A family collection four generations in the making, Red Carnation Hotels brings together 14 exceptional properties across the UK, Ireland, Europe, and Africa. Each hotel is a place of genuine character, deeply rooted in its surroundings and proudly connected to the communities it calls home. From the legendary Ashford Castle in Ireland and the iconic Oyster Box in South Africa, to the recently opened 100 Princes Street in Edinburgh, every property offers a distinctive sense of place and invites guests to discover the culture, heritage, and stories that make each destination unique.

At the heart of the collection are the people who bring it to life. Led with warmth at every level, teams are guided by a long tradition of sincere, intuitive hospitality where thoughtful gestures, personal touches, and carefully curated experiences create a sense of belonging that stays with guests long after they leave.

Generosity and an uncompromising commitment to quality define the Red Carnation ethos: a belief that every stay should feel not just special, but truly personal. This same spirit extends to how the collection approaches sustainability, with a genuine commitment to honouring both people and planet woven thoughtfully into every touchpoint across the portfolio.

More than places to stay, Red Carnation Hotels are places to connect: with people, with local culture, and with stories that stay with guests long after they leave.
