What is NEET PG Counselling?

Clearing NEET PG only makes you eligible. It does not give you a seat. Counselling is the formal, merit-based process through which MD/MS, PG Diploma and DNB seats across India are allotted. You register on the counselling portal, pay the fee and security deposit, fill and lock a choice list, and seats are allotted round by round on your NEET PG rank, category and the choices you filled. Two doctors with the same marks can end up in very different branches purely because of how their lists were built.

How PG Seats are Divided?

50%

All India Quota: run centrally by MCC and open to doctors from every state. MCC also fills 100% of seats in deemed universities and central universities (DU, BHU, AMU), plus DNB seats.

50%

State Quota: run by each state's own counselling authority, along with seats in private colleges. Domicile or institutional preference rules apply and differ state to state.

NEET PG Counselling Rounds

What Every Candidate Must Know

Who can participate

Doctors who score the qualifying percentile notified by NBEMS (normally 50th for General, 45th for General-PwD and 40th for SC/ST/OBC) and complete internship by the cut-off date. The percentile has been lowered in some years.

Where doctors lose seats

Missing a registration or deposit deadline, filling a weak or badly ordered list, or joining a seat without checking its fee, bond and resignation rules.

Reservation & special quotas

AIQ seats are reserved for SC, ST, OBC-NCL and EWS, with PwD across categories. States add domicile, in-service and institutional quotas, where closing ranks can be very different from AIQ.

Security deposit & exit rules

MCC and most states take a refundable deposit. Round 1 usually allows a free exit, but not joining or resigning after later rounds can forfeit the deposit and block further rounds.
