Greetings to all,

The countdown to Reno has officially commenced. With the conclusion of our club elections, I would like to extend my sincere congratulations to all individuals assuming new or continuing leadership positions. I also wish to express my heartfelt gratitude to everyone who participated in the election. We appreciate your engagement, inquiries, and exercise of your voting rights. Our members are indeed the cornerstone of this organization; your efforts are invaluable.

Looking ahead, our primary objective for the new year is to collaborate to foster a prosperous future for our club. Disagreements are inevitable within any hobby group and are to be expected because we are all passionate about these tiny little balls of fluff. When conflicts arise, it may be tempting to resort to name-calling or immediate judgments of others. Nonetheless, it is far more constructive to set aside these reactions, engage in open dialogue, and seek common ground. We aim to maintain an environment where all members—particularly our youth—feel secure in expressing their opinions. By exemplifying teamwork, mutual respect, and kindness today, we ensure that the younger generation inherits a club they will be proud to lead tomorrow.

Ultimately, this hobby centers on enjoyment. The convention offers a chance to celebrate woolly rabbits, reconnect with longtime friends, forge new relationships, compete, and celebrate one another's accomplishments. To make this Reno trip memorable, we encourage all members to contribute. A highly effective way to help is to volunteer at our club booth. The booth offers a convenient place to rest briefly while engaging with friends and helping out during a short two-hour shift.

Additionally, there are two notable ways to support our club directly at the event:

- The Golden Fleece Auction (GFA): Please consider donating quality rabbits for this cherished tradition, which promotes breed sharing and supports the vitality of our club.

- Youth Scholarship Fund: Your continued support for our youth scholarship program is vital. Every contribution helps provide meaningful opportunities for our emerging leaders.

Whether assisting at the booth, contributing to the GFA, exhibiting, cheering from the sidelines, running rabbits or participating in youth activities, every effort counts. I eagerly anticipate seeing all of you in Reno. Wishing you safe travels, success with your entries, and hoping for cooler weather. Let us endeavour to make this convention and the upcoming year the most successful yet.

Respectfully,

Alexandra Williams

Vice President Report

Vice President

Bailey Ledesma

Greetings everyone!
I think we can all safely say we are officially in the thick of the summer heat! Along with trying to stay cool, now is the time to keep an eye on those Convention hopefuls and start narrowing down that entry list. The entry portal will be open before we know it, and Reno will be here even faster!

As we head toward Convention and into another year for our club, I have been thinking a lot about what makes the NJWRC special. Of course, we all love our Woolies, the competition, and seeing friends from across the country, but at the heart of our club are the people who make it all happen.

By the time this comes out, elections will likely be over, so congratulations to everyone stepping into a new or continuing position! Thank you to everyone willing to run, volunteer their time, and step up. Most importantly, thank you to our members for getting involved, asking questions, and VOTING! Our volunteers truly are the backbone of this club, and none of what we do would be possible without them.

As we move forward, one thing I hope our club continues to focus on is making our club a place where people feel welcome, supported, and comfortable speaking up. That is really the heart behind No Bullies in Woolies youth initiative.

The idea is pretty simple: treat people the way you would want to be treated and take accountability for your actions. It isn't some crazy new standard. It is something we should already be doing.

That doesn't mean we are always going to agree. We are a club full of passionate people, and disagreements are going to happen! Not every disagreement or argument is bullying. There is a difference between disagreeing with someone and repeatedly targeting, name-calling, personally attacking, embarrassing, excluding, or making someone feel like they are no longer welcome in this club or hobby.

That accountability includes our leadership as well. Choosing to serve as an officer means choosing to hold ourselves to an even higher standard. We are volunteers, we are human, and none of us are perfect, but a title should never give anyone a free pass.

One of my biggest hopes is that members feel comfortable coming to leadership when something isn't right. We can't help fix something if we don't know it is happening. I want our members to know their concerns matter and that they deserve the opportunity to be heard.

