

TAGUA

by SORAYA CEDAÑO
FALL \ WINTER 2026

SUSTAINABLE, FAIR TRADE, HANDMADE IN ECUADOR

Dear Friends,

Welcome to our Fall 2026 Collection.

This year, Tagua by Soraya Cedeño proudly celebrates 15 years of creating jewelry with purpose. What began in a small garage with three artisans has grown into a global brand working with more than 120 artisans across Ecuador.

Recently, I had the joy of celebrating this milestone with our artisans and employees. Their talent, passion, and dedication continue to inspire every piece we create and remind me why this journey began.

Today, Tagua is carried in more than 2,000 stores worldwide and has received over 28 sustainability awards. Yet our mission remains the same. People First.

Thank you for supporting our artisans, our planet, and the meaningful craftsmanship behind every Tagua design.

With God's grace, we look forward to continuing this journey and sharing the beauty of Ecuador with the world.

With heartfelt gratitude,

Soraya Cedeño

Source of Inspiration

HOW IS IT MADE

TAGUA JEWELRY

What is Tagua (pronounced TAG-WAH)? The Tagua nut grows from a palm tree found mainly in the Ecuadorian rainforests. It is also known as vegetable ivory. It takes the fruit 12-18 months to dry in order for it to become a hardened, natural nut that we use in our jewelry.

Harvesting

The process begins by gathering and collecting nuts from both the rainforest floor, where the nuts have fallen or harvested directly from the palms. The material we use is hidden in the very heart of the fruit. After harvesting, the seeds are dried in the sun for up to 8 weeks.

Hand carving

The carving process is done by skilled artisans. While a grindstone and dremel are sometimes used to shape the nuts into intricate shapes, most of the artisans use their own handmade tools to achieve the desired outcome. This is a skill that has been handed down from generation to generation.

Dyeing

In large batches, the newly shaped tagua pieces are submerged into vats of Italian, certified organic vegetable dyes where the tagua seeds absorb the color, the process can last anywhere between 10-14 hours depending on the desired color.

WE USE 100% NATURAL MATERIALS

Tagua nuts, bombona seeds, pambil, açai berries, bamboo, recycled coconut shell, natural straw, and recycled wood. All of these resources are sustainable and by harvesting these materials, we are helping preserve the Ecuadorian rainforest.

Drying

Once the desired color is achieved, the tagua nuts are laid out in the sun to dry. This can take up to 5 days.

Tumbling

The dyed tagua pieces are put into tumblers for 10-14 hours. This is what gives our tagua that smooth and shiny appearance, no chemicals are used in processing our jewelry.

Assembling

Finally, the artisans skillfully assemble the tagua into fashionable jewelry. Each artisan can assemble up to 100 pieces per day. Our artisans have a safe work environment, make a fair, living wage and enjoy the work they do.

BORN IN THE HEART OF ECUADOR'S RAINFOREST

Where the skilled hands of artisans transform Tagua with heart, tradition, and care.

Behind every collection are artisans whose hands and hearts guide each step of the process. Every bead is hand-cut, hand-dyed in small batches, slowly dried under the Ecuadorian sun, and polished to a smooth organic shine — making no two pieces alike.

Your jewelry helps safeguard their heritage, providing fair income, stability, and opportunities for future generations.

Meet Richard - Our First Artisan

Today he owns his own workshop with over 60 skilled employees. He is a pioneer in the Tagua industry and an amazing husband and father. He is an example of hard work and perseverance, a true testament of love for what he does and for a bright future of his community.

OUR MISSION

Creating meaningful, life-changing opportunities for our Ecuadorian artisans, their families, and their community. Together, we're making a difference!
