Chamber of Commerce A history of business stepping up

SINCE 1921, there has been a type of Chamber of Commerce in Plymouth, Michigan. Businesspeople came together to create prosperity and a better community. In the 1920s, they led the effort to rally local businesspeople to fund the Mayflower Hotel, built in 1927 to draw people here and create local prosperity.

The Chamber was more formalized in the 1954 letter of incorporation, which was filed to make it a public nonprofit entity. Through the years, the Chamber has focused on making Plymouth and Plymouth Township an attractive community that spurs people to live, work and visit our community.

As we celebrate the 250th anniversary of our country, I was honored to chair the 4th of July Parade Committee, along with committee members from the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs.

Just as the businesspeople rallied together to fund the creation of the Mayflower Hotel, I was able to get many new businesses to contribute to the 4th of July Parade—America 250. We easily raised 75 percent more than the past year.

At the time this publication is distributed, I will not know if it rained. Still, I will know that it had more acts, entertainment and decorations the committee put together than ever before to celebrate our country's milestone.

Another part of this publication is our annual membership directory. It gives all of you the opportunity to support local businesses that give back graciously to our community through the Chamber of Commerce and other local organizations.

A MESSAGE FROM

Passion for Parks

Plymouth's green spaces offer chances to engage, connect

In our hometown communities, such as the city of Plymouth, we understand the importance of city parks. They provide numerous benefits, including improving health, enhancing community engagement, stimulating economic growth, and supporting environmental sustainability.

Research shows that access to parks positively impacts both physical and mental well-being, creating healthier communities.

Parks are economic assets, attracting visitors and increasing property values while supporting local businesses for a thriving community.

Therefore, parks provide spaces for social interaction among community members, and strengthen neighborhood connections while fostering community engagement.

One of the attributes that makes the city of Plymouth such a special place to live is our extensive network of 16 parks and green spaces that provide opportunities for recreation, relaxation and connection with nature throughout our community. These treasured public spaces contribute to the character and charm of our city while supporting the health and well-being of residents of all ages.

The City Commission and city administration have remained focused on ensuring all city parks and green spaces receive ongoing maintenance, replacing aging or deteriorating playground equipment and enhancing accessibility so everyone can enjoy these community assets.

As part of this commitment, the City of Plymouth's Department of Municipal Services (DMS) has been working diligently over the past year alongside the City Commission, residents and the Plymouth Lions Club to develop a renovation plan for Lions Club Park. We anticipate beginning construction in summer or fall 2026, with the total project estimated at $370,000. The Plymouth Lions Club will contribute $150,000 toward the renovations, reinforcing its legacy of community service and strengthening its partnership with the park that proudly carries the organization's name.

This collaborative investment represents another step forward in preserving, enhancing and modernizing Plymouth's parks for current and future generations.

Moreover, in May 2026, we launched public engagement efforts for the future renovation of Rotary Park. It was encouraging to see residents attend and share their ideas, priorities and vision for the park's future. Like the enhancements completed at Kiwanis Park and the planned improvements at Lions Club Park, the Rotary Park project is being developed through a collaborative public-private partnership. The Plymouth Rotary Club has committed to supporting the project and will contribute $120,000 toward the renovation, reinforcing its longstanding commitment to community service and investment in Plymouth's public spaces.

These partnerships demonstrate what we can accomplish when organizations, residents and local government work together to create lasting improvements that benefit generations to come.

Moments like these remind us that parks serve many purposes beyond recreation—they are places for relaxation, reflection and connection.

As planning continues, we encourage residents to stay engaged through upcoming online updates and interactive opportunities to provide feedback. Thoughtful planning takes time, and community input remains a critical part of the process.

We are currently anticipating completing the planning and design process and beginning renovations in spring 2027 for Rotary Club Park. Together, we can help ensure Rotary Club Park grows into a space that reflects the needs and aspirations of our community for years to come.

We are very thankful that businesses, corporations, foundations, and residents are beginning to reach out, wanting to be involved both physically and philanthropically. Please contact City Manager Chris Porman if you would like to support our parks through volunteer efforts or philanthropic contributions.

As mayor, I take pride that the Commission is transparent while ensuring we provide consistent communication with our residents. This includes hosting engagement opportunities such as Conversations with the Citizens, Committee of the Whole meetings and other public forums.

We look forward to seeing you at one of our upcoming meetings.

Regards,

Linda Filipczak
Mayor

One Customer, One Family, One Moment

Jacob Matthew Jewelers wants to be there for your special occasions

JEWELRY often marks life's most meaningful moments – a graduation, an engagement, a wedding, an anniversary. It could be a family heirloom passed from one generation to the next. For many people, the process can feel hard to navigate.

At Jacob Matthew Jewelers, we believe purchasing or repairing jewelry should feel personal, educational and meaningful. That's why we guide each customer through the process with care, transparency and expertise. With advice and consultation, you can then make an informed decision confidently.

"It's not just a purchase or repair to us at Jacob Matthew Jewelers," said owner Tammy Haggerty. "We want to establish a relationship for generations to come. Our favorite thing to see is a young man who starts buying for mom, then a girlfriend. That girlfriend may then turn into his wife, and then comes baby! We enjoy growing with their family and experiencing their joy."

Whether designing a custom piece, restoring a treasured family heirloom or helping someone celebrate a milestone, our focus extends beyond the jewelry itself – we focus on the story behind it.

With almost a decade in business, Jacob Matthew Jewelers has built a reputation of not only expertise and trust, but also of exceptional customer service and a deep commitment to our community. We are invested in our neighbors and community in both Canton and Plymouth, as well as surrounding areas.

"We view Canton and Plymouth as one community," Haggerty said. "Our schools work collectively on one campus. We as a store are fluidly involved in each town's events and celebrations."

Haggerty sits on the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce board to further her commitment to businesses and residents in the community.

Jewelry matters because the moment matters. Every piece represents a relationship, memory, celebration or milestone. One customer, one family, one meaningful moment at a time.

Finlan Insurance Agency

More than a century of relationships in Plymouth

By Pamela MacIntyre

FOR 110 years, Finlan Insurance Agency has been helping individuals, families and businesses protect what matters most. As Plymouth's oldest continuously operating business, the agency has built its reputation on personal service, trusted relationships and a commitment to the community it calls home.

Founded in 1916 by Charles L. Finlan, the agency has spent more than a century helping clients navigate life's uncertainties while building relationships that often span generations. Today, Finlan Insurance Agency remains independently owned, allowing its advisors to focus on finding solutions that fit each client's unique needs.

Leading the agency today is President and Owner Kasey Kohn, who joined the family business in 2017 after building her own professional career. She represents the next generation of leadership at Finlan Insurance, taking the reins from her father, who spent decades serving clients and helping guide the agency's growth.

