From the Director of Advancement

Louise Vaughan

Dear Country Day families and friends,

Philanthropic support plays a critical role in funding the incredible opportunities available to our students, and the 2018-19 year has been a reminder, once again, of the power of our community in support of Country Day.

Countless volunteer hours have been invested by community members. We have received gifts of landscaping and construction services, welcomed a myriad of speakers onto campus to share their expertise and have received over 2,000 monetary gifts supporting the school's day-to-day operations, its capital infrastructure and its long-term financial strength. No matter the shape or size of the gift, all play a significant role in the success of our students and underpin the enduring legacy of a Country Day education.

Thank you!

Last year, the Country Day Fund, the cornerstone of the school's annual fundraising endeavors, was restructured to enable our donors to direct the designation of their gift. Some chose to take this opportunity and it was thrilling to see their support; it was also heartening to see more than 81% of gifts designated to "area of greatest need," a testament to the trust that our community places in the administration, faculty and staff. We are deeply grateful for the generous support we received from parents, grandparents, alumni, parents of alumni, faculty, staff, and students.

We continue to strive for 100 percent parent participation in the Country Day Fund. Every gift has an impact and I urge our current parents - and all supporters of our community - to consider a gift to the 2019-20 campaign. As well as recognizing gifts to the Country Day Fund, this year's annual report recognizes the many donors who have made gifts to support capital infrastructure projects and our endowment.

Capital gifts were largely received in satisfaction of pledges made to our extensive North Campus Project, the conclusion of which we celebrated with the full opening of the Leonard Family Athletic Center in October 2018. We also celebrated the successful completion of a small project to deliver enhancements to our existing baseball facilities. This project exemplified the power of community, with baseball families – old and new – enthusiastically coming together to make an immediate difference. My thanks to you all!

Endowment gifts were received across a wide range of funds, but most fully in support of our Blue & White Triumphant Campaign and the Triumphant Scholars Match Challenge. Every year, income from our endowment is drawn to help fund the school's annual operations, provide need-based tuition awards and support the work of our most important asset, our teachers. A strong endowment is therefore critical, not only to secure the long-term financial strength of our school, but to fund continued investment in our programs and the inspirational faculty that guide our students in their learning. While Country Day has seen more than $4.5M invested into its endowment over the last three years alone, with additional amounts pledged for payment in the coming years, our total endowment ($25.8M at June 30, 2019) lags some of our closest competitors. Growing these funds remains a critical priority.

One highlight of our year saw alumnus Roger Kafker '80 challenge the school to raise one million dollars for the Triumphant Scholars Program, pledging to match gifts dollar-for-dollar over a 12-month period. The campaign was directed to our alumni community, who stepped up with triumphant Country Day spirit. We raised more than $1.2M in the challenge period, beating our target and securing the full match! Thank you to everybody who participated. It was an honor to hear the stories that you shared about the impact of your own Country Day experience.

In closing, and as I reflect on another wonderful year for our school, I want to extend my warmest gratitude to you all. It is the power of our community that makes us strong, and every one of you has played a role!

With sincere regards,

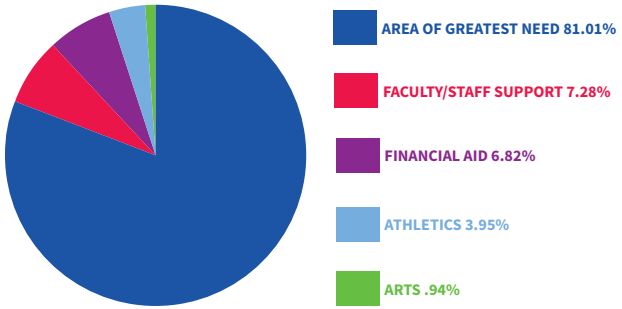

Louise Vaughan
Director of Advancement
