Welcome

"Whether planning an overnight get-away, a week-long family reunion or extended time to rest and relax, Randolph County has something memorable for every person in your group. Four seasons of outdoor activities, Civil War history, picturesque byways, popular train excursions, festivals, and music galore await your arrival. The Monongahela National Forest offers pristine paths and streams for hiking, fishing, swimming and cross-country skiing. Explore our bike paths and curvy mountain motorcycle routes filled with unparalleled scenery. During July, three weeks of exceptional folk arts, music classes and performances take place. Local artists' handmade products are visible in every small town. You will also find a large array of locally owned eateries waiting to serve you. Perhaps you would prefer to unwind and to stroll the streets and shop, visit a museum or take a scenic train ride. Try our coffee bars or micro-breweries, watch the sun set from a scenic overlook or take in a dinner show to fill your evening. No matter what your agenda, at the end of the day you will find a diverse assortment of accommodations to meet everyone's expectations. We are .... Authentic by Nature."

Explore

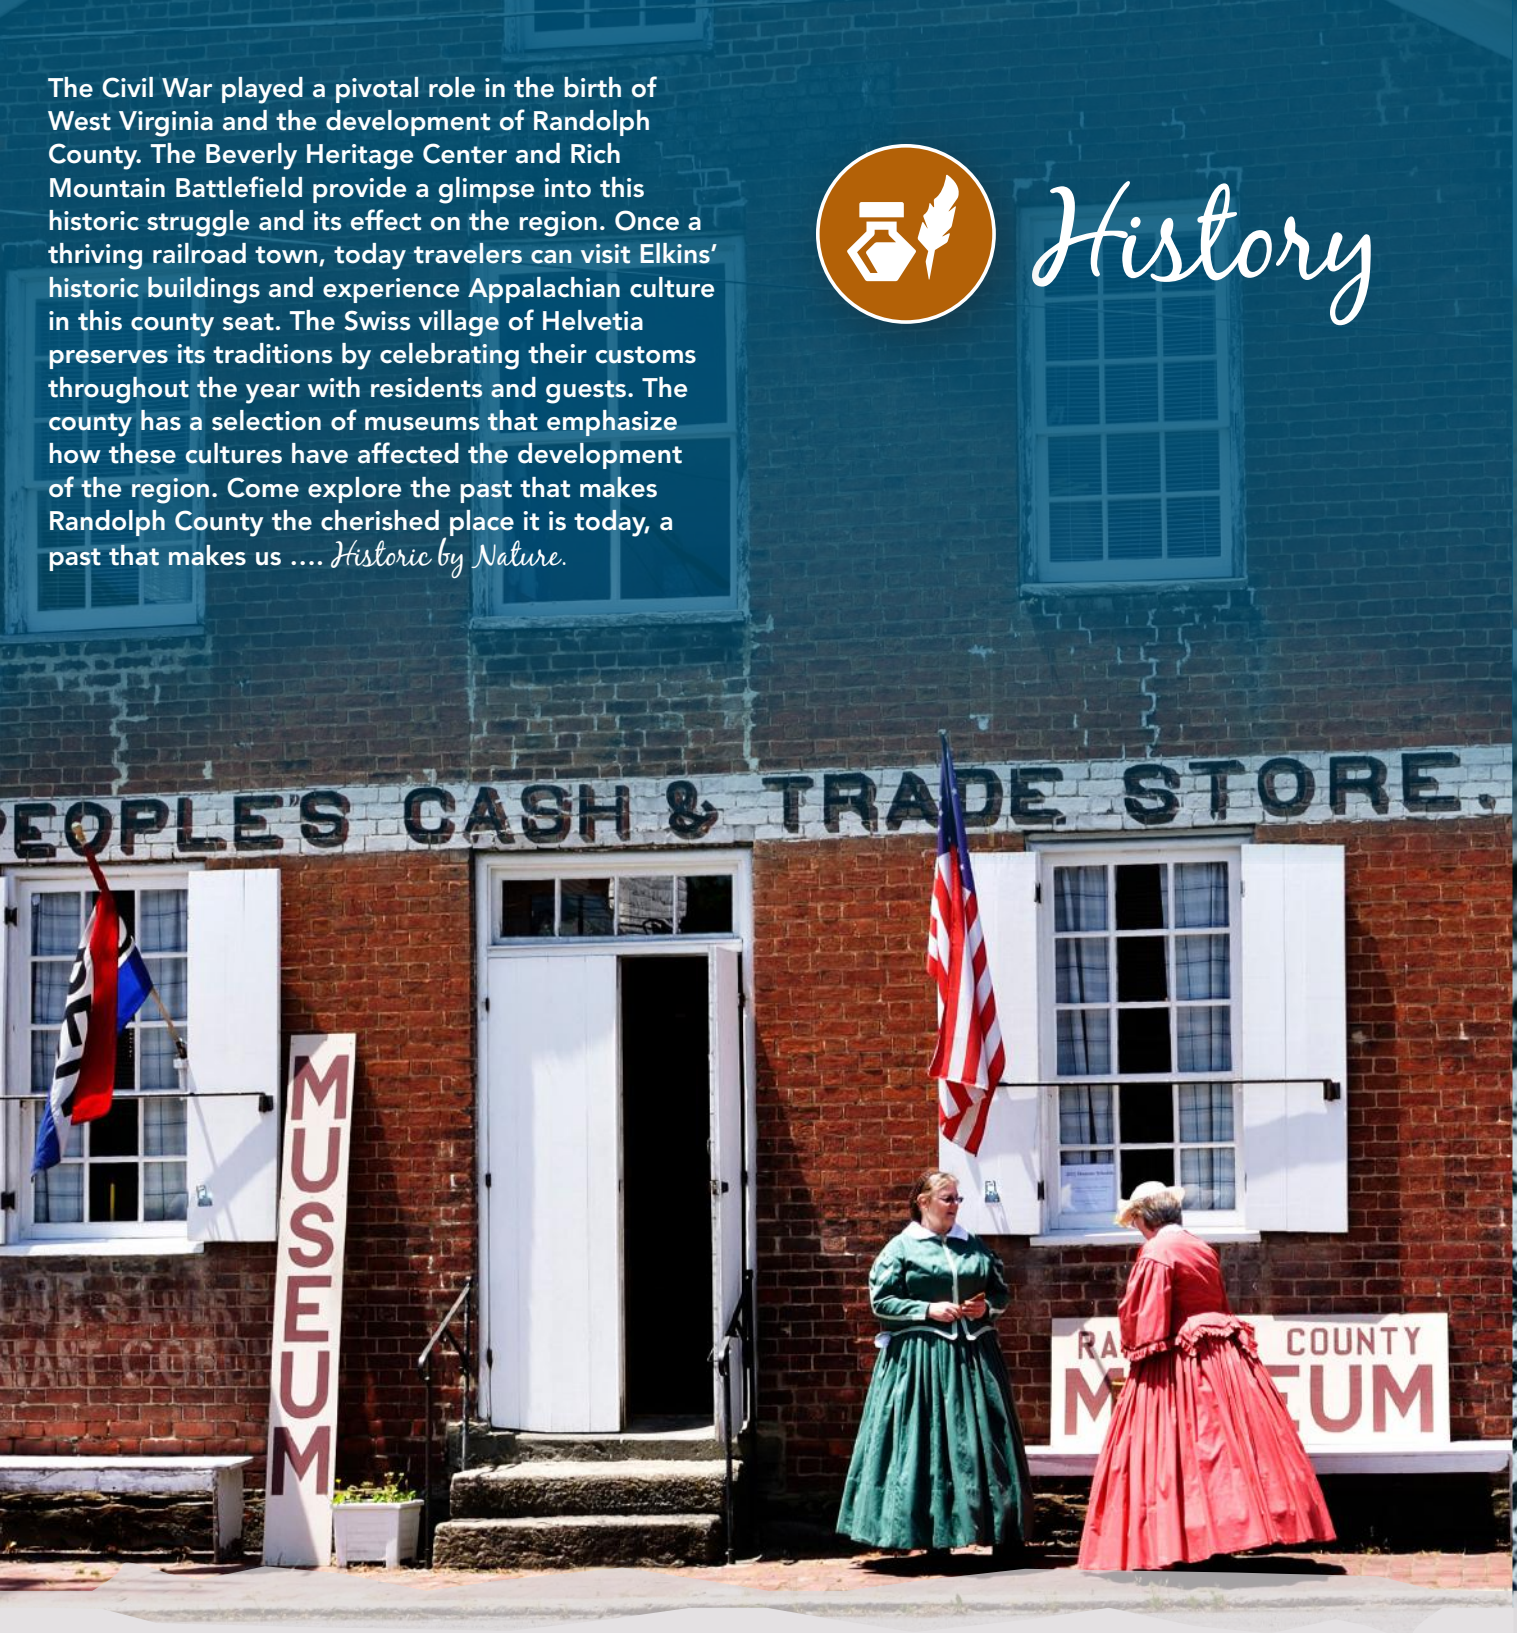

Surrounded by the beautiful Appalachian Mountains, our crystal-clear streams, mountain vistas and vivid fall colors provide a picturesque landscape none can ignore. Absorb breath-taking views while riding a motorcycle on the curves of our mountain roads or biking our family friendly rail trails. Visit Bickle Knob Observation Tower or Spruce Knob Lake while driving the well-preserved Monongahela National Forest's scenic byways. Allow time to throw a line into a pristine river or to hunt in our abundant wilderness terrain. Whether you like to camp, mountain bike, hike, cross-country ski or snowshoe, Randolph County, the largest county in West Virginia, has countless possibilities available. Plan a trip to Randolph County to discover why we are ....