I especially want that for our Youth. No Bullies in Woolies is about giving them a platform where they feel supported speaking up when something isn't right while also teaching them how to do so respectfully and appropriately. I want our Youth to know their voices matter and that there are adults in this club who will listen and support them. Someday, they will move into Open and become the adults, volunteers, and leaders of this club. My hope is that kindness, accountability, and respect are values they carry with them and eventually pass on to the next generation of Youth.

At the end of the day, this is a hobby, and it is supposed to be FUN! We should be able to show off our beautiful Woolies, spend time with friends, compete, disagree sometimes, laugh a lot, and still leave feeling part of a community we are proud to belong to.

As Convention gets closer, keep an eye out for volunteer opportunities and consider jumping in wherever you can. Whether you are volunteering, exhibiting, cheering someone on, helping a Youth member, or simply showing kindness to the person sitting next to you, every one of us plays a part in making our club what it is.

I can't wait to see everyone in Reno! Wishing you safe travels, lots of beautiful Woolies for those Convention entries, and maybe just a little cooler weather between now and then!

Let's make this Convention and the year ahead one of our best yet!

Thank you for allowing me to represent you all in this wonderful community! And as always be kind.

Secretary's Report

NJWRC Secretary
Gail More
NJWRCsecretary@gmail.com

Hello Everyone!

This is the last Fluff Issue with me as your Club Secretary. Moving forward, our own wonderful Rose-Marie "Bunnie" Turley will be taking over as the Club Secretary. She comes with a wealth of knowledge and years of experience with both the breed and the NJWRC Club. You will be in good hands with her!

I have enjoyed being your secretary for the past 2 years, but it is time to hand over the reigns to someone else. Bunnie is retired and has more time to dedicate this position. I will still be working with her behind the scenes until she is ready to go solo! So please bear with us during this transition period!

I hope all those going to Reno have a great time at Convention! Maybe I will see you next year at Nationals in New York!

Thanks!

Gail

District 2...We are Connecting, Learning, and Sharing

District 2 has been busy this summer, and our Facebook Community Connection page has become a great place for Jersey Wooly breeders to connect, learn, share ideas, and—most importantly—have a little fun together!

One of the things I have really enjoyed seeing is the growing participation from both longtime breeders and newer members. The goal with the District 2 page is to make it more than just a place to post announcements. We want it to be a place where Wooly people can learn from one another, ask questions, share experiences, and build connections within our breed. Take a look at some of our recent happenings!

Learning Together Through Zoom

In July, we held a District 2 Zoom meeting focused on Jersey Wooly husbandry, and it was wonderful to have both newer and experienced breeders participate. Husbandry is one of those topics where everyone has something to contribute. Whether you have been raising Woolies for decades or are just getting started, there is always something new to learn—or a different way of looking at something you thought you already knew!

These informal Zoom meetings give us an opportunity to talk about the practical side of raising and breeding Jersey Woolies in a relaxed setting. We can discuss what is working, what isn't working, and the challenges that breeders are encountering in their own rabbitry. My hope is that we can continue offering these kinds of conversations throughout the year.

If you have a topic you would like to see discussed in a future District 2 Zoom, please let me know!

Let's Share and Evaluate Our Litters!

Our newest Facebook series is "Let's Share and Evaluate Our Litters," and I am super excited about this one.

The idea is simple: breeders share photographs and/or videos of a litter at various stages—from those adorable early days through the point when we must make the difficult decisions about which Juniors are keepers. Then, as a group, we can talk about what we see.

What makes this so valuable is that we aren't simply looking at cute baby pictures (although, let's be honest, there are PLENTY of those!). We are learning to evaluate our Juniors with an eye toward the Jersey Wooly SOP and toward our own breeding goals.

A breeder may see something in a Junior that another breeder misses. Someone else may notice a strength -or a weakness - that helps us look at our own litters differently. Discussing these things together can help all of us become better at evaluating type, balance, wool, head, ears, body, and overall presentation as our babies mature.

And perhaps most importantly, this series gives newer breeders an opportunity to see the evaluation process in action. Sometimes the hardest part of breeding is simply learning what to look for!

I hope this becomes an ongoing conversation where we all feel comfortable sharing our litters and asking questions. We are all learning, and there is tremendous value in being willing to look at our rabbits together.

Be an Ambassador for Our Breed!

