November 2026 update, with a 16-page Queer Events in the Calendar for Lisbon & across Portugal! A49

Alex's LONG LIST

Guide to LGBTQ Lisbon & Portugal

The Internet and guidebooks are full of outdated info, so I update Alex's LONG LIST every month for visitors, new arrivals and residents.

I don't take anything in exchange for being included in Alex's LONG LIST – this is a comprehensive list of LGBTQ events, venues, social groups and organisations across Portugal, and some options that me and my friends think are fun - including many that you won't hear about anywhere else. Updated every month.

For first-time visitors and tourists

- Essential Info - Basic info for a first visit: transport, timings, toilets, tourist-traps, entry fees, LGBTQ rights, driving and drugs info, Lisbon's new restrictions on street drinking.
- The SHORT LIST - To help new visitors plan a queer night in Lisbon
- Four Nights Out - Signature queer nights out (and one night in).

- What's on: Queer Events Calendar: 18-pages to do/see and Highlight of the Month!

Alex's Queer Lisbon History Tour - Know the city!

Lisbon's LGBTQ Scene - 21 pages of bars, nightclubs, women's venues/events, drag, burlesque and cabaret, saunas/sex venues (men's and women's)

- Classy Bars and Speakeasys – relaxed, characterful bars for quieter drinks and cocktails

Map of LGBTQ Lisbon - with venue info and weblinks

- Gay Beach Guide - 5 pages of: where to go and how to get there

Meeting People, Making Friends & Having Fun - 20 pages of LGBTQ social groups, sports/ exercise, dance, choirs/music/theatre, art/books, student groups, biker/leather/etc

- Lisbon on a Budget - the many things to do in Lisbon for free!

Getting to Know Portugal - 7 pages of fun and useful ways to know Portugal better

- Women's Groups, Organisations and Services - 10 pages of scene and social networks

Trans/Non-binary friendly Spaces - Venues & groups that Trans/NB friends recommend

- Queer People of Colour (QTPOC), & info for people from South Asia - 8 pages

Across Portugal (44 pages of LGBTQ life outside Lisbon) - Map of LGBTQ Portugal
- Porto (68 entries)
- The Algarve (29 entries)
- Other cities & regions (164 entries)

- Medium / Long-term Accommodation how/where to find housing in Lisbon - 5 pages

LGBTQ Literature, Film, Learning Portuguese, LGBTQ Media & Podcasts - 18 pages

- Health & Wellness & blood donation - men's and women's health services - 12 pages

Community Support - Youth/LGBTQ, Feminist, Trans/Non-binary, HIV/STI, Academic - 15 pages

Essential info for first-time visitors: entry fees, transport/taxis, timings, tourist-traps, toilets, LGBTQ rights, drug-use.

Legal rights, alcohol, and age restrictions in Portugal.

LGBTQ civil rights. Portugal has constitutional protection from discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation, gender identity, ancestry, sex, race, language, territory of origin, religion, political or ideological beliefs, education, economic situation, or social circumstances. Equal rights and legal protection for queer people therefore extend to adoption, IVF, blood donation, civil marriage, age of consent, etc.
Citizens can change their gender on birth certificates, etc from the age of 18 (from 16 with parental consent). www.equaldex.com/region/portugal (However, it's important to know that the right to gender self-determination has recently [Oct 2026-] been threatened by the current Right-wing government, and is legally defined in binary terms https://dezanove.pt/autodeterminacao-de-genero-o-que-esta-em-jogo-no-parlamento-2453598)

ALCOHOL: street drinking, age restrictions, and drink/driving limits.
Main tourist cities in Portugal have recently been introducing restrictions on street drinking to limit the noise impact of late-night tourism on residents.
In Lisbon, starting in Feb 2026 - the sale of alcohol for street drinking has been banned from 23:00 to 08:00 (8am the following day) Sunday to Thursday, and midnight to 08:00 on Friday, Saturday, & public holiday eves (Exceptions for licensed terraces, home delivery, and throughout June for Lisbon's traditional Festas). This is expected to impact the bar culture in Bairro Alto (and around Cais do Sodre, incl. 'Pink Street'). We wait to see how this develops!

- https://informacao.lisboa.pt/en/news/detail/new-rules-on-the-sale-of-drinks-for-street-consumption-1#:~:text=Lisbon%20City%20Council%20has%20approved,and%208am%20the%20following%20day
- https://www.lisboa.pt/horario-venda-bebidas-consumo-exterior?fbclid=IwY2xjawQCpaNleHRuA2FlbQIxMABicmlkETFKUHJCUXNmaHRCR1dWeGVPc3J0YwZhcHBfaWQQMjIyMDM5MTc4ODIwMDg5MgABHrfz8e57sPEm9oWkBDoc-mr6Ha6YYTf4JzCFNcpA9O4gG7anazWJRKIbkF2x_aem_O1yGDRcY4SesuVuGLTAKjQ

In Porto, since 2025 alcohol can only be sold after 21:00 inside cafes, bars, restaurants and nightclubs. Many licensed terraces also have restricted hours. (Two nights are excepted: June 23 [Saint John's Day] and New Years Eve).
In Albufeira (Algarve), since 2025 drinking in public areas is not permitted after 23:00.

Age restrictions. The legal age for buying alcohol is 18. Entering a nightclub is legal at 16 years (18 in venues where sex occurs) - some venues may be 18+ on busy nights.

Alcohol and driving. Portugal's alcohol limits for driving are significantly more restrictive than in the UK, Ireland, most of the USA and many other countries. Your normal 'just the one drink' could put you over the legal limit here in Portugal! More than 0.05% (0.5 g/l Blood Alcohol Content) is illegal for drivers (compared to 0.08% in many parts of the world). The limit is even lower for new drivers (under 3 years) and commercial drivers: 0.02% (0.2 g/l). Enforcement and consequences can be severe!

Timings – Restaurants, bars, clubs. - Everything in Portugal happens late!

Restaurants. The Portuguese tend to eat dinner quite late, so typical restaurants will open for dinner around 19:00, get busy after 20:00ish and close around 22:30. Fri and Saturday things will get busy later. Restaurants might have longer opening-hours in the city centre, but family-run places – even in central tourist areas – will commonly close after lunch (around 15:00) and open again at 19:00.

Lisbon Bars. Bairro Alto. Some bars have started opening earlier as they try to catch customers, but the streets don't usually start getting busy until 22:00. But since Feb 2026, new restrictions on the sale of alcohol were introduced to limit noisy street drinking, which may change things. After 23:00 on Sunday to Thursday; and after midnight on Fri, Sat, & public holiday eves, alcohol can no longer be sold for drinking on the street (except on licensed terraces, and throughout June's traditional Festas festival in Lisbon). These new rules are likely to impact the existing culture of late night street drinking in Bairro Alto and around Cais do Sodre (incl. 'Pink Street'). We are still waiting to see what impact these new rules will have and how they are enforced… https://informacao.lisboa.pt/en/news/detail/new-rules-on-the-sale-of-drinks-for-street-consumption-1#:~:text=Lisbon%20City%20Council%20has%20approved,and%208am%20the%20following%20day.
Most bars have to close at 02:00 during the week; and at 03:00 on weekends and the night before public holidays (except for late-night dance venues, which usually close at 06:00. So, if you want to keep going late it's best to get into a dance venue before the 01:30/02:00 rush!).
The bars in Principe Real are generally spaced further apart, in a quieter residential neighbourhood, often feel a little calmer, with a slightly older crowd, and bars close at 02:00 (03:00 on weekends and the night before public holidays).
The neighbourhood around Intendente/Graca has recently been developing a small collection of queer spaces, which all have performance spaces. They often have earlier opening/closing times around 19:00 until 01:00, and tend to be more imaginative spaces, with special events, dance nights, food, film nights, workshops, afternoon events, etc (see 'LGBTQ Bars: Intendente/Graca and further afield' below).
Most of the mainstream/straight late-night nightclubs and live music venues are near the riverside - mostly around Cais do Sodre, incl. the hectic 'Pink Street'.

Nightclubs. Dance clubs typically don't get busy until after 01:30. There's usually a rush to get in before 02:00. Closing times vary depending on the venue and day of the week/time of year, but usually 06:00 at weekends. Club door prices typically range between €15 and €20 euros, and your entry ticket is often valid for one (sometimes two) drinks - so keep hold of your entry ticket and exchange it for a drink at the bar. Many clubs are free entry on a Thursday outside of peak season. On other quiet days they're sometimes still free before 1am.
(If you're told the entry fee is €50, you're either at a dodgy strip-joint or they're trying to discourage you and aren't going to let you in – Try somewhere else or save your energy for tomorrow).

Lisbon Public Toilets

In 2025 the community collective Infraestrutura Pública, published a free Googlemap of public toilets, and printable pocket cards (with opening times etc):

Transport / Uber & Bolt / taxis / Metro (underground), and Late Night Transport

Lisbon Public transport. For general info on Lisbon transport in multiple languages see: www.lisbon.net/transport

The Lisbon Metro (underground) is excellent and reaches the airport (outide the doors of Terminal 1). From October 2026 the Metro service will begin at 05:30. Metro (and overground trains) usually continue until the last train around 00:45 (quarter to 1 in the morning) - but if you are relying on a late-night Metro train you should check here: www.metrolisboa.pt/en.

Uber, and the European equivalent Bolt, are popular, surprisingly cheap and reliable in Lisbon - often your cheapest and easiest way to get around. Since Sept 2026, regular Taxis can also operate as Uber/Bolt, so a regular (black and green) taxi can sometimes arrive to pick you up.

At Lisbon airport, the official Uber/Bolt pick-up area is in Terminal 1, Level 2 (Arrivals level) P2 underground parking (follow signs past Starbucks): https://maps.app.goo.gl/dDhWKzFksjCeTpZX6. (It is best to request your Uber once you are inside the P2 pickup area).

Alternatively, you can order an Uber/Bolt at the outdoor 'Kiss & Fly' area at the front of Terminal 1 on the upper (Departures) level, where cars arrive to drop-off departing passengers:
https://maps.app.goo.gl/4aJQ6Gew4VQzfU9XA

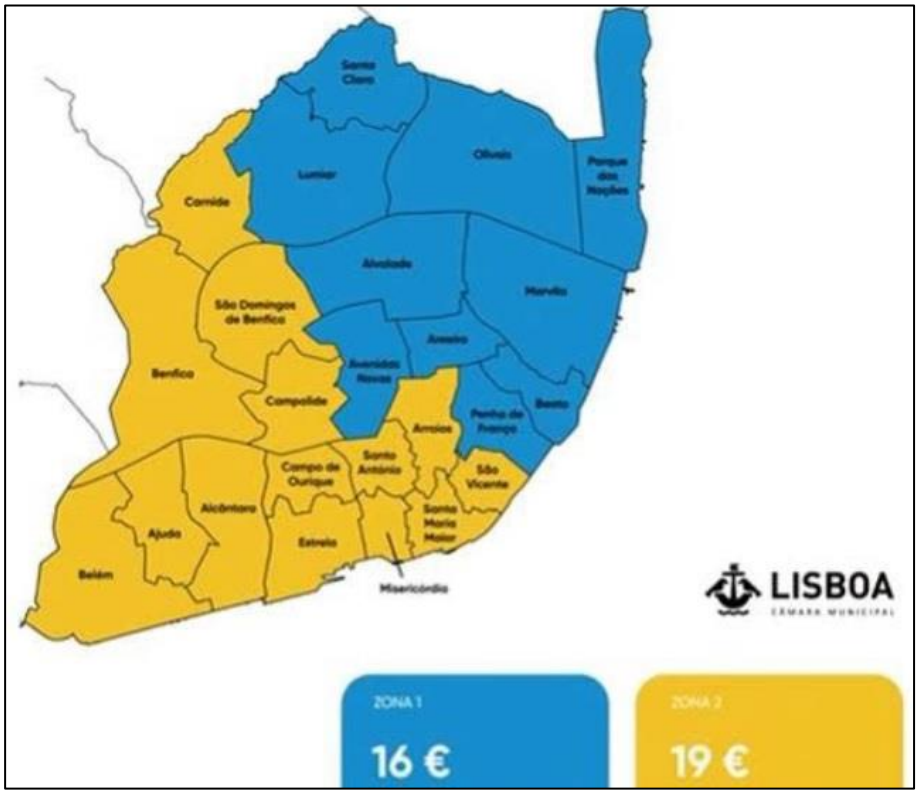

Note: If your flight arrives at Terminal 2, you will first need to take the free shuttle bus to Terminal 1, and then get a car/Metro/bus/etc.

Taxis in Lisbon have had a bad reputation for poor maintenance and occasional rip-offs. But starting in October 2026 there will be fixed-rate taxi charges from the airport to two zones of central Lisbon (with slightly higher rates at night and for more than four passengers). These new fixed rate zones cover all of central Lisbon, and include all potential surcharges (e.g. luggage, reservations, waiting time, and transporting animals, etc). You can pay in the taxi by cash or bank card, or you can purchase a taxi voucher inside the airport from 07:00-22:00, at the 'Ask Me Lisboa' tourism desk. Tipping is appreciated but not expected – Portugal has no culture of tipping.

(Outside the two zones listed below, taxis operate on meters as usual. Always check that the meter is switched on and is legitimate [not faked on a mobile phone]. And if you don't have cash, check the driver takes bank cards before you start a journey. Every taxi is obliged to provide a receipt if you ask for it).

Lisbon Airport Taxi fixed price zones (2026; daytime rates):

Zone 1 (Eastern neighbourhoods of Alvalade, Areeiro, Avenidas Novas, Beato, Lumiar, Marvila, Olivais, Parque das Nações, Penha de França, and Santa Clara):

- Daytime (07:00–22:00): €16.00
- Night / Weekends / Holidays (22:00–07:00): €20.00

Zone 2 (Central and Western neighbourhoods of Baixa, Alfama, Bairro Alto, Estrela, Benfica, Campolide, Belém, etc):

- Daytime (07:00–22:00): €19.00
- Night / Weekends / Holidays (22:00–07:00): €23.00

Taxi drivers are not allowed to tout for business (hassle people on the street) or to quote a fare different from that on the meter, or the fixed charges from the airport to destinations in Zones 1 & 2.

If you have any concerns, take a note of the time and the vehicle license plate, and report it to the PSP police (Polícia de Segurança Pública). You can do this at any police station, or at the 24-hour Lisbon Tourist Police Stations (Lisbon & Cascais), where multi-lingual (French, Spanish, English) officers can assist tourists with statements, theft reports, and general crime reporting/documentation: Palácio Foz, Praça dos Restauradores, 1250-187 Lisbon. +351 213 421 623 or +351 213 400 090.
If you are a resident in Portugal you can also make reports online: https://queixaselectronicas.mai.gov.pt/PSP.

'Drug' dealers, and drug-use in Portugal

Please ignore the shady characters trying to sell you "Hashish, cocaine, pills" in central Lisbon – they will rip you off! Even if they give you a tiny sample to try, they will send you off with a bag of oregano or talcum powder – That's why the police have been powerless to stop them - they are annoying, but they simply aren't selling drugs.

Of course, real drugs are bought and sold every day in Europe's capital cities, but - despite the clouds of marijuana smoke you might smell in the streets and what you might have heard about Portugal's progressive approach to drug use - drugs are Not legal in Portugal. The law does however focus on drug supply, rather than drug possession - so if you are found with a personal amount of most drugs, you will likely just get a brief lecture and be allowed to keep them. But if you are caught passing, gifting or selling drugs, or buying drugs for someone else (even buying to share with your partner or a friend) - you should expect arrest and serious consequences.
Don't let the occasional cloud of cannabis smoke and the relaxed holiday vibe fool you into being casual about drugs - drug supply is heavily punished, even if the law is relaxed about decriminalised drug possession. www.portugal.com/op-ed/portugal-drug-laws-under-decriminalization-are-drugs-legal-in-portugal

Lisbon tourist-traps, options and alternatives.