Adventurous by Nature.

History

The Civil War played a pivotal role in the birth of West Virginia and the development of Randolph County. The Beverly Heritage Center and Rich Mountain Battlefield provide a glimpse into this historic struggle and its effect on the region. Once a thriving railroad town, today travelers can visit Elkins' historic buildings and experience Appalachian culture in this county seat. The Swiss village of Helvetia preserves its traditions by celebrating their customs throughout the year with residents and guests. The county has a selection of museums that emphasize how these cultures have affected the development of the region. Come explore the past that makes Randolph County the cherished place it is today, a past that makes us .... Historic by Nature.

Arts

Discover the Cajun, bluegrass, swing, blues, country and old-time music and dance provided annually by the Augusta Heritage Center. Try square, contra, swing dancing or clogging at an assortment of venues around the county or sit back and listen to home-grown talent as you dine at a local restaurant. Be sure to take home a West Virginia keepsake crafted by an area artist. Exceptional one-of-a-kind textiles, pottery, jewelry, wood products, wines, craft beers, paintings and photography are displayed and sold at many businesses. Once you understand how the arts have shaped the history and culture of Randolph County, you will appreciate why we are .... Artistic by Nature.

Dine

Our eateries, owned and operated by locals, range from Swiss to Appalachian, Venezuelan to Italian, and Mexican to American fare. Elect to enjoy freshly made donuts, specialty coffees and pastries or an old-fashioned country breakfast from the businesses that locals frequent. At noon take a break at an area pizza parlor, neighborhood pub or cafe where kids can enjoy a hotdog or sandwich. Evenings offer a selection of casual-fine dining as well as down-home cooking. Choose from barbeque, pasta, steaks, tasty salads, smoked trout, marinated pork tenderloins, cachapas, homemade soup, exceptional wines, local craft beers, and excellent desserts. Expect the extraordinary since we are .... Flavored by Nature.

Unwind

Some of life's greatest adventures occur when you take the time to slow down, kick back and discover your surroundings at a leisurely pace. Throughout Randolph County you will uncover countless opportunities to do just that. Perhaps you would enjoy a train excursion through the Monongahela National Forest by the Shavers Fork River with a stop at the High Falls of Cheat. Relax with friends or a good book at one of our coffee bars or micro-breweries. Stroll through our towns exploring the locally owned shops that offer a wide array of one-of-a-kind specialty products. Then, finish your evening at a musical dinner theatre. Don't forget to check out the list of yearly festivals on page 14 or on our website. By slowing down the pace of your life, you will begin to understand how we

COMMUNITIES

Randolph County is a conglomeration of towns that are as different as the history that shaped them. Surrounded by varied terrain, these towns were built to provide necessities required by those that settled each distinct community. Today, some of the communities have steadily grown while others have remained the charming small towns they always have been. As you traverse Randolph County and visit these historic locations, you will begin to understand that we are .... Shaped by Nature.

