THE EDITORIAL.

THE Summer has come again, and with it the holidays, and alas! the third Editorial, the last of the School year must be written. The feeling that arose in our breast when this fact obtruded itself upon our silent meditation in front of the Editorial foolscap (sheets' three, school, for use of) is best described in the words of that old Negro spiritual "Nobody knows the trouble I see, Lord."

As we have said, this is the last of our Editorials. Next term another unhappy wight will take over our duties, and we shall find peace and joy in the knowledge that somebody else is undergoing the same torture of mind as we have undergone. As to writing a literary master-piece as an Editorial, we have now given up the idea, and have decided to give a few hints to coming editors.

If you are expecting to become editor, give up hope. The person who least expects that honour is always chosen.

If you are not expecting it, give up hope. For you will surely be chosen. Beware of the day when the Head sends for you, and says with a kindly smile that hides the deadly purpose beneath "Would you like to take over the Erasmian this year?" If this should happen, all is lost and you are fated, fated to write three Editorials.

As to your requirements as an Editor, you must first of all have a slight smattering of the English language at your command—but this is a minor point and may be passed over as such. Secondly then, you must have a certain persuasiveness about you, “a bit o’ the blarney,” so as to be able to cajole some of the more amenable of the species into scribbling a few lines for you. If this fails you, as it probably will, the third and most important item must be brought into play—ferocity. As an aspiring Editor, you must be stalwart, brave, and an all-round rugby player: for you must be able to convert a ball from about your own twenty-five line, and to get out of a scrum quickly (the scrum usually forms on top of you when you dare to ask for copy), you must also have the power of eloquence, to be able to cow even the most truculent of masters, and have a dogged nature to follow up the initial signs of wavering on his part.

There are two sections to your part of the magazine, the literary side, and the Sports News. The latter may not be classed as “literary.” The first you will probably have to write yourself, and put different initials at the end of each article (preferably those of people you dislike); but the second part! Heaven help you, because the Sports Secretaries won’t! They can be trained.

Having written these few words of helpful advice we now wish all who have condescended to read thus far a happy summer holiday. But here is a gentle warning, a little reminder—don’t work too hard, boys!”

VALETE,

THE EDITOR.

School Notes

We congratulate Mr. C. L. Dillon M.A. on his election as President of the Secondary Teachers' Association of Ireland.

The School re-opened on the 25th day of April' after the Easter holidays. Everybody seems to have got over the shock by now.

Caps for the football season 1932-33 were awarded as follows. In the forwards, H. Begley was awarded the Bell Cap, which is given to the best all-round player for the season. D. Reeves also gained his Cap. G. Worin was the only back to gain a Cap, although C. V. Boyle (Capt.) and P. R. Walker got dates.

The School library is still flourishing under Mr. Chillingworth's guiding hand, and of late has been increased by some purchases and donations. There is no denying that still further gifts of books, useless to their owners, would be very acceptable. The following are the books given by friends of the School during the last term, and we beg to thank the donors.

A Gymnastic Display was held in the gymnasium on Thurs. June 8th, in the afternoon. A programme was performed, which included drill, games and a life-saving display. There was a good attendance of parents.

We are very grateful to Capt. T. S. Tomlinson (1905-1907) and Sergeant Griffiths who very kindly attended and judged the award of medals as follows:—4¹—J. D. Smyth; 4₂—W. B. Smyth; 3a—P. Thomas; 3b—S. C. McKell; 3c¹—A. S. Burrows; 3c²—T. A. Hamilton; 3d—W. H. Ellis; 2—D. P. Stephens;]—A. J. Burge.

The Control of a Super-Dreadnought.

The ship was the Marlborough and the scene of action the Isthmus of Kaffa, about 10 miles in width, stretching from Kaffa Bay, in the North of the Black Sea, to the sea of Azov. We lay about 6 miles from the beautiful and ancient town of Theodosia, the Brighton of the Crimea, and about two miles from the village of Dilmanishi. From the latter a line of trenches ran to the sea of Azov in a northerly direction. The Russian 'Red' Army held this line, and the 'White' Army was hemmed in between it and the Straits of Kaffa in the Spring of 1919, and would certainly have been annihilated but for the arrival of a combined British and French Force, which effectually held up the Reds and ultimately flung them back in disorder.

The Marlborough was the flagship of the combined fleets, and to her three of us were detailed as naval balloon observers. As a rule we took four hours on duty and eight hours off. We had about twelve ships altogether, some of which were in the Sea of Azov, about fourteen miles away. But about 1,000 feet up in the balloon we had a clear view of nearly 50 miles to the horizon; such is the wonderful visibility in those parts, and such are 7.50 Zeiss binoculars.