28 Tram (and the funicular railways)

Please don't waste your holiday time in peak-season crowds endlessly queueing for the 28 Tram! Lisbon's trams are charming fun (and the 28 has the best route past lots of picturesque sights), but every AI guidebook/website in the world sends people to the 28 tram, leading to epic queues at busy times (and you can't even see out the windows if you're standing)! There are quieter and easier trams that will give you the same fairground-ride experience without the long wait and the crush.

Try instead - Tram 24 from Praca Luis da Camoes, or Tram 18 from Cais do Sodre – much easier, less crowded and still a fun experience.

The funiculars and lifts (Elevadors and Santa Justa).

The inclined funicular railways (elevadors) and the elevador Santa Justa cage-lift in the city centre have been temporarily closed for safety refits since a tragic accident on the Gloria Funicular in 2025. No date has yet been announcecd for reopening the funiculas or the Santa Justa lift. (Only the modern Graca funicular currently continues to operate)

Try instead - Instead of the Santa Justa elevador cage-lift in the Baixa, you can walk slowly up the hill to Largo do Carmo, and then stroll past the side of the ruined church, up a short flight of steps and freely walk onto the upper viewing platform of the elevador.

Time Out Market and 'As Bifanas do Afonso'

The Time Out food-hall opened in a characterful market building in 2014 to great enthusiasm, but in 2025 its busy times have been recognised as one of the 'World's Most Disappointing Tourist Attractions', based on customer reviews: "In theory, Time Out Market is a shortcut to Portugal's vibrant food scene…, but the feeling can be more overwhelming than charming…

Especially June to August, expect to elbow your way to a seat in a noisy and rushed environment that is a far cry from the slow, soulful rhythm of a real Portuguese meal".

> Try instead – Any of the thousands of regular, affordable, family-run local restaurants across the city. They might not always look too glamorous, but typically offer quality food at reasonable prices, in friendly, informal environments.

'As Bifanas do Afonso' is an unremarkable corner takeaway on the edge of the city centre (Baixa), which has been selling the classic working men's pork sandwiches (Bifanas) for decades (thin slices of pork, marinated in garlic/wine, in a soft bread roll). Two years ago the Atlas Obscura website ('The Definitive Guide To The World's Hidden Wonders') decided this extremely un-hidden bifana takeaway was remarkable, so now every AI-driven website is repeating the same hype, and tourists queue for hours in the sun to get a sandwich that you could pick up in any café across the city. Great for the owners of As Bifanas do Afonso (who do make a classic bifana), but don't waste your holiday queuing in the hot sun because lazy websites keep repeating each other's content.

Which museums & sites are worth the queue?

Like any European city, there are a few tourist sights that are really only worth seeing if you have a specialist interest in (for example, Baroque architecture), or you are particularly keen on church interiors. Sometimes the hours spent in peak-season queues can leave you wondering why you bothered! You can make up your own mind, but I think the following places, while culturally significant, get an exaggerated amount of attention, can involve a lot of queueing during peak-season, and might leave you feeling underwhelmed - and below are a few selected alternatives….

The Belem Tower (Torre de Belem) is a charming symbol of Lisbon, and it marks a key moment in the development of late-Gothic design - but it's practically empty inside and the summer queues can be epic, so unless you are particularly fascinated by late-Gothic stonework, the interior is just not that exciting. You can still appreciate its charm from outside, take a photo, tick it off your list, save yourself the queue.

The Jerónimos Monastery (Mosteiro de Jeronimos) in Belem is a wonderful sight, and a significant historic building – but be careful not to mix-up the monastery/cloister with the adjoining church – these are treated very differently. The great church is bigger, has an extraordinary interior, is free to enter and generally has a much shorter queue. The Monastery/cloister are architecturally important, but they are not huge, you need to pay, and during busy periods you will have to queue in the hot sun for hours! So, unless you are fascinated by the transition from late Gothic to Renaissance architecture, you could probably give the monastery/cloister a miss. But do go see the church – it's from the same period, is bigger, free, cool, atmospheric and you can generally walk straight in (or it will have a short queue).

The Pastel de Belem bakery (Pastéis de Belém) custard tart shop. Well, who doesn't like a custard tart (pastel de nata)!? - and the Pastéis de Belém is the original source, where Portuguese custard tarts were invented - but it can also be tourist hell on a busy day, the interior is modern and characterless, you can get custard tarts anywhere these days, and many people prefer other recipes anyway! So save yourself the crowds, the queuing and the noise - go sit in the sunny gardens, enjoy the fresh air and get a pastel de nata somewhere else later.

Lisbon Cathedral (Sé). If the walls of this ancient, sombre place could speak they would have great stories to tell - but it was always a simple building, the later decoration was lost to repeated earthquakes, and a dodgy 'restoration' patched it up in the 19th Century - So unless you are particularly enthusiastic about archaeology, this ancient church probably doesn't have the glamour you might expect from a capital city's main cathedral.

N.B. Three museums are currently closed for refits, and one finally reopens this month: Check online for updates:

Museu National de Arte Antiga (National Museum of Ancient Art) is a wonderful collection of church art (mainly). After a refit that has closed the museum for over a year, it is scheduled to reopen on November 23rd at 3pm with a special program of activities, guided tours, workshops, concerts, and new temporary exhibitions. It's an outstanding collection of mainly Portuguese church art – plus some exellent material from Portugal's long colonial history. www.museudearteantiga.pt ; www.instagram.com/p/DfFicROD2Kl/?cplk=MTVpNXNxYmx3ZjBocg%3D%3D

The Tile Museum (Museu Nacional do Azulejo) closed for a refit in Nov 2025. We wait to find out when they will reveal their new look. www.museunacionaldoazulejo.pt ; www.facebook.com/museunazulejo

The National Museum of Costume and Dress. (Museu Nacional do Traje). Museum currently closed for renovation. The gardens remain open Tues to Sunday, from 10:00-13:00 and 14:00-18:00. Ticket 3€. www.museusemonumentos.pt/en/museus-e-monumentos/museu-nacional-do-traje ; www.facebook.com/MuseuNacionaldoTraje

Try instead… It's up to you, but I think these few places are under-rated, less crowded and more enjoyable:

The great church of Sao Roque. In a square on the edge of Bairro Alto (not far from the famous garden view-point at Miradouro de São Pedro de Alcântara) is the plain front of this fascinating church (Which was a gay cruising ground in the 16/17th Centuries! - Join 'Alex's Queer Lisbon History Tour' to hear more about that!). The church interior is an orgy of gilded carving, it's free to enter, you can see the world's second-largest collection of reliquaries exposing the bones and skulls of dead saints, see Europe's most costly chapel from the 1740s, and there's also an adjoining museum where you can see additional church paintings, relics and gold. Decent toilets in the museum entrance; coffee, water and shade (and more toilets) in the square outside. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Igreja_de_S%C3%A3o_Roque ; https://museusaoroque.scml.pt/en/home

The Medeiros e Almeida museum (Museu Medeiros e Almeida). Near Marques de Pombal Metro, at the top of the grand Avenida da Liberdade. This private collection of decorative arts, interiors, furniture, painting and jewellery is spectacular, air conditioned, calm, restful and charming. each month at 10:00 and 11:30). www.museumedeirosealmeida.pt/ (For a nearby lunch or dinner, visit the Cinemateca film institute – their garden café is Fab!: www.cinemateca.pt).

Aljube Museum of Resistance and Freedom. (Museu do Aljube Resistência e Liberdade). Not everyone's cup of tea – but this will give you insights into modern Lisbon like no other museum. During the Dictatorship (1926-1974) this medieval prison near the Cathedral (Sé) was used by the political police to interrogate and torture members of the resistance. Today the museum graphically features the stories of men and women whose struggle ultimatley led to the success of the 1974 democratic revolution – just 51 years ago. Respected and recommended. www.museudoaljube.pt .

The Gulbenkian Collection re-opened in July 2026 after a refit. This remarkable and varied private art collection in a purpose-built building, with elegant galleries and a nice café, is set in wonderful lake-side gardens https://gulbenkian.pt/museu (plus a separate building housing modern/contemporary Portuguese art https://gulbenkian.pt/cam/).

Feira da Ladra. For a free option that gives you a flavour of Lisbon this famous flea market is open every Tuesday and Saturday morning throughout the year (09:00 - ~16:00, depending on the weather and crowds) in Campo de Santa Clara, just near the central Alfama disrict, and manages to maintain an authentic charm. There are a few clothes stalls offering Chinese fakes, but most stalls have heaps of curious odds-and-ends, 'antiques' and 'junk', plus artesanal knick-nacks in the pretty market building. There are public toilets under the shady gardens, and plently of cafes, a garden quiosque, and the nearby pantheon and monastery churches to visit. https://informacoeseservicos.lisboa.pt/contactos/diretorio-da-cidade/feira-da-ladra

In Belem – If you visit the nearby suburb of Belem with its variety of cultural sites and collections, do go to the Jeronimos church (for free, with typically short queues – See above), and perhaps also visit the…

Museum of Contemporary Art (MAC) (previously the 'Berardo Collection'). The entrance to the MAC is inside the Centro Cultural de Belém (CCB) - the massive pink bunker of a building on the great square of Belem. The CCB contains various art projects, galleries and concert halls but the MAC collection of contemporary art is the stand-out feature, featuring pivotal art movements from ~1900 to the modern day - arranged chronologically, so that you walk through developments in Western art from one room to the next: Cubism, Dadaism, Surrealism, Abstract Expressionism, Pop Art, Minimalism, etc (Picasso, Marcel Duchamp, Max Ernst, Mondrian, Joan Miró, Francis Bacon, Yves Klein, Andy Warhol, Frank Stella, Gerhard Richter, etc, etc). Plus some impressive temporary exhibitions.

The National Coach Museum (Museu Nacional dos Coches) might not sound immediately fascinating, but this exceptional collection of elegant (mostly royal) vehicles from the 16th to the 19th centuries is a unique and gives insights into the past. Many of these were the prestige sports-cars of their time, and the most grand were used to impress the Vatican for political leverage in the 18th Century. Dislayed in the extraordinary purpose-built, modern box of a building, between the Belem railway station and the tram line – so very easy to reach (and there's an ice cream parlour

'The SHORT LIST' for a queer night out in Lisbon.

If you're visiting for the first time, this SHORT LIST gives you a few ideas for a queer night on the LGBTQ scene - depending on your mood. (If that's not your cup of tea, or you know Lisbon's nightlife already, skip forward to the themed sections, starting with This month's events).

Bear in mind that the weather, time of year and day-of-the-week will affect schedules/crowds.

Most of the gay scene venues are in the adjoining districts of Bairro Alto and Principe Real (see below) where bars officially close around 02:00 (03:00 on weekends and the nights before a public holiday). But in the last few years a small number of more contemporary queer venues have opened around Intendent/Graca, and there are other venues dotted around the city. These tend to open earlier and close around 01:00, and all have performance/dance spaces.

- For the full range of queer spaces and events in Lisbon see: Alex's LGBTQ map of Lisbon
- To see what's on this week check out the various calendars at: Where to hear about events
- And follow the social media for individual venues listed in: LGBTQ Scene: bars, nightclubs, women's venues/networks, drag burlesque and cabaret, saunas/sex venues

18:00 options - Too early to be going out – Chill.

- Gaze at the view from the miradouros (viewing parks and belvederes) of Sao Pedro de Alcantara, Santa Catarina, Jardim de Torel, etc (See 'Miradouros of Lisbon': www.embracesomeplace.com/best-miradouros-lisbon-portugal)
- Visit the relaxed gardens & cafes at Jardim Principe Real or Praca das Flores.
- Go for a stroll by the river, or visit the Amoreiras garden near Rato to see the aqueduct, and drop in at Bar Procopio (see 'Classy Bars and speakeasys' below).

19:00 options - Pre-dinner drinks, time for a stroll.

- In Principe Real, drop in at the terrace of Bar Tres for an early beer from 18:00 (Free cake on Sundays 18:00-20:00). ('see 'LGBTQ Scene' below)
- In Bairro Alto, Friends Bar opens at 18:00 with shady seating in the street.

20:00 options - Dinner time.

- The restaurants of Bairro Alto can be characterful (maybe a bit touristy), smaller, generally not expensive. (For some simple, traditional Portuguese food, try A Primavera, which has a famous photo of Josephine Baker's 1939 visit: Restaurant a Primavera. Travessa da Espera, 34, Bairro Alto. [For more on the scandalous bisexual Josephine Baker's visit to Lisbon as a war-time spy in 1941, join me on 'Alex's Queer Lisbon History Tour'])

- Restaurants in Principe Real tend to be a bit smarter, a little pricier than Bairro Alto, but also calmer (book ahead on weekends in peak season). There is a variety of good small restaurants (many with outside seating) in and around Praca das Flores, 1200-192, including the nearby gay-owned Swiss bistro: www.edelweiss-bistro.com
- If you fancy a drag show with your dinner book ahead at Manny's Place. (Tues-Sun 20:00-24:00) (see 'Drag, Burlesque and camp, colourful Cabaret' below).

21:00 options - Still dinner time, or very early drinks.

- For a relaxed, stylish drink indoors, try Procopio, or if you like a game of pool, Foxtrot or Pavilhão Chines. (see 'Classy Bars and speakeasys' below)
- Try a game of darts, a beer and bar-snacks at Portuguese Pub, Rua da Barroca, 15, Bairro Alto. Not a specifically queer space, but friendly, chilled and relaxed. www.instagram.com/pub.portugues
- For a drink outdoors, the crowd at Friends Bar in Bairro Alto will be warming up, and Bar Tr3s in Principe Real will get busier around ten-ish.
- If you fancy a drag show without having to stay up too late, it's time to get in for the early 'Café Concert' at Lisbon's most famous drag venue, Finalmente (19:00-0:30 [show starts at 22:30]) (see 'Drag, Burlesque & Cabaret' below).

22:00 options - Time for an early drink.

- Around 22:00 more bars are opening in Bairro Alto and Principe Real.
- Drop in at the friendly Bar 106 in Principe Real (opens at 21:00, but come early on a Sunday for their flirty 'message nights') ('see 'LGBTQ Scene' below)

23:00 options - Time for another drink?

- Most restaurants are closing, bars are getting busy. (N.B. Since March 2026, the sale of alcohol for street drinking has been banned in Lisbon from 23:00 to 08:00 (8am the following day) Sunday to Thursday, and from midnight to 08:00 on Friday, Saturday, & public holiday eves [Exceptions for licensed terraces, and throughout June for the traditional Festas]. This is expected to impact the bar culture in Bairro Alto [and around Cais do Sodre, incl. 'Pink Street']. We wait to see how this develops!)
- If you want to start dancing early, head to Purex now – free entry, mixed male/female crowd, fun bar, DJ & a small dance floor. (see 'LGBTQ Scene': nightclubs for dancing)

24:00 options - Time for more drinks!? (Good time to drink some water??)

- Bars are getting crowded.
- If the hectic energy of Bairro Alto is too much for you, head to the more relaxed streets and bars of Principe Real.

01:00 options - Time to think about clubbing (or bed)?

- Most bars will close at 02:00 (03:00 on weekends and the evening before a public holiday).

- Think about getting into a club before the 01:30/02:00 rush. (‘see ‘Nightclubs for dancing’ below)
- For a night of dancing and a drag show - head for the late show at ‘Finalmente’ (01:00-06:00 [show starts at 03:00: arrive early]).

02:00 options.

