An Indian Sketchbook Anthony Eyton

Introduction by Anthony Eyton

One of the UK's most distinguished figurative painters, the centenarian Royal Academician Anthony Eyton OBE (b. 1923) is renowned for the fluidity of his technique and the spontaneity of his mark-making. He spent the winter of 1978–79 in India and made further trips in 1992 and 1994, his parents having lived there many decades before. His Indian sketches in pastel and pen and ink reveal a characteristically fresh vision of the country's clamor and congestion of people, animals and vehicles, his love of dazzling color and his ever-observant eye.

Peter Nygaard

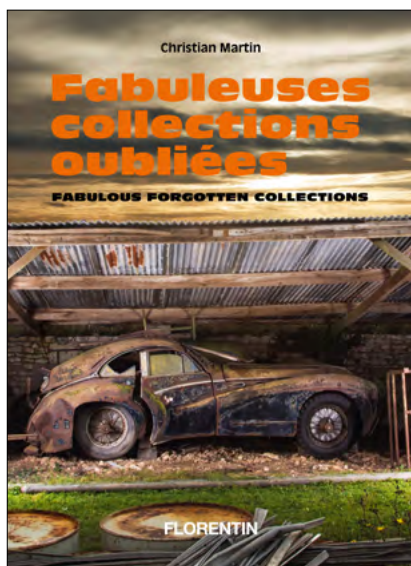

Formula 1 is more popular than ever. The race calendar expands every single year, with more spectators flocking to Formula 1 tracks, and more people tuning in behind their TV screens to follow every twist, every acceleration, and every overtake. But Formula 1 is much more than what is shown on TV. Formula 1 is mechanics at work in the battle for split seconds during a pit stop. Formula 1 is massive development departments working to find the key to success. Formula 1 is a commercial circus that entertains and impresses. In this book, one of the most experienced figures in the Formula 1 caravan, reporter and photographer Peter Nygaard, takes readers behind the scenes. Nygaard has covered almost two-thirds of the Formula 1 Grand Prix races that have been held since Formula 1's inception in 1950. Through his camera lens and conversations with some of the most central figures, he tells the stories of the greatest drivers, the wildest dramas, and the continuous evolution of Formula 1.

Fabulous Forgotten Collections

Christian Martin

The always astonishing stories of hundreds of dream cars found in barns in the French or Belgian countryside, or stranded in open fields, overgrown with weeds, hidden for more than 50 years. "We found one of three Maserati A6G 2000 Berlinettas bodied by Frua, dating from 1956. And then, under piles of magazines, we discovered something even more exciting... a Ferrari 250 GT SWB California Spider, a car which belonged to Alain Delon, who was photographed on several occasions at the wheel - accompanied, in 1964, by Jane Fonda." That's not all: Maserati A6G 2000 Gran Sport, Facel Vega Excellence, Hispano-Suiza H6B, Bugatti 57 Ventoux. Several Talbot-Lago, Delahaye and Voisin - the list of classic automobiles, forgotten for decades is incredible. In 2015, the Baillon collection was sold at auction for more than 25 million euros. Christian Martin immortalizes these mechanical marvels in striking photographs.

Homo Mobilis People/Vehicles/ Identity

Martin Roemers

"Show me your vehicle and I'll tell you who you are".

For his new photo book Homo Mobilis, photographer Martin Roemers traveled the world armed with a large white backdrop, a camera, and one simple question: "Would you pose with your vehicle for me?" The result is an eye-opening collection of images that raises pressing questions about our current global society. "What about the environmental impact of our addiction to oil and engines?" but also: "Does your choice of vehicle express something about your identity?" At the same time, Roemers' images almost instantly bring a smile to your face. The book is also interspersed with behind-the-scenes shots that clearly reveal the scale and ambition of this project.

Michael Köckritz

For the first time, a book is dedicated to what is probably the most creative body variant of the iconic Porsche 911 sports car. What began as a clever reaction to an increased need for safety in the 1960s quickly became a brand in its own right, the original term for a new type of vehicle. We dig deep into the archives, celebrate contemporary coloring, browse through historical photo albums of the Targa Florio endurance race - the inspiration for the name of the sports car once advertised as a "safety cabriolet". Historical design sketches and photos, highly aesthetic imagery and elaborate productions provide in-depth yet entertaining insights into the impressive history of this special Porsche. Porsche Targa is a sophisticatedly designed standard work. Titanic & Fashion The Last Dance

Madelief Hohé

Titanic & Fashion takes you on a captivating journey through time and style, featuring original costumes from the iconic 1997 film Titanic and rarely seen garments from the 1910s. The book explores a revolutionary era in fashion (1908–1918), when corsets were cast off and visionary designers like Coco Chanel and Lucile redefined modern dress. This period of emancipation, technological optimism, and class division echoes many aspects of our world today.