We are also encouraging District 2 members to help introduce new people to the National Jersey Wooly Rabbit Club. We all know how easy it is to meet someone at a show, tell them about the national club, and then realize five minutes later that you can't remember the website or don't have a pen to write it down! To make that easier, we have shared a QR code on our District 2 page that can be used to quickly connect new Wooly enthusiasts with the national club. If you meet someone who is interested in Jersey Woolies, please be an ambassador for our breed and our club. Invite them into the community, point them toward the resources available through NJWRC, and encourage them to get involved. (See below for the QR code to share).

What's Next for District 2?

There is more to come! Between our online discussions, litter evaluations, show conversations, and opportunities to connect with other breeders, I hope District 2 continues to be a place where Wooly people feel welcomed and encouraged to participate. Plus we will be talking Convention do's and don'ts!

If you haven't joined us on the NJWRC District 2 Community Connection Facebook page, come find us! And if you've been watching from the sidelines, jump in - we'd love to hear from you.

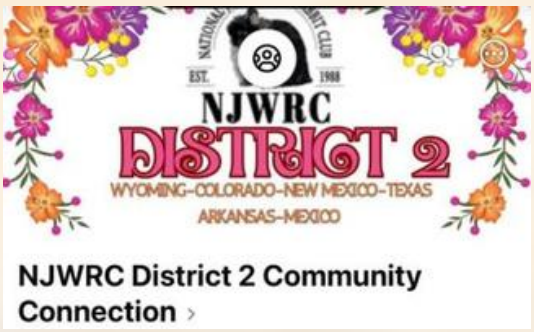

After all, one of the best things about this breed is that we don't have to figure it all out by ourselves. We can learn from one another, celebrate our successes, talk through our challenges, and hopefully produce some pretty spectacular Jersey Woolies along the way!

See you in District 2!
-JoAnna Snider Anderson
NJWRC District 2 Director

(I want to highlight as many of our District 2 members as possible so please send photos of your wins throughout the year! And if you get a moment--Please contribute to the District 2 Auction Basket for the NJWRC table at the 103rd ARBA Convention…our theme is posted below!)

Happy Back to School, District 3!

I hope everyone had a wonderful summer! It has been hot, hot, hot around here, and it doesn't look like we're getting a break anytime soon. Even with the heat, I'm getting excited for fall, cooler weather (eventually!), and most of all, getting back around the show tables with everyone.

We had a pretty special moment back in June when my son showed at his very first rabbit show. He jumped right in and came home with a BOSB in Open! I couldn't have been more proud of him.

Great job, Ohzie! I think we may have another rabbit exhibitor in the making!

Here's to a great school year and a fun, busy fall show season for District 3. I can't wait to see everyone out there!

Hello everyone! I hope everyone has been doing well and staying cool in this crazy heat!

ARBA Convention is right around the corner! I hope everyone's SRs are looking good and that you're getting those JRs' ages just right, so they aren't in their teenage uglies but also aren't too young.

Be sure you make a list of everything you need for ARBA Convention. It can get crazy and hectic, so try to stay as organized as possible. Trust me, it will make the whole experience a lot less stressful on you!

Also, make sure you bring plenty of hay, top dress, and electrolytes for those rabbits that may not be eating as well as they normally do. Traveling, a new environment, the noise, and the stress of Convention can sometimes throw them off their normal routine, so it's always better to be prepared.

We're getting close! Good luck to everyone getting ready!

Hello everyone! I hope that you all had a memorable summer filled with family, friends, and lots of fun. I can't believe that summer is almost over and the fall show season is about to begin. Here in District 7, we are in the middle of fair season. I hope many of you get to attend and enjoy your local county/state fairs.

This is a great time to give those cages a final summer deep cleaning so that your rabbits stay sparkling clean & healthy for the upcoming show season.

I can't believe that the ARBA Convention in Reno, NV is coming up in a little over 2 months! I hope to see many of you there. Soon, I will be contacting some of you about donating to the Golden Fleece Auction and Jersey Wooly Trio for convention. Don't forget we also have an application process to request a beautiful Jersey Wooly for the Golden Fleece Auction. We want to include as many of our wonderful breeders in our auction as possible.

