Words of Wisdom

Wisdom is only one of the many things P.C.D.S. teachers have to offer. Whether outside of school, teaching in the classroom, or simply talking in the quad, the teachers become the most important aspect of the P.C.D.S. education. Some teachers are energetic, some are intimidating, and some are intense, but all of them teach us in an individual way. We learn more than what's just in the textbooks, we learn what's in our minds.

Head's Message

The voice of a teacher presenting a universal concept; the sound of a child's laughter; a question thoughtfully posed by a student; an expression of compassion for someone's hurt; an exclamation of sudden understanding; a greeting of friendship between students, between faculty, and between students and faculty; voices cheering on team members; voices raised in song - all these and more can be heard in the Phoenix Country Day School community and represent the sense of caring and dedication to learning to which Phoenix Country Day School is committed.

DEAR MRS. KRONING,

No one will ever know how much time & work you have put into EVERY YEAR-BOOK you have ADVISED. YOU COULD NEVER KNOW HOW much WE APPRECIATE it. Thank YOU FOR Everything. Good Luck!

YOU WILL BE MISSED by EVERYONE NEXT YEAR - WE pity the EDITORS NEXT YEAR! How will they EVER do it without YOU?

Liz

The Class of 1992 would like to dedicate this yearbook to a man who has been a friend, a coach, a teacher and a mentor to us all. Thank you, Mr. Hendrickson, for your advice, patience, understanding, and your everlasting humor. We will miss you.

We the Seniors say . . .

"Mr. H really cares about us. He always took the time to help me when I was sad."

"Brilliant coach. He knows more about basketball than anyone I've ever seen."

"He's the bald big brother I never had."

"Mr. H is always there to lend a hand, and more importantly to share a smile."

"Mr. Hendrickson was my first friend when I came to PCDS in the middle of my sophomore year."

"Nice man, good man. A worthy man. A manly man."

"He always has time to listen."

"He may seem a stern disciplinarian, without hair, but once you get to know him, he's a big teddy bear."

The stone shatter the still water,
 Patterned rings slowly bridge the gap,
 Between water and earth,
 A frog declares his arrival to a lily pad,
 With slow, deep r-r-ribbit,
 We used to play and laugh with the frogs and dragonflies,
 But now we only observe,
 From a distance,
 The smooth water, the graceful lilies, the everlasting stillness,
 And the warning sign -

-DANGER-

CHEMICAL POLLUTION

Many more ponds and rivers will be surrendered,
 Before we ourselves are touched, and poisoned
 By the growth, entreating menace,
 That our society has created.

- Katie Flanagan-Hyde

I Have A Dream
 I have a dream
 That one day
 There will be no more wrong,
 Only Right.
 That the world will be at
 peace,
 And there would be no more
 fights.
 There would be laughing and
 singing
 All over the land.

If I could have my dream,
 That's how it would be.

There would be no guns,
 weapons, or wars.
 There would be no pollution or garbage anymore.
 The air would always be clean
 And the grass always green.

If I could have my dream,
 That's how it would be.

Blacks and Whites
 Jews and Christians
 At peace at last,
 We'd have a blast.
 There would be food and
 homes for everyone
 Beds, not benches to sleep on
 at night.
 There would be no more
 darkness in the world,
 Only light.

If I could have my dream,
 That's how it would be.

I know I'll have to wait a while,
 Until my dream comes true.
 But I have faith and know it will
 One day, someday, come true.

School Community Service

I've worked at the Girl's Club every week. We help with art projects, we advise the kids, we clean up. It's fun.

Jill Dutton

This year, preforming 10 hours per year of community service was made a graduation requirement. Melc Dayani and her mother hosted a party to collect Christmas Toys for Tots.

Senior Speeches

Jeff Matura speaks about phobias for his senior speech

He may not remember me, but I will never forget him.

Benjy Brednich on his grandfather's Alzheimer's disease

Russian emigrant Helen Kopnina spoke movingly about her country

Two years have passed since I emigrated to the United States from the Soviet Union. Two years of my new life. Now I can see my country, Russia - which I still call mine - from the distance of time and new approaches, making it possible for me to overcome a strong emotional barrier which kept me from understanding the reality of Communism before. As traditional Russian proverb says, "Go abroad if you want to hear news from home."

My memories of Russia are the best moments, shared with my friends, and nature in Russia, which I love with all my soul. When thinking of Russia, I remember a Northern bay of the White Sea, where I was hiking with my friends. There was a camp-fire on the lake's bank which I constantly miss in my dreams, the sound of guitar, accompanying the whisper of the wind. Every face of those sitting close to the fire is very familiar and very dear. When I listen to Tchaikovsky music, I'm very lonely again, looking in the everpeaceful mirror of the lake. Then I forget all the deceptions and cruelty, which are deep rooted in my motherland, and I forgive everything but my own flight. Yet I know the emigration was the only thing I could do to be free to choose for myself.

