Quality Used Furniture

Drawing from 10 years of experience in integrating quality used furniture into our projects, we seamlessly combine high-quality second-hand items with new pieces. This allows us to create unique, innovative, and sustainable workspaces.

Choosing quality used furniture for your office has several environmental benefits, including:

- Reducing landfill waste
- Reducing the demand for new materials
- Reducing your carbon footprint
- Contributing to a circular economy

Opting for quality used furniture will prevent potentially several hundred tonnes of carbon emissions from being produced through the manufacturing process.

Upon completion of your project, we will provide you with a report documenting an estimate of the total carbon emissions you have saved.

We source only the best quality used furniture from trusted suppliers, often still within the manufacturer's warranty, ensuring that each piece is in excellent condition and meets the highest standards of functionality and safety. All second-hand items are fully assessed, serviced and cleaned before reuse. Additionally, we offer a one-year defects period on all quality used items to give you extra peace of mind.

Furniture Donation

Our furniture donation service enables businesses to repurpose their unwanted furniture by donating it to schools and charities, benefitting the community and reducing landfill waste.

We work closely with organisations that arrange the donation of unwanted office furniture and equipment to the charity sector. Donations can be received by businesses and schools to improve the wellbeing of their employees and students. Donating unwanted items also promotes sustainability and CSR in the local community.

There are currently over 5000 schools registered across the UK that are in need of donated furniture and other office items such as laptops, stationery and carpet tiles.

All donations will be documented as evidence towards your company's own sustainability and environmental goals.

Furniture Recycling

Our recycling service ensures that all waste materials are responsibly processed. Any unwanted or broken furniture that is unfit for reuse will be sent for recycling to one of our accredited partners.

At Broadbase, we adhere to a no-landfill policy, and recycling office furniture is our last resort. If unwanted furniture cannot be reused in its current condition, we will send it to our specialist recycling partners to start a rigorous product breakdown process. This process involves separating all important recyclable materials, including metals, plastics, wood, fabric, and foam.

All recycled furniture and IT items are fully certified and documented to meet all legislative duty of care requirements. We can also provide detailed breakdowns of the recycled materials for your own records.