There can be few games in the world which compare in interest and excitement with the controlling of the fire of all guns of a Super-Dreadnought, as well as those of a dozen light cruisers and gunboats. Our job was to save the 'White' Army, and as a rule we could fire at anything we liked within a radius of eight miles or thereabouts, though the 15-inch guns had a possible range of twenty miles.

Once acquainted with the terrain, particularly as the distances are so great, the game is simple. You look down on the battleground as on a chess board. The Marlborough herself looks like a pawn, villages, railway lines, trenches, you soon get to know them all. Something suspicious is happening at a point 'A'. You phone particulars to "Guns" (the gunnery officer). A conversation follows and it is decided to take action. You give "Guns" the position of 'A' on the maps, so many thousand of yards away. You look out for the first shell burst. Imagine 'A' the centre of a clock, the furthest point on the circumference being 12 o'clock, and the nearest 6 o'clock. Fill in the other numbers. The explosion occurred at 2 o'clock and over 600 yards from 'A', therefore you phone 0,260 cutting off a cipher from the 600. If you are right in your distance "Guns" will be right next time. The next shot may be 100 yards away at 7 o'clock, so you phone 0710. The third never fails 'A' is blotted out. Naval gunnery is deadly accurate up to period 14,000 yards if the observer knows his business.

Three instances out of many which came under my experience, will serve to show how valuable aerial observation is in modern warfare.

For a fortnight before observers were sent to the Black Sea the ships had been trying to destroy the important railway junction of Vladislavovka, about six miles away. Owing to the high ground at the Coast the junction could not be seen from the ordinary fire-control, which is about 60 feet above the deck. Aerial photography showed that no real damage had been done to it. At 1,500 feet one of our observers got the range with the second shot, and in a few minutes the junction was useless.

A minor incident was an attack made by a French gunboat on a Red motor car travelling at 20 miles per hour and 2 miles distant. The first shot was quite straight, but struck about 200 yards on the far side of the car. When the smoke of the second shell cleared away no trace of the car or its occupants was to be seen. You might send a gunboat snipe shooting!

The Red Army brought up only one gun to their line of trenches. One day I noticed a puff of smoke occurring at intervals about 6 miles away, and at first I could not understand it. A gentle boom followed. My wrist watch told me that the sound took just over 27 seconds to come along. A rapid calculation showed the source of the sound to be 10,200 yards off. At first I thought it was the light cruiser Calypso firing at the Reds from the sea of Azov and I 'phoned down "Calypso dead on!" Immediately came back the reply "Calypso not firing!" And then "Guns" said "White Army wants to know if you can spot a Red gun which has fired 17 shells into their lines." I gave the distance to within less than 50 yards. He replied "Our six-inch guns can't quite reach it, but Calypso can." Calypso knew all about it in 10 seconds. In another minute the Red gun was silenced,

The Reds now knew well that were more than held, especially as we had supplied equipment to the Whites. Next morning at dawn they were found to be hastily retreating, whereupon all our ships bayed forth 'Farewell.' General Dennikiu who promised the observers a pound a day each for the job, and who still owes me about £100), was victorious in other parts. The Whites won almost to Moscow in 1919.

But the peasants did not love them any more than they did the Reds, for the old Russian aristocrats were intolerable. The British and French came home and Russia was soon prostrate again.

On the Marlborough we agreed that had the British a single first-class balloon observer at Jutland, the German Fleet would have gone to the bottom. As things were, with their superior airship observation, and the British forced to fire into the sun, the latter would have gone under had the Germans had the morale and efficiency of the British.

P.S. The story of the only German submarine that ventured to attack a balloon-ship is of historic interest, and is soon told.

The sloop Snapdragon was convoying about a dozen ships of the Mercantile Marine from Biserta to Malta, and was about 100 miles from the latter. Within a few seconds of spotting the periscope the sloop had blown it to pieces, and the second shot killed three Germans trying to escape. The third sank the submarine, and the remaining 24 members of the crew were landed prisoners in Malta that evening.

Admiral Mahan, the American Naval Authority, gave it as his opinion that the allies would have lost the war, owing to the extinction of the Mercantile Marine, but for the 'Convoy System,' adopted towards the end of 1917. That system would have been impossible without the balloon-ship.

"TO THE EDITOR"

Dear Sir,

Every morning for many years I have entered the High School's front gate, and every morning I have stood and admired the School building, with its handsome clock, elegant red brick front, and open door welcoming all those who enter. And every time I do so I am touched to the quick by one thing which mars its beauty. That thing is the flag pole.

