My Butterfly

Love and hope, fragility and strength are recurrent themes in Mackenzie's work and viewed in that context his stunning sculpture My Butterfly, is truly a Mackenzie Thorpe classic.

Echoes from soundtracks of his childhood inspired Mackenzie to try and capture the symbolic gift of love and innocence which is at the core of the Madam Butterfly opera by Puccini from where Mackenzie took his initial vision.

My Butterfly - Fragile yet strong

The Process

The artists progression of transferring his works on paper to sculpture has allowed him to bring to life images previously only explored on paper.

The process of creating a stainless steel sculpture is a long one and goes through many stages, from the artists initial sculpting and re-sculpting of a piece, to the rubber mold making and wax casting. Eventually you are left with a raw metal casting which is highly polished and from this emerges the sculptures distinctive shine.

Stainless Steel Sculpture

This beautiful piece depicts strength, determination and love, characterised in Mackenzie Thorpe's individual way.
