Bridesmaids Guide

October 16, 2027

Hello beauty

As a form of courtesy for your willingness to support Ericka through this most exciting new adventure, we aim to make being a bridesmaid as simple as possible for you.

In this document, we will detail what is needed from you from head to toe so that your mind is less concerned with the makeup and more concerned with the celebration of this beautiful union!

We are aware that there are still several months until the wedding, but to ensure that dresses are ordered as planned and that you have ample time to plan for hair and shoes, we wanted to provide you with any necessary guidelines now! Then once the planning is done, we can turn our energy toward wishing these two a happy new life together!

This document will include details pertaining to the following:

Hair. Makeup

Enough about the gowns, let's talk about the crowns! HAIR should be worn in a neat up-do similar to any of the styles shown below.

Long Hair? Half up, half down.
Short Hair? Styled appropriately

Ericka has opted out of ordering a makeup artist. All makeup will need to be done by 12pm.

Limit the amount of hair hanging around face.

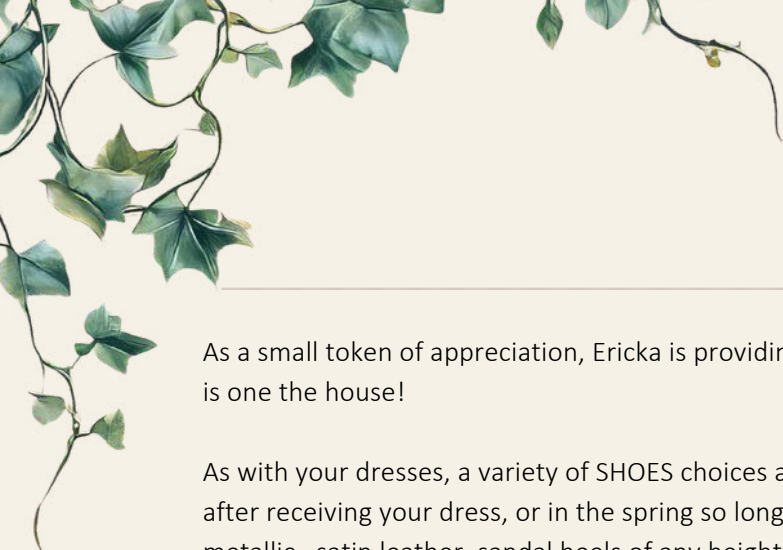

Undergarments. Nails

They say that a picture speaks a thousand word so let's let them do the talking...

	DO:	DON'T:
UNDERGARMENTS		 Not today, sis.
NAILS (NUDE)		 Creative Nails By Mari

I think you get the point.

Accessories

As a small token of appreciation, Ericka is providing JEWELRY for all bridesmaids. No worries ladies, this one is on the house!

As with your dresses, a variety of SHOES choices are welcome. You may choose to purchase these now, after receiving your dress, or in the spring so long as they make you happy. We are requesting that they be metallic, satin leather, sandal heels of any height or price that you desire. As a guide, I have included some pictures and links below.

Being barefoot is NOT an option. Shoes are required at all hours of the wedding.