While the insurance industry has changed dramatically over the years, the agency's commitment to relationships, integrity and personal service has remained unchanged.

"We're not just selling insurance," Kohn said. "We're educating people, guiding them through important decisions, and helping them understand their options."

That educational approach has become increasingly important as insurance products and regulations continue to evolve. Whether working with a family purchasing a first home, a business owner evaluating commercial coverage or individuals planning for the future, the team takes time to help clients understand their options and make informed decisions.

Many clients have trusted Finlan Insurance Agency for decades, relying on the agency for home, auto, commercial, life, health and specialty insurance coverage. Those long-standing relationships are a source of pride for Kohn and her team, who believe trust is earned through consistency, communication and follow-through.

One of the most common misconceptions Kohn encounters is the belief that better coverage always comes with a significantly higher price tag. She said the right guidance can often help clients find both stronger protection and better value.

As an independent agency representing multiple insurance carriers, Finlan Insurance can compare options and recommend coverage based on a client's specific needs.

The agency's commitment extends beyond insurance. Finlan Insurance has long been active in the Plymouth community through organizations including Rotary, Kiwanis, the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce and numerous local charitable initiatives. The agency's team believes supporting the community is simply part of being a good neighbor and local business.

"Being locally owned matters," Kohn said. "We live here, our families are here and we're invested in the future of this community."

That community-minded culture extends throughout the office. Kohn credits the agency's dedicated staff for helping create an environment focused on service, collaboration and genuine care for clients. Their experience and commitment have helped the agency maintain the trust of generations of families and businesses throughout the area.

Looking ahead, growth remains a priority but not at the expense of the values that have defined the agency for more than a century. Kohn believes sustainable success comes from maintaining strong relationships, honoring commitments and continuing to provide the personalized service clients have come to expect.

"When we tell a client we're going to do something, we do it," she said. "That's how trust is built."

More than a century after opening its doors, Finlan Insurance Agency continues to demonstrate that while the insurance industry may evolve, the importance of integrity, personal relationships and community involvement remains timeless.

A Great American Tradition

The Chamber of Commerce is alive and well in Plymouth

By Wes Graff, President, Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce

FROM the earliest days of the United States, long before the country had a formal economic system or national infrastructure, local business owners understood something essential: communities thrive when people work together. That belief gave rise to one of America's oldest and most influential civic institutions — the Chamber of Commerce.

A Brief History of Chambers in America

The first Chamber of Commerce in the United States was founded in 1768 in New York City, created by merchants who wanted a unified voice in shaping trade, transportation and local policy. They were primarily interested in having a unified voice to protest the Stamp Act imposed on them by England. As the nation grew, so did the Chamber movement. By the mid 1800s, chambers had become fixtures in towns and cities across the country, serving as hubs of economic development, advocacy and community-building.

Chambers played a role in everything from establishing fair business practices to supporting infrastructure projects, promoting tourism, and helping businesses navigate changing economic landscapes. They became trusted conveners by being the place where business owners, civic leaders and others could come together to strengthen their local economy and improve the quality of life.

At their core, chambers of commerce have always embodied three values: collaboration, community leadership and a commitment to local prosperity.

How the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Embodies That Legacy

Here in Plymouth, that historic spirit is alive and thriving.

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce reflects the classic American chamber model while giving it a distinctly local heartbeat. It champions the small businesses that define Plymouth's charm, supports the entrepreneurs who bring new energy to the community and creates spaces where people can connect — whether at a bustling after-hours event, a welcoming coffee connection or a beloved community tradition like the farmers market.

In the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, those essential elements of the chamber remain at the core of the organization, but with many modern twists.

- Community promotion: We promote the community and members every day, but it is Facebook — with our 40,000 followers — that has become our number one promotional tool over the past 15 years. You can follow us at Plymouth/Plymouth Township, Michigan. We regularly post twice a day, and it is connected to our Instagram page by the same name.

- Networking: We provide many opportunities for members to connect at networking events, like After Business Hours to Morning Coffee Connections, but we find businesspeople also want smaller group and niche opportunities to network. Over the past few years, we have formed women's groups, men's groups, young professionals, and emerging leaders.
- Gift cards: Each year, we sell over $200,000 in gift cards that can be used at 135 local businesses. It has become a favorite gift for teachers, coaches, employee appreciation, and holidays. While most people still come into the office to purchase them, they are also sold online through our website at plymouthmich.org.
- Advocating for local businesses: We meet each year with our congressional representative, state senators and representatives, township supervisor, city mayor, and other elected officials and key government employees to discuss issues important to the business community. Just this year, we had the Plymouth Downtown Development Authority give a special presentation and get feedback from our Board of Directors about their streetscape project for Downtown Plymouth, which was just finalized.
- Enhancing our quality of life: Chambers differ on what they emphasize depending on the needs and structure of their community. In Plymouth, we are where community meets commerce. We know the charm of our attractive community is the calling card for Plymouth City and Township. We do our part by hosting the farmers market, the Showcase and Taste of Plymouth, Pumpkin Palooza, plus the Christmas trees, scarecrows and spring floral decorations in Kellogg Park. There are also many other community events, like the Fourth of July parade, which we take an active role in every year.

In an era of rapid change, the role of chambers of commerce remains as relevant as ever. And in Plymouth, that tradition isn't just preserved — it's energized. The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce stands as a modern expression of an American legacy of businesses lifting each other up, and a community growing stronger through connection.

Thank You FOR MAKING THE

THIS year is special in our country as we celebrate the 250th anniversary of the founding of the United States. In recognition of this milestone, Plymouth held its biggest Fourth of July parade in many years.

With a 75 percent surge in funding from sponsors, the parade was able to have more entertainment, music, veterans, and floats. Rick Schubatis from the planning committee even arranged for a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter to fly over! We are grateful they joined the parade to make it even more spectacular.

Our goal was to create a parade for America's 250th birthday that was fitting for our classic American Main Street, which would make our community proud.

Listed are the sponsors and the planning committee who made this year's parade possible!

The Hidden Middle

When your loved one isn't 'bad enough' – but isn't safe, either

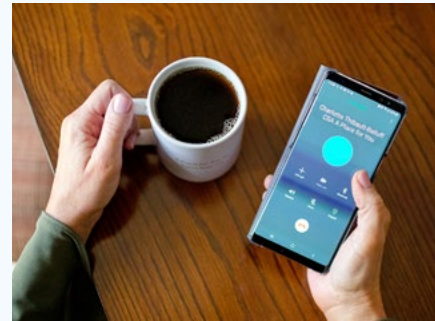

ONE of the most common things I hear from families is: "Something just doesn't feel right... but I'm not sure it's bad enough yet."

This is what I call the "hidden middle." Your loved one may still be living at home and managing most things on their own, but small changes are starting to show.