Combined with works by contemporary designers such as Iris van Herpen and John Galiano for Margiela, the book creates a compelling dialog between past and present. From dreamy gowns to bold statements, fashion becomes a vehicle for stories of hope, struggle, and identity. Aboard the Titanic, these worlds collided – from wealthy travelers in haute couture to migrants in traditional dress – all aboard a ship that came to symbolize both progress and peril.

A richly illustrated fashion journey connecting Titanic-era elegance and film costume with modern design, exploring identity, class, and transformation through clothing.

The Essence of Contemporary Mediterranean Living

Ramón Esteve

Introduction by Ramón Esteve, foreword by Juhani Pallasmaa

Deeply rooted in the Mediterranean spirit yet open to global influences, the studio approaches each project as a dialogue between the site and the client. For Esteve, architecture is a balance of technical mastery and artistic sensitivity—where function and beauty come together to create meaningful, lasting spaces. Inspired by vernacular traditions and guided by contemporary principles, the studio's work transforms houses into true homes. For Esteve, architecture is both a craft and a discipline—grounded in sensitivity and technical expertise. Every design is tailor-made, transcending mere function to become a stage for life. For Esteve, the ideal home is one that feels instinctively familiar from the very first moment—an emotional, cultural, and existential refuge.

Joan Mitchell and Her Dogs

Laura Morris, Martin Bethenod

Joan Mitchell, an extraordinary figure in 20th-century art, remains one of the most celebrated painters of the Abstract Expressionist movement. Born in 1925, in Chicago, Illinois, she grew to redefine abstraction, blending emotional intensity with lyrical beauty. Her work, characterized by dynamic brushstrokes, vivid colors, and profound emotional depth, established her as a towering presence in a predominantly male art world. Joan Mitchell had at least nine dogs during her lifetime, and Georges du Soleil, a brown poodle, was her first beloved canine companion. Like the other dogs that would follow, Georges was more than just a companion; he was also part of the vibrant, dynamic environment that nourished her creativity and her ability to channel emotion into her art. From her first dog, the adored Georges du Soleil, to Skye Terriers Idée, Isabelle, and Ibertelle ("Bertie"), Brittany Spaniel Patou, German Shepherds Iva, Marion, and Madeleine, and not forgetting Prunelle and Belle-Bête; all of them cherished companions in her life and work, all of them celebrated here. Joan Mitchell and her dogs: a love story.

Campi Flegrei. Burning Earth

Luigi Spina, contributions by Fabio Pagano

Campi Flegrei, near Naples, is a seismically active landscape that attracts, stimulates, and challenges. People have chosen to live amongst these unique geological and volcanic features, weaving the fabric of human occupation and taming a land in perpetual transformation, one of the harshest yet most enchanting environments. Luigi Spina has been exploring this land since 2020, delving into the complex, stratified geography. Key landmarks include places of memory (archaeological sites, monuments, landscapes), which, like true benchmarks of perception, outline the path towards an understanding of a world that links nature, ancient ruins, and the overwhelming presence of mankind. Balanced between mimicry and contradiction, the Campi Flegrei landscape is now blanketed by a dense urban sprawl, where the ancient and the contemporary coexist in a kind of precarious equilibrium, generating a complex socio-cultural state of affairs that is challenging to govern. Spina explores and photographs places such as the Dragonara Cave, the Piscina Mirabilis, the Theatre of Misenum, the Flavian Amphitheatre at Puteoli, the Temple of Apollo on the shores of Lake Avernus, and the Temples of Venus and Diana, as he wanders through the hills above Baiae, finally heading towards Cumae.

Luigi Spina's fascinating images focus on key landmarks of the Campi Flegrei area near Naples, including archaeological sites and landscapes, linking nature, ruins and human presence.

1000-piece puzzle

Illustrated by Pedro Pedro

1000-piece puzzle featuring the artwork of acclaimed Los Angeles-based artist Pedro Pedro. Pedro Pedro paints vividly colored still lifes that look as if each object could suddenly spring from the canvas. His subjects -often bountiful clusters of fruit -are exaggerated in their tone, scale, and perspective, recalling the exuberant fantasies of Peter Saul and the bulbous forms of Fernando Botero. Pedro began working in this bright style after moving from New York City to Los Angeles in 2015, influenced by the more relaxed environment. Pedro has exhibited widely, including solo shows at The Hole, where his 2023 exhibition Table, Fruits, Flowers and Cakes explored themes of consumption and restraint. His work has also been featured in group shows including with Anat Ebgi and Nicodim galleries.

Kinstler puzzles highlight the best of the contemporary art world in a way that is accessible and fun and are appropriate for both teens and adults. Appropriate for teens and adults. Made in US with recyclable materials.

