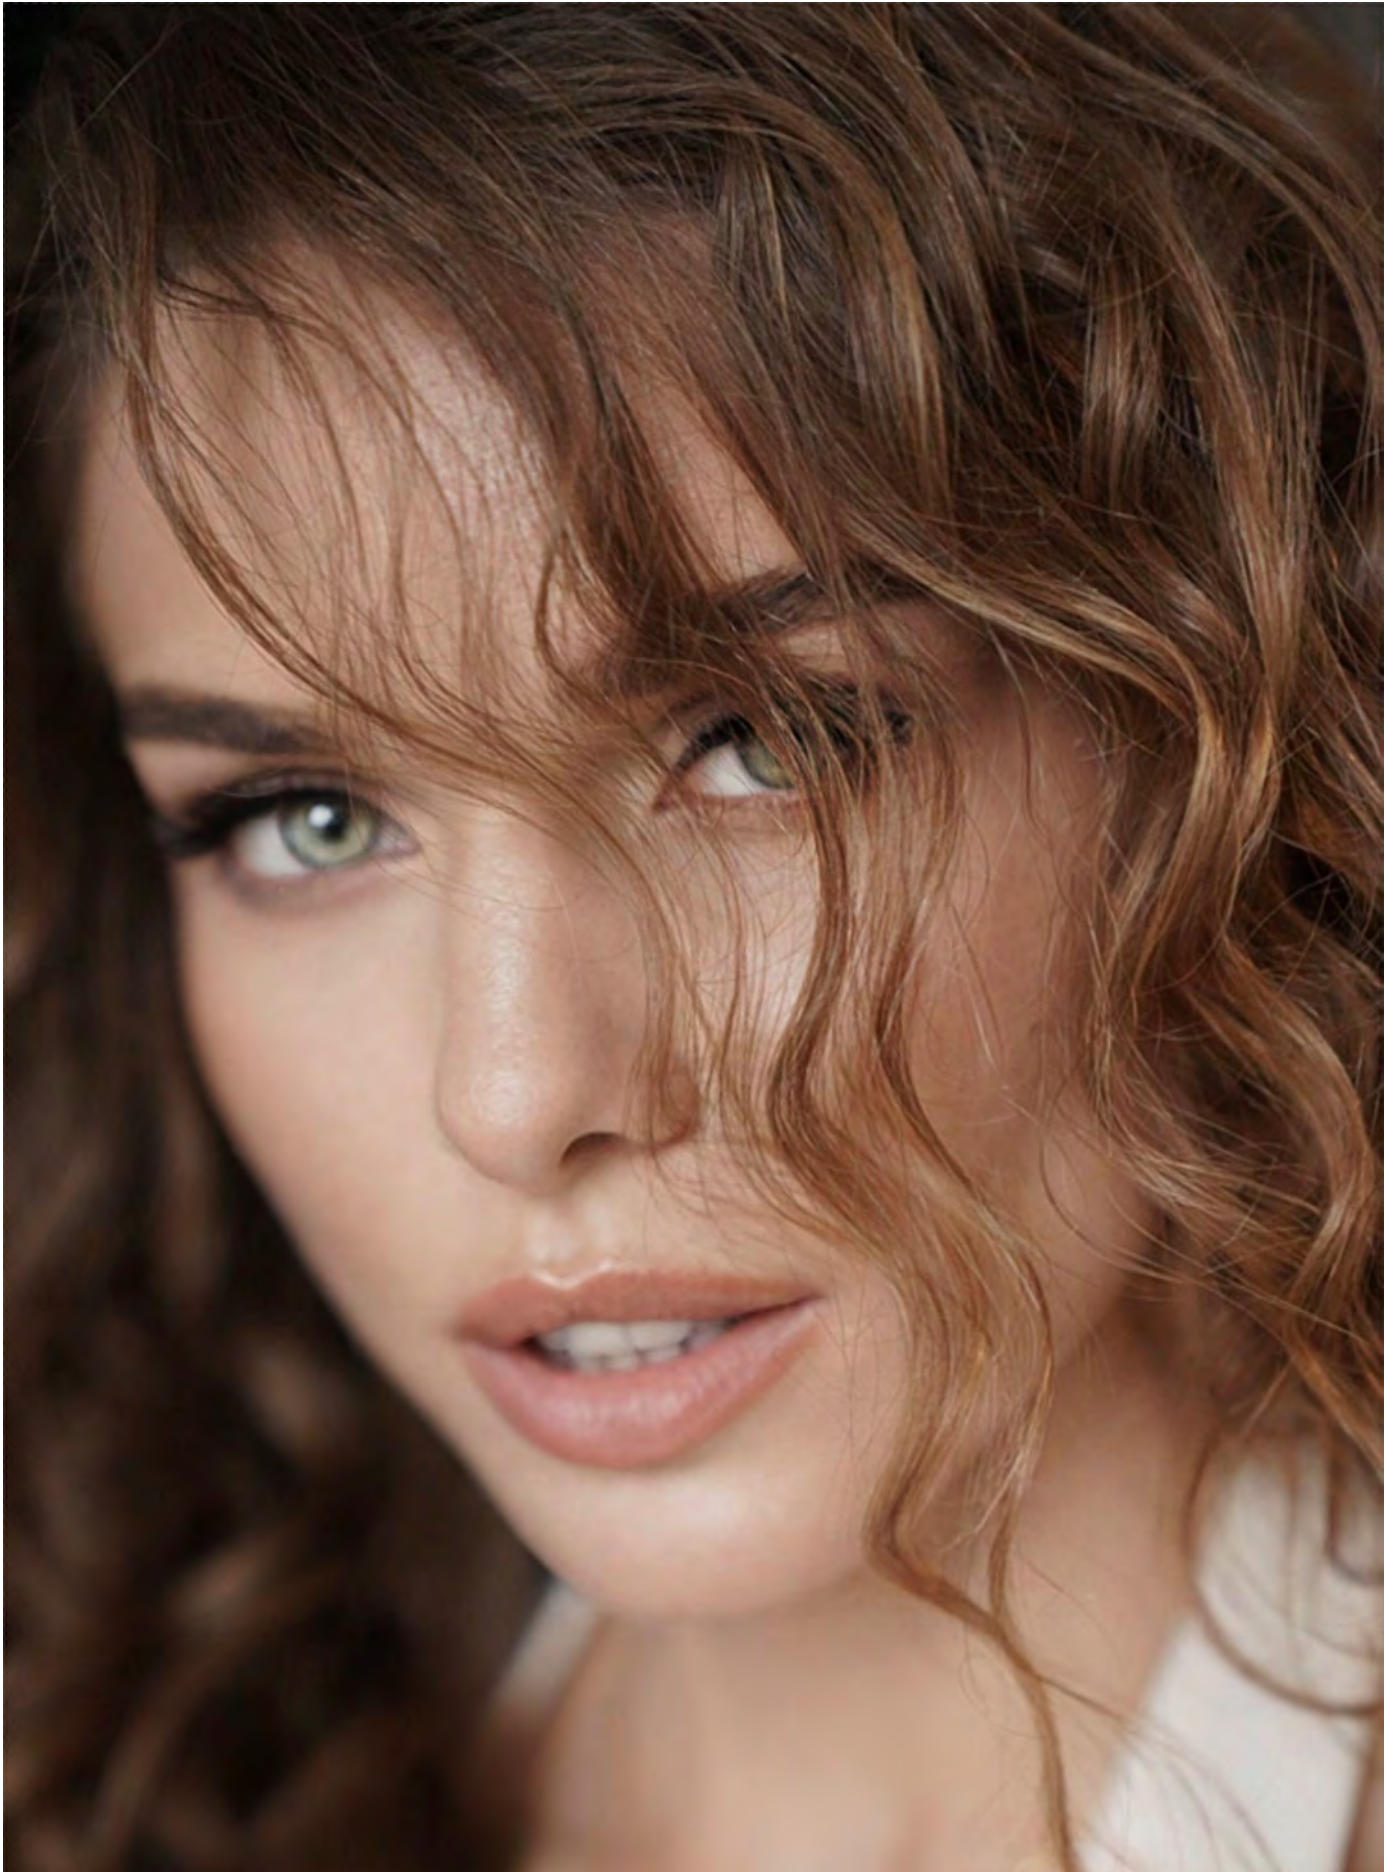

"My love for performance began before I ever imagined it could become a profession," she says. "Theater was my first home, but I discovered that my true place was in front of the camera. Television felt instinctive—the immediacy, the honesty, the intensity—it demands a connection that is both real and raw."

Her time as a journalist and reality television participant opened new avenues for creative exploration. Yet it was her deliberate study of acting at the New York Film Academy and Ivana Chubbuck Studio in Los Angeles that honed her craft, shaping her vision for a future in major cinema.

"Every class, every script, every character pulls me deeper into the world I've always been meant for," she says. "Acting is profoundly therapeutic for me. It's a way to understand myself through others—to embrace honesty, courage, and vulnerability. It's a bridge between imagination and truth."

Looking ahead, Oleksandra envisions studying further in Europe—Paris, Amsterdam, Barcelona—expanding her creative practice while embracing life at her own pace. Every plan, every ambition, she approaches with calmness, beauty, and confidence.

"When your dreams feel like home," she says, "you walk toward them with grace."

There's a distinct electricity around Alixandra Fuchs right now—the kind that surrounds a woman stepping into her power with full creative force. A producer, actress, and rising lifestyle voice, Alixandra has quickly become one of the most compelling multi-hyphenates shaping Hollywood's next chapter. Her latest triumph: IT: Welcome to Derry, HBO's record-breaking prequel to the iconic Stephen King universe, where she not only delivers a pivotal on-screen performance but also helps steer the ship behind the scenes.

AF

The series marks a landmark moment for FiveTen Productions, the boutique production company Alixandra co-founded and now co-leads with her husband, Jason Fuchs—co-creator and showrunner of the series. In just its first season, Welcome to Derry shattered HBO Max records and cemented FiveTen as a new creative force with something powerful—and deliciously unsettling—to say.

But Alixandra's story doesn't begin in Derry. Raised in Los Angeles and shaped by a childhood spent hopping from one international film set to another with her producer parents, she carries a global sensibility and a lifelong love of storytelling. Her on-screen career began with the Emmy-winning Hatfields & McCoys, eventually expanding into an eclectic mix of prestige television roles. Now, with several major projects in development—most notably RATS! with Lionsgate—Alixandra is proving she's just as formidable behind the camera.

From London, where she currently resides, Alixandra's world is equal parts cinema, wanderlust, and a thoughtful approach to modern living—a blend that has made her lifestyle content an aspirational corner of the internet. And as the next wave of FiveTen projects rolls forward, it's clear she is only just beginning to claim her space in the cultural conversation.

Welcome to Derry has become one of HBO's biggest premieres in history. What was it like watching the world react—not only as part of the cast but as the co-CEO of FiveTen Productions, one of the production companies behind season one?