D7 was well represented at the 2026 JW Nationals in Canton, OH. Our district was blessed to have Christy Przybylowski Botson win the top honor of Open Best of Breed with 3Bears She's All That (Allie). This was Allie's 3rd time winning Open BOB at a JW Nationals! Cody Landis was very excited to win Youth BOSB with AFB's Huron. Our other D7 members did absolutely amazing with their rabbits too!! Just like all of the other districts, we very lucky to have wonderful, very dedicated jersey wooly breeders in our district and I am so proud of their wins and accomplishments.

Rise - A Defining Characteristic of a Jersey Wooly

When Structure Becomes Type

When discussing the characteristics that define a Jersey Wooly, we often focus on features such as the head, ears, wool, compactness, and overall balance. However, there is a crucial structural element that significantly contributes to the breed's distinctive silhouette: the rise.

The rise is easy to explain, but its significance extends far beyond just describing the topline. It is where structure transforms into type.

The body of the rabbit features a gradual upward progression, starting from the shoulder and continuing to the highest point over the hindquarter. This is the rise. The rise influences the position of the highest point, how much body mass is located behind it, the curve of the hindquarter, and ultimately, how the entire rabbit looks from a profile view.

To fully understand the rise, one must look beyond merely the appearance of the topline and ask the question: Why does a Jersey Wooly have this particular silhouette in the first place?

The RISE Is Not the Entire Topline
It is important to distinguish between three terms that are often thought to mean the same thing: type, topline, and rise.

Type- refers to the overall physical structure and conformation of the rabbit. This includes the relationship between its body, head, shoulders, depth, width, hindquarters, proportions, and balance.

Topline- describes the upper contour created by this structure when the rabbit is viewed from the side.

Rise- a specific and significant part of the topline. IT refers to the upward slope that begins at the shoulder and continues to the highest point above the stifle.

RISE

While the rise contributes to the topline, and the topline contributes to the type, these terms are not interchangeable. Understanding this distinction is essential. If we focus solely on describing the finished topline, we may overlook the structural characteristics that contribute to the Jersey Wooly's distinctive shape.

From Skeleton to Silhouette
A Jersey Wooly may be covered in wool, but the wool does not form its skeletal structure. Beneath the coat lies the framework that determines how the rabbit carries itself and how its body flows from front to rear.

The rise of the body begins at the shoulder. From there, the body should gradually increase in height as it moves toward the hindquarter, reaching its highest point in relation to the stifle region. This rise should not appear as a sudden arch, nor should it remain level and then abruptly ascend. Additionally, the rabbit should not reach maximum height too early in the flow of its body. (Peaks early) Instead, there should be a smooth, progressive upward movement from the shoulder to the highest point. This gradual progression is what defines the rise, and understanding where that rise leads is extremely important.

Why the Location of the High Point Matters
Consider the body as a continuous structure. If the rise reaches its highest point too early, the rest of the body has nowhere to go but down (slopes), resulting in an early peak. Instead of continuing upward toward the hindquarter, the rabbit reaches its maximum height too far forward and begins to descend prematurely. This can create a slope behind the high point.

Although there may be plenty of height, it is in the wrong place. This is a crucial concept for breeders: a high topline does not necessarily indicate a correct rise. The progression and placement of the rise are what truly matter.
When the rise is properly aligned toward the hindquarters, there is enough body behind the high point to keep the hindquarters full and rounded, even towards the table. Thus, the rise affects much more than just the front half of the topline: it sets up the entire rear half of the rabbit.

What Happens When We Lose the Rise?
One of the best ways to understand the significance of a breed characteristic is to imagine the breed without it.

What happens if we flatten the rise of the Jersey Wooly? What if the back stretches horizontally from the shoulder and then suddenly gains height further back? What would occur if we shift the highest point forward? What happens if we exaggerate the shoulder to the point where the rabbit rises too abruptly?

Each of these changes alters the silhouette of the rabbit. When we make enough alterations to the silhouette, we begin to change the visual identity of the breed. This is why the rise should not be regarded merely as a line drawn across the top of a photo. The rise is an essential component of the structural language of the Jersey Wooly.