Maybe they're forgetting medications, missing appointments, not eating well, or becoming more isolated. On their own, these may not seem serious, but together they can signal that extra support is needed.

Many families wait to act because they don't want to overstep or cause worry. Others aren't sure what help even looks like at this stage. Unfortunately, waiting often leads to a crisis like a fall or hospitalization, when decisions become more urgent and limited.

The good news is that support doesn't have to mean a major change. Simple steps like a few hours of in-home care, help with medications or small safety adjustments can make a big difference. These early supports can help someone stay safe and independent much longer.

Some subtle signs to look for that may signal it's time for extra support:

- Forgetting medications or mixing them up
- Missed appointments or confusion about schedules
- Changes in hygiene or housekeeping
- Skipping meals or noticeable weight loss
- Recent falls or close calls at home
- Withdrawal from social activities or hobbies

If you're noticing changes, it may be time to start exploring options. Early guidance can ease stress and help your family make thoughtful, informed decisions, before they become urgent.

If you're not sure where to begin, call (734) 447-7590. I'm available as a resource to help you navigate next steps.

The Wait is Over

New library improvements provide families space to explore and connect

PLYMOUTH District Library patron Mohammed Marini is only 4 years old, but he already knows what it's like to wait for something exciting. Mohammed's family regularly visits the library for Storytime and other programs, and for the past nine months they have patiently (mostly!) watched the progress of a major addition to the youth floor: a woodland-themed playspace.

"We were watching through the plastic barrier each week in anticipation," said Mohammed's mother, Amal. "The new play area is great because the kids love to move and use their imaginations. So when we come, they do some playtime and then we enjoy all of this [indicating the books, puzzles and manipulative toys]."

The playspace officially opened June 10 with a grand re-opening celebration and ribbon cutting. Before the public debut, Mohammed and his sister Aseel (3) were among the first children to explore it during a sneak-peek trial run. Asked what they liked best, Aseel chose the sleeping fox hidden in a burrow. Mohammed's answer was broader: "Everything!"

That "everything" includes a giant climbable tree with a slide, mounds and balance beams for active play, a dedicated area for infants and an integrated workspace where caregivers can supervise while they work. Additional play features, funded by Friends of Plymouth District Library, will be added in the coming weeks.

Youth Services Coordinator Lauren Baker explained why play belongs in a library:

"Playspaces are important in libraries because they transform the library from a place that stores information into a place where families gather to explore and connect. Through play, children develop language, problem-solving and social skills. This new magical space will help the library continue to be an engaging place where learning is accessible and inclusive, and where caregivers can connect and support each other."

The playspace opening marked the completion of a year-long library renovation, funded through planned savings and investment. While new carpet, paint and furniture create a fresh, modern atmosphere, Library Director Shauna Anderson emphasized that the project was about more than appearances.

"Our plan was very much future-focused and centered on positioning PDL for the ways the community uses the library today," Anderson said.

Highlights include expanded areas for reading, individual study and group collaboration; a reimagined technology commons; improved access to natural light; and environmentally conscious upgrades to HVAC, lighting, and technology infrastructure.

For Mohammed and Aseel, however, the most important thing is that the wait is finally over.

"We've been coming here since Mohammed was an infant, and the library just keeps getting better," Amal said. "I'm glad that I had the opportunity to see the youth floor before and after, to really appreciate the change."

If you haven't been to the library recently, now is a great time to visit. While you're there, be sure to sign up for the library's all-ages Summer Reading program and enjoy weekly reward coupons from generous local business sponsors.

Proven Patriots

Plymouth's DAR chapter aptly named, continues to exemplify important values

By Elizabeth Kerstens and Ellen Elliott

THE National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) was founded in Washington, D.C., in October 1890. The society consists of women descendants of proven patriots of the American Revolutionary War.

The DAR came to Plymouth when the Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter was organized here on December 13, 1926, with 24 charter members. Recognizable names among the chapter charter members include Mary Starkweather Hillmer and her two daughters Rose and Gertrude; Harriet Hill Wilcox; and Ruth Shattuck.

When it came to naming the chapter, they were cautioned against selecting any ancestors of members. Under early consideration were Keziah Benjamin Starkweather, Hannah Howard, Rosetta LeGros, and Fort Shelby in Detroit.

Ultimately the chapter chose to be named after Sarah Ann Cochran for several reasons. Sarah had at least five Revolutionary War patriot ancestors on both sides of her family. After moving with her family to Northville when she was 11, she taught at the Northville Academy founded by her father, Sylvester Cochran, until the late 1850s. When chapter members visited the Burton Historical Collection at the Detroit Public Library, staff members recommended Sarah, who had been the second assistant librarian there. Her legacy was the cataloguing of the library using the Dewey Decimal System.

Sarah worked at the library from 1883 until 1906 and trained many of the staff. She was described as "a reserved, dignified, resourceful woman with a keen intellect" by contemporary chief of staff Gracie Krumm. Sarah died in 1917.

Chapter members "pay homage to ... patriot ancestors through volunteer work in historic preservation, education, and patriotism," according to its website.

One of their first acts in 1927 was to place a bronze tablet on the new Mayflower Hotel, recognizing it as the location of the first home in the Plymouth settlement. They continued their service by sending boxes of yarn and sewing materials to immigrants detained at Ellis Island in New York and boxes of clothing to southern mountain schools. They also honor patriots and local dignitaries by commemorating their graves with a metal DAR marker.

Sarah Ann Cochran's grave at Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville was marked by the chapter in May 1949.

A national focus of DAR is on education. Chapters are encouraged to donate to rural schools and to run essay contests for good citizenship and history. The local chapter has a literacy committee that collects new and used books and donates an average of 750 books a year to low-income pre-school and kindergarten-aged children.

Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter members are "a vibrant and diverse group of women who share a common bond of having an ancestor who helped secure American independence."

The Plymouth Historical Museum is spotlighting Michigan history during 2026, with two special exhibits celebrating the 250th anniversary of the U.S. The first highlighted the years 1776 to 1900; the second focuses on the years 1900 to 2026 and runs July 1-November 1.

The Museum is located at 155 S. Main Street in Plymouth and is open Wednesday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday 1-4 p.m. Admission is $7 for adults and $3 for children 6-17.

In 1927 the DAR placed a bronze plaque (circled) on the Mayflower Hotel marking it Plymouth's first home in the settlement.

Lifelong biker Harold 'Chip' Jacobs still rides through life his own way

By Ryan M. Place

If you've spent time around old Plymouth garages or welding shops, chances are you've crossed paths with Harold "Chip" Jacobs. Equal parts mechanic and road warrior, Chip carries decades of Plymouth history with him.

"I've lived my whole life around engines, tools and motorcycles," he said with a laugh. "That sums it up."