ELKINS

Located on the edge of the Monongahela National Forest, this quaint city makes it easy to play in the mountains while staying in luxury.

- Known as the business and cultural hub of Randolph County
- Tree-lined streets and vibrant downtown
- Rich in history, outdoor fun, beautiful art, thriving theatres, and a variety of unique shops, breweries, and eateries
- Home of Davis & Elkins College

GPS 38°55'34.6"N 79°50'49.0"W

HELVETIA

Hidden in a high mountain valley, an hour from anywhere, the community of Helvetia was settled by Swiss and German immigrants in 1869.

- Embrace the oasis of serenity in this small village blending Appalachian and Swiss culture
- Known for preserving the Swiss traditions that have been passed down from generation to generation
- From the monthly square dances to yodeling, festivals, food, and folkways, Helvetia is unlike any other place in West Virginia

GPS 38°42'21.6"N 80°12'02.7"W

BEVERLY

Beverly is a quiet, small town and a hidden treasure of history in the Tygart Valley.

- Beverly dates back to the era of the American Revolutionary War and was significantly shaped by the Civil War
- Much of the town is designated as a National Register Historic District
- Over a dozen pre-Civil War buildings still survive - some open to the public as museums or shops
- Check out folk-life events, arts, crafts and antiques

GPS 38°50'26.0"N 79°52'31.1"W

PICKENS

Nestled deep in a remote hardwood forest, Pickens is one of Randolph County's most isolated communities.

- The wettest place in West Virginia, receiving more than 66 inches of precipitation yearly, much of it in snowfall
- Home of the annual Maple Syrup Festival in March - pancake feed, demonstrations, crafts and more

GPS 38°39'19.4"N 80°12'43.1"W

HARMAN

Situated as the mid-point between Canaan Valley, Seneca Rocks, and Elkins, the town of Harman is surrounded by the Allegheny Mountains of West Virginia.

- Home of the historic Old Mill, one of the few functioning gristmills in the state
- Nearby farm-to-bottle distillery and access to countless trails, streams, and rivers of the nearby forest

GPS 38°55'21.3"N 79°31'29.3"W

COALTON

Near the outskirts of Randolph County lies the town of Coalton, also known as Wolmelsdorf.

- For over 25 years, Coalton has celebrated Coalton Days - parades, a car show, entertainment, crafts, carnivals, competitions, and more
- Weekly bingo games at the local fire department
- Field of Fire Park located within the nearby historic Rich Mountain Battlefield

GPS 38°53'47.9"N 79°58'01.8"W

MONTROSE

Imagine the rolling hills, fields of wild roses, and the sound of a locomotive chugging along the tracks as it makes its way across Randolph County. This would be a common sight during the early 1900s in the community of Montrose.

- Walk, bike, horseback ride or cross-country ski the Allegheny Highlands Trail

GPS 39°04'07.8"N 79°48'40.0"W

MILL CREEK

Experience the vistas of flat farmland encircled by the distant mountains while driving through the community of Mill Creek.

- Site of Eleanor Roosevelt's "New Deal" Homestead
- Annual Mother's Day Celebration
- Elaborate Whoville display at Christmas

GPS 38°43'54.3"N 79°58'12.6"W

HUTTONSVILLE

Huttonsville is surrounded by valley farmland and forested mountain slopes. There are many fishing and hunting opportunities found within the various nearby wildlife management areas.

- Explore Kumbrabow State Forest
- Kayak or canoe in the Tygart Valley River
- Hike the many trails and observe the wildlife

ELKINS DEPOT
WELCOME CENTER
EST. 2006

In 1908 the Western Maryland Railway Company replaced two wooden depots in the Elkins' railyard with the current beautiful brick structure which houses the Elkins Depot Welcome Center CVB. Although all rail service was discontinued in the 1980's, at the turn of the century the revitalization of the railyard began. The Elkins Depot Welcome Center, the central location for tourist information, began serving the public in 2006. The Center has a variety of information on activities in the area such as train excursions, museums, historic sites, theaters, outdoor adventures, rail trail guides, state parks, the Monongahela National Forest, dining, shopping and lodging. We look forward to greeting you, answering any questions you may have and showing you we are .... Informative by Nature.