It was the absolute best kind of surprise! Look, my role—my only role—on this show was playing Terri Bainbridge, but of course my husband, Jason, co-created, co-ran, and executive produced the show, and it was, as you mentioned, the first production to come out of our new company, so there was a lot at stake. I watched the love and passion Jason put into this over four years of work. Derry has been a huge chapter of our lives, so when the critical response came in the way that it did and then the ratings, breaking records, I was just so happy for Jason, for the rest of the creative team, for the rest of the cast, the crew—it felt like that response honoured the hard work so many people had breathed into this for so long. And on a purely individual level, it has just felt gratifying to play a small part in something that clearly is resonating with audiences around the world.

FiveTen Productions is still young, yet it already feels like a powerhouse. What creative DNA did you and Jason want the company to have from day one?

Our DNA! It's a family company, so we want to pursue the kinds of projects that Jason and I wish there were more of in the world. Big, bold, inventive original storytelling. We're nineties kids. We miss that era of moviemaking, and so finding a fresh way into those kinds of films is a major ambition of ours. High-concept, emotional, hopeful. That's the DNA of a FiveTen film or show.

You grew up visiting film sets around the world with your parents—practically raised on location. How did that childhood shape your instincts as a producer today?

Being on set can be very intimidating. There are tons of people everywhere and everything seems like it's moving very fast. Being comfortable in that environment is definitely a skill that is learned. I have always felt very at home on set, and I think that has been a huge advantage as an actress and producer.

*As an actress, you've stepped into a wide range of roles across prestige TV. How did returning to the screen in Welcome to Derry differ from past projects?*

It was the first time I worked with my husband, so there's that. Also, the scale of the show was just so massive. I had never worked on anything so BIG before.

*FiveTen's upcoming project, RATS! with Lionsgate, has already sparked curiosity. What drew you to that story, and what can you share about the tone you're helping craft?*

As someone who has lived in NYC, I have had my fair share of run-ins with New York City rats. It's a great concept for a horror movie and will definitely speak to anyone who has also had run-ins with the rats!

You've spoken about being energized by the intersection of storytelling and world-building. When you look at FiveTen's slate, what kinds of narratives are you most excited to champion next?

I'm an avid reader. I still think that some of the best original stories come from that literary space. We have a few books that are real passion projects of mine that we are looking to develop for film and TV. FiveTen is even developing one adaptation of a book—something I can't announce yet—where the novelist is actually writing the screenplay based on his own novel, which is really exciting! We are a writer-driven company.