Born in Pontiac in 1953, Chip spent his earliest years at Dixie Highway and Andersonville Road in Waterford. His grandparents, Louis and Jennie Dorman, owned the famous Old Mill Tavern next door.

In 1956, he moved to Plymouth when his father purchased a home in the newly built Parkway Heights subdivision on Northville Road at Hines Drive.

"My dad was one of the original owners there," Chip said. "Back then Plymouth was quieter, smaller, everybody knew everybody."

Chip still remembers landmarks long gone, including the old Thunderbird Inn on Northville Road, which later became a Hilton Hotel and is now Independence Village senior living.

"The Thunderbird became the Hilton Inn about 1972," he said. "It was across from McAllister's Grocery. People around Plymouth still talk about it."

Chip attended Starkweather Elementary, Farrand Elementary, West Junior High, East Junior High and Plymouth High School before graduating from Salem High School in 1971, during the school's very first year open.

"The Plymouth schools had some really good teachers," he said. "I especially remember Mr. Grinenko in fifth-grade gym class. He carried a paddle called Rosco everywhere."

Work came early. In 1965, Chip landed his first job at Bonded Beauty on Northville Road cleaning tires.

"They gave me an old motorcycle when I was about 12," he said. "I rode it home and my dad absolutely lost his mind."

That motorcycle obsession never left. Over the years, Chip worked at Karl's Cabin when it was still a general store and gas station, then became a top welder at Bathy Manufacturing before joining Mesker of Detroit and others at the Plymouth Industrial Center. There, he rose from welder to millwright to general foreman, helping build machines and tools connected to the racing world.

"We built equipment for ARCA race cars and spent time down at Flat Rock Speedway," he said. "That was a blast."

Chip also drove a ladder truck for the Plymouth Township Fire Department's Station No. 2, because of his experience handling semis. He recalled the old P&A Theatre fire.

"I liked helping people," he said. "And honestly, I liked driving the big trucks."

Through it all, motorcycles remained his great passion. Chip has ridden since childhood and especially loves long-distance touring on his 2000 Honda Goldwing 1500, traveling to Sturgis and across the Midwest.

"There's nothing like being out on the open road," he said. "That's freedom."

At home, Chip enjoys building vehicle model kits, collecting knives and American silver dollars.

"Around 2000, I met the king, Richard Petty, at Daytona," he said. "Two weeks later, he mailed me a box of two different colors of Petty Blue and fluorescent orange paint for my model car of his. What a guy."

Chip reminisces about trips to Mackinac Island and Maui with his late wife, Sandy. Married for 52 years, Sandy remained the center of his life until her passing.

"The last few years, I took care of her at home every day after her stroke," he said quietly. "You do that for the people you love."

Today, Chip still calls Plymouth home and still rides whenever he can.

"I've watched Plymouth grow and change for 70 years," he said. "It'll always be home to me."

Let's build something together!

Nicole's TLC Cleaning

Celebrating 30 Years of Trusted Professional House Cleaning

THIS year marks a major milestone for Nicole's TLC Cleaning, with the business celebrating 30 years of providing reliable, high-quality house cleaning services to the local community.

What began as a small cleaning business three decades ago has grown into a trusted company known for professionalism, consistency and care.

Despite the business' growth it remains client-focused, and its 30th anniversary celebrates not only its longevity but the relationships it has built along the way.

"From day one, our mission has been simple: to treat every home with the same care and respect we would our own," said owner Nicole Bernath.

Nicole began Nicole's TLC Cleaning as an independent venture in 1996. Through hard work and a commitment to quality, the business steadily grew, allowing her to assemble a trusted team to support her vision.

Since its start, Nicole's TLC Cleaning has provided its top-notch services to thousands of clients, many of whom rely on its services week after week, year after year.

Bernath believes that trust is essential when it comes to homeowners inviting cleaning services into their homes, which is why every cleaning technician is fully insured and bonded, providing clients not only peace of mind, but also protection.

"I want our customers to know that they are working with a professional business that prioritizes safety, accountability and integrity," Bernath said.

Nicole's TLC Cleaning invests in ongoing training to ensure its technicians use best practices, professional techniques and efficient cleaning methods.

Throughout the years, as both the cleaning industry and clients' expectations have evolved, Nicole's TLC Cleaning has grown with these changes by improving processes, adopting new tools and refining its services.

"While we've embraced growth and innovation, our focus on personalized service has never changed," Bernath said. "We understand every home is different and we take time to tailor cleaning services to each client's preferences, schedules and priorities."

Serving the Canton, Plymouth, Novi, Northville and Livonia areas with services from deep cleaning and recurring cleaning to move in/ move out cleaning and office cleaning, Nicole's TLC Cleaning is well equipped to take on jobs of all kinds.

Safety is also a priority for the business, and in 2005 they launched its own 100 percent natural, eco-friendly, non-toxic alternative cleaner. In addition to the non-toxic cleaner, Nicole's TLC Cleaning uses HEPA filter vacuums and microfiber cloths to eliminate the chance of cross contamination.

Dedicated to quality, the business also has a field supervisor who conducts quality control inspections, randomly checking homes that her team has cleaned, ensuring they meet the high standards Bernath is committed to.

"We are committed to upholding the values that inspired us in the early days," said Bernath, emphasizing their commitment to giving back to the community.

Since 2009, Nicole's TLC Cleaning has partnered with the nonprofit organization Cleaning for a Reason and provides two consecutive free cleanings to anyone undergoing cancer treatments.

With 30 years under its belt, the future still looks bright for Nicole's TLC Cleaning.

"As we celebrate this milestone, we want to thank our loyal clients, dedicated team members and community partners who have supported us along the way," Bernath said.

Plymouth Dental Associates

Generations of Care, Built on Trust

By Pamela MacIntyre

FOR generations, Plymouth Dental Associates has been a familiar part of the Plymouth community, caring for families throughout Plymouth, Livonia and neighboring areas. Over the years, the practice has earned a reputation for building lasting relationships and providing care that keeps patients coming back decade after decade.

Today, the practice is led by co-owners Dr. Steven J. Olds and Dr. Edward A. Van Esley, alongside associate dentists Dr. Margaret M. Stanhouse and Dr. Megan A. Width. Together, they continue a tradition of personalized care while embracing advancements that enhance the patient experience.

That commitment is reflected in the loyalty of the practice's patients. Many families have trusted Plymouth Dental Associates for multiple generations, with grandparents, parents and children all receiving care from the same office. Some former residents even continue returning to the practice long after moving away.

For Dr. Olds and Dr. Van Esley, dentistry is about more than procedures. Both enjoy helping patients achieve their oral health goals while building relationships that often last for years. Whether restoring a damaged tooth, improving a smile or helping a patient feel more confident, they find fulfillment in making a positive impact on people's lives.

