

Ain't that the truth.

"COURAGE. I THINK THAT'S THE
CORE OF AUDACITY. COURAGE TO SHOW AND VOCALISE HOW YOU FEEL AND WHAT YOU WILL AND WON'T ALLOW."

To her, practising it comes down to one thing:

"We have to be audacious;
it's the only way we are going to get what we want," she says. "I think it's learnt and practised... it's a skill."

We talk about audacity: what it takes to claim it, what it takes to keep it.

I HAVE ALWAYS FELT STRENGTH AND BOLDNESS IN HER PRESENCE.

I am not the most reliable source when it comes to my sister; I tend to gravitate towards being a loving, shameless fan. So this may not seem fair, but I really don't care: she's so much more than you think.

RE: Sitting Idle

I've learned that peace can look a lot like boredom.

Moving at hyper-speed
has kept my heart
racing; slowing down
isn't easy. Turns out,
I don't like sitting
idle. I'm too ambitious.

With kind discernment,