You divide your life between Hollywood roots and your current home in London. How has living abroad influenced your work, your creativity, or even the way you approach production?

Well, I think it's often said you are what you read, but I think it's also true, to some extent, that you are what you see. And living in a new environment—being based in a city that's a hop, skip, and a jump from so many other extraordinary locales—means you're constantly being exposed to new experiences. I've found that incredibly stimulating creatively. And it doesn't hurt that the UK has really grown into the preeminent global film and TV production hub, so, as a producer, I'm learning from and collaborating with the best of the best.

Your lifestyle content—from bio-hacking to travel to skincare—has become a destination for your audience. What part of your personal routine keeps you grounded while juggling high-pressure film and TV projects?

I love a routine and think they are essential when it comes to prioritizing your wellbeing. The routines that keep me grounded are working out five to six days a week (strength training and Pilates), weekly facials and lymphatic massages, weekly hyperbaric oxygen chamber sessions, and going on walks (love to get those steps in!). Even just the routine of making my morning coffee brings me joy!

Stepping into the horror universe of Stephen King is no small feat. What surprised you most about acting within a world beloved—and feared—by millions?

Even though the subject matter of this show is very disturbing, what surprised me is that we as the actors were still able to laugh and have fun in between the heavy scenes. Everyone was able to let go and find joy in the off-camera moments. I always say acting is like adult playtime. It's so important to not take it all too seriously.

With Welcome to Derry streaming now and more projects on the horizon, what feels like the next evolution for you—as a producer, a performer, and a storyteller?

In the coming months we plan to start announcing more of our projects for FiveTen, so that is where my focus is going to be directed going into the new year. I am so excited to build out this company with my husband. If anything exciting on the acting front emerges, I'm all in on that, too!

Le Bristol in Paris. It's always so lovely there. The rooms are beautiful, the food is great, and the service is impeccable!

What in-flight beauty or wellness ritual do you swear by?

Hydrate, hydrate, hydrate! Flying is so taxing on the body and that recirculated air is SO dehydrating. For long-haul flights I'll buy five or six 1L bottles of water and sip consistently throughout the flight. I sometimes add boosters to my water for extra hydration and benefits, too. I love the Humic & Fulvic acids from The Blend, Juna Detox Chlorophyll drops, and Cymbiotika's Molecular Hydrogen. I will also sometimes add a small pinch of Celtic salt to my water for added electrolytes.

Where are you most at home when traveling—beside the pool or in the penthouse?

I'm a very active person, so I always find a little bit of home when I'm in the gym. While traveling, our routines can get disrupted. Making sure I carve out an hour to work out each day keeps me balanced.

How would you describe your packing style in one word?

Organized.

What's the most memorable upscale travel experience you've had recently?

My husband and I love to eat. We love fine dining—tasting menus, wine pairings, the whole experience. Most of my memorable moments while traveling are where I eat! Recently we were out for a few nights in Somerset and ate at a phenomenal restaurant called Osip. They have a seasonal tasting menu that was autumnal and delicious. The wine pairing was excellent, and the presentation was stunning from start to finish.

What fragrance instantly puts you in vacation mode?

I'm not sure a particular fragrance puts me in vacation mode. However, I do love the smell of wood burning in a fireplace. It's just so cozy in the winter! Once I smell that specific scent, I know it's winter holiday time.

Which calls to you more at the moment: a vibrant city escape or a secluded beach getaway?

I love nature, but there's nothing like a city escape where you can soak up all the culture and energy of the place you're traveling. Spending the day walking around, going to museums, eating local food—that is heaven for me.

What destination sits highest on your travel wishlist for 2026?

Seoul, South Korea. I have a few friends who have recently gone and done a bunch of fun beauty treatments. All of them came back with an extra suitcase full of skincare goodies. They also found the city to be so stimulating and unique! I'm hoping to go next year sometime.

FROM SUNRISE TO SUNSET

Domes Novos Santorini

Santorini is a masterclass in contrast—volcanic ruggedness softened by ethereal light, iconic blue-domed rooftops against the endless Aegean, and moments of grandeur tempered by intimate serenity. Domes Novos Santorini captures this duality effortlessly, offering a sanctuary that feels removed from the crowds of Oia and Fira yet intimately connected to the pulse of the Cyclades. From sunrise yoga on the terrace to sunset cocktails by the infinity pool, every moment is curated for elegance, reflection, and effortless luxury.

ARRIVAL: BETWEEN SEA AND SKY

Perched above the island's storied cliffs, Domes Novos is both a retreat and a portal. Guests are greeted with understated sophistication, private transfers, and warm welcomes, setting the tone for a stay that balances tranquility with connection. Here, time slows. Sun-drenched terraces, infinity pools mirroring the Aegean, and the scent of the sea create an atmosphere where the day's cares dissolve, replaced by calm, clarity, and anticipation for the experiences to come. The resort's location offers rare privacy while keeping Santorini's iconic sights, from Oia's cobbled streets to Fira's vibrant energy, within effortless reach.

STAY: CYCLADIC MINIMALISM, ELEVATED

Domes Novos transforms wellness into an art form. Soma Spa combines classical spa traditions with modern technology, offering Microcurrent Muscle Stimulation, Light Therapy, and luxury skincare by ELEMIS and Codage Paris. Outdoor yoga decks framed by olive trees and sculptural indoor studios invite mindful practice, while hydrotherapy and bespoke massages ensure every guest leaves renewed. Volcanic-inspired treatments connect visitors to the island's elemental energy, creating a rhythm of rejuvenation that mirrors the sun's daily arc over the caldera.

DINE: CULINARY POETRY BY THE AEGEAN

Gastronomy at Domes Novos is as elevated as the vistas. Thessaloniki's acclaimed Maitr & Margarita has brought its signature culinary philosophy to Santorini, transforming local, seasonal ingredients into artful expressions of Greek tradition. Fresh seafood, sun-ripened vegetables, and handpicked herbs are crafted into dishes that balance heritage with modern creativity. With biodynamic Santorini wines and curated Greek vintages, each meal becomes a multi-sensory experience. From intimate terrace dinners to family-style feasts by the pool, gastronomy here is both a celebration of place and a reflection of refined living.

PLAY & EXPLORE: BEYOND THE RESORT

The island beckons. Wander Oia's art-filled alleys, hike the caldera trail from Fira to Oia, or bask on volcanic red and black sand beaches. Wine tastings connect guests to Assyrtiko vineyards that cling to the cliffs, while curated island-hopping excursions—spanning Mykonos, Athens, and Milos—transform Santorini into a gateway for discovery. For families, eco-gardening, cooking workshops, and water sports provide shared joy, blending playful curiosity with cultural immersion. Each adventure, like the resort itself, is suffused with elegance and effortless ease.

