Winter experiences beyond skiing

Kronplatz Dolomites Region

The Kronplatz Dolomites Region is more than just a ski destination – it is a winter wonderland full of variety. Snow-covered landscapes, traditional villages, and alpine charm create the perfect setting for unforgettable moments off the slopes. Guests can explore peaceful forests and wide meadows on winter hikes or snowshoe tours, while toboggan runs offer fun and excitement for families and friends.

Cross-country skiers will find plenty of perfectly prepared trails throughout the region. Antholz is particularly renowned – not only for its scenic tracks in the nature park, but also as the host of the Biathlon World Cup and Olympia 2026. Additional cross-country trails can be found in San Vigilio, with routes stretching deep into the Fanes-Senes-Braies Nature Park towards Pederü, as well as in Reischach, where varied circuits invite to train and enjoy.

For those seeking romance, horse-drawn sleigh rides provide a magical way to enjoy the winter atmosphere. And if relaxation or culture is the focus, the region offers first-class wellness facilities, fascinating museums, and authentic insights into South Tyrolean life.

Hiking in the Kronplatz Dolomites Region

Snow-covered valleys, sparkling Dolomite peaks and frozen alpine lakes – winter hiking and snowshoeing in the Kronplatz Dolomites Region is the most authentic way to experience the UNESCO World Heritage landscape. Well-marked trails lead through quiet forests and open meadows, with routes stretching into three protected nature parks: Fanes-Senes-Braies, Rieserferner-Ahrn and Puez-Odle. Here, the only sound is the crunch of snow beneath your boots – a chance to enjoy the magic of winter far away from the slopes.

Cross-country skiing & biathlon

The Kronplatz Dolomites Region is a true centre for Nordic skiing, offering 163 km of slopes. Antholz is world-famous as the venue of the Biathlon World Cup and offers impressive trails in the middle of the nature park. San Vigilio adds to the variety with tracks that lead deep into the untouched Fanes-Senes-Braies Nature Park towards Pederù, while Reischach provides additional circuits close to the city of Bruneck. With so many options, both beginners and experienced skiers will find the perfect setting to enjoy the sport surrounded by the Dolomites.
