EMBODIMENT. SPACE.
CONNECTEDNESS.

Totemic but sensual, gentle but powerful, California-based sculptor Erin McGuiness creates archetypal ceramic forms and installations that embrace the contrasts: light and dark, masculine and feminine, the monastic and the sensual, the wild and the cultivated, the individual and the collective. Through her work, McGuiness sculpts the invisible visible, explores the notion of embodiment, space, and connectedness.

Individually and together, they embody duality and connection, the space between people, cultures, the earth, and liminal space between knowing and unknowing, uniqueness and connectedness, feeling and nothingness; a quiet place where all are invited into their own personal form of communion.