The first steps into the resort feel like stepping back in time, yet every modern convenience is at hand. A seamless check-in is followed by an immersive dinner at Alati, the resort's signature restaurant nestled within the historic winery. With candles flickering across ancient stone walls, the menu—a celebration of seasonal Santorinian ingredients—introduces a culinary story deeply rooted in the Cycladic landscape.

STAY: CYCLADIC SANCTUARIES

Vedema's 74 suites and villas are a refined study in tradition and comfort. Interiors honor the island's architectural heritage with angular Cycladic lines, soft tones, and natural textures, while terraces open to expansive vineyard or village views. Many suites offer private pools or jacuzzis, creating intimate retreats that are at once secluded and connected to the surrounding landscape. Villas expand on the sense of freedom, with spacious living areas, fully equipped kitchens, and terraces designed for contemplation or al fresco gatherings. From Dorian to Nafsika Estate, each space is a sanctuary where history and luxury meet effortlessly.

WELLNESS: ELIOS SPA & ACTIVE INDULGENCE

Nestled in a cave-like setting, Elios Spa invites guests to unwind in a serene, Cycladic-inspired atmosphere. Signature treatments and massages recalibrate body and spirit, while the open-air jacuzzi offers a tranquil setting beneath the island's iconic bougainvillea and olive trees. For those seeking motion, the cave-style fitness center, outfitted with Cybex machines, free weights, and yoga mats, ensures continuity of routine in an environment designed for calm focus. Morning yoga, sunset meditation, or a quiet swim in one of the resort's two pools create a holistic rhythm to each day at Vedema.

DINE: A CELEBRATION OF LAND AND SEA

Culinary artistry at Vedema is inextricably tied to the island's rich history and fertile soil. Alati delivers elevated Greek cuisine in the historic winery, from Bourdeto fish soup to Lahanodolmades Avgolemono, pairing centuries of tradition with modern sophistication. Trataro, perched beside the resort's contemporary pool, showcases Mediterranean comfort with Italian accents, highlighting local seafood, garden-fresh vegetables, and sun-kissed flavors in a sun-drenched al fresco setting. Breakfast at the poolside Pergola Restaurant balances traditional Greek staples with modern superfood bowls, while Circe Bar offers wellness-focused cocktails and poolside nibbles. For an intimate evening, the Canava Wine Bar—housed within ancient wine cellars—offers curated tastings of Santorinian and Greek varietals, paired with artisanal cheeses and fresh fruits, an authentic taste of the island's vinicultural heritage.

PLAY: IMMERSIVE SANTORINI

Vedema encourages guests to explore Santorini beyond the resort's elegant boundaries. A guided walk to the Symposium Cultural Center immerses visitors in Greek art, music, and interactive workshops, while a visit to the Tomato Industrial Museum in Vlychada reveals the island's culinary and industrial history. Beach days at nearby Istoría Private Beach allow for swimming in crystalline waters and black sand serenity, punctuated by fresh seafood lunches. Each excursion—from vineyard walks to culinary experiences—creates layers of memory, connecting guests to the island's culture, flavors, and landscapes.

ELEVATED EXPERIENCES: A VILLAGE WITHIN A VINEYARD

Vedema offers curated experiences that transform a stay into a narrative of discovery and elegance. Sunset dinners at Ammoudi Fish Tavern, wine tastings, cooking classes, and guided village walks offer immersive encounters with Santorini's soul. Back at the resort, the serenity of private terraces, poolside cocktails, and spa rituals ensures that every moment is both leisurely and luxurious. Here, history, architecture, and landscape converge to create an authentic Cycladic escape—one where understated luxury and genuine cultural engagement coexist seamlessly.

Bali

AN INVITATION TO ESCAPE

Bali has no shortage of beautiful places to stay, but The Luxe Nomad turns the idea of a villa escape into something far more elevated—something personal, polished, and effortlessly dreamy. As Asia-Pacific's largest luxury vacation rental management company, The Luxe Nomad curates an exclusive portfolio of private villas, chalets, and chic condo hotels across the region's most idyllic destinations. In Bali, their villas feel like hidden worlds of their own, where private pools glitter under tropical skies and thoughtful design meets warm hospitality. With each stay crafted to take the guesswork out of travel, The Luxe Nomad invites you to slow down, settle in, and—as they say—dream a little, travel a lot.

Nag Shampa Private Estate

A SANCTUARY OF SOUL AND STYLE IN BALI

Tucked away in the lush, emerald jungles of Taro, Bali, Nag Shampa is more than a villa—it is a living meditation, a celebration of mindful luxury, and a masterclass in design, serenity, and soulful hospitality. Conceived by Sam and Isabella Branson, what began as a two-week escape evolved into three transformative years on the island, culminating in a sanctuary where every detail invites presence, reflection, and rejuvenation.

Here, the senses are awakened, time slows, and every moment is crafted to linger in memory long after departure. Nag Shampa is not simply a place to stay; it is an experience that embodies the very essence of Bali—its natural beauty, spiritual depth, and gentle rhythm of life.

ARRIVE

Ubud, the cultural heart of Bali, offers an enchanting prelude to the sanctuary that awaits. Verdant rice terraces ripple across the horizon, sacred temples punctuate the landscape, and the slow cadence of island life envelops visitors in a sense of ease. Approaching Nag Shampa, the journey becomes ceremonial: the scent of frangipani drifts on the breeze, the jungle hums with life, and every turn reveals glimpses of the villa's verdant surroundings.

Here, arrival is not merely physical; it is an invitation to transition from the everyday into a space where calm and beauty dominate. Guests are welcomed with a sense of intimacy and warmth, a reminder that they are not entering a hotel, but a home crafted with intention. Whether greeted with a cooling herbal drink or a quiet walk through flowering gardens, the first moments at Nag Shampa set the tone for a stay defined by mindfulness, luxury, and connection.