I am sure that everyone will agree with me when I say that our flag-pole is not all that it might be. To begin with, it has no cord, and what is a flag-pole without a cord? It is like a ship without a rudder, or a snail minus its shell, or something equally as hopeless. Next it is sadly in need of a coat of paint. Well I believe there is a shop in Grafton St., where one may buy a tin of the best quick-drying paint for 8½d. or thereabouts (brush not included), and I feel sure that a certain member of the staff would be willing to apply the said paint in his usual wasteful style. The poor flag-pole's last fault is that it is dangerously out of the perpendicular (see Euclid def. 10). This can easily be rectified, for all that is needed is 1 lead bob (to be obtained at the lab.), several yards of string, and the aid of Mr. Evans, who always takes a keen interest in anything for the improvement of the school.

Of course the higher authorities may object to the cost of such an undertaking, but I feel sure that there are plenty of ways in which to overcome that difficulty. For instance, what boy having two pennies, after spending one of them in the tuck-shop would not give the other to such a good cause? Or if there is not a sufficiently large enough number of boys in the school who have the magnificent sum of money as twopence, perhaps all fines could be doubled for a week or so. This, I feel sure, would meet with approval from a certain person. Finally, if neither of these worked, a circular might be sent around to all the parents worded as follows:—

Dear Sir or Madam,

Owing to the cost of providing the School with a proper flag-pole, the fees for the next term have been raised 1d. In the case of brothers, a reduction of twenty per cent. will be made.

This most certainly should manage it.

In a very short while now the Summer holidays will be along and we can only hope that during them this fault will be reminded.

I remain,

your sincerely,

A. Lover of the School.

Captain :—G. W. Keegan. Vice-Captain :—D. H. McNeill.
Hon. Sec. :—J. S. Ellis.

We opened our season with a match against Mountjoy, which was drawn. We have been working hard at the pitch, aided by a groundsman, but we were held back by lack of rain, so that we have had less time in which to roll it. Of last year's team six members remain, and they form the backbone of this year's team. The senior bowling is fairly strong but the batting is very shaky, except for one or two players, perhaps it is due to lack of confidence.

The Junior Cup team is quite strong, more so in batting than in bowling. The fielding on both teams is keen, and few runs are lost through in-attention, but it could be better. The attendance at Belgrave Square has improved, particularly with regard to the Juniors.

In the Junior Cup match we were beaten by Masonic.

Swimming Notes

Captain C. V. Boyle

Vice Captain D. H. McNeill

Hon. Sec. P. R. Purcell

The swimming season opened at the Iveagh Baths on the 3rd of April.

We are glad to see that both Seniors and Juniors are taking full advantage of Sergeant Burke's coaching, and we have every hope of success in the Water-polo Cup and also in the Leinster Schools Squadron Championship.

Although the number of boys who turn up at the Baths is satisfactory, there are many boys who do not take part in other sports and could easily spare half an hour once a week for swimming instruction.

It is very encouraging to see the number of juniors who are taking an intelligent interest in Water-polo. They are getting to know the rules of the game and are learning the proper method of throwing the ball. As it is from their ranks that Water-polo teams will be drawn in a few years time. It augurs well for the future progress of the School in this field.

While this is gratifying, we regret that we have not seen any effort on the part of the juniors to train for the fifty yards Junior Championship. This Cup was introduced with the object of encouraging boys to enter for the Leinster Schools Junior Championship of fifty yards, and last year D. C. Ewen and G. F. McCabe distinguished themselves in this event by being placed second and third respectively.

Many boys do not realize the importance of training in the summer holidays. Boys should not be content to amuse themselves in the baths or sea, but should continually try to improve their swimming. It is advisable to join a club in order to improve speed and stroke.

Most clubs have reduced subscriptions for schoolboys and the experience gained is invaluable.

Boxing Notes

Capt. G. W. Keegan

Vice-Capt. R. W. Mason

We finished the winter season's Boxing with the annual Tournament with St. Andrew's College. It was a successful season all round, and showed its results in the way the team boxed.

The matches were held in the Gym, in Trinity College, on Wednesday, April 12th. Mr. Edwin Solomons kindly acted as judge. The St. Andrew's team were slightly heavier, but we put up a very good show although we lost by four contests to two,

High School Boxing Club, 1932-33

J. D. SMYTH G. W. KEEGAN Mr. J. BENNETT R. W. MASON J. C. LONG
 D. F. SPEIDEL (Headmaster) J. F. N. SPEIDEL

D. Reeves and J. H. M. Beattie lost their matches by a very narrow margin. Beattie put up a good pair of fists, though this is his first year at Boxing. D. H. McNeill and W. S. Moore won their fights in a most convincing fashion, and both showed a very decided improvement on last year's bouts. G. W. Keegan and R. W. Mason both lost their matches. Mason had no chance at all against Henderson, who was about two and half stone heavier, and has only been beaten once.