- Bars are closing at 02:00 (03:00 on weekends and before a public holiday).
- Most nightclubs have a rush at the doors before 01:30/02:00

Four nights out in queer Lisbon (and one night in):

If The Short List itinerary above sounds too complicated, here are a few options for different queer nights in Lisbon: (directions: 'Alex's Map of LGBTQ Lisbon' https://shorturl.at/fBJ19)

1 – The all-night bar crawl on the streets of Bairro Alto

For a hectic night stumbling from one bar to another, a night in Bairro Alto is a signature experience of Lisbon nightlife. A gay-friendly vibe, with several specifically gay venues (see 'LGBTQ Scene' below, and 'Alex's Map of LGBTQ Lisbon': https://shorturl.at/fBJ19), the streets are full of characterful restaurants and, as more restaurants close (after 22:30) more bars open. All Bairro Alto venues close at 02:00 in the week, and 03:00 on weekends and the night before a public holiday. The atmosphere is often hectic but always friendly.
But, starting in Feb 2026, the sale of alcohol for drinking outside has been banned in Lisbon from 23:00 to 08:00 Sunday to Thursday, and from midnight to 08:00 on Friday, Saturday, & public holiday eves [Exceptions for licensed terraces, and throughout June for Lisbon's traditional Festas]. This is expected to impact the party vibe in Bairro Alto [and around Cais do Sodre, incl. 'Pink Street']. We wait to see how this develops!)

Queer scene dance clubs are mostly in the nearby neighbourhood of Principe Real (see below) and don't get busy until around 01:30 (entry is sometimes free before 01:00, and at busy times there's often a rush to get in before 02:00).

2 – An earlier and less hectic night in Principe Real

A good place to stroll (rather than stumble) from one gay bar to the next is a calmer neighbourhood of Principe Real, where the gay bars are less hectic than Bairro Alto and, while the atmosphere is still fun, there's more chance of a conversation, and less chance of having beer spilled on you. There are heaps of restaurants in this middle-class residential neighbourhood, including several with outside terraces around the gardens of Praca das Flores. One gay bar in Principe Real opens early at 18:00, which is unusual in Lisbon (Bar Tr3s), but others open around 21:00 and everywhere gets busy after 22:30.

(These bars tend to be mostly - not exclusively - male, but, although there won't be many women in the queer bars, women are welcome everywhere and the atmosphere isn't hostile. For Lisbon venues popular with queer women, see below).

3 – Hang-outs for queer women

While Bairro Alto's bars will be crowded with a good mix of men and women and have a couple of women's venues (see Purex bar/dance venue, and Bairrus Bodega in the 'Women venues/events' section), there isn't the same concentration of women's bars/venues that there are for gay men (Surprise, huh!).

'Alex's LONG LIST - guide to LGBTQ Lisbon & Portugal' is intellectual property, copyright © 2026 by Alex Pollard. Copying or use of this text must acknowledge the source in emphasis equal to the reuse text: "Alex's LONG LIST - guide to LGBTQ Lisbon & Portugal' from 'Alex's Lisbon Tours & Events': www.tickettailor.com/events/alextoursevents"

For more queer women's hangouts it's necessary to look a little further beyond Bairro Alto/Principe Real: The hipster Drama Bar in Intendente/Graca is a mixed venue popular with women. Drama Bar's event space hosts varied live music nights, dance nights, shows, dinners, film nights, bingo, poetry and performances. From there it's not too far to Damas - a lively restaurant and live music venue, which is wonderfully gender-queer, does good food and live music and/or dance nights.
New in July 2026, Saficas Bar opened on the east side of the city "where art, culture, and community meet". This cultural collective has been quietly staging occasional events active since 2021, and has now opened Saficas bar (Metro: Santa Apolonia).
Lisbon also has a number of dynamic online women's social networks such as Velcro, Azu-Lez, Fabulez, Censuradas, Goddess and Rave Girly, which organise irregular pop-up events at various venues – Not just drunken parties, but also varied social and creative options. See 'Women's venues/events' for more and follow their social media for up-coming shows/events, and also see Women's groups, organisations and services).

4 – For a night of dancing

Brace yourself for a late night – most nightclubs in Lisbon won't get busy until around 01:30 at the earliest (on busy nights there's generally a rush to get in just before 02:00); but there are a few options for earlier dancing. The following venues all have relatively mixed male/female crowds (Construction is the most male-dominated):

Trumps is the largest queer dance venue, with two dance floors, the youngest crowd and drag shows, until 06:00 (Ages: 18+/20s/30s); Posh Club is mixed, mainly 20s/30s/+, closes at 06:00, themed weekends sometimes need to be booked in advance; Construction caters to a slightly older (Ages: 30s/40s/50s/+) 'shirts-off' crowd, with international guest DJs, until 06:00.

For dancing earlier in the evening –
Purex is a bar (Wed to Sat) with a small dance floor, no entry charge, owned by and popular with a mixed crowd, open Wed/Thurs to Sat from 22:00 and closes at 02:00 (03:00 on weekends and the nights before a public holiday); Drama Bar in Intendente/Graca is also very mixed gender and has occasional dance nights from 21:00-01:00 (mostly Fri & Sat, but check their social media).

Lisbon also has wide variety of monthly and occasional queer pop-up dance party events with dedicated followings, an active rave scene, and occasional circuit parties that pop up throughout the year - see 'Nightclubs for dancing – Regular clubs, circuit parties, party networks and raves', or check the calendar 'What's on this month and What's On tonight', and follow groups' social media to keep up with event locations, dates, hours, etc. The most interesting/edgy/niche dance and rave clubs aren't usually on the weekends.

5 – A quiet night in. If you need a break from going out, try these:

'Barba Rija' (Rough Beard) is a fun Portuguese web series available for free on YouTube, with English or Spanish subtitles (click on CAPTIONS on the lower right of the screen). Seven short episodes.
www.youtube.com/@barbarijawebserie

Twenty Portuguese TV shows (with English subtitles) that you can stream www.portugalist.com/portuguese-tv-subtitles/#more-9009

'Ficou Tudo Bem' (It All Went OK). This web series of interviews from 2023 is more serious (and only available in Portuguese). It presents sincere and sometimes emotional interviews between the LGBTI+ activist Vasco Rosa and seven men and women who speak about their experiences and successes in overcoming the challenges of living LGBTI+ in Portugal. www.youtube.com/@FicouTudoBem/videos

Stream a film set in Libson - and then you can go spot the locations the next day! 😊. For a couple of films that you can see for free on your own laptop or phone, and/or a list of Lisbon's cinemas see: Films and Cinema. [Cinemas usually show films in their original language, with Portuguese subtitles].

Queer Events Calendar 18 pages!

I update this list of queer events and key dates every month. I can only include events that were announced or sent to me before the 1st of the month (when I do the monthly update), so events that weren't announced until later in the month could be missing. To stay up-to-date with all of Portugal's events, follow the social media for groups/events you're interested in.

Do you want to see your event in 'Alex's LONG LIST' events calendar?

'Alex's LONG LIST guide to LGBTQ Lisbon & Portugal' is updated every month and aims to include every LGBTQ-related event across Portugal – for free – no charges for inclusion.

'Alex's LONG LIST' is brought to you by

Alex's Queer Lisbon History Tour

Know the city*!

Join us for a fun stroll to hear about Lisbon's fascinating (sometimes bizarre!) queer history. 'Alex's Queer Lisbon History Tour' half-day walking tour brings you anecdotes from Lisbon's scandalous queer history by visiting historic sites to hear stories that will bring you closer to the city, and passes the main LGBTQ scene venues along the way.

- 17th Century cruising sites, Lisbon's first lesbian bar, the 16th Century Inquisition arresting gay men, see where the first drag show started in the 1970s, lesbians battling 1960s censorship, why 'Fado' is a bit queer, how Lisbon Pride is different, stories from 19th Century sex-work, bisexual jazz-legend Josephine Baker spying in WWII, gay men dodging 1950s crack-downs, 18th Century lesbian nuns, a 19th Century Trans love story, how LGBT rights were established in Portugal, gay writers, disgraced politicians, queer pop stars, straight censors - all this and more, and we end with a social drink!

This fun event also passes most of the scene venues and gives you inside knowledge of today's scene and community. Know the City! Suitable for solo-travellers. 3.8km(2.3miles). 3.5 hours. Age:16+.

"I set up Alex's Lisbon Tours & Events to share the stories I love about the city – not just the routine sights, but fun experiences in historic locations, with anecdotes and insights that bring history alive - plus opportunities to meet fellow travellers as we pass by the scene venues.

I first came to Lisbon in 1989 and fell in love with the city. I have a post-grad degree in Cultural Studies and have lived in Lisbon since 2019. Join me on a tour and have fun getting to know Lisbon better".

Two 'Queer Lisbon' tours are available: the half-day walking tour, and occasional Treasure Hunt group events:

'Alex's Queer Lisbon half-day walking tour - scene and history' – a fun afternoon group tour with stories from Lisbon's scandalous, celebratory (sometimes bizarre!) queer history.

'Alex's Queer Lisbon Treasure Hunt event' – a Treasure Hunt in queer history that leads small groups on an adventure around the gay-scene neighbourhoods of Bairro Alto and Principe

The Lisbon LGBTQ Scene: bars, drag venues, venues popular with queer women, dance clubs, saunas/sex venues.

For other cities across Portugal see 'Across Portugal: Porto, the Algarve, & Other cities & regions (incl Azores & Madeira)'.

You can also use the search button  at the top of the screen to find info; or use the tools bar to  move through pages, and to downoad a PDF of 'Alex's LONG LIST' to read more easily.

There are three main areas of Lisbon city centre with concentrations of LGBTQ venues: Bairro Alto, Principe Real and Intendente/Graca (and there is also one community venue near Marques de Pombal, the Centro LGBT in Baixa, and another couple of venues across the river in Almada):-

- Bairro Alto has plenty of gay (and gay-friendly) bars and gets hectic after 23:00 - as lively mixed crowds push through packed streets from one bar to the next - especially in the summer and on weekends.

  Starting in Feb 2026 - the sale of alcohol for street drinking has been banned from 23:00 to 08:00 (8am the following day) Sunday to Thurs, and from Midnight to 08:00 on Fri, Sat, & public holiday eves (Exceptions for licensed terraces, home delivery, and throughout June during Lisbon's traditional Festas festival). This is expected impact the bar culture in Bairro Alto (and around Cais do Sodre, incl. 'Pink Street'). We wait to see how this develops!

  - https://informacao.lisboa.pt/en/news/detail/new-rules-on-the-sale-of-drinks-for-street-consumption-1#:~:text=Lisbon%20City%20Council%20has%20approved,and%208am%20the%20following%20day

- The gay venues in the nearby neighbourhood of Principe Real are more widely spaced across a quieter residential area, tend to be a bit less hectic and attract a slightly older crowd. The three main queer dance venues (Trumps, Construction, Posh) are here too
- The broad neighbourhood of Intendente/Graca/east of the city cenre has recently been developing a few new queer spaces and cafes/restaurants, which all have performance/event spaces. These venues tend to be more imaginative, quirky and queer than the regular gay bars, with events, live music, dance nights, performances, food and workshops, and often have earlier opening times. (see 'Intendente/Graca and further afield' below, & follow social media).
- There's also the excellent 'Aconchego House' near Marques de Pombal, which is a non-profit, trans-led LGBTQIA+ community venue with a relaxed café/bar on one side, and a co-working space on the other. They host regular social events, including Friday night Queer Karaoke, dance classes, meditation groups, board game nights, yoga, painting workshops, queer comedy nights, pop-up kitchen/dining experiences, and a monthly Amateur Drag Show. Rua São Sebastião da Pedreira, 72, 1050-206, Lisboa. www.instagram.com/aconchego.house Their events calendar is updated regularly and easy to read: www.aconchego.house/collab

Beyond the Scene…

If you're in Lisbon or Porto for a visit, the commercial scene of bars, clubs, etc (listed on the next few pages) are more than enough to fill a week-or-two. But if you're staying longer, or just want to meet people outside of a bar or an App, you'll need to read beyond this section and follow a few social media accounts for Portugal's queer social scene...

LGBTQ social groups across Portugal are diverse and busy, with something for everyone: pop-up party networks, boardgame nights, circuit parties, adventure sports, queer women's sex networks, volunteering opportunities, rainbow family groups, queer Fado, a queer techno/rave scene, book groups, ex-pat groups, youth groups, LGBTQ choirs, queer Black social groups, Carnival collectives, publishing projects, hiking and outdoor groups, Grrrls roller derby, political groups, multiple sports groups, WhatsApp social networks, beach sports, student associations, quiz nights, Trans socials, queer picnics, Brazilian samba groups, Women's maracatu, Ballroom nights, social support organisations, Goddess and Temple nights, women's arts groups, monthly club nights, food workshops, mid-week meetups, amateur dramatics, queer Portuguese language exchanges and teachers – the list of queer groups goes on and on!

Queer life in Portugal has changed a lot over the last 20+ years and many LGBTQ people live queer lives among their families and friends. But queer social networks are still vital for building networks, building confidence, finding support, and maybe meeting the love of your life.

The commercial LGBTQ scene can be great fun, but there's more to life than bars and Grindr. There are more opportunities than ever to make queer friends and socialise in queer spaces – and not just in Lisbon/Porto.

So when you're ready to get more involved with the queer communities of Portugal, finish reading the 'Scene' section on the next few pages, but also have a read through other sections, like 'Meeting people, making friends and having fun' - and follow the social media accounts for everything you think might be fun –

The Lisbon Scene: LGBTQ Bars

To see where the scene venues are located, and to find your way around, bookmark 'Alex's Map of LGBTQ Lisbon' on Googlemaps: https://shorturl.at/fBJ19

Bairro Alto.

Friends Bar.
Lively, fun bar with a youngish crowd, friendly staff, commercial music and reasonable prices. (Friends Bar is unusual in opening early at 18:00, while most bars open around 21:00). It's small inside but on warm afternoons/evenings it fills the street with tables – on weekend evenings it's impossible to move around inside!
Friends Bar, Travessa da Água da Flor, 17, Bairro Alto. Open every day 18:00-02:00 (03:00 on weekends). www.facebook.com/friendsbairroalto ; www.instagram.com/friendsbairroalto

Construction Bar.
This outpost bar from the well-established 'Construction nightclub' (see 'Nightclubs for dancing' below) serves a crowd of party-oriented boys and girls (and replaced the 'Burlesque Bar' that was previously at this address).
Construction Bar. Rua da Rosa, 159, Bairro Alto. Wed & Thurs 20:00-02:00, Fri & Sat 20:00-03:00, Sunday 18:00-02:00. www.instagram.com/construction_bar

Side Bar.
You are the Dancing Queen! Tiny, but gloriously camp bar with mirror-balls and music. The crowd spills into the street most nights of the week and mingles with the crowds from the other nearby queer venues on this lower stretch of Rua da Barroca (below).
Side Bar, Rua da Barroca, 33. Bairro Alto. Open every day 18:00- 02:0 (03:00 on weekends)
www.facebook.com/side.bairroalto

Maria Caxuxa.
The bar, Maria Caxuxa, is popular with a mixed crowd, busy, lively, with DJs until 3am on weekends. A fun place for informal parties and bar-hopping between the other nearby queer bars.
Maria Caxuxa, Rua da Barroca 6-12. Thurs, Fri, Sat 22:00-02:00 (03:00 on weekends)
www.facebook.com/mariacaxuxabar

Purex.
A bar – with a dance floor! Owned and largely staffed by women, this is a popular mixed gender-diverse bar with a small dance floor (One of the few places to dance before 01:30). Free entry. Gets packed and spills in the surrounding streets. Open on Thurs, Fri and Saturdays.
Purex, Rua das Salgadeiras, 28, Bairro Alto. Wed, Thurs, Fri, Sat 22:00-02:00 (03:00 weekends/holidays). www.facebook.com/purexclube

Shelter Bar reopened in April 2026 at their new address in Bairro Alto after its previous venue in Principe Real closed in Jan – Now on Rua do Diario de Noticias 4 to 6, just round the corner from Purex and Maria Caxuxa.

