Digital Stories Made by Your Audience and Members

An art institution is any institution interested in providing education or training within art. You might be a museum, art/cultural institution, or non-profit organization? Your interest is to provide your members and audience the most creative experience and opening doors for new ones while promoting your institution. You want to educate and inspire and we are here to help your endeavors. dsb course can be organized in many different ways with your group and the meaningful stories that we will create will showcase the authenticity of your institution and promote the values of your brand. Exciting, isn't it?

Digital Stories Made by Your Students

Present your art academy and your program through the creative stories made by your students - in a digital portfolio presenting their skills, talents and values. With digital storytelling as a powerful educational tool, we will provide your students with 21st-century skills and generate motivation, engagement and commitment within the classroom. By showcasing the stories of your current students we are opening the field of interactivity and fostering interest - with the future ones. Lets build meaningful connections!

When Online Learning Meets Social Interaction

Our educational approach is based on personal guidance through live classes and weekly Q&A with your educator.

Tina Bikic (1987.) is a digital storyteller and innovative educator based in Berlin. She holds a MA in Comparative Literature. Tina is especially interested in the research of how Poetical Digital Storytelling can be used as an art form and educational tool – helping us to devise the future of a new Artistic Knowledge Production. In 2022 she became a founder of a digital storytelling platform named Digital Stories Berlin.

GROUP DIGITAL STORIES

The group presenting your art institution, as a result, will have their and yours digital story! Individually, they will gain unique experience and future knowledge, values, and skills. While you, as the institution will have ready-made stories for your official website and share across your social media platforms. This will help in the authentic promotion of your institution or your program while establishing better connections with your audience.

dsb CERTIFICATE

The dsb certificate provided testifying that your group finished a 4-week digital storytelling course will include the name of your institution as co-partner of this course! Meaning your participants will gain essential knowledge regarding scriptwriting, storyboarding, copyright, film, and editing, and you as an institution will be part of that valuable process.

dsb COMMUNITY

Your institution and your group will have indefinite access to a dsb Community after the course, which means you will have access to all the latest information from the fields of digital storytelling, art and creativity, and the future of education. Additionally, you will be informed of exciting opportunities and projects and network with people from the same industry as our educational partner.

"Tina's gracious mentoring and pedagogical focus allowed the students to learn the creative process and experience of poetical digital storytelling, despite the stressful shift to the cyberspace digital domain platform. I would highly recommend anyone with an interest in deeply learning the entire creative/technical process of digital story making to engage Tina!"