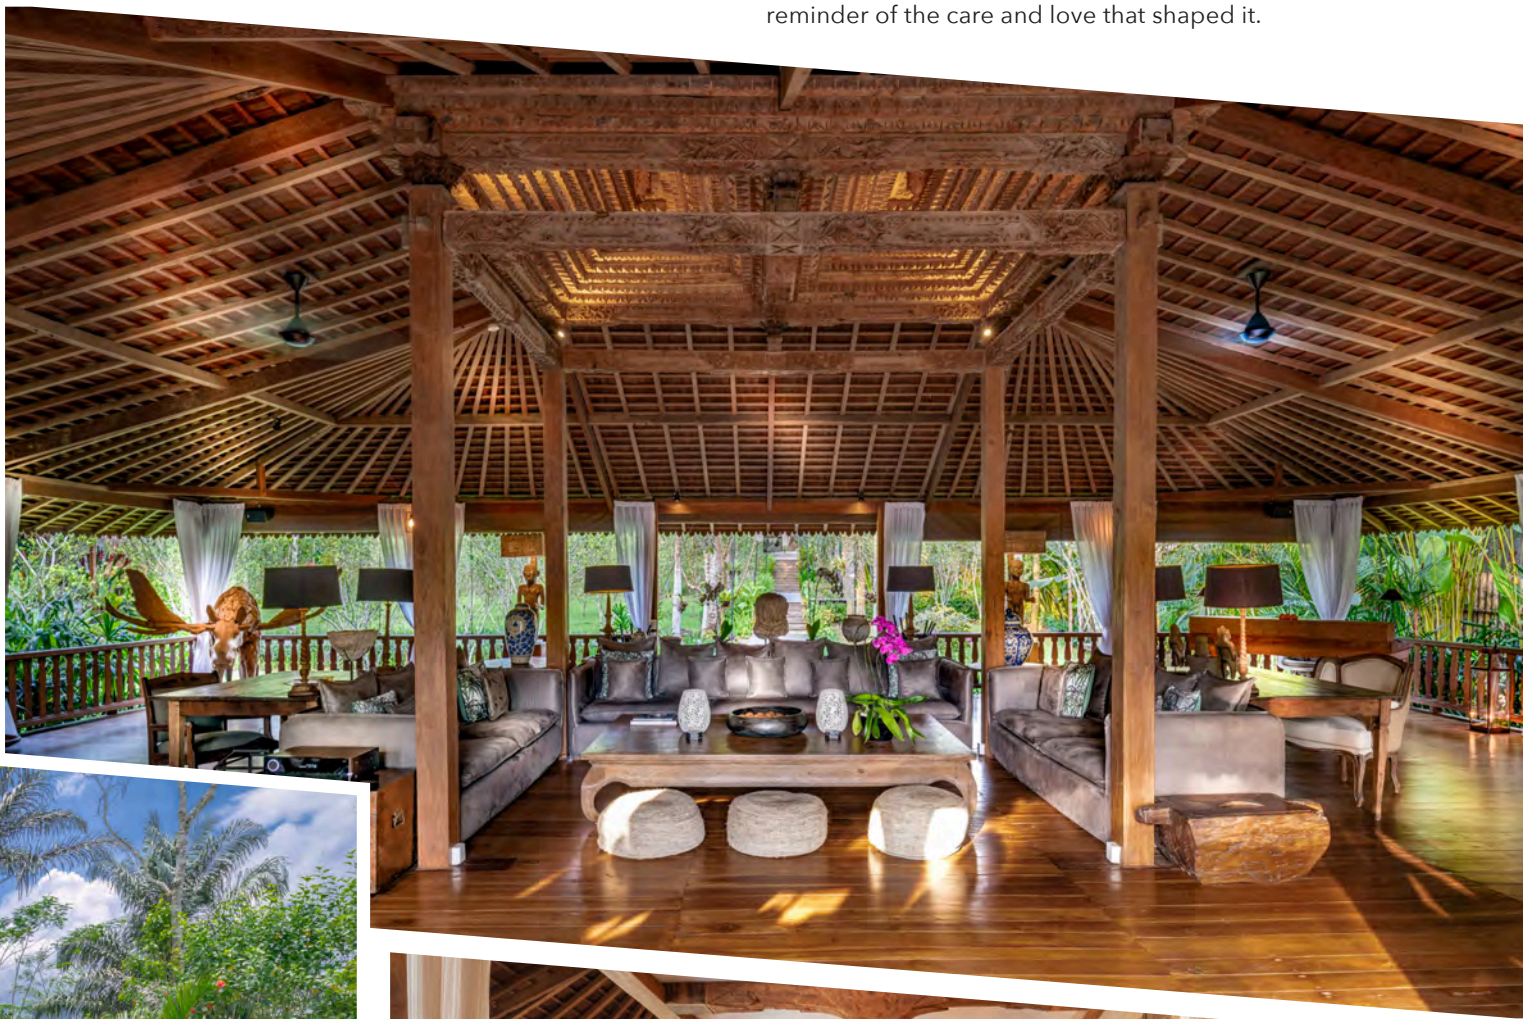

SANCTUARY

The joglos at Nag Shampa Private Estate exemplify understated elegance, where design, comfort, and intention meet seamlessly. Interiors blend natural textures—timber, stone, and bamboo—with bespoke furnishings, soft neutral palettes, and carefully selected art. Each suite opens directly onto lush gardens or the glimmering pool, creating private corners for reflection, reading, or simply observing the gentle sway of the jungle canopy.

Attention to detail is paramount: daybeds are perfectly positioned to capture morning light, expansive verandas invite quiet contemplation, and the linens and furnishings exude understated luxury. Here, the home becomes a canvas for stillness; every element is designed not to impress but to allow the senses to breathe, creating a rarefied environment where comfort and calm coexist in perfect harmony.

Nag Shampa redefines luxury, measuring it not in excess but in intentionality, subtlety, and the feeling of ease that pervades every space. It is a haven where guests can inhabit the present fully, and every corner of the villa serves as a reminder of the care and love that shaped it.

SAVOUR

Dining at Nag Shampa is a journey of the senses, where fresh, local ingredients are celebrated in both traditional Balinese dishes and globally inspired creations. The culinary experience is intimate, personal, and thoughtful, designed to nourish both body and spirit. Guests might awaken to tropical fruits, coconut-infused pastries, and hand-pressed juices by the pool, or enjoy evening meals of delicate seafood and aromatic Balinese spices under the stars.

Menus are tailored to individual tastes, blending authenticity with innovation to create a dining experience that is as much about presence as flavour. Each meal is carefully orchestrated to encourage conversation, reflection, and slow enjoyment. Whether breakfast, lunch, or dinner, dining at Nag Shampa transforms nourishment into ritual, allowing guests to engage fully with the tastes, textures, and atmosphere of the island in effortless style.

The act of dining here is inseparable from the surroundings: the soft rustle of leaves, the glow of evening lanterns, and the distant calls of native birds all contribute to a sensory narrative that is as memorable as the food itself.

WANDER

Nag Shampa's grounds offer an intimate sanctuary, but beyond the villa lies a world of discovery. The surrounding region of Ubud invites exploration, from secret temples and sacred waterfalls to verdant rice terraces that ripple like liquid emerald. Guided treks into the jungle reveal hidden treasures, while nearby villages offer insight into local life, traditions, and Balinese craftsmanship.

Wandering here is both an adventure and a meditation. Guests can lose themselves along meandering paths, pause in quiet gardens, or simply sit and observe the rhythm of the island's natural beauty. The experience of exploration at Nag Shampa is about more than sightseeing; it is about reconnecting—with nature, culture, and oneself. Every journey outward is mirrored by an inward reflection, offering a rare luxury: the freedom to discover and the space to be still.