Popular and friendly bear bar with a relaxed atmosphere. DJs from 22:00 on weekends. Special event nights for Carnival, Eurovision etc. Open every day from 18:00-02:00 (03:00 on weekends).
Shelter Bar, Rua do Diario de Noticias, 4 - 6. www.facebook.com/shelterbarlisboa

Bairrus Bodega.
Portuguese wine bar in Bairro Alto, just across the road from Purex. Not specifically an LGBTQ venue, but very positive and popular with a queer crowd, especially women. Bairrus aims to evoke the spirit of old Portuguese taverns: so if you're interested in wine this is a good place to sample and learn from the (mostly female) bar staff.
Bairrus Bodega (it doesn't have a clear name/sign, but it is number 3 Rua da Barroca), Rua da Barroca, 3, Bairro Alto. Mon-Sat 19:00 to 02:00. Closed Sundays. (Opening times fluctuate and may not be consistent). www.facebook.com/profile.php?id=100066808600258

Late Birds Hotel
Pool parties, art exhibits & residencies, live performances, drag shows, community mixers, Monday film nights - a whole range of queer events take place at this boutique gay hotel - they also organise sunset boat parties, and you can get a day-pass to use their garden/pool. The hotel is pretty-much booked by men and caters to an up-market crowd, but their events are varied and welcoming to everyone – incuding frequent events from the 'Queer Lisbon' social network (www.meetup.com/queer-lisbon).
Late Birds Hotel, Travessa André Valente 21-21A, Lisboa, Bairro Alto, 1200-024, Lisbon.

Film nights: www.thelatebirdslisbon.com/cinema-cycle

Sunday Tea Dance
A short walk from Bairro Alto really, but for a relaxed, Sunday afternoon pub-vibe with good music it can be worth it. Run by DJ Amadeo Barcelona, who previously DJd at Shelter Bar and still guest DJs at 'BIG' events.
17:00-22:00. www.instagram.com/amadeobarcelona

Principe Real.

Bar 106.
Small, friendly, neighbourhood bar in Principe Real (I always seem to get chatting to people in this bar – friendly place). Famous for its Sunday evening message nights, which let you leave discrete notes for other customers to read and respond 😊 (21:00-02:00)!
Bar 106, rua São Marçal, 106. Principe Real. Tues to Thurs 21:00 to 2:00. Fri, Sat, Sunday 21:00 to 03:00. www.instagram.com/bar106lx

Shelter Bar This popular and friendly bear bar closed their Principe Real address in Jan 2026 and reopened in April 2026 at their new address in Bairro Alto – Now at: Rua do Diario de Noticias 4 to 6, (just round the corner from Purex and Maria Caxuxa).

Shelter Bar, Rua do Diario de Noticias, 4 - 6. Open every day from 18:00-02:00 (03:00 on weekends). www.facebook.com/shelterbarlisboa

Bar Tr3s.
Popular and friendly community-oriented bear bar open in the late afternoon, with outdoor seating until closing. Voted one of the ten best bear bars in the world by Bear World Magazine! Free cake on Sunday 18:00-20:00. Opens early, at 18:00.
Bar Tr3s, Rua Rubén a Leitão, 2A, Principe Real. Every day 18:00-02:00 (03:00 on weekends).
www.tr3slisboa.com

Bar Tr3s also runs the annual 'Lisbon Bear Pride', with events and parties at their Vila Tr3s gay resort and spa near the beaches south of Lisbon (and at other venues) in May/June each year.

Intendente/Graca, Marques de Pombal, and across the river (Almada)

Saficas Bar (and Saficas Cultura*).
New in July 2026. "Where art, culture, and community meet". This women's cultural collective has been staging occasional events since 2021, but reached a new level activity in July 2026 when they opened Saficas Bar and cultural space to the east of the city centre (Metro: Santa Apolonia). It's a little way out of the city centre, but walkable fro the Metro at Santa Apolonia, or grab an Uber/Bolt. Opening hours initially: 16:00-23:00, Friday to Monday.
Saficas Bar, Rua do Vale de Santo António 48C, 1170-381. (Metro: Santa Apolonia).
www.instagram.com/saficas.cultura

Damas (Graca)
Bar, casual restaurant and live music venue. Located between Alfama and Graca, this popular space has a fun and affordable restaurant, bar, and an event space. Not specifically LGBT, this is nevertheless popular with a very mixed queer crowd where Trans and gender non-conformity is fully embraced.
Rua da Voz do Operário, 60, Graca. Various hours: typically, 12:30-01:00 (04:00 at weekends), check online for details:
www.facebook.com/DAMASLISBOA ; www.instagram.com/damas.lisboa

Drama Bar. (Intendente/Graca)
Queer bar/performance space in Intendente/Graca, with a large basement space for dancing and events. Popular with a mixed male/female/non-binary crowd, with (early) live music and/or dance nights on Fri & Sat, and occasional burlesque/drag shows, dinners, film nights, drag bingo, and performances in the basement. (Note: There were two other bars in Lisbon called 'Drama Bar' in the past – make sure you have the right address).
Rua Damasceno Monteiro 75B, 1170-113, Lisbon.
Thurs, Fri, Sunday:19:00–00:00. Sat/Sun 19:00-01:00.

The Lisbon Scene:

Drag, Burlesque and camp, colourful Cabaret!

Finalmente.
Lisbon's best known drag venue – a Lisbon institution! Small, can get super-crowded after 01:30 on weekends. Well established for over 40 years, Finalment means 'Finally' and was once the place where Lisbon party-goers finished an evening. Today there are many more options for a late night out, but Finalmente still keeps its place as a popular party favourite. Two separate shows to choose from, seven nights a week (Book ahead in summer):

- 'Café Concert' early evening (19:00-0:30 [show starts at 22:30])
- 'Finalmente Dance Club' (01:00-06:00 [show starts at 03:00]).

Finalmente, Rua da Palmeira, 38. Principe Real. www.finalmenteclub.com

GalaCriCri.
If you like a camp night out, look out forGalaCriCri!
After three years residence at the Palacio Grilo, this unique combination of cabaret, restaurant and night-club now erupts for one-off events at various venues - still hosted by the amazing Brazilian art-DJ duo 'Venga Venga'. This unique combination of creative glamour, high camp, and wild excess continues to enchant and thrill Lisbon.

The Lisbon Scene:
Scene venues and networks popular with Queer Women

To plan ahead and find your way around bookmark 'Alex's Map of LGBTQ Lisbon' on Googlemaps:
https://shorturl.at/fBJ19

Lisbon has only a couple of regular venues specifically popular with for women (see below), but a new one openend in summer 2026 (Saficas bar) and Lisbon also has a good number of dynamic social/party networks that organise vibrant nights at various venues. These women's parties might not be so regular or routine as bars that are open every night, but their occasional events are often creative and inspiring, attract enthusiastic followers, and can provide especially intense nights out for those who know where to look. To stay informed about the latest events it is necessary to follow their social media and keep your eye on the latest news.

(Also - bear in mind that LGBTQ scenes vary between countries, and in Portugal most queer spaces will be more-or-less mixed sex. Apart from men-only sex clubs, women will be welcome in most every venue).
For more on the queer women's scene, parties and social opportunities in Lisbon also see Women's groups, organisations and services, which includes women's social networks and groups, sports teams, sex networks, social support organisations, women's Facebook, Meetup and other online groups, etc.

'Siren Call Lisboa' events calendar and newsletter. New in November 2025 a regularly updated calendar of events and a newsletter for 'FLINTA+' people (Female, Lesbian, Intersex, Non-binary, Trans, or Agender / 'WTFNB' [in the USA]) in and around Lisbon! Your go-to for all things on Lisbon's amazing FLINTA+ scene. Also includes events calendars for Setubal and Cascais.

Saficas bar (and Saficas Cultura). New in July 2026. "Where art, culture, and community meet". This cultural collective has been quietly staging occasional events active since 2021, but reached a new level activity when they opened Saficas bar and cultural space to the east of the city centre (Metro: Santa Apolonia). Opening hours initially: 16:00-23:00, Friday to Monday.
Rua do Vale de Santo António 48C, 1170-381 Lisbon. (Metro: Santa Apolonia).

Purex. (Bairro Alto)
Owned and largely staffed by women, this a popular mixed gender-queer LGBTQ bar is unusual in having a dance floor where you can dance early (for free) before nightclubs open and get busy after 02:00. Gets packed and spills into the surrounding streets in the summer.
Purex, Rua das Salgadeiras, 28, Bairro Alto. Wed, Thurs, Fri, Sat 22:00-02:00 (03:00 weekends/holidays). www.facebook.com/purexclube

Bairrus Bodega. (Bairro Alto)
Portuguese wine bar in Bairro Alto, just across Rua da Barroca from Purex (above). Popular with a queer, especially women's, crowd. Bairrus aims to evoke the spirit of the old Portuguese taverns: so if you're interested in wine this is a good place to sample and learn from the (mostly female) bar staff.
(The bar doesn't have a clear sign with the venue name, but it is number 3, Rua da Barroca).
Bairrus Bodega, Rua da Barroca, 3, Bairro Alto. Mon-Sat 19:00 to 02:00. Closed Sundays.

The Lisbon Scene:

Nightclubs for dancing – Regular clubs, circuit parties, party networks and raves.

(Also see Women's groups, organisations and services)

Age-checking is rare, but since 2015 the legal age for entering a nightclub is 16 years (18 in venues where there is sex on the premises), however some venues occasionally restrict to 18 on busy nights.

Keep your entry ticket! – they can usually be exchanged for a drink (sometimes two) at the bar.

To help plan ahead and find your way around bookmark 'Alex's Map of LGBTQ Lisbon' on Googlemaps: https://shorturl.at/fBJ19

Trumps (Principe Real) – is the longest-running and largest of the three main queer dance venues in Lisbon (along with Posh Club and Construction). Chart hits across its two dance floors attract a mostly young crowd (teens/20s/30s) and have a strong tradition of epic drag shows.
Rua da Imprensa Nacional, 104B, Principe Real. Open Thurs, Fri, Saturdays, and the night before public holidays, from 23:45 pm to 06:00 am (05:00 on Thurs). Tickets on the door, no pre-sale, no guest-list. Occasional promotions online: www.trumps.pt/shop

Construction (Principe Real) - One of the three largest gay dance venues in Lisbon (along with Trumps and Posh), Construction caters to a sexy 'shirts-off' crowd, mostly in their 30s/40s/50s, with regular themed nights, strippers, acts and guest DJs.
Rua Cecílio de Sousa, 82-84, Principe Real. Open Fridays, Saturdays and the eve of public holidays, from 23:00 to 06:00.

Lisbon's Queer Rave Scene:
A few hardcore rave collectives have been active in Lisbon since 2022/3. Venues/locations can vary (a key dance space in an industrial park near the airport (Prior Velho) that was a key home for many queer raves sadly closed in 2025 ☹, pushed out by rising rents and successive police inspections [www.instagram.com/planetamanas]). But this scene is adaptable, moves fast, and groups/events/venues keep coming, so follow the social media of rave networks (below) to stay up to date for this dynamic scene in Lisbon.

Outra Cena ('Another Scene'). (Marvila)
Sadly, Outra Scena's amazing activity has interrupted by a series of hostile bureaucratic hurdles and a police raid, which was then further undermined by the anticpated closure of the building for redevelopment. For now their usual residency is halted, but we wait to see what the oragnisers might do at another venue in the future.

Industrial techno vibes in an old factory a few kms from the city centre (imagine a reduced version of Berlin's Berghain), Outra Cena is one of Lisbon's most divisive clubs – it's either the most inclusive space (Trans-welcoming, no cameras allowed), or it's the most exclusive (getting in is a gamble based on the arbitrary decision of the door staff). Not my scene, but I'm told it is a popular hangout for a whole network of club-oriented Dolls.

Classy Bars and speakeasys

To plan ahead and find your way around bookmark 'Alex's Map of LGBTQ Lisbon' on Googlemaps: https://shorturl.at/fBJ19

The typical bars of Lisbon are small, affordable, unpretentious and lively, and in the tourist areas overpriced cocktail bars pop up every day. But for more relaxed, sophisticated drinking, cultured surroundings and mood-lighting you'll need directions to avoid tourist-traps and find the more interesting places.
None of the following bars advertise themselves as specifically LGBTQ, but all are generally welcoming and Foxtrot in particular has been a queer-friendly space since the 1970s. Don't be put off by the need to ring a doorbell for entry – they're not exclusive, but the door policy enables them to turn away large crowds and rowdy drunks. Most of these places are a little bit pricey and have table service.

Foxtrot.
In Principe Real near the local gay bars and can be included in a stroll around the neighbourhood. One of the oldest (and largest) bars in Lisbon, it claims its dimly lit rooms are decorated "like a typical English Pub" (sort of 😊), and it does have a tiny garden, a fireplace in winter, table service, a snooker table, a smoking room, and serves steak meals until very late. Open every day 18:00-02:00 (03:00 on weekends). Ring doorbell for entry.
Travessa Santa Teresa, 28, 1200-405, Lisbon. (Recognise it by its narrow art-deco entrance).
www.barfoxtrot.pt

Bar Procopio.
This smaller bar (with curious Art Nouveaux décor) is in a quiet courtyard at the distant end of Principe Real (after Rato Metro station) so might involve a bit of a walk, but it is lovely combined with an early evening stroll in the nearby Amoreiras gardens to see the aqueduct and have a pre-drink coffee at the garden's quiosque. Procópio has no sign, and its entrance front could pass for someone's home - a single room of red velvet, dark wood, gold and stained glass, with glass-bead curtains and bow-tied barmen. It opened 1972 and was one of the first night spots in the city that welcomed women! Family-run, it has made the European Bar Guide's top 100 bars. Mon-Sat 18:00-02:00. Closed Sundays and holidays.
Worth knowing before you go - the drinks aren't cheap!
*Alto de Sao Francisco, 21 A, (*off Rua João Penha), 1250, Lisboa. www.barprocopio.com
(This small courtyard is up a few steps from a quiet road but is worth the hunt –

Pavilhão Chines*. (Chinese Pavilion)
I hesitate to include Pavilhão Chines here because its convenient location between Bairro Alto/Principe Real has led to over-exposure. But earlier in the evening, before the crowds arrive, its fascinating interior of museum cabinets filled with nick-nacks and stuffed animals is a fun location, they do manage the overcrowding, and there are three pool tables in the rear. Table service. Ring doorbell for entry. Every day: 18:00-02:00.
Rua Dom Pedro V, 89/91. Príncipe Real, 1250-093.

The Royal Vessel Bar.
This charming and unpretentious cocktail bar is smaller and more discreet than your average Lisbon cocktail place, and its signature & classic cocktails are a world away from the sugary cocktails and greasy snacks found in most late-night spots. Dark wood, candlelight, a painted ceiling, and menus inside hardback books. With a short menu of Portuguese snacks & savory pies.
Open daily 18:00–02:00. (Larger groups should message before attending)

Kin Society / Kin Tables - A social club for gay men. New in August 2026.
Kin Society curates social networking events for gay men, aimed at building friendship and community. Kin Tables are curated dinners designed to provide a more natural way to meet beyond dating apps, nightlife or typical networking events:- six men, one table, one Thursday. Not a dating club - the focus is on social connection and creating a social circle in Lisbon through relaxed dinners.
Participants complete an online form with a few details about themselves and choose a Thursday. Applications are then reviewed within 24 hours and, if invited, a €14 Kin fee confirms a seat at the table. Food and drinks are paid directly to the restaurant. Open to all gay men living in Lisbon - Portuguese, international, newly arrived or long-term

Gay Beach Guide (Lisbon): where to go and how to get there.

(For gay beaches across Portugal see the last few entries in this section, and also visit the regional sections of this guide, which feature local gay beaches in those areas: Across Portugal – Porto, the Algarve, Other cities & regions)

Lisbon has two types of beaches – easy-to-reach City beaches and, across the river, the Wild beaches of Costa da Caparica (and Arrabida).