RISE

The Rise Creates Flow
A beautiful rise does not stand out as a separate part of the rabbit; instead, it creates a sense of flow. Your eye should be able to travel smoothly from the shoulder upward to the highest point without any interruptions. From there, the body seamlessly transitions into the fullness and roundness of the hindquarter.

Each part of the structure should work in harmony: Shoulder – Rise – High Point – Hindquarter. Each area prepares the eye for the next, contributing to a sense of balance.

The Shoulder Is More Important Than We Sometimes Realize
When discussing the rise of an animal, attention often focuses on the highest point. However, understanding this rise requires us to consider its beginning. The rise starts at the shoulder. If the shoulder does not provide the correct foundation, the rest of the topline cannot develop properly.

For example, a rabbit that remains flat from the shoulder through a significant portion of its back will not suddenly attain a correct rise just because it eventually reaches a high point. Similarly, an abrupt elevation immediately behind the head is not the same as a smooth, progressive rise.

The beginning is crucial because it sets the direction for the entire topline.

The Rise and the Hindquarter Are Connected
It can be tempting to evaluate the rise and hindquarter as two separate features. However, they actually tell a single, continuous story regarding structure.

The rise indicates how we reach the high point, while the hindquarter defines what happens after we arrive there. A correctly positioned high point allows for a full, rounded finish. If that high point is placed too far forward, the rear may begin to taper off too early. A flattened area behind the high point disrupts the continuous curve, and cutting the lower hindquarter inward leads to a loss of depth and fullness in the rear.

Consider this essential question: “How does the rabbit reach its high point, where is that high point located, and what occurs after we get there?”

Wool Can Create an Illusion
This becomes particularly important in a wool breed. A beautifully prepared coat can influence what our eyes perceive. Wool can visually fill a shoulder; it can soften a flat area; it can add apparent height; it can make a hindquarter look fuller. And it can sometimes make a structural transition appear smoother than it actually is.

This is why learning the rise requires more than learning to recognize a silhouette in a photograph.

Our hands must confirm what our eyes believe they see.
Feel the point where the shoulder begins and trace the structure upward to identify the highest point of the body. Then, move your hand over the hindquarters.

The question isn't just whether the wool forms a beautiful curve; it’s whether the rabbit underneath the wool actually creates that curve.

Pose Reveals Structure--It Should Not Manufacture It
Proper posing is essential when studying the rise of a rabbit. If you stretch a compact rabbit too much, its body may appear longer and flatter. Conversely, if you compress the rabbit excessively, you can create the illusion of greater height or a more dramatic curve. However, neither of these approaches provides useful information about the rabbit's actual structure. The aim of posing should be to showcase the rabbit's natural type, rather than to create a silhouette that doesnt't reflect reality. A correct rise should naturally result from the rabbit's structural characteristics.

Rise and Breed Identity
This may be the most important part of the discussion: Why should breeders care about rise? Breeds are defined not just by individual traits, but also by how those traits combine to create a recognizable whole. If we remove the characteristics that define a breed, a rabbit will eventually start to resemble something else. Wool alone does not make a Jersey Wooly; neither does a specific head shape, ear type, body length, or coat characteristic on its own. Breed identity comes from the complete package.

The rise plays a significant role in this package because it helps establish the shape and flow of the Jersey Wooly body. When we alter the rise, we change the silhouette. If a different silhouette is chosen repeatedly, we gradually change the type. As the type changes, the breed identity changes along with it.

That is why understanding the rise is not merely an exercise in learning terminology; it is essential for breed preservation.

Where Structure Becomes Type
The Jersey Wooly's rise begins with anatomy. Bone, muscle, proportion, shoulder structure, spinal alignment, pelvis, and hindquarter all contribute to what exists beneath the coat. But when those structures come together correctly, something more happens. They create a silhouette. That silhouette creates balance. And that balance contributes to the recognizable Jersey Wooly type.

That is where structure becomes type.
The rise is not the entire topline.

The topline is not the entirety of the type.