Even within the villa's boundaries, wandering becomes a gentle practice of mindfulness. Each turn and hidden corner, from shaded alcoves to secluded pavilions, offers a moment of serenity, inviting guests to slow their pace and breathe deeply in the presence of nature.

REVERIE

Wellness at Nag Shampa is seamlessly integrated into the overall experience, with treatments and rituals that restore, rejuvenate, and inspire. Skilled therapists offer traditional Balinese massages, holistic body treatments, and personalised spa experiences designed to meet the needs of each guest. Sunrise yoga sessions overlooking the jungle, herbal soaks, or evening massages accompanied by the sounds of nature create a sense of immersion and complete relaxation.

Reverie here is more than a service; it is the essence of the stay. Every sensory element—from scent and sound to touch—works harmoniously to transport guests into a state of calm and renewal. It is a deliberate pause from the pace of modern life, a chance to reconnect with body and mind, and a moment of true restoration that lingers long after departure.

Nag Shampa elevates wellness from routine to art, blending physical care with emotional and spiritual nourishment. Each visit is a bespoke journey, designed to leave guests refreshed, centred, and inspired. The estate is managed by The Luxe Nomad, Asia-Pacific's leading luxury vacation rental company known for its curated properties and exceptional service.

Umalas Creek

WELLNESS, SIMPLICITY, AND QUIET LUXURY IN BALI

Tucked into the tranquil village of Umalas, Bali, Umalas Creek is an intimate enclave of 11 modern, minimalist villas, each designed as a private sanctuary for 1 to 6 guests. Set across 1,800 sqm at the edge of a peaceful creek, the estate offers a restorative retreat just minutes from Seminyak and Canggu's vibrant hubs.

Umalas Creek is a haven for mindful travellers seeking simplicity, natural beauty, and wellness. With sleek interiors, abundant light, and thoughtful amenities, the estate demonstrates how subtle design and careful attention to detail can foster calm, connection, and renewal.

HAVEN

Each villa at Umalas Creek is a study in minimalist elegance. Interiors showcase natural textures—timber, stone, and whitewashed walls—complemented by clean lines and open layouts. Floor-to-ceiling windows frame views of lush gardens and the creek, while private plunge pools and outdoor lounges provide space to relax, read, or meditate.

Villas range from one-bedroom lofts for couples to spacious three-bedroom homes for families or friends. Two-storey villas can be booked individually or together, offering the perfect combination of privacy and proximity. Every element is designed to support stillness, comfort, and understated luxury.