City beaches of Lisbon.

The many sandy (and some rocky) beaches near Lisbon are easy to reach by the trainline that shuttles back-and-forth between the Lisbon terminus at Cais do Sodre and its western end at Cascais (~40 minutes along the yellow line on the map below). The water and beaches are clean and generally well cared for (although beaches nearest the city are occasionally closed after Spring rains wash surface grime off the streets into the river).

These city beaches are easy to get to, are linked by a continuous promenade/path from Lisbon to Cascais, and can be great on quieter days, with beach umbrellas, toilets, cafes and restaurants etc. But these beaches are also popular with families and children over weekends and school holidays (Mid-June/Mid-Sept), can get super-crowded in the summer, and many of these beaches become narrow when there is a high tide. www.lisbonbeachesguide.com

None of this selected shortlist below is a specifically gay beach, but each have their own character. They can be fun to explore by walking between the beaches via the promenade/train stations:

- Caxias beach is one of the closest to central Lisbon, with a train station right next to the small castle that separates two beaches, and a further (narrow) beach to the right. Caxias is sometimes a bit quieter than beaches further up the railway line. During the summer, the small beach to the right of the castle (as you look at the sea) is probably one of the gayest beaches, and includes a concession on the sand run by queer staff, with umbrellas/sun-beds for rent and their own bar and toilets on the sand. There's also a bar/café/restaurant behind the beach, with a small grass lawn, toilets, showers, etc.
- The end of the railway line at Cascais (40 minutes from Cais do Sodre) has several smaller beaches in this pleasant (rather up-market) resort town, with lots of restaurants, shops, museums, parks, etc – a good option for a day out with more than just the beach.
- Carcavelos beach (15min walk from Carcavelos station) is the largest single expanse of sand and is lively with surfers, volley-ball players, large groups playing music, and has plenty of facilities (and a picturesque castle at one end).

Copying or use of this text must acknowledge the source in emphasis equal to the reuse text: "Alex's LONG LIST - guide to LGBTQ Lisbon & Portugal' from 'Alex's Lisbon Tours & Events': www.tickettailor.com/events/alextoursevents"

- Santo Amaro is popular, wide and lively, with a busy McDonalds in the park behind the beach, from where you can walk through the pleasant gardens to the small town centre and station of Oeiras.
- Between the stations of Parede and Estoril the long promenade includes a stretch of coastline that is mostly rocky (with smaller sandy beaches between), so if you're happy to sit on rocks these can be the quietest areas on a busy weekend.

The following are among the easiest city beaches to reach along this train line: Praia de Caxias (Caxias station), Praia da Conceição (Cascais station), Praia do Tamariz (Estoril station), Carcavelos (Carcavelos station + 15mins walk), Praia de Santo Amaro (Santo Amaro station).

Wild beaches across the river from Lisbon - Costa da Caparica (and Arrabida)

Across the river from the city is a continuous 30km (18mile) arc of sand dunes. Near the top is the (unexceptional) resort town known as Costa da Caparica, with multiple beach bars numbered from 1 (nearer the river mouth) to 20. Beach number 19 (officially 'Praia de Bela Vista') is Lisbon's main gay beach (marked with the red pin on the map below): wide, remote, clothing optional - with discreet (but busy) sand dunes.

(In 2025 the Portuguese erotic artist Antonio da Silva made a film 'Spring at Beach 19' [but bear in mind that the cruising is not generally so obvious as the porn actors in this film!]: https://antoniodasilvafilms.com/springatbeach19)

The drawback of Beach 19's remote charm is its distance from public transport - but there are several ways to get there, depending on your time, budget and the traffic:

The easiest and fastest option is to get an Uber or Bolt (which will be relatively inexpensive compared to many cities - especially if you share). Consider your timing though - at the end of a sunny weekend the demand for cars is high and traffic can bottle-neck at the main '25 April' bridge over the river.

Copying or use of this text must acknowledge the source in emphasis equal to the reuse text: "Alex's LONG LIST - guide to LGBTQ Lisbon & Portugal' from 'Alex's Lisbon Tours & Events': www.tickettailor.com/events/alextoursevents"

There are public transport bus options, some starting within central Lisbon, crossing the bridge and continuing all the way to the beach-town of Costa da Caparica - but only one or two of these buses go all the way to Beach 19.
There used to be a much-loved 9km narrow-gauge train along the back of the beach from the town of Costa da Caparica to Beach 20 - but [although it's still featured in many travel guides!] the Transpraia train stopped in 2019 ☹). Plans to bring back the Transpraia train have been announced for 2027, but we wait to see what happens next. Watch this space…

If you have a bicycle - I like to take the 15minute ferry across the river from Belem to Trafaria, and then follow the recently extended cycle lane, almost all the way to Beach 19. It takes about an hour (+/- depending on your fitness), the bike lane is mostly flat, and you get to experience the ferry trip (occasional dolphins!), the tatty resort at Costa da Caparica, and the coast along the way. (Note: the city-bike scheme (Gira bikes) are not allowed on the ferries, and some bike-rentals don't allow you to take their bikes on ferries – Check before you hire a bike. Also, you cannot cycle or walk over the bridge – it's a motorway only!).

Other options south of the river include:

Villa Tr3s and 3Sauna. A gay men's resort and spa near the beaches south of Lisbon - from the people who run Bar Tr3s in Principe Real. Thirteen comfortable ensuite rooms with air-con, pool, bar, garden, sauna, steam room, Jacuzzis, clothing-optional, relax cabins, showers, 'RuPool' drag shows. A day pass (20€) gives you full access (Note: bring your essential flip-flops or buy them on site for 6€): Villa Tr3s, Charneca de Caparica, Rua Teresa Leitão Barros, 4. 10-15 km south of the river, near the beaches of Costa da Caparica. www.3sauna.pt ; www.villa3caparica.com/daypass

NATO Beach (Praia da NATO), officially known as 'Praia da Adiça', is 1.5 kilometres of wild, white sand located close to a NATO army base on top of the cliffs, and is officially a clothing-optional beach. It is south of Beach 19, after the tatty village of Fonte da Telha. In July and August, when Beach 19 and the neighbouring beach at Fonte da Telha get busy, it's possible to walk south to NATO Beach (if you're fit and active). Note: the sea tends to be rougher here than most of the Costa da Caparica beaches and there is no lifeguard. For a map see: www.lisbongaycircuit.com/beachs [sic]

Meco* Beach (Praia do Meco), officially 'Praia do Moinho de Baixo', this was Portugal's first legal nudist beach. Meco is a small village even further south than NATO Beach (above). it is the wildest beach along this stretch, with sand dunes, cliffs, pine woods and sometimes vigorous waves (but no life-guard). But Praia do Meco now has an extensive carpark behind the dunes and can get busy, so loses much of its charm on summer weekends, when most people choose to wear swimming costumes - fewer as you walk further south. For a map see: www.lisbongaycircuit.com/beachs [sic]

Arrabida* beaches
Even further south, between the beach towns of Sesimbra and Setubal is the Arrabida coastal natural park with steep cliffs, caves with bats, a mountain range, south-facing beaches, and

Gay beaches across Portugal

(For more detail, visit the regional sections of this guide which feature local gay beaches: Across Portugal – Porto, the Algarve, Other cities & regions. It's worth noting that the north of Portugal tends to be a bit more conservative than the south, and there are no offficial nudist beaches in the north - all nine official naturist beaches are south of Lisbon's Tagus [Tejo] River. But there are of course discreet unofficial nudist beaches, which generally seem to be well tolerated – The best source of info is the Alma Naturista (Naturist Soul) association https://almanaturista.pt/praias-naturistas/tradicao/norte.php).

Meeting people, making friends and having fun - LGBTQ social groups, sports/exercise, dance, choirs/music/theatre, arts/books, student, and biker/bear/leather/sex groups (men's & women's) - (Lisbon and across Portugal).

If you want to meet people and be more involved with queer social networks, 'Alex's LONG LIST' has everything you need to get started…

This section has seven sub-sections:

- Social and networking groups
- Sports, exercise, gyms, hiking and wellness groups
- Dance groups and classes
- Choirs, music and theatre groups
- Arts, books and reading groups
- Student groups and associations (Lisbon and across Portugal)
- Motorbikes, Bears, leather, sex, etc groups (men's & women's)

The queer social groups listed here are usually free, are typically run by volunteers, and generally operate in English (and/or Portuguese). Some groups have been active for years, with thousands of members, others are still growing.

To stay up-to-date, follow the social media accounts for everything you think might be fun - and then you'll be ready join in.

This section doesn't include every queer social opportunity in Lisbon, so to cover all the options in Portugal you'll also need to also read through other sections of 'Alex's LONG LIST' (e.g. for Youth groups or Trans support groups see: 'Community support – LGBTQ groups, cultural organisations, incl. HIV/STI support and queer academic groups').

"What joy can be so great, That you find neighbors in a strange land."

'The Lusiads' (VII, 27), by Portuguese national poet Luís de Camões.

Finding Your Queer Community…

(Spoiler Alert – It's usually easier, more gentle, and more simple than you think)

Everyone wants to find their queer community. But unfamiliar spaces can feel intimidating.

Finding community often starts with very small (but brave) steps:
- Sit at the table
- Say 'Hi' to someone you don't know (focus on people you find friendly, not just sexy)
- Say one mildly awkward sentence
- Smile and compliment someone's outfit
- Stay around after an event instead of rushing off.

Queer community usually builds through:
- Showing up more than once
- Going back when it would be easier not to. (Even when you feel awkward, you feel invisible, you almost bail out at the last minute).

Lower the pressure on yourself – It's OK if you don't immediately find:
- Familiar faces
- Casual hellos
- Knowing where everthing is and how things work
- Running into the same people.

Community takes effort - not exhausting effort, but:
- Repetition
- Tolerance of awkwardness (yours and theirs)
- Consistency when motivation dies
- Doing things even when you feel shy.

Community grows faster when you roll up your sleeves and participate.

One of the easiest ways to build community is to be somewhere regularly.

Being in a community involves supporting that community:
- You already add something by being there
- When you are ready, you can add more by contributing: your voice, your support, your ideas, by offering a lift, by saying 'Hi' to someone who is new (like you once were).

We build the spaces we wish already existed.

Kin Society / Kin Tables - A social club for gay men. New in August 2026.
Kin Society curates social networking events for gay men, aimed at building friendship and community. Kin Tables are curated dinners designed to provide a more natural way to meet beyond dating apps, nightlife or typical networking events:- six men, one table, one Thursday. Not a dating club - the focus is on social connection and creating a social circle in Lisbon through relaxed dinners.
Participants complete an online form with a few details about themselves and choose a Thursday. Applications are then reviewed within 24 hours and, if invited, a €14 Kin fee confirms a seat at the table. Food and drinks are paid directly to the restaurant. Open to all gay men living in Lisbon - Portuguese, international, newly arrived or long-term

Lisbon on a budget – things to do in Lisbon for free!

Having fun can be expensive - but you might be surprised by the many fun things to do in Lisbon for free (below). Also check out the section on 'Meeting people, making friends and having fun' for Lisbon's queer social groups and events, which are usually free to take part in.

TimeOut Lisbon - free things to do in Lisbon each week.
Every week (in Portuguese), TimeOut Lisbon updates their website with a surprisingly varied list of free things Lisbon has to offer - events, festivals, museums, shows, exhibitions, workshops - you'll be surprised by the number of free things to do! (It's all in Portuguese, but Google Translate etc do a reasonable job). Recommended.

Free museums for citizens and residents 'Voucher 52'
Since August 2024, citizens and residents now have up to 52 free entries each year (on any time/day of the week) to the 38 museums across Portugal that are managed by Museus e Monumentos de Portugal. Residents should simply attend any of the eligible museums with evidence of residency to obtain a (free) ticket - a dedicated App is planned for the future.
(16 museums/sites are included in Lisbon [+others across the country]:- Jerónimos Monastery, National Pantheon, National Coach Museum, Ajuda National Palace, Ajuda Library, Royal Treasury Museum, National Costume Museum, Royal Riding Ground, Belém Tower, National Theatre and Dance Museum, National Tile Museum, Museum of Popular Art, National Museum of Ancient Art, National Museum of Archaeology, Dr. Anastácio Gonçalves House-Museum, National Museum of Ethnology). https://turismodocentro.pt/2024/08/museus-e-monumentos-gratuitos-para-portugueses-e-residentes ; www.museusemonumentos.pt/en/pagina/bilhetes

hip-hop, etc – all for free! Each month they move to a new park, and the line-up varies but typically includes a live act followed by a DJ. Great vibe for groups of friends, but also family-friendly. Beer tents, food vans, dancing on grass - music and good vibes reign! It's the perfect way to end the weekend, from 5pm until sunset (around 9pm). Check the website for this week's park venue, performers and vibe. www.outjazz.pt

NOTE: Since 2023 OutJazz have been encouraging spending at their events by limiting the amount of your own drinks and food you can bring in. But, at most [not all] of the parks you can sit just outside the event boundary and use the public park as you like! Within the festival boundary however, you can no longer bring your own alcohol - only plastic (no glass) bottles of water or juice, with a maximum capacity of 33cl and without a lid. (Glass is prohibited, but reusable cups from other events are accepted if they are calibrated at 0.30cl). Small amounts of food are permitted, but full picnics are no longer allowed.

Soak up the atmosphere at Lisbon's main 'flea market' - the Feira da Ladra – Every Tuesday and Saturday, from 09:00 to ~17:00 (although it starts winding down once the crowds thin-out depending on the weather/time of the year). Located in Campo de Santa Clara, at the far end of Alfama, behind the monastery of São Vicente de Fora - this extensive and characterful out-door market of second-hand 'antiques' is the place to find 'diamonds in the dust'. The market is ideal for strolling, exploring, sitting in the gardens and people-watching, with lots of coffee /brunch/ burger/ beer options in the area. www.visitlisboa.com/pt-pt/locais/feira-da-ladra Getting to know Portugal Better - Fun & useful ways to understand Portugal. These sites are fun, free and will help you understand Portugal better.

Comparing the Cost of Living
If you want to understand the relative costs of a city, some reliable and up-to-date data will be more useful than guessing. (Bear in mind that main tourist areas will typically be more pricey): www.numbeo.com/cost-of-living/comparison.jsp

Comparing Climates
Is it really that much hotter/ colder/ humid/ windy/ wet/ etc, etc compared to your home-town? Compare summer heat and winter cold, hours of sunshine, days of rain, humidity, water temperature, etc, etc – it's free to use and fun to explore: https://weatherspark.com/compare

LGBTQ rights in Portugal
Portugal established constitutional protection from discrimination for all sexual orientations in 2004, and added gender identity protection in 2011. LGBT equal rights and protections therefore extend to all laws, rights and responsibilities: civil marriage, age of consent, parenting, adoption, etc, etc. Citizens are free to change their gender on birth certificates www.parlamento.pt/sites/EN/Parliament/Documents/Constitution7th.pdf (in English).
(However, gender is currently [Oct 2026-] under attack from the Right-wing government, and is legally defined in binary terms https://dezanove.pt/autodeterminacao-de-genero-o-que-esta-em-jogo-no-parlamento-2453598)

Where would you choose to live in Lisbon?
Which neighbourhoods are the quietest, have the most parks, the least hills, the most cycle lanes, the most ex-pats/ immigrants, the best schools, the most nightlife, etc? This intriguing introduction to Lisbon has the info and variables to help you explore and understand the city: www.hoodpicker.com

What are the Portuguese Like?
The Francisco Manuel dos Santos Foundation is an independent organisation set up to explore contemporary issues through reliable data, and bring it to public attention. These ten short volumes (in Portuguese) summarise Portugal today (2024), based on meaningful data (instead of assumptions and hear-say). Respected and Recommended. https://ffms.pt/en

River Beaches

Earthquakes in Portugal
Lisbon is very close to two tectonic fault lines (on which the Earthquake of 1755 took place - leading to the birth of seismology). Minor earthquakes happen every couple of weeks but are generally too small to be felt (around 3.0 on the logarithmic Richter Scale 1-10). Lisbon hasn't had a serious earthquake for more than 270 years, but if you're keen to know more, all the following pages are available in English & Portuguese:

Snow in Portugal!
The highest point in mainland Portugal is the Serra da Estrela mountains in the centre of the country, which is 1,980m above sea level and has a small ski resort. Honestly, the ski piste is quite small with just 6km of slopes and three adult ski lifts, so don't imagine this is the Alps, but it can be fun to visit on a good year between late Nov and early March.