The rise is a crucial structural feature that defines the distinctive silhouette of the Jersey Wooly. As breeders, exhibitors, judges, and enthusiasts of the breed, we must recognize the importance of the rise and actively advocate for its recognition and preservation.

In conclusion, it is essential to understand why the rise exists, what creates it, what happens when we lose it, and why it deserves preservation. Preserving a breed is about more than just maintaining its name; it is about safeguarding the characteristics that make that breed unmistakably unique. The three defining characteristics are Head, Rise, and Texture.

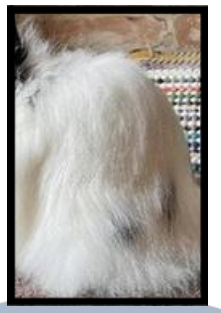

THE JERSEY WOOLY TOPLINE

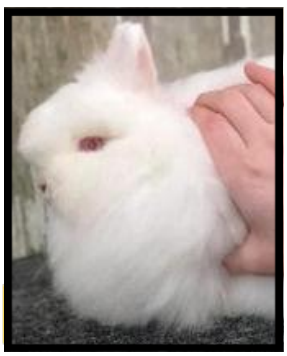

By: Meadow Sultan

The Jersey Wooly topline is the backbone of the Jersey Wooly type (pun intended!) The topline is the profile created by the rabbit's back when it is correctly posed. It reflects the relationship between the shoulders, loin, hips, and hindquarters and is one of the most important visual indicators of proper body type.

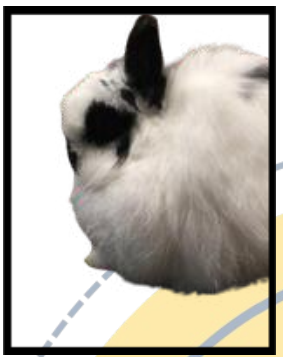

While we always evaluate Jersey Wooly type as a total package, the topline is the framework for almost all the parts of the rabbit. It is, in essence, the suspension point for the rabbit's overall type. Everything connects to the topline. Proper carriage and structure dictate the overall look of the animal. Let's look a little deeper into what a proper topline should look like.

Although the topline is the major factor in the overall outline of a Jersey Wooly, It has to start with proper support. That starts at the shoulder. A strong deep shoulder is essential to lift the spine off the table effectively.

Deep Shoulders

Low Shoulder

A deep, well-developed shoulder will lift the head off the table and allow a natural headset, allowing the spine to start at the right position. From the shoulder. The topline will rise slightly and continuously to a high point over the stifle.

From the point of the shoulder to the hip, the spine is the support system for the shoulders throughout the rib section. Having a strong, well-shaped topline supports the muscling and structure of wide shoulders and strong ribs with proper spring (width) to them. Strong, wide, well-set hips help in supporting the spine, creating a solid, deep body rather than a narrow or flat body. This is needed as the spine continues down through the hindquarters and all the way down to the table.

Let's Look Bone Deep

Image Created with AI

Although the skeletal image is not exact (it is an AI image), it was included to, hopefully, help everyone think on a deeper level, specifically, bone level, about the structure. It was added to give an idea of what a Jersey Wooly spine looks like. There should be a continuous, smooth line that rises, peaks, and gently curves from start to finish. Not a more pronounced rise like we see in a breed like a Mini Rex or a Polish. There should be no deviations from the natural flow of the spine.

The peak should be properly placed over the stifle and not before.

Where the peak should be.

THE TOTAL PACKAGE

Now that we have discussed the journey of the topline from start to finish, let's look at the complete picture.

A strong topline consists of several key components. To summarize, the Jersey Wooly's topline should begin with a strong, deep shoulder, rising gently to a peak that aligns with both the stifle and the eye, and ultimately rounding down to a full lower hindquarter. The Jersey Wooly topline is crucial, as it serves to unify all the parts together, and when the topline is right, the rest of the rabbit has the framework to create the classic outline that makes a Jersey Wooly unmistakable. The topline is, quite literally, the backbone of the Jersey Wooly type.

2026 Youth Nationals BOB Canton, Ohio

Makayla Wallock

Wow—what an incredible way to end my youth rabbit showing career!

