

EDUCATION: ELEMENTARY | SECONDARY

Education:

Elementary / Secondary

Elementary Education provides a broad base of academic experiences in the subject areas necessary for teachers of young children; kindergarten through grade six. Learn foundations of education, elementary math and science courses, educational psychology, special education, technology, and literature courses. Utilize skills from the classroom and experience them in a K-6 setting.

Secondary Education provides a solid base of academic experiences and allows additional study of subject areas that are used for the middle and high school levels. Coursework includes foundations of education, special education, psychology, human life span development, and educational technology. Determine specific subject area course electives to teach at the middle/high school level. Practice skills learned during field experiences in the middle school or high school setting.