The curious catalogue of Portuguese names
You may have noticed the surprising frequency with which some Portuguese names - first names and family names - appear. The frequency is largely to do with the curious system by which names are chosen from an official list of options. www.portugal.com/history-and-culture/joao-maria-and-tiago-the-rules-about-choosing-baby-names-in-portugal ; https://irn.justica.gov.pt/Portals/33/Regras%20Nome%20Proprio/Lista%20Nomes%20Pr%C3%B3prios.pdf ; https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Portuguese_name

Alex's Queer Lisbon History Tour
Learn more about Lisbon's fascinating (sometimes bizarre!) and always entertaining queer history, on a fun half-day walking tour. Visit historic sites to hear stories and anecdotes from queer history that will bring you closer to the city. Heart-warming dramas, compelling tragedies, scandals and surprising insights into LGBTQ lives & loves, from the 16th - 21st Century.

> 🏳️‍🌈 17thCentury cruising sites, Lisbon's first lesbian bar, the Inquisition arresting gay men in the 16thCentury, see where the first drag show started in the 1970s, lesbians battling 1960s censorship, why 'Fado' is a bit queer, how Lisbon Pride is different, stories from 19thCentury sex-work, bisexual jazz-legend Josephine Baker spying in WWII, gay men dodging 1950s crack-downs, 18thCentury lesbian nuns, a 19thCentury Trans love story, how Portugal established LGBT rights, gay writers, disgraced politicians, queer pop stars, straight censors - all this and more, and we end with a social drink!

This fun event also passes most of today's scene venues to give you inside knowledge on today's scene and community. Know the City!

Did you know Portugal has a 'Trans' saint?! Santa Vilgeforte, meaning 'strong virgin', or Santa Liberata, (or Saint Uncumber in English, meaning 'not oppressed'), was the Christian daughter of a pagan king in Iberia who offered her in marriage to another king. The beautiful princess didn't want to marry (because - depending on your perspective - she wanted to be a nun, wanted to resist male power, or because she was a lesbian). The night before the wedding she prayed asking God to make her unattractive to her fiance, and woke up the next morning with a full beard and mustache! Her fiance refused the marriage, but her father was so angry he ordered his daughter's crucifixion - and so Santa Vilgeforte/Liberata/Uncumber was martyred - and later became the patron saint of unhappily married women!
Art historians have suggested that the story of Santa Vilgeforte/Liberata/Uncumber probably comes from paintings and sculptures of Jesus crucified in the eastern style, wearing a long tunic similar to women's clothing. Some medieval sculptures of the crucified Christ are known to have been changed to create Santa Vilgeforte with feminine clothes and breasts added! www.publico.pt/1999/02/15/jornal/uma-santa-barbuda-e-portuguesa-129661 ; https://pt.wikipedia.org/wiki/Vilgeforte ; www.mitologia.pt/santa-vilgeforte-uma-santa-transexual-566396 ; https://books.google.com.bd/books
(She clearly came from a dysfunctonal family - her sister, Saint Quiteria, was also martyred after refusing to marry. As punishment, her father beheaded her, but according to legend she simply picked up her own head and walked to the nearest church, guided by an angel!
Tough women in that family! 😊).

The darkest sky in Europe is just a three hours drive from Lisbon, in the Alentejo, near the Spanish border. Near Monsaraz village, beside the Alqueva lake, is one of the best places in the Europe to see the night sky. There's an observatory you can visit if you want to see the stars through a telescope (which won a 2026 award for astrotourism), but the stars and the 'milky way' are clearly visible with the naked eye. https://darkskyalqueva.com

Património Cultural 360® is a new (2026) online project making access to Portuguese heritage sites, by visiting them online to browse images, maps, videos, virtual tours, infographics and short documentaries about, places, locations, themes and historic periods.
It's quite 'memory hungry' for your computer and you need a decent internet connection, but this single portal is a valuable new way to explore Portugal's heritage sites. When it launched in July 2026 there were already 67 virtual tours of 90 heritage sites, making Portuguese history and culture accessible from anywhere. https://360.patrimoniocultural.gov.pt

Elephants in Portugal. Portugal has a curious history with elephants: medieval Europe only knew elephants from ancient Roman paintings and there was confusion about whether they were real and whether they were the size of a dog or a horse!. But in the early 1500s Portuguese sailors brought the first elephant to modern Europe from India, which the king sent to the Pope as a gift. Today, most EU states ban elephants in circuses and zoos, but there hasn't been a sanctuary to send the elephants to - until July 2026 when Portugal established the 1000-acre Pangea Trust elephant refuge in the Altentejo: www.pangeatrust.org/about-us/

Donating Blood in Portugal. Anyone can donate blood in Portugal (excepting health risks). The 'Portuguese Institute of Blood and Transplantation' (Instituto Portugués do Sangue e Transplantacão) runs the service in hospitals, clinics and mobile units across the country. The entire process, from registration and clinical screening to collection and a biscuit, takes just 30 minutes, and group donations (e.g. friends, flatmates, co-workers) can be scheduled:-

- Present photo ID (Passport, Resident's card, or Driver's license)
- Complete a questionnaire
- Be assessed for weight, height, hemoglobin and blood pressure.

For more info see Donating Blood in the 'Health and Wellness' section.

Women's groups, organisations, services, etc

Scene venues and online groups (mostly in English), plus local and national women's community groups and organisations (mostly working in Portuguese). There aren't a huge number of queer women's bars, but Lisbon does have a wealth of women's party networks that stage occasional (usually monthly) events at various venues, and plenty of female-led social groups. Read below and follow groups' social media to hear about next events. (For more on Women's Health [general and LGBTQ services] see: Health and Wellness Services)

Insubmissas (in Portuguese). New in Sept 2026. This new group has been suddenly active on social media since Sept 2026 and has quickly gathered an online following. Their extensive website (in Portuguese) promises "A safe and welcoming space dedicated to mutual support, culture, integrative health, and human rights for LGBTQ+ women in Lisbon and other parts of Portugal"; and commits to "cultivate a space where every LGBTQ+ woman can participate, socialize, and express herself with complete confidentiality, integrity, and emotional peace". People are invited to join the collective : https://insubmissas.org/join-us/
Planned projects range from support groups and holistic health events, to open sports and collective art workshops, in Lisbon and other parts of Portugal: creative workshops, informal gatherings, and regular community events; inclusive sport, integrative health, and shared outdoor practices. "Safe spaces for LGBTQ+ women; Rights, politics, history & culture; Cinema, arts, sports & socializing".

We wait to see what activity emerges – Watch this space!

Saficas bar (and Saficas Cultura). New in July 2026. "Where art, culture, and community meet". This cultural collective has been quietly staging occasional events active since 2021, but reached a new level activity when they opened Saficas bar and cultural space to the east of the city centre (Metro: Santa Apolonia).
Rua do Vale de Santo António 48C, 1170-381. (It's a little way from the city centre, but easy enough to walk, or get an Uber). Opening hours initially: 16:00-23:00, Friday to Monday.
www.instagram.com/saficas.cultura

Purex Bar (Bairro Alto).
Owned and largely staffed by women, this is a popular mixed LGBTQ bar with free entry to their small dance floor (one of the few places you can dance before 02:00). Gets packed and cheerfully spills into the surrounding streets. (Look out for the plastic cups with vagina graphics and the display case of tiny vagina-shaped jewellery! 😊). (It doesn't have a name sign, but you can't miss the large doors with a woman's face painted on them, just round the corner from Rua da Barroca).
Purex has recenlty (late Sept 2026) announced undefined changes will arrive during October ("…Purex is transitioning, currently unnamed and may even change its pronouns,…") but no more info is available as we go to press on the 1st Oct. We wait to hear more and will update here on 1st Nov)
Purex Bar. Rua das Salgadeiras, 28, Bairro Alto. Open Wed-Sat, 22:00-02:00 (03:00 weekends).
www.facebook.com/purexclube ; www.instagram.com/purexclube

Bairrus Bodega (Bairro Alto).
Portuguese wine bar in Bairro Alto, just across the road from Purex. Women owned/run and popular with a queer female crowd. And if you're interested in wine this is a good place to sample and learn from the (mostly female) bar staff.
Bairrus Bodega, Rua da Barroca, 3, Bairro Alto (The bar doesn't have a sign with the name, but it is on the corner at number 3 Rua da Barroca). Mon-Sat 19:00 to 02:00 (03:00 weekends). Closed Sundays. (Opening times may not be consistent)

Drama Bar (Intendente/Graca).
Queer bar/restaurant/performance space between Intendente & Graca, with basement performance/dance space. Has had a popular mixed male/female crowd (including events organised by the Fabulez crew: www.instagram.com/fabulez.community), with occasional live music events, occasional pop-up dinners, Quiz nights, Cabaret, Karaoke, Drag nights, etc.
(There are two other bars in Lisbon called 'Drama Bar' – make sure you have the right address): Rua Damasceno Monteiro 75B, 1170-113, Lisbon. Wed/Thurs/Fri/Sat/Sun (only) 19:00-01:00.

Queer Women of Lisbon. (in English) is a WhatsApp social group, which is one of ten sub-groups of the 'Queer Lisbon' social network (and associated Meetup group).
"This is a group for the queer folks in Lisbon who either identify as women or were socialised as women. Let's use this chat for all the topics that might concern all of us and plan some meet ups and events". Join the 'Queer Lisbon' WhatsApp Community, and gain access to all its sub-groups, at this link (Join the 'Welcome Hug' group first, and make a simple post to show you are not a 'bot', and then you can gain access to all the various sub-groups):
https://chat.whatsapp.com/DSNcgO9SRiQ9bTs03BcAef
(The main 'Queer Lisbon' WhatsApp group is also very active, mixed-sex and has several other sub-groups)

Libida ('Rave Girly').
Occasional (not frequent) queer rave parties curated by @jennifercardini. Not exclusively women's events, but driven, organised and powered by women for cool people to enjoy, at various venues (occasionally in Porto). "LIBIDA is interested in having a strong female presence on the dance floor. Let's go lesbians!" www.instagram.com/libida.pt

Goddess Events.
This party network is exclusively for women and explicitly "LGBTQ+ friendly", organising occasional party nights at various venues. Run by women (production, bar, security, DJs, etc) and with a strong Black presence, "creating space where you can be yourself in a judgment-free zone, welcoming women from all walks of life. Break free, dance and celebrate the power of womanhood. Crafted by women, for women. Unleash your inner goddess!". Summer beach parties were a huge hit in 2025. https://shotgun.live/venues/goddess-eventss ;

Damas*. (Graca)
Bar, casual restaurant and live music venue. Located between Alfama and Graca, this popular space has a fun and affordable restaurant/bar, and an event space for dance nights and live shows. Not specifically an LGBTQ space, this is nevertheless popular with a very mixed queer crowd where Trans and gender non-conformity is fully embraced by both staff and customers.
Damas. Rua da Voz do Operário, 60, Graca, Lisbon. Open various hours between 12:30 and 04:00 depending on the day of the week. See online for details of events.

Purex. (Bairro Alto)
Owned and largely staffed by women, this is a popular mixed LGBTQ bar with a small dance floor and a diverse queer crowd. One of the few regular places where you can dance before 02:00. Gets packed and cheerfully spills into the surrounding streets.
Purex, Rua das Salgadeiras, 28, Bairro Alto. Wed, Thurs, Fri, Sat 22:00-02:00 (03:00 weekends/holidays). www.facebook.com/purexclube

Drama Bar (Intendente/Graca).
Queer bar/performance space in Intendente/Graca, with a large basement space for dancing and events. Popular with a mixed gender/non-binary crowd, with (early) live music and/or dance nights on Fri & Sat, and occasional drag shows, dinners, film nights, performances, drag bingo, etc in the basement. "For all our events with tickets: 50% off for the Trans community. Ask for the code by DM on Instagram".
(Note: There are two other bars in Lisbon called 'Drama Bar' – make sure you have the right address).

Lisbon's smartest and most glamorous nightclub, with international DJs, roof-top, river-side views, etc. Not specifically a queer venue, but a popular hangout for stylish gays and "the posh Dolls". This is a place to dress up, spot celebrities, and throw yourself in front of paparazzi cameras.
Avenida Infanta Dom Henrique, Cais da Pedra, Armazém 'A', 1950-376, Lisboa (on the riverside, near Santa Apolonia railway station). Bar: 22:00 to 06:00, closed on Sunday and Monday. Club: Thursday to Saturday from 24:00 to 06:00. www.luxfragil.com

LUX is the home of Exotica. a queer-oriented, artist-led residency at Lux Frágil every two months: "a*n experimental, community-driven club and rave club night where music meets other art forms, where community shapes the experience, and where the dancefloor becomes a collective space… EXOTIKA is a space for collaboration, craft, and culture… An arena of queer creativity, profoundly rare, notably different.*

Outra Cena ('Another Scene'). (Marvila)
Sadly, Outra Scena's amazing activity was interrupted by a series of hostile bureaucratic hurdles and a police raid, and the building has been closed for redevelopment. For now their usual residency is halted, but we wait to see what the oragnisers might do at another venue in the future.
Industrial techno vibes (imagine a reduced version of Berlin's Berghain), Outra Cena is one of Lisbon's most divisive clubs – it's either the most inclusive space (Trans-welcoming, no cameras allowed), or it's the most exclusive (getting in is a gamble based on the arbitrary decision of the door staff). Not my scene, but I'm told it is a popular hangout for a whole network of club-oriented Dolls.

Lisbon Temple Nights (in Portuguese and English). In the past, this conscious pleasure positive studio ran one-evening events for different demographics, including the 'Temple Night of Queer & Femme' "specifically for queer women… whether you are rooted in your queerness or on a (new) journey of exploring your sexuality". But in Oct 2026 Lisbon Temple Nights restructured with a long-format two-month, in-person group immersion program – 'Strong Spine, Soft Heart' for men and women of all genders and sexualities. "… not another self-improvement course but rather an experiment what happens when we meet in ritual, again and again with the same people, in our humanity and in mystery".

Information and LGBTQ social networks in Portugal for people from South Asia

I aim to include resources addressing the needs and interests of gay / LGBTQ (non-heterosexual) people from South Asian communities in Lisbon/Portugal. I have contacted the groups below for their input. Any comments or suggestions for additional content would be appreciated: +351 910826 218 ; AlexLisbonTours@gmail.com

I can't comment on the quality of every group included in 'Alex's LONG LIST', so please act with the usual caution and discretion when using online groups, and be sure to respect others' privacy and confidentiality.

These Facebook pages explicitly address gay / LGBTQ people from South Asia living in Portugal.

The researcher is Nelufer, a queer woman and a PhD researcher at ICS-ULisboa, who works for queer rights. She is reaching out to the queer community with a full heart to conduct research about how queer / LGBTQ+ South Asian migrants experience housing, health and work in Portugal. This work is personal to her, and she can't do it without your voices 🌈

Across Portugal

- National events, Porto, the Algarve, and Other Cities & Regions.

