Supply chains in Asia Pacific have always been vulnerable to a wide range of threats that can disrupt operations, compromise data security, and damage reputations. TAPA's goal is to monitor and avoid these risks that the supply chain constantly faces by building a comprehensive intelligence database - TAPA APAC Intelligence System (TIS) that both members and Law Enforcement Agencies (LEAs) are able to utilize for crime prevention and risk mitigation.

Let's work together to build resilience against supply chain cargo crime, disruptions and risks in Asia Pacific.

Strengthening Law Enforcement Partnerships and Collaboration

The Transported Asset Protection Association Asia Pacific (TAPA APAC) has developed a suite of globally recognized standards to safeguard critical assets through the supply chain. Adopting these standards deliver both operational efficiency and risk mitigation.

Strengthening law enforcement partnerships and collaboration by building greater resilience against supply chain cargo crime, disruptions and risks in Asia Pacific by providing an opportunity to be our TAPA APAC LEA Partner for the region.

An Intelligence System for Law Enforcement

Access to a centralized global database of cargo incidents and TAPA certifications.

Receive exclusive TIS insights through TAPA APAC TIS quarterly, annual, and special reports etc.

Connect to a global network of government authorities, Law Enforcement Agencies, industry partners and TAPA members globally

Utilize AI-enhanced resilient route planning with TIS suggested alternate routes to avoid crime 'hotspots'

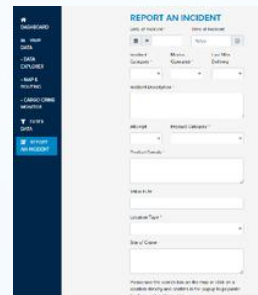

By utilizing TIS, law enforcement agencies gain access to a vital repository of global cargo crime data and recorded incidents. This centralized intelligence aids in identifying regional crime trends, mapping high-risk transit routes, and streamlining investigations.

Statistic Dashboard

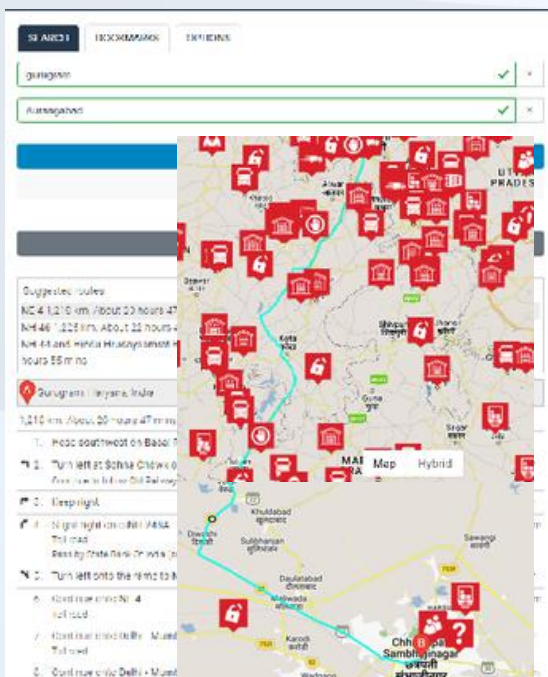

Anonymous Reporting

TIS ensures that all information submitted remains completely anonymous, fostering a secure environment for users to share incident data without fear of reprisal.

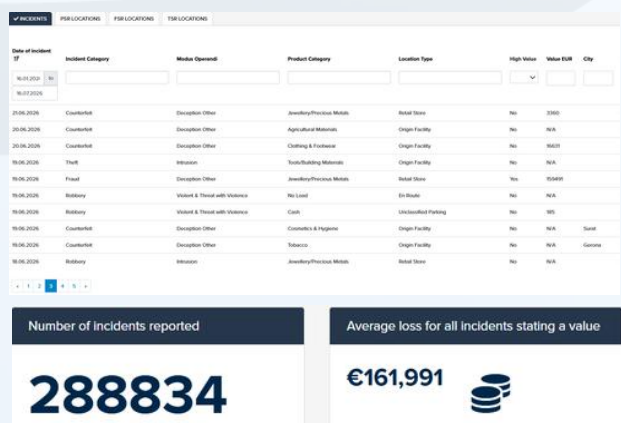

The form allows users to report an incident anonymously, providing fields for incident details, location, and contact information.

Access Privately Sourced Intelligence Within TIS

Have intelligence on cargo crime to share? TIS only collects operational intelligence that helps reduce cargo crime and strengthen supply chain security, including incident dates, locations, crime types, targeted commodities, loss values, and criminal modus operandi.

To protect confidentiality, TIS does not request or record the identities of victim companies. By contributing intelligence, both public and private partners support effective investigations, identify emerging trends, and strengthen strategies that prevent, deter, and disrupt cargo crime.