Those relationships are one of the reasons many patients remain with the practice for decades. The team takes pride in creating an environment where patients feel known and valued.

The practice recently completed a renovation of its office, creating a more modern, open and inviting environment for patients while preserving the welcoming atmosphere they have come to expect. The updates were designed to enhance comfort while supporting the needs of a growing practice that continues to serve families across the region.

At the same time, Plymouth Dental Associates continues to invest in technology that improves both efficiency and patient care. Digital scanning has replaced many traditional impressions, providing a more comfortable experience for periodontist who work closely with the dental team, allowing treatment plans to be coordinated under one roof. This collaborative approach helps streamline care while offering added convenience for patients.

Plymouth Dental Associates provides evening and weekend appointment options designed to accommodate busy schedules. The practice participates with multiple insurance plans, accepts CareCredit and offers an in-office membership plan for patients without traditional dental coverage.

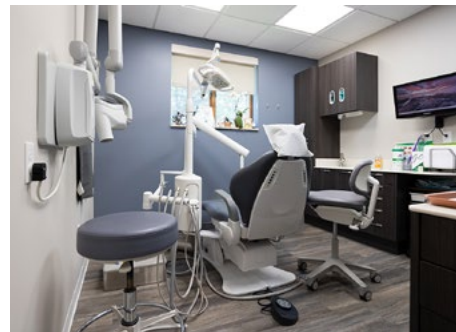

While technology continues to evolve, the dentists maintain a conservative approach to treatment recommendations. Their focus remains on providing honest guidance and helping patients make informed decisions about their care.

Beyond the office, Plymouth Dental Associates remains actively involved in the community through school partnerships, sponsorships, charitable giving and support for local organizations and events. The team believes that being a part of the community means giving back to the people and organizations that help make Plymouth a vibrant place to live.

As the practice looks ahead, its mission remains rooted in the values that have guided it for generations: quality care, trusted relationships and a commitment to serving the community.

For many local families, Plymouth Dental Associates is more than a dental office. It is a place where familiar faces, trusted care and long-standing relationships continue to bring generations together.

Plymouth Dental Associates is located at 42801 Schoolcraft. Visit www.plymouthdental.com or call (734) 420-2326 for more information.

patients. An in-house milling unit allows many crowns to be designed and completed in a single visit, reducing the need for multiple appointments.

Comprehensive care is another hallmark of the practice. Patients have access to an oral surgeon and

Looking to Soar

Salem high jumper intent on accomplishing goals

By Terry Jacoby

WHEN Liam Reynolds was a sophomore, his interest in the high jump took a giant leap after jumping all the way to the MHSAA State Finals. Ever since then the Salem senior has been dedicated to becoming one of the best in the state, and that's exactly where he has landed.

As a freshman at Salem, Reynolds' best was 5 feet, 8 inches.

"The next year I went 6-2 and that was my breakout year," he said. "I had a big PR from 5-8 to 6-2 at regionals and went to states for the first time. That was the year I got really serious with high jump."

Reynolds finished top 10 at the MHSAA Division 1 Track and Field State Finals last year at East Kentwood High School. He landed tied for ninth with a jump of 6-3.

Finishing top 10 as a junior was a "rewarding" experience for the Salem athlete.

"I was content with it," he said. "Towards the end of the year I got into a bit of a slump, which made it feel a little worse since I knew I could've done better there. But top 10 is exceptional and I used that to motivate me."

Let's jump back to the beginning.

"I started in eighth grade when I did track for the first time," he said. "I ended up doing it because I was already pretty good at jumping because I wanted to dunk a basketball. The biggest challenge early on was figuring out what exactly I was doing wrong in my form, and making the adjustment in real time. When you jump, you're barely in the air for even a second and have to make so many small movements so it's very difficult to fix issues."

Fixing those issues comes through hard work and dedication.

"For me, practicing jumps and watching videos of them has helped me the most," Reynolds said. "You can break down what you're doing wrong much easier. Leg training to increase your vertical is also key because it's very important to be able to actually get off the ground a bit."

Reynolds wants to get off the ground and land back at the state finals. This season, Reynolds was first overall and went 6-6 at the St. Francis Knight Relays on May 1. He also went 6-4 in the opening meet against Brighton on April 14.

"My goal this year is to win," he said. "I'm tied for top three marks in the state so I'm definitely capable of accomplishing my goal. I just need to make sure that I execute when the time comes."

Reynolds also was a key contributor to the Salem basketball team. The Rocks went 16-8 this past season, a huge improvement from the previous year.

"Of our 13 guys this year, 12 were returning so we all knew how to play with each other and we had major improvements because of it," said Reynolds, who was usually the sixth man coming off the bench and led the team in steals and field-goal percentage.

Liam, 17, is the son of Marvin and Katie Reynolds and has a 3.6 GPA. He is heading to Michigan State University in the fall, where he will study mechanical engineering.

"I picked MSU because that is where my close friends are going and it has also been my favorite college since elementary school," he said. "I don't have any plans to do high jump in college but that may change later. Despite that, I don't plan on letting go of high jump completely. I will still try to find somewhere I can improve and continue to work."

Helping Your Teen Navigate Friendships

By Tracy Willis

So much of middle school and high school drama revolves around friendships. When your child reaches their teen years, friends can morph from besties into enemies, seemingly overnight. The desire to fit in with a social group comes with tons of pressure. Add social media into the mix, and friendships can feel like tiptoeing through a minefield.

Navigating the ups and downs of adolescent friendships is a rite of passage. How can you help your child manage the drama?

Begin by helping your teen think about the qualities they value in their current friends. What traits do they exemplify? Point these characteristics out when you see them in other people. Encourage them to seek friends who have the qualities they value.

Next, teach your teen to recognize the trouble signs in friendships. Discuss dysfunctional friendship patterns like one-sidedness, jealousy, competitiveness, or exclusion. Help your teen build emotional awareness: how does the friendship make you feel? Do you feel unsure or unsupported when you're around a certain friend? A big part of navigating friendships for teens is learning that they deserve to be treated well within the relationship.

Boundaries. It's a popular word that seems to be everywhere lately. It's the foundation of healthy friendships and relationships. Reassure your child that it's okay to assert themselves, to say "no" to friends, and to communicate honestly about their own limits and to respect the limits of others.

And finally, talk openly with your teen about rejection and exclusion. They're a normal aspect of life that everyone deals with. Let them know that rejection doesn't define their worth. It may feel like it does, but that's a normal feeling, too. There's nothing wrong with asking for support when those big feelings well up.

Even if you talk with your child about their friendships until you're blue in the face, chances are they will still ride the friendship rollercoaster. Pay attention to your teen's behaviors:

- Are they withdrawing from social situations?
- Do they seem sadder or irritable after social commitments or time on social media?
- Are they complaining frequently about certain friends?
- Are they engaging in negative self-talk?