Much of Portugal's queer life is, of course, centred on the largest cities, Lisbon and Porto, but there are queer venues and social networks across the country and 26 regional towns and cities organise annual Pride events! (Statistical data on Pride marches across Portugal 2000-2025: https://drive.google.com/file/d/1Z1gdaRtukfKwLJc4NHew36MCwOzEVFmy/view). In some border regions (especially the north and the Alentejo) people also make use of queer groups in Spanish cities, such as Vigo and Badajoz.

There are national Portuguese organisations that offer queer support services across the country – the Rede ex aequo network of queer youth groups, the Queer film festival on tour, national family support networks, online services and dedicated groups in the islands of the Azores and Madeira, LGBTQ (and HIV) social opportunities and support, are available across the country.

From northern city of Viana do Castelo to the Algarve, you might be surprised how English-speaking queer immigrant groups and people in rural areas have also been forming queer social networks.

The following pages list 197 LGBTQ venues, social groups, community organisations, beaches, and local events, grouped into: Porto, the Algarve, and Other Cities & Regions. You can also explore 'Alex's Map of LGBTQ Portugal' on Googlemaps (https://shorturl.at/iMYiN), which is regularly updated.

So read on, and follow the social media accounts for your local networks/organisations - and if you know of anything else that should be added to 'Alex's LONG LIST' please email me: AlexLisbonTours@gmail.com)

The following pages feature:

- National queer events and organisations
- Alex's Googlemap of LGBTQ Portugal
- 198 listings grouped into Porto, the Algarve, and Other Cities & Regions (from North to South, + Azores and Madeira), with addresses and social media links you can follow to stay connected with queer life in:

  ● Viana do Castelo (+ Spanish Vigo) ● Braga / Esposende / Barcelos ● Guimaraes / Felgueiras / Santo Tirso / Trofa ● Vila Real ● Porto / Vila Nova da Gaia / Matosinhos ● Aveiro / Ovar / São João da Madeira ● Viseu ● Coimbra ● Covilha ● Leiria / Marinha Grande ● Castelo Branco ● Marvao (+ Spanish Extremadura) ● Silver Coast / Peniche / Caldas da Rainha ● Torres Vedras ● Santarem ● Sintra ● Cascais/Estoril ● Almada / Costa da Caparica / Setúbal ● Alentejo (Evora, Beja, Marvao/Alto Alentejo, + Spanish Badajoz) ● Algarve (Lagos, Portimão, Albufeira, Faro, Tavira) ● Azores (Faial, Terceira and Sao Miguel) ● Madeira.

LGBT-popular Beaches:

The north of Portugal tends to be a bit more conservative than the south – and all 9 of the official naturist beaches are south of Lisbon's Tagus [Tejo] River. But there are of course unofficial nudist beaches, which are mostly tolerated – The best source of info is the Alma Naturista naturist association website: https://almanaturista.pt/praias-naturistas/tradicao/norte.php).

Furadouro Beach (Ovar - Aveiro district). Is a popular clothing-optional gay beach. Due to erosion, the sand is becoming increasingly narrow. In the centre of Furadouro, there is no shortage of bars and cafés facing the sea.

Foz do Minho Beach (Caminha). Near the mouth of the Minho river, in the Camarido pine forest, north of Viana do Castelo and Moledo do Minho. On one side the cold and rough water of the Atlantic, on the other, the calm fresh water of the river. Some gay visitors, including from neighbouring Galicia. Be prepared for northerly winds!

For a useful summary of the most LGBT-popular beaches on the Algarve (Tavira, Alvor, and Lagos) see: www.algarveportugaltourism.com/turismo/praias/gay.html

Naked Man Beach (Praia do Homem Nu) (Tavira) One of three beaches on Tavira island where naturism is accepted, 'Naked Man Beach' has been popular with gay men since the 1980s. For more info and access directions see: https://dezanove.pt/206960.html

Praia do Barril (Santa Luzia - Tavira) A clothing-optional beach on a small peninsula near Santa Luzia. A popular place for cruising - generally on the east side of the beach. From Santa Luzia, you can take the touristic train, and cross the estuary to Praia do Barril.
In 2026 a queer Portuguese blogger made this useful three-minute YouTube video about Praia do Barril : www.youtube.com/watch?v=Bj6C7gJwPIE

Cacela Velha Beach (Praia de Cacela Velha) (Tavira) Considered by some to be the best gay beach in the country. See the web link below for more info and access directions. https://dezanove.pt/195581.html

Praia Sao João de Arens (Between Portimão and Alvor) A secluded beach popular with LGBTQ+ beachgoers throughout the year. Surrounded by cliffs, it can be challenging to reach via the tricky path, so appropriate shoes are essential! If the tide is low, you can also explore other beaches along the coast. It can be difficult to park nearby – so you may need to park along the coast and walk a bit.

Submarine Beach (Alvor). When Praia de João de Arens (above) is full, this is a nearby beach popular with gay men and straight naturists – but the beach disappears at high tide so be prepared! When the tide allows, arches and other openings give access to small hidden caves. Submarine beach is 13 minutes' drive from Portimão, via Av. das Comunidades Lusíadas. You can also take the bus-train for 45 mins to the 'Prainha' stop, from where the beach is a 15 min walk.

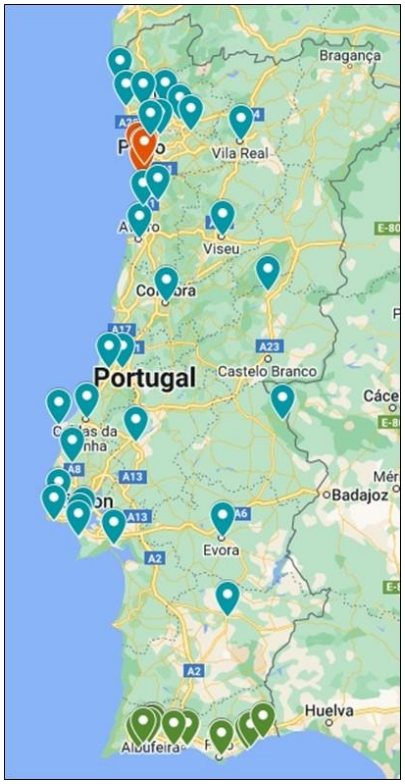

Praia Grande de Pêra (Western Algarve, between Armação de Pêra and the Salgados lakes) Large sandy area where naturism is accepted. Framed by an area of dunes and another by cliffs. Popular with gay tourists.

Praia do Canavial (Lagos - Ponta da Piedade). Secluded and peaceful, this dramatic beach outside of Lagos is close to Ponta da Piedade. The walk down limestone cliffs to the secluded beach can be steep, and the beach is reduced to a thin strip when the tide is in!

Meia Praia (Lagos). Meia Praia beach is one of the Algarve's most popular family beaches, but the far eastern end, where it becomes known as 'Praia do Vale da Lama' is also one of the region's main gay and (unofficial) naturist beaches. Note - there are no services at this beach, so bring your own water, etc!

LGBT-popular beaches south of Lisbon:

Beach number 19 (officially 'Praia de Bela Vista') is Almada's (and Lisbon's) main gay beach: wide, remote, clothing optional - with discrete (but busy) sand dunes.
For a map and more info see: www.lisbongaycircuit.com/beachs , and for travel info on how to get there from central Lisbon see Lisbon Gay Beach Guide .
In 2025 the Portuguese erotic artist Antonio da Silva made a film 'Spring at Beach 19' (but bear in mind that the cruising is generally discreet than the porn actors in his film): https://antoniodasilvafilms.com/springatbeach19

NATO Beach (Praia da NATO), also known as 'Praia da Adiça', is 1.5 kilometres of wild, wide, white sand located close to a NATO army base on top of the cliffs and is officially a clothing-optional beach. It is south of Beach 19, after the village of Fonte da Telha. In July and August, when Beach 19 and the neighbouring beach at Fonte da Telha get busy, it's possible to walk south to NATO Beach (if you're fit and active).
Note: the sea tends to be rougher here than most of the Costa da Caparica beaches and there is no lifeguard. For a map see: www.lisbongaycircuit.com/beachs [sic]

Meco Beach (Praia do Meco), Portugal's first official nudist beach. Meco is a small village even further south than NATO Beach (above). Officially named 'Praia do Moinho de Baixo', it is the wildest beach along this stretch, with sand dunes, cliffs, pine woods and sometimes vigorous waves (but no life-guard). But Meco has an extensive carpark behind the dunes and can get busy, so loses much of its charm on summer weekends, and most people choose to wear swimming costumes - fewer as you walk further south. For a map see: www.lisbongaycircuit.com/beachs

Finding medium and long-term accommodation in Lisbon

However much we love Portugal, it can have challenges – and finding accommodation is often one of them – especially in Lisbon and Porto! (In 2025, the property website Flatio estimated the median price for a room in Lisbon was 599 euros. Up ~9% from the previous year!).
In 2026, according to the EU, renting a 1-bed apartment in Lisbon costs around 116% of the average income - the highest disparity in Europe; and Portuguese property is roughly 25% overvalued - worse than anywhere else in the European Union.

So here is a list of websites and services for finding medium and long-term accommodation (4months+). Most of these links refer to services in Lisbon, but many cover all of Portugal.
(Some of the Facebook groups below fluctuate in activity and the effectiveness of the group moderation, so be aware of the potential for rental scams and treat them caution)

As well as looking on these accommodation sites, it can also be effective to ask round in queer social groups. Word-of-mouth is often the best way to find your ideal queer-friendly rooms/apartments – Ask about accommodation by introducing yourself, adding a photo and a bit of info (see Meeting People, Making Friends and Having Fun for social groups and places to network).

Here are a few tips to help you avoid rental scams (adapted from the Erasmus Life Housing Guide: https://erasmuslifehousing.com/guide).

- If you are in contact with an individual, check if they work for an official organisation/ company and then ask them to continue the conversation through an official channel.
- If the rental will not be done through a rental organisation/ company, ask for a video chat to see the apartment and the person – you can also ask to see their ID to make sure this matches what they have told you.
- What is the price? Check the rent of similar rooms in the area. If the room sounds too cheap to be true, then it probably is!
- Where possible, visit the apartment to make sure it matches the pictures/ description you have been given.
- Search the address on google maps and make sure the building exists.
- If you are asked to make a payment to a bank account that is not in the name of the landlord OR to a bank account that is not in Portugal (the IBAN must start with 'PT') then this should catch your attention!

These tips cannot be 100% effective, and everyone should be wary of scams, and verify the room/landlord in every way possible.

Isto Não é Uma Aula – Referências LGBT na Literatura Portuguesa ('This is not a class – LGBT References in Portuguese Literature'). At Casa do Comum, in Lisbon, in partnership with Livraria Aberta and mediated by Paulo Brás, a conversation cycle 'Isto Não é Uma Aula – Referências LGBT na Literatura Portuguesa'. Each month, starting on January 7th 2026 at 7pm, and then on the first Wednesdays of each month (Jan 7, Feb 4, Mar 4, April 1, May 6, June 3, July 1, Sept 9, Oct 7, Nov 4, Dec 2), these events explore Portuguese literature from a queer perspective - unknown and canonical authors are given a queer reinterpretation; texts range from the 19th century to today. People will not know what is to be read until the session begins. The texts are read aloud and discussed. "We raise references for a community that, despite the history it has, often lacks the sentimentl necessary to imagine a future". www.instagram.com/____causascomuns____/?g=5 ; www.instagram.com/p/DSx7V0zj6fl/

Cinema/Film. Where (and What) to see in Lisbon/Portugal, and the annual 'Queer Lisbon/Queer Porto Film Festival'.

For a country with a small film industry, there are a surprising number of films (some queer) set in Portugal, and a wide range of places/cinemas to see them in (see below). Films are usually shown in their original language, with Portuguese sub-titles, so it's easy for foreigners to see international films at regular cinemas, and Lisbon also has an excellent Cinemateca.

Here (below) are a short list of films set in Lisbon/Portugal; a list of Lisbon's best cinemas (multiplex, art-house and outdoor); film festivals; and info about the annual Queer Lisbon/Queer Porto Film Festival:

Films set in Libson

Mainstream and multiplex cinemas.
Most films will be shown in their original language and sub-titled in Portuguese, but for amimations and children's films it's best to check in advance. There are large cinemas for blockbuster films all across and around the city - mostly located in shopping centres (none in the historic centre of the city, so a Metro journey from the centre is usual). Look online for your nearest, but the most central are:

- UCI El Corte Inglés (Avenida António Augusto de Aguiar 31. 1069-413. Metro: Sao Sebastiao.) Has some luxury seats.
- Cinema City Campo Pequeno. (Centro Comercial Campo Pequeno. Avenida República. 1000-082. Metro: Campo Pequeno. Friends who are keen film buffs recommend this place. Has a luxury area.
- NOS Amoreiras (Avenida Engeneiro Duarte Pacheco. 1070-103). Amoreiras is not the easiest place to reach by Metro, but has whole luxury auditoriums with spacious seats and fewer noisy popcorn munchers.

IMAX 3D Cinema – There are three in Portugal: Lisbon, Cascais, and Porto.
Lisbon:

- in the massive Columbo shopping centre, a Metro ride from the city centre. NOS Cinema, Colombo Centre, Shop Unit A203 (1st floor). Avenida Lusiada. Metro: Colegio Militar. www.imax.com/en/pt/theatre/cinema-nos-colombo-imax

Cascais:

- in the CascaiShopping complex on the highway, outside the town. NOS Cinema & IMAX, Alcabideche, Portugal. www.imax.com/en/pt/theatre/cinemas-nos-cascaishopping-imax

Porto:

- a journey from the city centre, at Marshopping in Matosinhos. Cinema NOS & IMAX. Avenida Óscar Lopes, Leça da Palmeira, Matosinhos, 4450-745, Porto.

Streaming services. The Spanish/Portuguese film service FilmIn provides online access to international films for ~40Euros a year. www.filmin.pt

Queer Lisbon Film Festival - takes over Lisbon's wonderful art-deco Cinema Sao Jorge and the nearby Cinemateca Portuguesa. Screenings seldom sell-out the huge auditoriums, and even if you're not going to see a film every night it's worth going for the atmosphere, as animated crowds sit on the steps and foyer/balcony, drinking coffee and debating the visual arts.
Films are shown at the Cinema Sao Jorge and the Cinemateca - See the website for details:

- Cinema Sao Jorge. Avenida da Liberdad,e 175, 1250-141. (Metro: Avenida)
- Cinemateca Portuguesa. Rua Barata Salgueiro 39, 1269-059. (Metro: Marques de Pombal, or Avenida)

The 'CIPLE exam' (A2 level) To secure Portuguese permanent residency or citizenship in 2025, proving A2-level language proficiency is essential, but tests need to be booked many months (up to a year!) in advance and the process can be confusing – so plan ahead!

- This site offers a countdown to the date when exams can be booked – the whiole year of dates can get booked-up in just a week or two, so plan ahead!
  https://ciple.org/en/registration-for-the-ciple-exam
- Exam bookings are made here: https://caple.letras.ulisboa.pt/exame/2/ciple
- When exams in Lisbon are already booked-up, it can be necessary to look at 'LAPE' exam centres in regional town where demand is lower. If all of Portugal is booked-up, you can try exam centres in in other countries (Plan ahead!): https://caple.letras.ulisboa.pt/centers/index

This Substack article from 'Professor Caloiro Learns European Portuguese' reports on his experience of compelting the CIPLE exam in June 2025. He reports his personal perspective and usefully comments from his perspectiva as a professional linguist. https://substack.com/home/post/p-165595585

Portuguese Host Language (PLA) language classes for residents and migrants (formerly known as 'Portuguese for Speakers of Other Languages' (PFOL) or 'Portuguese for All' (PPT)). These free courses were previously managed by the 'High Commission for Migrants (ACM - Alto Comissariado para as Migrações)' but this work is now integrated into AIMA https://aima.gov.pt/pt/lingua-portuguesa . Portuguese Host Language (PLA) courses are typically available as evening classes at schools, with a total 150 hours of face-to-face classes (consistent attendance is an assessed requirement). The courses generally start once (or twice) a year, typically starting in Sept, and are used by people of all abilities, so they may not suit everyone (and they get booked-up about a year in advance, so plan ahead and check each school). For more info (in Portuguese and English) see:
https://aima.gov.pt/pt/lingua-portuguesa/cursos-de-portugues-lingua-de-acolhimento-pla , and for a list of schools across Portugal offering the PLA course, contact AIMA's Portuguese Language Promotion Services Directorate (SPLPt) via lingua.portuguesa@aima.gov.pt

LGBTQ Health and Wellness services in Lisbon (for men & women)

Specialist LGBTQ support services (for men and women) are listed below:- Sexual Health and HIV services; Women's health (sexual, reproductive, general, and mental); GPs (General Practitioner/ family doctors); Dentists; LGBTQ Mental Health Services; Massage therapy/ bodywork/ spiritual health.

