Thank You

The SuperBowl Cruise is where JetLife lets loose.

This is our fifth cruise — and if I'm being honest, it's the one I swore I would never do again. I said it out loud. I said it on a stack of Bibles. And yet, here we are.

Because my travelers asked. Not once, and not quietly — by popular demand, over and over, until "never again" turned into "okay, one more time, and this time we're doing it bigger."

That's the thing about this JetLife family: you don't let me play small. Every year you push me to create something more unforgettable than the last — and every year you show up and make it worth every ounce of effort.

And there's no better ship to do it on. Virgin Voyages is, hands down, the best cruise line on the ocean — meals cooked to order, live bands, world-class everything, and a grown, no-kids energy from the moment you step aboard. This isn't a cruise. It's a floating experience.

Running a travel agency has never been easy, but creating moments people remember for the rest of their lives has always made it worthwhile. And this one is special for one simple reason: it only exists because of you.

To every loyal traveler and every new guest setting sail with us — thank you, from the bottom of my heart.

I will give everything I have to make this one of the best experiences you have ever had.