I'm so honored to have won Youth Best of Breed (BOB) at the 2026 Jersey Wooly Nationals with my shaded senior doe, Darby. What makes this even more special is that Darby is the full sister to Dutton, who won the 2025 Youth Jersey Wooly Nationals. Watching brother and sister win back-to-back National titles is something I'll never forget.

I'm so proud of how far my shaded program has come. And when I say far, it's really far. It's honestly funny to think that this all started with me saying, "I'm never going to have shaded in my barn!" I originally got Porter from Dave Arnold's donation to the first youth only Golden Fleece Auction. My plan was to use Porter with my AOV program, and I never imagined that decision would lead me to where I am today. Now, here I am winning Nationals with the shaded babies that came from that foundation. Never say never, I guess! LOL. And I truly wouldn't be where I am today without Porter my foundation buck from Dave Arnold. Thank you for believing in me.

Darby and Dutton are my “Yellowstone” babies, named after one of my favorite TV shows. I’ve always loved what the Yellowstone brand represents—lifelong loyalty, family, and belonging. Those values mean so much to me because that’s exactly what my rabbit family represents. The people who have supported me, believed in me, helped me learn, and have been there through the highs and lows are truly part of my rabbit family.

So having a brother and sister named Darby and Dutton go on to win back-to-back Youth Nationals feels even more special. They represent not only my shaded program, but also the people and relationships that have helped me get here.

When it was time for judge Don Sheets to announce BOB and BOS, I had butterflies in my stomach. Hearing Darby being awarded BOB was such an unforgettable moment, and I'm incredibly grateful that he recognized her.

Thank you to everyone who has supported me throughout my youth career. This one means the world! And just like the theme of the 2026 Jersey Wooly National - it was out of this world

2026 Youth Nationals BOS
Canton, Ohio
Cody Landis

When my mom messaged me and told me that Huron won Youth Best Opposite of Breed at JW Nationals this year, I was so surprised and proud of him. I was also very sad I couldn't be there to see him win and celebrate. Due to my votech and work schedule, I couldn't take off to go to Nationals this year. It was especially hard since this was my last Nationals showing as a youth. I wish that I could have been there to see all of my friends. I miss you all. I am really looking forward to seeing many of you at convention in Reno this fall!! As of July 2026, Mom and I have combined our 2 JW herds and it will be our first convention showing our rabbits in Open together.

AFB's Huron has been an amazing show rabbit for me so far. He is a very friendly 2 year old broken black buck with 13 legs – 1 Open BIS, 1 Open RIS, 7 BOBs and 2 BOBSs. He is out of AFB's Panda Bear (broken black buck with 65 legs) x AFB's Cookie Monstah (a big broken siamese sable brood doe) which combines some of our best lines in his pedigree. He has great type, a big blocky head, nice open well furred ears, a very smooth topline and a full hindquarters all the way to the table. His coat drapes wonderfully, but I wish that he has just a few more guard hairs. We are hoping to get him into the breeding rotation this fall.

I wanted to say a HUGE THANK YOU to Keegan (aka my “little sister” LOL) for putting my rabbits up on the show table at JW Nationals since I couldn’t be there. It was really nice of you and you did a great job!! I’m glad that my Mom made you get in the picture with Huron. 😊

I want to congratulate all of the other winners at Nationals. And congratulations to Makayla Wallock on your Youth BOB win on your last year showing as a youth also. Everyone always has such beautiful Jersey Woolies and it is a huge honor to have had my rabbit picked as Youth Best Opposite of Breed.

8/2026
Hello NJWRC Members! I apologize in advance for the length of this article, but these are all important notes.

PLEASE READ – IMPORTANT PSA!

I'm unbelievably sorry for the delays throughout the season ending 6/30/2026. 2026 has been absolutely brutal, both personally and in sweepstakes. I want you to know I take this task very seriously and I think my track record prior to the past several months shows that. I can also assure you no one is more frustrated about it than I am. And at the same time, sometimes life has to take precedence.