Tuning into your teen on a regular basis will help you know when they need more support, as well as the level of support they might need.

Most of us have cringy teen memories about our own over-involved parents. Giving the right amount and type of support feels like riding a bucking bronco at the rodeo. Here are some things to avoid while you're riding that bull:

1. Don't minimize their feelings or qualify them as being "right" or "wrong."
2. Avoid criticizing their friends. Remember, a week from now, they might be besties again. Criticism makes communication shut down when your teen becomes defensive.
3. Don't pry. This is a hard one. You want to know the ins and outs of the situation, but your teen is learning to be independent. Respect their boundaries (it's how they learn to have boundaries themselves).
4. You're not a friendship mechanic. Don't try to fix it unless there are extreme circumstances. Leaping in with your relationship wrench undermines your child's confidence.

It's hard to watch your child struggle. Remind your teen that facing challenges is about growth. They might not have it all figured out yet, but they're moving in the right direction.

I Lost my Side Vision – Can You Help?

Ask the Doctor

Q: I had a stroke a year and a half ago and lost my side vision on both of my eyes. I continuously bump into things on my left side. Also, it is so difficult for me to read because I keep losing my place. My eye doctor says I can see, but I find it very confusing. He said that my side vision won't miraculously return and there is nothing else that can be done. Is there any way you can help me from getting constantly bruised on my left side?

A: First, it is important to understand that it is almost impossible to have a brain injury without impacting one's vision. Most people don't realize that our eyes are part of our brain. As a result, brain injuries can result in a variety of vision problems, including dry eyes, difficulty moving one's eyes – such as for reading – and difficulty judging distances and spaces. In addition, people can lose up to half of their visual field, similar to what you are experiencing.

In order to help you to stop constantly getting bruised on the left side, you need to enter into a unique area of treatment. There are three different approaches we can explore to determine which will help you to function better.

As a low vision specialist, I provide solutions for patients who have experienced side vision loss to help them navigate their world, feel more oriented and stop accidentally hurting themselves.

The good news is that you do not have to accept your current situation! The first step is an evaluation, where we can determine the approach that will work best for you.

The Little Shop of Magic

Wild Rose Boutique helps people find their 'own kind of beautiful'

By Terry Jacoby

WHEN Donna Parks designs something for her Wild Rose Boutique it must pass one important test before it ends up on a shelf or rack or display.

"I have to love it," she said. "If I love it I have faith someone else will love it, too."

Standing in the middle of her charming, unique and vibrant boutique in the heart of downtown Plymouth surrounded by many of those creations she loves, Parks smiles with pride as she talks about her "little shop of magic."

"Our store is fun, different, creative, one of a kind, and also a mystery because you never know what we will find in our travels," she said. "I'm a full-time artist and love sharing my passion for creating art that people love."

Parks says when she first opened the boutique she wanted it to be a unique experience where people would have fun shopping and see things they have never seen before. Her motto is "be your own kind of beautiful."

"When you're an artist and you're selling your stuff, it's very rewarding to see people get excited about it the same way I did creating it," she said. "It brings me great joy when people say how they love the colors I put together or how beautiful something is that I created."

Parks, who grew up in Livonia and has lived in the Plymouth area for over 20 years, has been involved in art shows all over Michigan for most of her life. She has been a popular vendor in the Plymouth Art in the Park show for over 25 years, and will again have a beautiful display in front of Wild Rose Boutique this year.

Parks opened Wild Rose Boutique in Plymouth in November 2019 and moved to the current location at 535 Forest Street in 2024. The store features its own line of handmade and unique clothing designs made from beautiful and vintage fabrics as well as original art pieces, including Mosaic art.

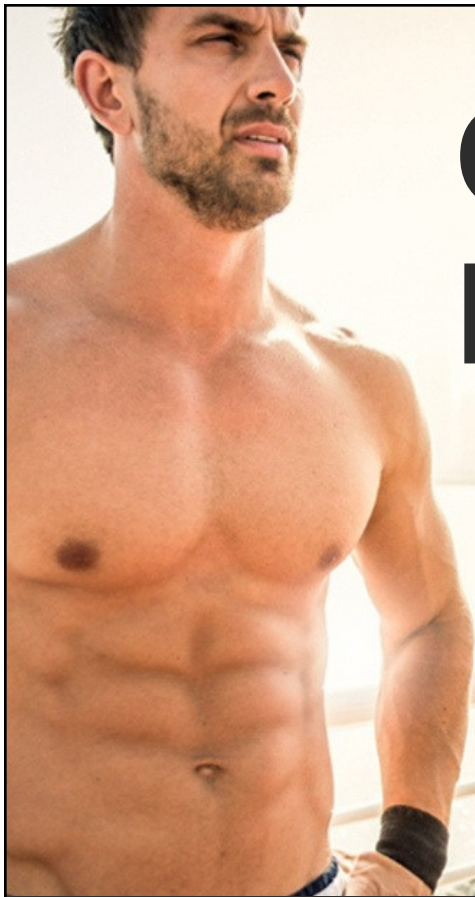

"We feature and support over 60 artists who make one-of-a-kind beautiful pieces," Parks said. "We have bohemian style, trendy, gypsy and even Western styles. A lot of people say our clothes remind them of Stevie Nicks from Fleetwood Mac. And I believe I'm the first boutique to bring western wear to downtown Plymouth. I am a cowgirl at heart and grew up with horses so we have cowboy hats, western-style items and even turquoise jewelry."

The store also features a large selection of baby clothes that are unique and handmade.

Parks simply enjoys helping her customers find their own kind of beautiful.

"I love what I do and I feel so blessed to have my little shop in downtown Plymouth," she said. "When I was a young lady I would walk these streets and shop at the cute boutiques. I have so many wonderful memories doing that and now I get to create those memories for others. Plymouth is a great place and the people are so friendly. It's so wonderful to be a part of it. I like to think I've created a little shop of magic."

PESTO:

The Ultimate Summer Sauce

By Lisa Howard

SUMMER days mean perfect produce, hot temps and the desire to not spend a ton of time at the stove. Enter pesto! It's a quick, uncooked sauce that can be everything from a condiment to the main star, and it's endlessly versatile. Got any kind of nut or seed, plus any kind of fresh herb? You can make pesto.

While the classic Ligurian version consists of fresh basil blended into a paste alongside garlic, extra-virgin olive oil and pine nuts, cilantro or parsley works just as well. So do sliced almonds, walnuts, pecans, pumpkin seeds, sunflower seeds...the list goes on. And you can toast your nuts or seeds first to give them a deeper flavor!

If you want to tame the garlickiness of your pesto, use the green parts of green onions or even chives instead of garlic. (Chives have the added bonus of being excellent additions to herb gardens—pop them in right next to the basil!) If you have unrefined nut oils on hand, those make interesting swaps for extra-virgin olive oil.