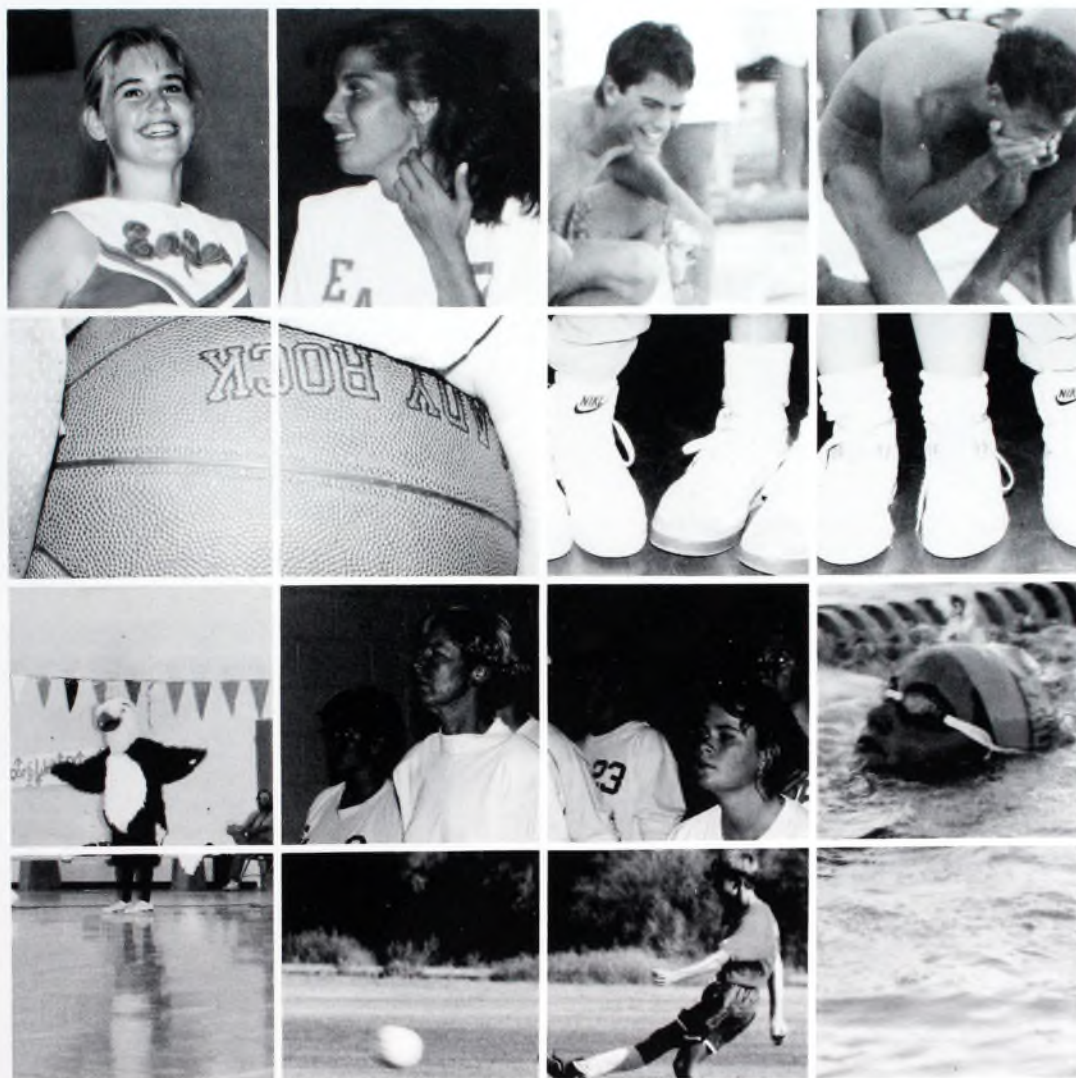

I'm into gardening for fame and fortune.

Zach Rubin, who "came out of the closet" about his interest in horticulture.

Although we lost a few crucial members from the team, those that are returning have significantly improved, and we have many newcomers who will definitely help the program. If we can pull everything together relatively early in the season, we should finish high in the final standings. After all, it is a simple game: you throw the ball, you hit the ball, you catch the ball.

Proms

Ode to Terence Reilly

At eleven months young, you said your first words,
And more beautiful sounds I'd never heard.

Now I've often thought to change my name,
No, not to someone who has great fame.

"Mommy", "Daddy", "That" were the first words you uttered,
Now when I hear "Mommy," I walk around and to myself mutter.

Sixteen years later, your language is verbosity,
And your use of the phone I view with animosity!

If it's not Dawson, it's Dave, then Meg, and of course, Kim,
All of these phone calls make me seem grim.

Shakespeare I'm not, but your mother I am,
That gives me the right to get even if I can.

Sean-

Love,

Mom, Dad, Danielle and Shadow.

The Man in the Glass

When you get what you want in your struggle for self
And the world makes you king for a day
Just go to a mirror and look at yourself
And see what THAT man has to say.
For it isn't your father or mother or wife
Whose judgment upon you must pass,
The fellow whose verdict counts most in your life
Is the one staring back from the glass.
Some people might think you're a straight shootin' chum
And call you a wonderful guy.
But the man in the glass says you're only a bum
If you can't look him straight in the eye.
He's the fellow to please, never mind all the rest
For he's with you clear to the end
And you've passed your most dangerous test
If the guy in the glass is your friend.
You may fool the whole world down the pathway of years
And gets pats on the back as you pass
But your final reward will be heartache and tears
If you've cheated the man in the glass.
