America's Hotels Are Staying Responsible

From waste reduction and water conservation to energy efficiency and responsible sourcing, our members are working to provide employees, guests, and communities a responsible stay.

83%

of travelers believe sustainable travel is an important issue¹

81%

of travelers say they want to stay in a sustainable accommodation in the coming year¹

Water Conservation

Safe and efficient water practices at our hotels save millions of gallons of water each year.

- With laundry accounting for 16 percent of a hotel's water usage, linen and towel reuse programs can help save water and energy.²
- High-performing water-using equipment like toilets, showerheads, and faucets often use at least 20 percent less water than standard models.²
- Water-smart landscapes, irrigation systems, and efficient pool maintenance ensure we're using less water in our buildings – both on the inside and out.

Waste Reduction

We're keeping food waste, single use plastics, and other trash out of America's landfills.

- Hotels participating in AHLA and WWF's Hotel Kitchen program saw reductions of up to 38 percent of food waste in just 12 weeks.³
- Recycling programs and partnerships with local community composting programs reduce the amount of waste that would end up in landfills.
- Many of our hotels are reducing the use of plastic products and replacing them with more environmentally friendly options.
- Working with hotel partners, Clean the World has distributed nearly 70 million bars of recycled hotel soap in more than 120 countries.⁴

Energy Efficiency

Our hotels are finding ways large and small to significantly reduce energy usage.

- Energy usage per square meter among all full-service hotels analyzed by The Center for Hospitality Research is down 3.69% overall on average in just 5 years.⁵
- Smart-energy sensors help reduce energy use throughout many of our hotels by automatically turning off lights and regulating heating and air conditioning systems.
- Solar panels and geothermal heating and cooling systems help some of our members lower their carbon footprint and reduce the use of energy generated from fossil fuels.
- Swapping out traditional incandescent bulbs with energy-efficient alternatives like LEDs use at least 75 percent less energy and last up to 25 times longer.⁶

Responsible Sourcing

We're making a positive environmental and social impact through our purchasing power.

- We're committed to reducing emissions related to our purchased goods and services, including the emissions generated from their manufacturing, transportation, storage, usage, and disposal.
- From purchasing eco-friendly cleaning supplies to sourcing farm to table food for our hotel restaurants, we know we can make our supply chains more responsible.
- By diversifying our suppliers and collaborating with those that are also committed to environmental sustainability, we are selecting suppliers that are responsible while also striving to source more sustainable products.

America's Hotels are innovating, adapting and working to give guests the "responsible stay" they're looking for...

13 billion guests stay in American hotels every year⁷, and hotels reinvest in communities across the country while creating millions of jobs, boosting local economies, and supporting local charities. Nearly a third of hotel guests say they're willing to pay more for their room if they know their stay is sustainable. America's hotels have a great responsibility—and a great opportunity—to lead on environmental sustainability.

We are working together to sustain our planet, strengthen the future of our communities, and grow opportunity for all in the hospitality industry.

A JOURNEY THROUGH TIME AND TERRAIN

Southwest Wisconsin is a treasure trove of stunning landscapes and the distinctive terrain of the Driftless Area, which together create an enchanting mix of natural beauty, outdoor activities, and rich historical allure. The region, characterized by its rolling hills, meandering rivers, steep ridges, and deep valleys, stands in striking contrast to much of the state shaped by ancient glaciers. As a haven for nature enthusiasts, the Driftless Area boasts numerous state and local parks that highlight its rugged terrain and spectacular rock formations. Whether you're looking to embark on an outdoor adventure or simply bask in the serenity of nature, Southwest Wisconsin has something special for everyone.

Start your adventure in Prairie du Chien, the oldest European settlement along the Upper Mississippi River, where a rich history dating back to the 17th century awaits. This charming town features a variety of historic landmarks, such as the Fort Crawford Museum and the Villa Louis Historic Site. These fascinating sites not only celebrate the town's vibrant past but also make it a must-visit for history lovers and inquisitive travelers.

A scenic drive north along the Great River Road reveals breathtaking views of the Mississippi River and charming small towns, perfect for sampling delicious local cuisine. This National Scenic Byway stretches through ten states and intertwines with over 30 historic towns, showcasing the best of the region.

Visiting Pepin County, the hometown of Laura Ingalls Wilder, offers fans a chance to see the landscapes that inspired her beloved Little House on the Prairie series. The Laura Ingalls Wilder Museum provides insights into her life, while attractions like the Devil's Punchbowl and Riverside Park add quirky stops to your adventure. For those seeking outdoor thrills, Black River Falls is ideal, with its scenic river perfect for fishing and water sports, alongside over 300 miles of groomed snowmobile trails for winter fun.

La Crosse, a vibrant city surrounded by three majestic rivers and scenic bluffs, is another highlight of the region. With a wealth of outdoor pursuits, La Crosse invites visitors to hike, bike, and boat, in addition to an array of dining and lodging choices for every taste. Whether you prefer a cozy bed and breakfast or a luxurious suite, the blend of natural beauty and modern comforts in La Crosse makes it an ideal place to unwind after a day full of adventures.

In Southwest Wisconsin, history, nature, and excitement come together to create unforgettable experiences. From exploring historic landmarks and savoring local delicacies to engaging in outdoor escapades, this captivating region is sure to capture your heart.