Pesto is the perfect foil for fresh tomatoes, of course—it's right at home on top of insalata caprese, which is fresh mozzarella + sliced tomatoes + fresh basil + balsamic vinegar + extra-virgin olive oil.

Bonus points for double-herbing if you make your pesto with an herb that isn't basil!

Tossing pesto with pasta only takes as long as cooking the pasta, seeing as you can whizz the pesto into existence in a mini blender in the time it takes to boil your noodles of choice. Then sprinkle with Parmigiano Reggiano for an authentic Italian flair, or go with any hard, aged, savory cheese that you can grate easily. (Manchego is particularly nice.)

You can easily tweak pesto into being dressing by simply adding more oil. Your grilled veggies just got a whole lot more flavorful! Splashing in a bit of lemon juice will add the acidity you're looking for in a dressing, and will have the bonus action of delaying how fast the basil will blacken.

Using an herb other than basil will also solve that conundrum. If you stir your pesto into a dollop of whole-milk Greek yogurt, you'll have an instant dip that'll be equally good with veggies or with grilled chicken or shrimp. It's also a better-than-mayo condiment to slather onto sandwiches.

While pesto made with non-basil herbs has a bit of a shelf life, basil-forward pesto blackens quickly. If you do want to store it for the next day, your best option is to scoop your freshly made basil into a tiny jar and then top it off with a layer of extra-virgin olive oil. If you can fully "cap" it and prevent any air from getting to the pulverized leaves, then your pesto will still be green the next day. (Handily, olive oil gets stiffer when refrigerated, so it makes a decent edible lid.)

To use your pesto the next day, make sure the actual lid is screwed on tightly and submerge the jar in hot water. It will only take a few minutes to prompt the oil to become a liquid again, at which point you can just give your pesto a quick stir and then immediately use it. It's too good not to!

Township Fire upgrades equipment and training, always with resident safety in mind

By Terry Jacoby

THE mission of the Plymouth Township Fire Department (PTFD) is to ensure the protection of life and property for the community by providing fire suppression, rescue operations, paramedic services, hazardous materials response, emergency management services, environmental emergency mitigation, and fire investigations.

To help accomplish this mission today and in the future, the PTFD has recently made significant improvements and upgrades to equipment and training within the department. The township allocated over $1 million to help replace aging first-responder equipment with state-of-the-art technology while also adding additional items designed to help keep citizens safe.

The PTFD reached an agreement with Stryker Medical, a global leader in medical technologies that offer innovative products and services in med-surg, neurotechnology and orthopaedics that help improve patient and healthcare outcomes.

"They are a Michigan-based company and the gold standard when it comes to medical equipment and have everything from stretchers to cardiac monitors so we are pleased to be partnering with them," said Plymouth Township Fire Chief Pat Conely. "They have a kind of pay-as-you-go program. We have purchased around $1.1 million worth of new equipment, including direct-patient care equipment, and we're making five annual payments of roughly $223,000 over the next five years."

Among the purchases are seven new cardiac monitors to replace the six cardiac monitors in the PTFD fleet. The additional monitor will eliminate having to transfer one back and forth between trucks.

"It's gonna standardize the equipment across the fleet so everyone is trained on the same monitor," Conely said.

The LIFEPAK 35 monitor/defibrillator is the latest model

The LIFEPAK 35 monitor/defibrillator is a state-of-the-art future-ready device designed to promote confident cardiac care, enable clinical excellence and deliver in demanding environments.

by Stryker and replaces the 15 model that the PTFD has had for about 10 years. The 35 is a state-of-the-art future-ready device designed to promote confident cardiac care, enable clinical excellence and deliver in demanding environments. Its large, easy-to-use touchscreen and advanced clinical decision support tools provide a customizable clinical experience that helps reduce cognitive burden.

The seven monitors cost about $450,000.

The PTFD also purchased five new LUCAS 3 chest compression (CPR) systems from Stryker. The LUCAS device extends the reach of care by maintaining chest compressions during transport to advance lifesaving therapies.

"These are really a game changer in cardiac arrest survival," Conely said. "I've been in this field since 1990, and this is probably one of the biggest single changes I've seen in cardiac arrest survival. It's just amazing what it does."

By using automated, guidelines-consistent CPR, the LUCAS device provides consistent and high-quality chest compressions shown by research to increase the chances of good patient outcomes. It has been demonstrated to increase blood flow to the brain and achieve higher EtCO₂ (End Tidal CO₂) values compared to manual compressions.

The deal with Stryker also includes three new and upgraded stretchers and power loads to make getting patients in and out of ambulances and other locations easier and quicker, and four new Xpeditions, Stryker's first powered stair chair that helps get patients up and down stairs easier and more effectively with increased comfort and security for both first responders and patients.

Plymouth Township Fire also recently replaced its battalion chief vehicle with a new 2025 utility style body truck.

"We upgraded from a pickup truck and it just gives us more usability on the truck," Conely said. "It also has some features that our old trucks didn't have."

The new battery stretcher with power load system is installed on the township's fire transport ambulances.

By Joan Walton

JOIN us for a season of not-to-be-missed concert events, kicking off with America 250! A Salute to Rhapsody in Red, White and Blue, featuring Jeffrey Biegel at the Hawk Theatre in Farmington Hills on Saturday, September 25.

The Michigan Phil will play three concerts in total at The Hawk, in addition to September 25. We will be there February 12, with vocalist Jill Jack singing The Great American Songbook, and close out the season with Aventuras Latinas on Friday, April 23, 2027.

This year, we will also feature a 2:00 p.m. Sunday Series of concerts:

- Soundscapes - November 15
- Miniature Masterpieces - January 17
- Voyager - March 7

And of course, no Michigan Phil season would be complete without Holiday Pops! Performing twice, first on December 11 at Plymouth First United Methodist Church – featuring the Harmony Singers and the Plymouth First Chancel Choir – and again on December 12 at the Gloria Logan Auditorium at Salem High School, featuring the P-CEP Symphony Orchestra and Festival Singers.

No Holiday Pops! would be complete without our traditional sing-along. Festive fun for the whole family awaits!

Can't get enough of the Michigan Phil? Join us on a 10-day journey through Bella Italia, tailor-made for lovers of classical music, art history, fine wine and mouth-watering food.

Celebrate the lives and legacies of Verdi, Rossini and Puccini as you walk in the very places where they lived, worked and found inspiration. In addition, you'll tour the acclaimed Stradivarius Museum and enjoy private concerts.

This exclusive Michigan Philharmonic classical journey offers a feast for the senses – an unforgettable celebration of the arts, in the heart of Bella Italia! Space is limited, go to michiganphil.org for more information and to book.