FLOW

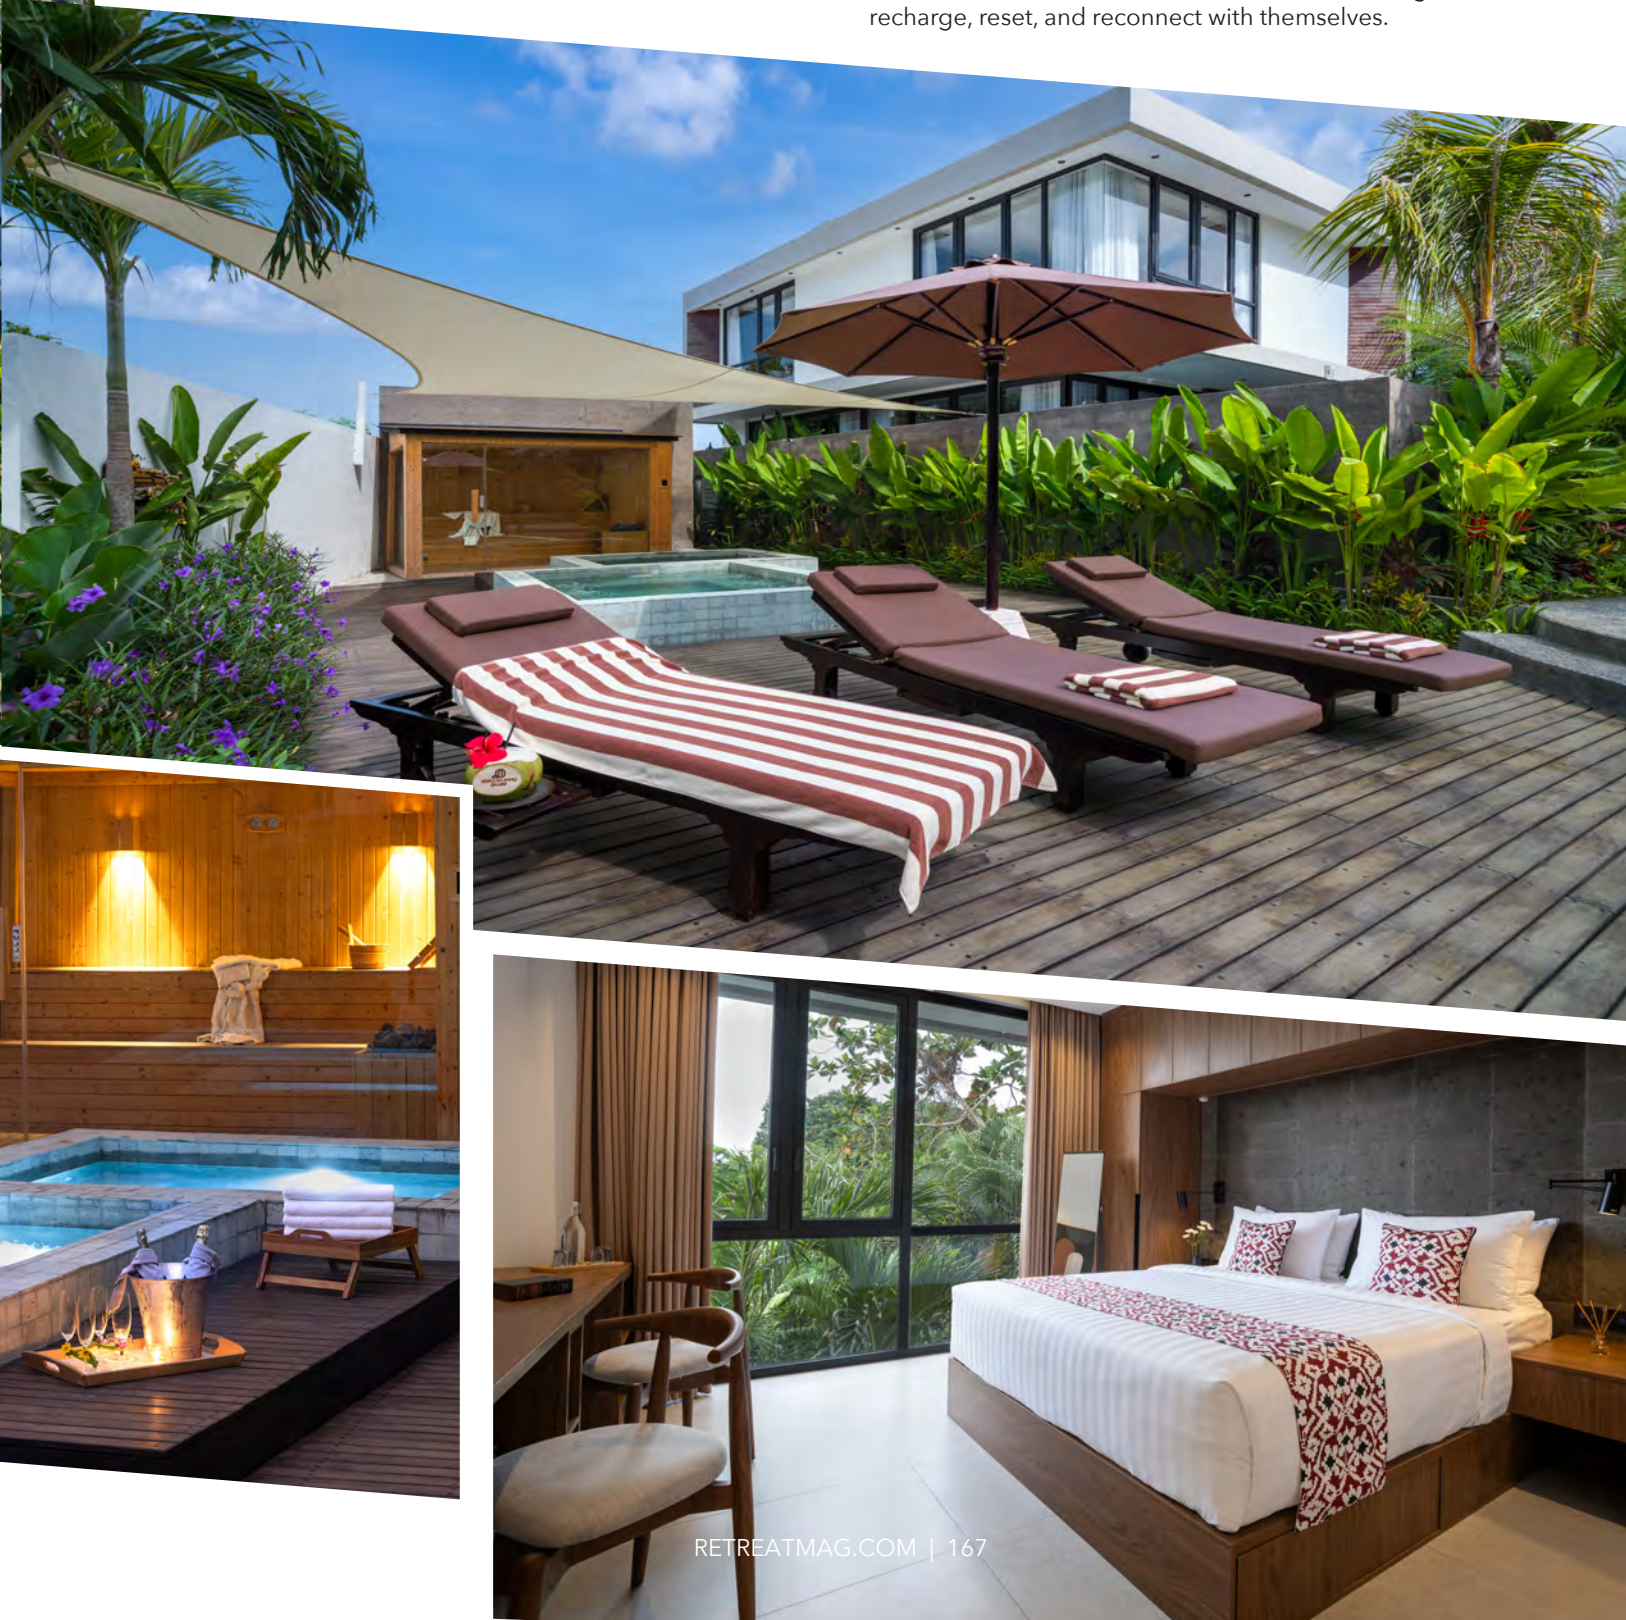

The estate encourages gentle movement and mindful exploration. Meandering paths connect the villas to shared wellness facilities, while gardens and the creek invite quiet walks.

Beyond the estate, the village of Umalas offers a taste of Bali's slower pace: leafy streets, boutique cafés, wellness studios, and health-food stores. Here, the act of wandering becomes restorative, blending the tranquillity of the retreat with the subtle energy of local life.