Pakistani Truck Art (Homage to Jerry Saltz) 1000-piece puzzle

Illustrated by Nicole Appel

1000-piece puzzle featuring the artwork of acclaimed New York City based outsider artist Nicole Appel. Nicole Appel's Patchwork Portraits represent people non-traditionally, as a collection of the things that they like or care about. Pakistani Truck Art was done as a gift for Jerry Saltz, the Pulitzer Prize winning art critic who has long championed her work. With images of Dante's Inferno, elaborately decorated Pakistani trucks, and even the Drive-By Truckers, this "portrait" of Saltz references his purgatorial years as a long-haul truck driver after he had abandoned his career as an artist. Conventional portraits have traditionally represented people using their faces. Nicole Appel's Patchwork Portraits have been exhibited at the Outsider Art Fair, in New York City, and sold out for the past 13 consecutive years.

Illustrated by Marc Dennis

1000-piece puzzle featuring the artwork of acclaimed New York City based artist Marc Dennis. Marc Dennis is an American artist known for his hyper-realistic paintings that celebrate the fluid nuances of pleasure, power, beauty and love. Interested in transformative possibilities Dennis merges various movements throughout the western art historical canon, with modern tropes to create fresh paintings rich with intrigue and metaphysical inquiry. By co-opting celebrated paintings of centuries past Dennis' works find new meaning in the hallowed lineage of Old Master painting to explore contemporary questions of cultural identity, humor, and the consumption of images. His works have been included in many solo and group exhibitions, art fairs and museums including Art Basel, Miami Beach, FL; The Armory Show, New York; Frieze London, England; Untitled, Miami Beach, FL.

When I Was 12 1000-piece puzzle

Illustrated by
Andrea Joyce Heimer

1000-piece puzzle featuring the artwork of acclaimed Ferndale, Washington based artist Andrea Joyce Heimer. Andrea Joyce Heimer's richly detailed paintings are infused with the dreamlike imagery of a child's escape into fantasy, and rendered in a flat, paper-doll-like style. The artist's narratives evoke both a sense of playfulness and profound introspection that make her work utterly unique yet instantly relatable. Let's face it, we've all been stood up at a rodeo in Montana at one point or another in our lives. We just don't remember it quite like Heimer does.

Andrea Joyce Heimer was born in Great Falls, MT and lives in Ferndale, WA. Her work has been exhibited at the CICA Vancouver, the Whatcom Museum, the Northwest Museum, and at the Megan Mulrooney Gallery in Los Angeles.

The Gut

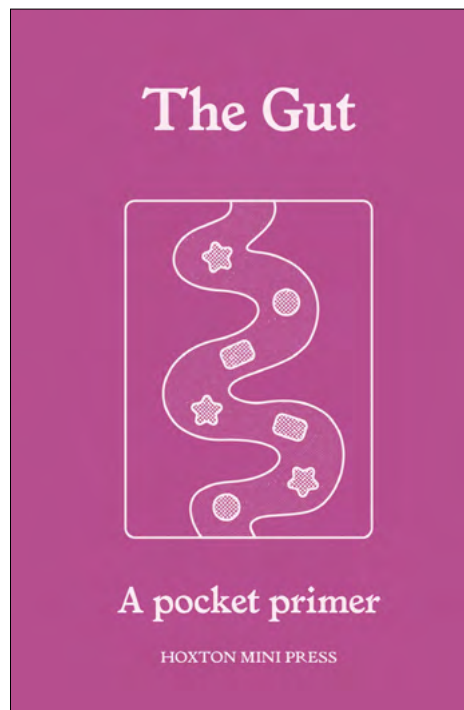

Amy Flemming

The human digestive system, or gut, can be understood like the hole of a doughnut. In other words, it's not really us at all, but a vast ecosystem of bacteria, yeasts, fungi, viruses and other micro-organisms collectively weighing up to two kilograms. And the gut does a lot more than simply break down our food – it impacts our immunity, stress levels and even our moods. The connection between the brain and the gut is one of the most exciting research areas of biology today, changing the way we manage our mental health. This book traces our understanding of the gut, from ancient medicine to modern day, examining the enormous impact this little-understood organ has on our lives.

Walks of a Parisian City Guide to the Best Parisian Restaurants

Albert Nahmias

The most luxurious of Parisian gastronomic guides – and the most timeless: with the QR code accompanying each entry, the book is constantly updated. Albert Nahmias knows his business well (and that of others). A star restaurateur in the 90s with Olympe, the happy few flocked to his table. Like a gourmet and traveling Ulysses returning to his Ithaca rich in sensory and gustatory images, Paris becomes an odyssey-city that constantly attracts poets and ambitious individuals... Its chefs are also poets. In Paris, the true gourmet is a traveler from elsewhere who comes to taste its charms; like Ulysses, one simply needs to choose a neighborhood, a welcoming restaurant according to their mood, age, or fortune... This guide gives meaning to daily urban wandering, in the labyrinth of over a thousand establishments. No one knows them all. So many dives, bistros, and restaurants for a people of Parisian navigators for whom it's a bit of a secret sport. Less so now.