The Michigan Phil is committed to bringing inclusive and innovative classical music to the community. We orchestrate the extraordinary, for everyone. Ticket subscriptions to The Hawk Series and The Sunday Series, along with individual concerts, are now on sale at michiganphil.org.

Bright Spot Counseling and Serenity Oaks

A partnership that makes everyone stronger By Terry Jacoby

GINGER Houghton's inspiring creativity and holistic perspective were the driving forces behind her establishment of Bright Spot Counseling, where she actively puts her vision into practice by aiming to unite all aspects of mental health treatment and provide clients with a comprehensive approach.

As an equine-assisted and certified addictions therapist, Houghton wanted to create a space for like-minded therapists and practitioners to do inspired, holistic, evidence-based work collaboratively. Bright Spot Counseling, located on 12 Mile Road in Farmington Hills, has been providing therapy for anxiety, trauma, depression and perfectionism for six years and has developed a highly effective, research-based, signature process that takes all of the team's combined years of experience into account.

One of Houghton's inspiring creative approaches includes her partnership and longstanding relationship with Serenity Oaks Equine Sanctuary, a nonprofit organization dedicated to providing exceptional aftercare for off-the-track thoroughbreds and retiring thoroughbred broodmares.

For the last four years, Serenity Oaks and Bright Spot have partnered to provide healing opportunities for both humans and horses.

"It's been a huge win for both Serenity Oaks and Bright Spot, and is a unique example of a partnership between a local business and a nonprofit," Houghton said. "The partnership has really supported scaling at Serenity Oaks and allowed us to provide free field trips for groups such as at-risk youth, 4-H and seniors with dementia."

Since its founding in 2019, Serenity Oaks has been involved in thoroughbred rescue and rehabilitation/adoption. Located on North Territorial Road in Plymouth, its mission is to ensure that every thoroughbred, whether transitioning into a show home or a companion home, receives the best possible retirement and a loving environment. It is committed to finding suitable homes for each horse, while also implementing additional safety measures and educational programs to protect thoroughbreds.

Bright Spot offers animal-assisted therapy onsite using the horses to help therapy clients with central nervous system regulation and attachment and trauma healing. Bright Spot also has helped support the sanctuary by providing financial support and technical support, including policy development and grant writing.

"It's my favorite place," Houghton said. "The horses are going through rehab, decompression or getting ready for adoption. I grew up around horses and during COVID I met Nicole Paige, who runs the sanctuary. I brought a group of local therapists to goat yoga at her property and we really connected. I started volunteering every week, did additional training for animal-assisted therapy and we've really been working to support the sanctuary, the horses and clients ever since. It's one of those very rare partnerships that really makes everyone stronger and more scalable."

Houghton, who has committed her career to working with local nonprofits and has acquired specialized training in addressing depression, anxiety, substance use, and insomnia, says the emphasis in these sessions is on actively regulating not only your breathing but also your thoughts and body, all while participating in tasks alongside a horse.

"These sessions equip you with practical skills that you can actively apply to your daily life," she said. "While riding is not part of the experience, you'll have an amazing opportunity to actively forge a deep connection with your newfound furry friend."

Crowd Pleasing Dishes to Pass at this Summer's Cookouts

By Kelsi Klein

F there's one thing that brings people together during Michigan summers, it's gathering with loved ones and enjoying good food.

From backyard barbecues and family picnics to graduation parties and cookouts, there is always a summer occasion to prepare crowd-pleasing appetizers and desserts to enhance the main course.

The following dishes travel well and are easy to make in large batches:

Appetizers

Caprese Skewers: This easy, no-cook recipe offers a fresh bite, perfect for a summer day. Assemble cherry tomatoes, fresh basil leaves and fresh mozzarella pearls sequentially on toothpicks. Top with a sprinkle of salt and pepper and drizzle with extra virgin olive oil and balsamic glaze.

Zippy Corn Dip: This simple dip recipe will be gone before you know it. Mix 1 can of drained corn with peppers, 1 cup of sour cream, 1 cup of mayonnaise, 8 ounces of shredded Mexican-style cheese, a 4-ounce can of diced green chiles, a fresh diced jalapeño and 2 diced green onions together in a bowl. Chill in the fridge for a few hours or overnight and serve with your favorite tortilla chips.

Peach Salsa: This sweet and spicy salsa will bring a fresh kick to any event. All you need to do is mix together 2 or 3 ripe diced peaches, half of a diced red bell pepper, a 1/4 cup of diced red onion, a 1/4 cup of fresh chopped cilantro, the juice and zest of 1 lime, 1 small grated garlic clove, 1/2 of a minced jalapeño and a 1/4 teaspoon of sea salt. Serve with tortilla chips.

Veggie Pizza: In a bowl, combine 4 ounces of cream cheese, a 1/2 cup of sour cream and 1 tablespoon each of fresh chives and dill, chopped. Chill for 15 minutes in the fridge. Bake an 8-ounce can of refrigerated crescent dough sheets according to package directions and let cool. Spread chilled cream cheese mixture on cooled dough and top with fresh chopped vegetables like broccoli, peppers, carrots, etc. Slice into individual pieces for serving.

Desserts

Cornbread Muffins:

Nothing goes with barbecue quite like cornbread. To make things easier for serving, buy a box of your favorite cornbread mix (or make your own from scratch) and bake it in muffin pans with liners to skip the mess.

Frozen Graham Cracker Cool Whip Sandwiches: You just need two ingredients and a freezer for this easy, light dessert that's sure to satisfy any sweet tooth. For each sandwich you will need 1 graham cracker sheet (chocolate works well for this recipe) broken in half to form two squares. Place 2 tablespoons of thawed cool whip on the bottom cracker and top with the other half. Freeze until solid.

Mini Fruit Tarts: For a simple, refreshing treat, buy pre-made tart shells from the baking aisle or freezer aisle at your local grocery store. Keep it simple by filling each shell with instant pudding in flavors like vanilla, French vanilla, lemon or cheesecake. Top with classic fruit tart toppings like berries, mandarin orange slices and kiwi.

Water Wonderland

Exploring Southeast Michigan's lakes, rivers and beaches By Kelsi Klein

In 1953, Michigan became known as the "Water Wonderland" when the state adopted the slogan to promote its booming post-war tourism industry.

With more than 3,000 miles of Great Lakes shoreline, Michigan is home to the longest freshwater coastline in the mainland United States, but there are also thousands of inland lakes, rivers and streams to enjoy right here in Southeast Michigan.

This summer, take advantage of some of the best public water access right in your own backyard.

Milford, MI 48380
Park Hours: 6 a.m.-10 p.m.
(810) 227-8910

Enjoy access to two sandy beaches, Maple and Martindale, with nearby modern restrooms, a food bar, playground and more. Paddleboats, kayaks and rowboats are available to rent.