RESTORE

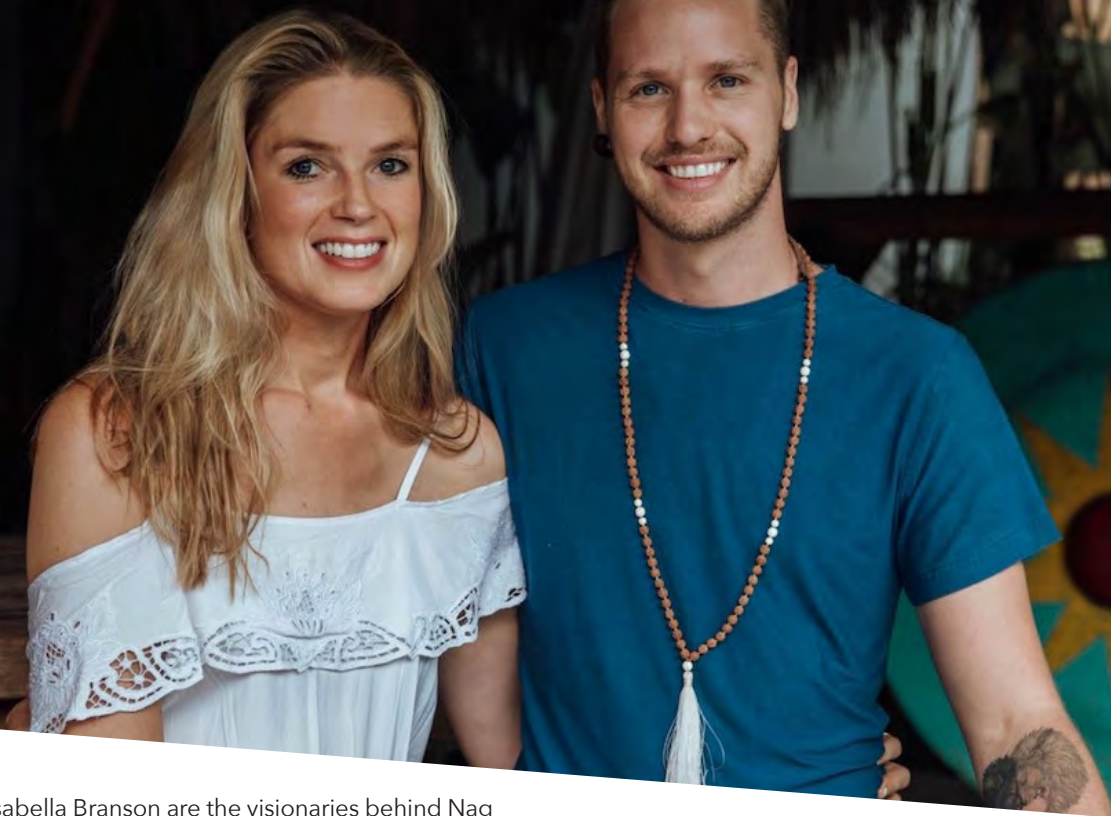

Wellness is central to the Umalas Creek experience. A 20-metre pool, sauna, hot tub, and cold plunge provide a toolkit for restorative rituals. Guests can move between warm and cold therapies to ease tension, aid recovery, or simply savour moments of calm.

Villas are equipped with modern conveniences such as Dyson Supersonic hairdryers and full kitchens, complementing the estate's quiet focus on rejuvenation. Privacy, design, and wellness combine to create an environment where guests can recharge, reset, and reconnect with themselves.

Behind the Sanctuary

SAM & ISABELLA BRANSON

Sam and Isabella Branson are the visionaries behind Nag Shampa, but their story extends far beyond the walls of their Balinese sanctuary. From a brief escape that blossomed into three transformative years on the island to building a space celebrated for its serenity, design, and spirit, the Bransons have always been guided by curiosity, creativity, and a deep appreciation for life's meaningful moments.

Now back in the UK, they continue to explore new creative pursuits while reflecting on the lessons and inspirations that emerged during their time in Bali. In this intimate conversation, Sam and Isabella share the story of their journey, the philosophy behind their work, and the enduring values that inform both their lives and the places they create.

How did your time in Bali change your perspective on life and creativity?

It's a hard question to answer because the experience changed my perspective in so many ways. I think it's largely because we went to Bali with the specific intention of raising our kids in nature. We were at a stage in our lives where we were open-minded and ready to explore a new way of being. Isabella had just stopped breastfeeding, and I was adjusting my work schedule to be able to work from home.

Bali became a journey of self-discovery - both for me and for our little family as we navigated life in a completely new place. It was also a time when I decided to finally focus on a lifelong, unrealised passion: music and songwriting. Bali is such an inspiring place, one that naturally invites connection and creative exploration.

Many people come to Bali to feel inspired and liberated - to find the confidence to pursue their passions, start new ventures, or take creative risks they might not have taken in their home countries. The island has a kind of magical energy, perhaps something to do with the volcanic soil that makes everything burst with life. Creativity seems to flow effortlessly there.

A huge part of our happiness came from the Balinese people themselves - some of the kindest, most grounded, and present individuals I've ever met. Their deep connection to nature, joyful spirit, sense of humour, and strong community values created a cultural environment that was truly wonderful to be part of.

What inspired you to build Nag Shampa, and how did the process shape you personally?

Isabella and I didn't build Nag Shampa, we bought it from a wonderful couple who had poured a huge amount of love, thought and effort into it. When we took it over, we infused it with our own creativity and interiors, which amplified all the incredible work that had already been done and transformed it into an even more special sanctuary of nature and beauty for people to escape into.

The name Nag Shampa is evocative—what meaning does it hold for you?

Nag Shampa translates to, and is based on the meaning of “incense of love.” For us personally, it represents the evocative feelings that can arise when you step into an environment that draws you deeper into yourself. It’s an embodiment of our love, creating the perfect container for personal growth, connection, and celebration.

How do you approach creating spaces—or experiences—that feel both meaningful and timeless?

I think if anyone wants to create a timeless and meaningful environment, it has to incorporate nature. Nature is the greatest healer and the deepest source of presence. When we are in beautiful environments, creating spaces that integrate the natural surroundings into the living experience is fundamentally important. We must feel like we are part of the place we’re in - not separate from it. It always astounds me how people build insular buildings in stunning locations, when they could be anywhere. If I’m in a gorgeous place like Bali, I want to feel, hear, see, smell, and interact with the environment I’m living in and alongside.

What principles guide your work and creative projects today?

My biggest muse is nature, and my relationship with it oscillates between discovering new things about myself and understanding my place in the wider world through different creative vehicles. People connect to themselves on a deeper level, which in turn inspires a more loving and compassionate way of being. Connection sparks imagination and action. I like to bring people together, share joy, and help them find their place in the wider world.

How has living in Bali influenced your approach to balance, mindfulness, and intentional living?

I don’t think I’ve ever been anywhere where I’ve experienced a culture with such a strong sense of community and reverence for the world around them. Not only does their energy leave a lasting imprint on anyone who visits, but the Balinese people are fully in touch with a way of living that feels much more natural for us as humans, making you realise how much of the rest of the world has lost that way of interacting.

Since returning to the UK, what creative pursuits or projects are capturing your focus?

Really, my journey in music was forged during my time in Bali, and it has continued into my life back in the UK. I continue to make films, something I did before moving to Bali, which explore nuanced perspectives on important topics. I am currently the co-founder of HiddenLight Productions. While in Bali, I was on a voyage of self-discovery and completed my yoga and meditation teacher training, which allowed me to connect more deeply with a present way of being - a mindset that has infused everything I do with greater depth and curiosity.

If you could distill your story into three words, what would they be?

Surrendering to love.

How do you carry the spirit of Nag Shampa—the connection, calm, and authenticity—into your life now?

Sometimes gracefully, and sometimes with much difficulty! I feel that when you’re in an environment like Nag Shampa, everything around you pulls you into the present moment. In contrast, in the modern Western world, most of our surroundings seem to pull us away from ourselves, so we have to work much harder to cultivate the peace, presence, and serenity that an environment like Nag Shampa naturally provides.

What lessons from your journey in Bali do you hope to bring into future ventures?

1. Always understanding the importance of a strong sense of community, shared goals and beliefs, faith, and connection to something bigger than ourselves.
2. Trusting the energetics of life.
3. If there’s too much resistance and things aren’t in flow, it’s either not the right thing or not the right time.

What has been the most surprising or rewarding part of your journey as creators?

The opportunity to discover and express truth, and through that journey, to understand that the best truths are universal to all human experience - no matter where we are, where we come from, or what our stories may be.

How would you describe your ethos, or the values that guide both your personal and professional lives?

In short, my life philosophy is to live healthily, think positively, and feel honestly. I try to do at least one thing each day that makes me proud of myself, and I believe that if people were kinder to themselves, to each other, and to the spaces around them, the world could become a better place overnight.
