OUR STORY

We are two entrepreneurs united by a passion for natural cosmetics and a desire to offer products that not only enhance the skin but also respect the planet. Since the beginning of our journey in 2020, we have focused on creating sustainable and effective cosmetics, using natural ingredients mostly from Costa Rica. We are proud to work in collaboration with local producers, supporting communities and promoting responsible and sustainable practices.

We also have a dedicated team of collaborators, women and heads of their families. They share our vision and contribute with their hard work and commitment to ensuring our products reach our customers with quality and care. We strive to empower these women by providing them with a space to grow professionally.

Of course, we've also received tremendous support from our families, who have helped us every step of the way with their love, understanding, and encouragement.

Each product we create is designed with a commitment to offering the best of nature, while contributing to the well-being of both our customers and the people who produce the ingredients we use. With our products, we aim to transform the beauty routine into an experience of connection with the earth, providing revitalized skin and conscious care.

Our approach is based on transparency, respect for the environment, and supporting small-scale producers, who are an integral part of our story. Together, we strive to inspire positive changes, helping people feel good in their skin while caring for our surroundings.