St. Andrew's could not find a match for our "White hope." J. D. Smyth (he got into the semi-finals of the Juvenile Boxing Championships of Ireland), but he and J. C. Long gave us an exhibition bout that showed what our Instructor can do with ever the youngest. We also had an exhibition bout between R. Houston and C. Mitchell.

The attendance this season was very satisfactory, and those who came showed great keenness. We hope that this branch of sport in the School will be well supported next season.

Tennis Notes

Hon. Sec. T. L. B. Cooley

Once again we have entered into the Summer Term and our thoughts are once more turned to such games and pastimes as Tennis, Cricket, Swimming and Boating. However, I must confine myself to the first mentioned game, as unfortunately or is it fortunately, I have not yet obtained the permission of the editor to explain to our readers the technique of such games.

For some years past we have entered a team for the Leinster School's Challenge Cup, but last year witnessed for the first time Tennis at Belgrave Square. In spite of this, coupled with the fact that the count occupied part of the Junior Rugby Ground, the number of entrants for the Tournament was very good indeed.

This year the court has been greatly improved, and is no longer on the Junior Rugby ground. Among both Seniors and Juniors there is great enthusiasm and certainly Ireland need have no fears about her future as regards Tennis, when there is such material on which to build.

We have found ourselves this year, to be drawn against St. Gerrard's College, Bray, in the 2nd round of the Cup, on June 2nd. Unfortunately we cannot wait for the result, but we wish the team every success. We have however, played St. Andrew's College in a friendly match which resulted in a draw.

The Tournament which is played on the knock-out system, has been in progress since the 13th May. At the time of going to press the Semi-finals have been arrived at in both Senior and Junior divisions, but owing to the "For goodness sake hurry up with your notes," from our editor, I am unable to give the result.

We all however, will join in extending to both winners our congratulations.

The Old Boy's Union

The object of the Union is to provide a bond between the past pupils of the School and to bring them together by games and sports and social functions. It also helps those who have left Dublin to hear of and keep in touch with their School contemporaries. The Union has already been of value to the present boys of the School.

Life subscription is one guinea, which may be paid in two annual instalments. Boys leaving School may, if they wish, have their names placed on the Register of the Union. Part at least of their life subscription must be paid within three years.

The Erasmian is sent free to all members.

It would be very helpful if Old Boys would send on notes to us giving news about past pupils. We owe a deep debt of gratitude to Mr. Thompson, who regularly every term sends us a bundle of "cuttings" from Newspapers about Old Pupils. Most of the information about them in the Erasmian comes from him. As Old Boys often ask for his address, we give it here: Chesterton, St. Ledgers Road, Bournemouth.

Sport

Cricket: At the time of going to press, one match has been played with the School on the 1st and 2nd June, (V report above). Matches have also been arranged with Masonic O.B.U. on the 14th and 15th June and with King's Hospital O.B.U. on the 27th and 28th June.

Golf: A match with St. Mary's Union is fixed for the 23rd June at Milltown, and it is hoped to have a general re-union of our own golfers at Greystones on 23rd June. Other matches will take place during the summer. We would particularly ask the members to note that the usual Competition for the Old Boys' Cup will take place in September.

Tennis: Will any Old Boys willing to play matches please communicate with the Tennis Secretary, There is plenty of material amongst the Old Boys. as is shown by the note on Tennis players above.

The following is an extract from a letter to the Headmaster from E. A. Connolly, who is in the Imperial Bank of Persia. It is a description of Pehleir or Enzili, on the Caspian Sea, where he is staying at present.

"Enzili is on a peninsula, and nobody ever goes to it by car. I have been here two weeks now and have not seen any kind of conveyance. One goes to Kasian and then crosses the Umdok (the creek) in a Lutgah (boat), a rather hair-raising experience the first time, as they are of a very primitive pattern. The journey across the water takes about 5 to 10 minutes, and if it is done by road it is a matter of about 100 miles,

At Kasian there is a large Caviare Factory, and is eaten the same as we eat jam at home.

This part of the country, stretching for about 50 miles inland, is very fertile, with thick tropical forests, flowers of all kinds, and fruit trees, the most prominent being the Orange tree. In the garden of my house there are magnificent Orange trees, flowers in abundance, and as for strawberries, we have to throw some away. The ground is very sandy and that suits the latter very well."