Key information on health services for migrants is summarised in the info box below.

If you have a complex and/or specialised health concern (and the money to pay), this health concierge may be useful to you. 'Serenity Portugal' have a good reputation, and have been described by several Trans/Non-binary residents as "very trans and queer friendly" and "great resources for queer folks in Portugal", for their support in accessing appropriate and respectful help and care. Serenity is a commercial medical concierge business (in Portugal, the UK & Spain) that helps paying customers navigate healthcare services. https://serenity-portugal.com

It is not necessary to use a concierge service to access health care in Portugal (see the info box and 'Kit Migrante' info below), but for complex and/or sensitive issues Serenity has helped some people.

Key information on how to access services, and the 'Kit Migrante'

There is no charge for an ambulance (or any emergency service) in Portugal - Call 112 for any emergency.

All registered residents of Portugal, citizens of the European Union, and countries with a reciprocal health agreement, have access to the free public National Health Service (*Serviço Nacional de Saúde/*SNS). Residents (even if they have private health insurance) should obtain a health service user number (Número do Utente, or SNS number) from their local Centro da Saude (which provides GP/family doctor/Primary Care services), and should download the 'SNS24' App to their mobile phone (a Portuguese [+351] phone number is essential for receiving communications about appointments etc). Private insurance healthcare is also available, but it is important to also have a Número do Utente/SNS number.

How to use the public health system:

Once you have registered with the National Health Service (*Serviço Nacional de Saúde/*SNS) and got your SNS number (AKA 'Número do Utente') (as explained above) - if you need non-emergency medical care for any reason, your first step is to call the national SNS24 helpline on 808 24 24 24 (or use the 'SNS24' App). The SNS24 helpline is staffed by bi-lingual (English/Portuguese) healthcare professionals who will take your details, ask for the nature of your medical need, and will advise you on the best next steps, directing patients to the most appropriate local doctor, clinic or hospital emergency department, and if necessary, can fast-track cases for urgent attention before you arrive.

A comprehensive introduction to health services for migrants is funded by the Portuguese government and published by GAT. The online 'Kit Migrante' is available in multiple languages and features essential information on how and where to access health services, with a special focus on sexual health, family planning & pregnancy, HIV, mental health and vaccination. The guide explains who has access to free care, how/where to regster, what services are available, how to access them, and an extensive list of contacts and support organisations. (Access for undocumented migrants were debated in parliament in 2025, so an update may be published in 2026, but access for legal residents is unlikely to change).

For concerns about possible sexually transmitted infections (STI/STD) - in Lisbon, Almada and Setubal, specialist sexual screening/check-ups for gay and bisexual men are available at the dedicated 'GAT Checkpoint LX' services (in English and Portuguese) (see below).
Across Portugal - the Rede da Rastreio (Screening Network) is the national network of free, community-based sexual health testing services for gay and bisexual men, and transgender people, offering testing and treatment for HIV, hepatitis, syphilis, & access to National Health Services: www.redederastreio.pt/organizacoesparticipantes . Or contact SNS24, as above.

Health and support services for people with HIV are provided by the national health service and also by specialist community and charitable services that are supported by government funding (see pages below). (For a list of specialist groups and services, also see the 'Community support' section).

Specialist medical and support services for Trans/non-Binary people are available in Lisbon at 'GAT Intendente' in Lisbon (below), staffed by professionals from the populations it serves. (see the 'Community support' section)

Women's health services are available from the National Health Service (SNS), and private healthcare services. Your Centro da Saude/GPs can refer directly to a public gynaecologist for contraception, menopause, infertility, pregnancy, and those who wish to end pregnancy - but waiting times can be lengthy, depending on where you live. For emergencies, contact SNS24 who will direct you to the appropriate public hospital. Private insurance typically covers gynaecology (but always check). Private gynaecologist appointments do Not need a referral from your Centro da Saude/GP.

For useful guides to Lesbian/queer women's healthcare in Portugal see the 'Les+Saúde' 'Access to Health' booklets (in Portuguese) in the next pages below. For general guides to women's health (in English) see 'Women's (sexual, reproductive and mental) health', in the next few pages.

For pregnancy healthcare and support in Portugal see: www2.gov.pt/en/guias/apoio-a-familia/assistencia-na-gravidez

Abortion (interrupção voluntária da gravidez) services in Portugal are available up to the 10th week (incl. a three-day waiting period), from both the free public health services and private services.

Sexual Health and HIV services

- Accessing PrEP (pre-exposure prophylaxis)

The Portuguese public health system provides PrEP free of charge to patients following am initial hospital consultation, and regular three-monthly check-ups. Medication prescribed in the community benefits from state reimbursement, but part of the cost is stilll paid by the user. Currently (Aug 2026), the reimbursed cost for the user is approximately €13/month.
A request for PrEP via gthe public health system can be made at HIV testing centres, health centres or directly at hospitals that have PrEP consultation, but appointments may be some time away (up to 6 months, and there can be long delays in starting prescriptions, but once you'e started things generally continue without interruption). If you have trouble getting a first appointment try another medical service organisation (see below) that might have a sooner appointment, or, for those with private health insurance, there are private options (the medicines prescribed are covered by the SNS – just provide your SNS user number if you have one):

TrofaSaúde* hospitals in Lisbon and across the north of the country, offer PrEP consultations: www.trofasaude.pt/artigos/consulta-de-profilaxia-pre-exposicao-prep.

PrEP Online. New in Aug 2026. PrEP Online is a commercial service focussed on providing PrEP in Portugal. An appointment for the initial assessment can be made online and prescriptions are sent by text/SMS. 60Euros for the initial assessment, and 35Euros for subsequent appointments. A new medical consultation, follow-up tests and prescription renewal are required every 12 months.

- HIV services: an introduction - 'Kit Migrante'.

A comprehensive introduction to HIV services (and other health services) for migrants is available online. 'Kit Migrante' is available in multiple languages and features essential information on how and where to access health services, with a special focus on HIV, sexual health, family planning & pregnancy, mental health and vaccination. The individual guides explain how/where to register, what services are available, how to access them, and includes an extensive list of contacts and support organisations.

All migrants residing in Portugal, regardless of their administrative situation (legal or illegal), have free access to health care for HIV and Viral hepatitis.

- GAT Checkpoint LX – specialist STI testing by and for gay/bisexual men in Lisbon

'Checkpoint LX' is the excellent community-based sexual health testing and counselling centre for men who have sex with men, staffed entirely by bi-lingual (Portuguese and English) professionals from queer communities (Women and straight people can also use this service, but cannot make appointments – for women's sexual health services see below). Website available in English and Portuguese.

Run by Group of Activists in Treatments (GAT), 'Checkpoint LX' offers screening, treatment, and access support to PrEP, MPOX vaccination, plus counselling, housing, and anti-discrimination services from other Lisbon neighbourhood centres in Mouraria, Intendente, Almada, and Setubal. GAT also has other centres for gay/bi men in Almada and Setubal, and services specifically supporting Trans people and sex workers, people in African migration situations, people with HIV, and people who use drugs. (see below). Respected and recommended.

Donating Blood.

Anyone can donate blood in Portugal (excepting health risks). The Portuguese 'Institute of Blood and Transplantation' (Instituto Portugués do Sangue e Transplantacão) provides the service in hospitals, clinics and mobile units across the country. The National Health Service (SNS) needs 495 liters of blood every day, and has over 250,000 donors, but always needs more people to donate.

Donating blood is simple and painless:

- present photo ID (Passport, Resident's card, or Driver's license)
- complete a questionnaire

- be assessed by a healthcare professional who will check weight, height, hemoglobin and blood pressure.

The entire process, from registration and clinical screening to collection and a meal, takes just 30 minutes.

Group donations (e.g. friends, flatmates, co-workers) can be scheduled.

Aside from the satisfacion of saving lives, other benefits for donors include:

- exemption from SNS subscription fees (co-payments/Taxas moderadoras)
- time off work to donate blood
- free parking at SNS facilities when donating
- - and you get a free mini health-check each time you go!

Deaf Pride Lisbon (in English & Portuguese). 2025 was the first 'Deaf Pride Lisbon 2025'. With a Conference, Beach days, Parties, Nights-out, Tours (in English & Portuguese). .
'The European Organizational Commission for LGBTQIA+ Deaf People', was established in 2025 by the LGBTQ Department (@lgbtq_fpas) of Portuguese Federation of Deaf Associations (FPAS). It advocates for the rights and inclusion of LGBTQIA+ Deaf individuals across Europe. Its mission is to create an inclusive space where Deaf LGBTQIA+ people feel represented, supported, and protected from discrimination. The Deaf LGBTQIA+ community faces unique challenges, such as communication barriers and a lack of accessibility in traditional social movements. This commission works to fight exclusion, promote inclusive policies, and support initiatives that ensure equal access to education, culture, and healthcare. To provide visibility, accessibility, and foster unity among Deaf LGBTQIA+ communities across Europe, emphasizing that true diversity and inclusion begin with communication. "For a Europe where sign language and diversity are celebrated!"

Feministas em Movimento*. FEM Association (Feminists in Movement) , founded in 2019. People with diverse backgrounds converged in their belief that an active, inclusive, democratic feminism is possible, one that is attentive to the realities (and violence) experienced by every girl and woman. For us, it all began with the shared desires to formalize a different kind of feminist association. We converged on a feminism focused on Human Rights, which are also Women's Rights. We brought together professional backgrounds linked to the fight against gender-based violence and domestic violence, connected to educational awareness projects and participation in political forums on equality and non-discrimination, as well as academia. Our members come from Portugal, Brazil, Mozambique, São Tomé and Príncipe, Italy, France, England, Hungary, and Pakistan. Among our members are people from various political parties and those without party affiliation.

Despeitafest. In 2023 and 2024, this occasional non-profit fundraising party project aimed to help trans people access gender affirmation surgery, - but it has been quiet since Sept 2024 ☹. www.instagram.com/despeitafest

HIV and STI Support Services

(Lisbon and Nationwide)

- HIV services – an introduction. The 'Kit Migrante'

A comprehensive introduction to HIV and other health services for migrants is available online. 'Kit Migrante' is available in multiple languages and features essential information on how and where to access health services, with a special focus on HIV, sexual health, family planning & pregnancy, mental health and vaccination. The individual guides explain how/where to register, what services are available, how to access them, and includes an extensive list of contacts and support organisations.
All migrants residing in Portugal, regardless of their administrative situation (legal or illegal), have free access to health care for HIV and Viral hepatitis.
https://kitmigrante.pt/english ; https://kitmigrante.pt/en-hiv/

- GAT Checkpoint LX (Lisbon) – specialist service by and for gay and bisexual men.

Checkpoint LX is the excellent community-based sexual health testing and counselling centre for men who have sex with men, staffed entirely by bi-lingual (Portuguese and English) professionals from queer communities (Women and straight people can also use this service, but cannot make appointments). Website available in English and Portuguese.
Run by 'Group of Activists in Treatments' (GAT), it offers screening, treatment, and access support to PrEP (which is freely accessible in Portugal), MPOX vaccination, plus counselling, housing, and anti-discrimination services from other Lisbon neighbourhood centres in Mouraria, Intendente, Almada, and Setubal. GAT also has other centres for gay/bi men in Almada and Setubal, and services specifically supporting Trans people and sex workers, people in African migration situations, people with HIV, and people who use drugs. (see below). Respected and recommended.

- Accessing PrEP (pre-exposure prophylaxis)

The Portuguese public health system (SNS) provides PrEP free of charge to patients following am initial hospital consultation, and regular three-monthly check-ups. Medication prescribed in the community benefits from state reimbursement, but part of the cost is stilll paid by the user. Currently (Aug 2026), the reimbursed cost for the user is approximately €13/month.
A request for PrEP via gthe public health system can be made at HIV testing centres, health centres or directly at hospitals that have PrEP consultation, but appointments may be some time away (up to 6 months, and there can be long delays in starting prescriptions, but once you'e started things generally continue without interruption). If you have trouble getting a first appointment in the Lisbon area try another medical service organisation (see below) that might have a sooner appointment. For local LGBTQ health services across Portugal, see individual towns in the 'Across Portugal' section. For those with private health insurance, there are private options (the prescriptions are covered by the SNS – just provide your SNS user number if you have one): -

TrofaSaúde* hospitals in Lisbon and across the north of the country, offer PrEP consultations: www.trofasaude.pt/artigos/consulta-de-profilaxia-pre-exposicao-prep.
PrEP Online. New in Aug 2026. PrEP Online is a commercial service (website in English & Portuguese) focussed on providing PrEP in Portugal. An appointment for the initial assessment can be made online and prescriptions are sent by text/SMS. 60Euros for the initial assessment, and 35Euros for subsequent appointments. A new medical consultation, follow-up tests and prescription renewal are required every 12 months.
www.preponline.pt ; www.instagram.com/preponline.pt
Private doctors can also prescribe PrEP.

’Alex’s LONG LIST’
is brought to you by

Alex’s Queer Lisbon History Tour

Know the city*!

Would you have fun learning more about Lisbon and its fascinating (sometimes bizarre!) queer history? ‘Alex’s Queer Lisbon History Tour’ is an entertaining half-day walking tour that brings you stories from Lisbon's scandalous queer history by visiting historic sites to hear anecdotes that will bring you closer to the city.

- 17thCentury cruising sites, Lisbon’s first lesbian bar, the Inquisition arresting gay men in the 16thCentury, see where the first drag show started in the 1970s, lesbians battling 1960s censorship, why ‘Fado’ is a bit queer, how Lisbon Pride is different, stories from 19thCentury sex-work, bisexual jazz-legend Josephine Baker as a spy during WWII, gay men dodging 1950s crack-downs, 18thCentury lesbian nuns, a 19thCentury Trans love story, how LGBT rights were established in Portugal, gay writers, disgraced politicians, queer pop stars, straight censors - all this and more!

This fun event also passes most of today's scene venues and gives you inside knowledge of today’s scene and community. Know the City! Suitable for solo-travellers. 3.8km(2.3miles). 4 hours. Age:16+.

“I set up Alex’s Lisbon Tours & Events to share the stories I love about the city – not just the routine sights, but fun experiences in historic locations, with anecdotes and insights that bring history alive - plus opportunities to meet fellow travellers as we pass by the scene venues.

I first came to Lisbon in 1989 and fell in love with the city. I have a post-grad degree in Cultural Studies and have lived in Lisbon since 2019. Join me on a tour and have fun getting to know Lisbon better“.

Two ‘Queer Lisbon’ tours are available: the half-day walking tour, and occasional Treasure Hunt group events:

‘Alex's Queer Lisbon half-day walking tour - scene and history’ – a fun afternoon group tour with stories from Lisbon's scandalous, celebratory (sometimes bizarre!) queer history.

‘Alex's Queer Lisbon Treasure Hunt event‘ – a Treasure Hunt in queer history that leads small groups on an adventure around the gay-scene neighbourhoods of Bairro Alto and Principe