As you may know, the Grand Champion program is on its last legs. In the wake of the announcement Grand Champion (Gesswein) wouldn't be going forward, many folks decided to take on the task of writing new show programs. The results are being met with mixed reviews. When you've worked with pretty much 3 programs (Grand Champion, ShowPro & Easy2Show) for years, and then new ones come on board, things get messy. Particularly due to having to do a lot of double-checking to be sure points are being calculated correctly. Some reports were processed 3 or more times due to finding errors and then waiting for corrections. On a personal level, life is, quite honestly, beating me up. I've never missed a Fluff deadline – ever – until this past one (Summer 2026). Dealing with errors, chasing late reports, etc., have led to everything taking longer than it should. I know there's mumbling out there about me, and honestly, I can't blame you. All I can do is try to assure you I take this gig very seriously and continue to spend every minute I can getting caught up. The points in this Fluff are shows through June 2026 for which reports were received in good order prior to 8/16/26. Are these final points?? Well, MAYBE. Keep reading!

The final cut-off for reports to be received for the 2025/2026 season is 9/1/2026.

Next item on my article agenda…

SWEEPSTAKES Continued

I am retiring from doing sweepstakes, effective at the end of the 2026/2027 season. I've been doing some manner of sweeps-ing for 20 years, having started with the Wisconsin State RBA – and during most of that time, I've been doing it for at least 2 clubs. It's time to let someone else have the 'fun!' As of the end of July, I have issued nearly 12,000 sanctions since the fall of 2014. This excludes the number of sanctions that were reissued over and over – and over [!!] during Covid & RHDV. That's a lot of sanctions, a lot of reports – lots of ink and paper, and pens. I started with the Mini Lop club July of 2011, adding in another 19,000 sanctions. I also gave them notice.

It's time! The decision isn't due to any one person nor event. But if I'm being completely honest, people & events do have an impact. While I understand the frustration of the past season, please remember there are real people with real feelings behind all of the results. I also strongly encourage anyone experiencing frustration to familiarize yourselves with sweepstakes rules, timelines and requirements of the job.

I started with the NJWRC nearly 12 years ago and it's been a lot of fun and an honor to have served the membership. I've consistently brought a personal touch that many national clubs don't have. I've loved doing it for as long as I have.

If you think you might be interested in the gig & have questions, please feel free to reach out.

Until next time (because you're still stuck with me for a while!),
-Nicole

Prepairing for Fun and Adventure!

Greetings to our Fluffy Fandom!

I hope everyone is super excited for ARBA Convention! I'm so ready to see so many friends from all around gathered in one place to share our love for our wonderful animals! There's nothing more satisfying than gathering with folks who have become our chosen family, swapping stories, lifting each other up, celebrating wins, and reconnecting with people we don't get to see very often. This is our time to shine as rabbit fanciers! This is our third space, a public place where we can socialize, especially with others who share our interests.

Many times, I feel like one of our little Jerseys at convention, busy scurrying around to take it all in without missing a thing, then later that day flopping out to recover! It's good to plan downtime during the day so we don't get TOO worn out. A great way to do that is volunteering for a booth-sitting shift with our club! All the fun of socializing, a bit to kick back with your feet up, plus you are giving back to the club! It's also a great way to welcome new folks into the fluffy fun.

I'm busy getting my lists together for prepping and packing. Nationals and Convention are a long way from home for me, but they're a wonderful way to see different parts of the country and get a break from the winter weather that sets in so early in Alaska. Another big part of vacation is making sure everyone at home is taken care of. This time things are a little easier, as my Handsome Husband is staying home, so I know all of the rabbits (and the pups) are in for normal times.

This brings up another thought for everyone:
What do you have prepared for emergencies? Do you have a hard copy of your animals' basic needs and how to care for them? Do you have someone with access who can care for them? No one likes to think about the scary things, but it's good to have a contingency plan. I like to refresh my plans annually before winter, since all sorts of things can go haywire in extreme cold. I have a good friend who cares for the animals when we are on vacation and has our spare keys, plus great in-laws who could also help in a pinch.

That network of folks who care about each other is so important for both emergencies and needed connection. These bonds strengthen our hearts and our networks. Looking forward to seeing you all soon!

Stay Fluffy my Friends!
