A quick note from FOXBOX | BrandSTIK, beyond business

Dear Partner,

We've worked together for a while now, and honestly, this isn't the usual kind of email we send. We just wanted to take a moment, outside of the day-to-day, to properly say hello and share a bit of who we are and what we're building.

We've always believed that real business is built on relationships, not just transactions. That's why we wanted to start this series of conversations with you, not just another update, but an ongoing way of staying connected beyond the day-to-day.

At FOXBOX | BrandSTIK, our goal has never been to be just another corporate gifting company. We're building technology-powered gifting solutions, using our own platform as the backbone of distribution, to take away the operational hassle that has always come with this industry for our team, our clients, and our partners.

Today, that vision stands on real ground with over 1,000 corporate clients who trust us to get it right.

This short video shows you the rest of the story: our facilities, our reach, and the platform behind it all.

This is just the beginning. In the months ahead, we'll share more about the platform and technology driving this change from within, and we hope you'll be part of it.

Glad to have you with us on this journey.
